HOUSE NON-CONCURS IN THE SENATE AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL No. 413

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House has non-concurred in the amendments made by the Senate to House Bill No. 413, entitled:

An Act prohibiting the employment by the Commonwealth or any political subdivision thereof, of persons whose philosophy proposes the charge of the government of the United States by means not provided for in the Constitution of the United States: declaring inoperative any contract or civil service law or regulation providing for tenure in employment; and repealing inconsistent acts.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, some time during this present legislative day, I rose on the floor of this Senate with a prepared address of some five and one-half pages and asked in deference to the members that it be spread upon the Journal of this Assembly. Certain happenings which have transpired in the House of Representatives have prompted me to make a statement, and I relustantly ask my colleagues to bear with me while I set forth this statement.

Mr. President, I rise to speak on a measure that holds the interest of every citizen, of all the patriotic and civic organizations of this Commonwealth, those individuals and organizations who place Americanism and love of country and our institutions above that personal gain or political party advancement.

Representing a veteran's organization during this session which has constantly fought for legislation with teeth in it as a patriotic endeavor to curb un-American and subversive activities, I again voice my protest and resentment at the actions of a strictly Democratic House, the action of that body today on House Bill No. 413, in refusing to concur in the Senate amendments to this bill.

In the national emergency which now exists, un-American and subversive activities are a great danger, and those who are enemies of our Democratic form of government should be prohibited from gaining empolyment in the departments of the state, any political sub-division or or school district, where valuable information concerning national defense production transportation of supplies in so far as destination, route of travel or point of origin might be concerned, or local police and fire protection. There should be proper precautions to prevent the teaching to the youth of our land—who soon will be the citizens of tomorrow charged with the responsibility of government and those philosophies of foreign "isms." There may not be a great number of those unprincipled individuals among us, but the fact that recently some thirty spies were captured in a few of our most vital defense plants should be evidence that these groups are at work.

We as taxpayers cannot prevent these unprincipled individuals from gaining employment in private enterprises, but we as Legislators charged with the responsibility of protecting the welfare of our government, can, by the passage of legislation, purge them from the governmental payroll.

The President of this great nation has requested full cooperation from the people. Why protect those in public jobs who carry memberships, or are actively engaged in suspicious and questionable activities? Our duty as legislators is to protect and defend our Commonwealth from any possible danger. Why tolerate those who would tear down a government that furnishes employment and expect that they be retained in public positions of trust?

This Senate in a commendable manner passed legislation on which hours of study had been applied, as to its constitutionality, the protection of the innocent, and its general application towards the safety and security of our Commonwealth, measures to remove those who advocate the overthrow of our form of government by force or violence from the ballot, the removal from our schools of those teachers who advocate foreign policies in the classroom, the legislation in regard to sabotage, setting up a little Dies Committee, and—many other important national defense measures, only to have them rest in committees of the House, in order that similar bills, full of loop holes, Democratic sponsored, and then only after orders from high command of the minority party, due to public demand are brought out and finally passed in the final days of this legislative session.

Now, Mr. President and fellow members of the Senate, it is with deep regret that I must rise to ask you to recede from the Senate amendments to House Bill No. 413. These amendments bar from public office and from our schools persons who advocate, in addition to subversive un-American doctrines, Communism, Naziism and Fascism. Mr. President, I am informed, by a striking vote, the Democratic majority in the House refused to concur in the amendments on Communism, Fascism and Naziism. It is a sad commentary on our loyalty and patriotism to democratic government and institutions, when the Democratic high Command can take orders from that subversive power and pass on orders to the Democrats in the House to defeat an amendment which today is vital.

Mr. President, this bill will be weak when we recede, but I believe we ought to still vote for it and give notice now to those un-American and un-democratic elements that they have no place in our American Government.

By accepting this weak bill we are serving notice on these subversive groups and individuals that the people of Pennsylvania are aware of the danger, and awakened to those realities they will definitely be on guard against their activities and that through the acts of the Republicans in this General Assembly the people have been aroused to this realization.

SENATE RECEDES FROM ITS NON-CONCURRENCE IN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL No. 413

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I now move that the Senate do now recede from its insisting on its amendments non-concurred in by the House to House Bill No. 413, Printer's No. 1179.

Mr. GELTZ. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Miller.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the gentleman from Luzerne state whether or not Communism is un-American?

Mr. MILLER. I would say yes, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the gentleman from Luzerne state whether or not Naziism is un-American?

Mr. MILLER. I would say yes, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. And will the gentleman from Luzerne state whether or not Fascism is un-American.

Mr. MILLER. I would say yes, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. And all the members of those parties in the gentleman's opinion, preach and advocate un-American doctrines; is that correct.

Mr. MILLER. I believe it is, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Does Senate Bill No. 413, in the form in which it was adopted by the House, prohibit the employment of persons who teach un-American doctrines?

Mr. MILLER. May I ask the gentleman from Philadelphia to repeat his interrogation?

Mr. SHAPIRO. In the opinion of the gentleman from Luzerne, does House Bill No. 413, in the form in which it was passed by the House and in the form in which this Senate will accept it, if the motion is adopted, prohibit the employment of persons who teach un-American doctrines.

Mr. MILLER. I believe it does, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Then, Mr. President, I should like the gentleman from Luzerne to tell me what is the trouble with this bill. It is simply because the House has taken out of the bill the words, undescribed and undefined, "naziism," "communism" and "fascism," does that spoil the bill?

Mr. MILLER. That is one objection, Mr. President, yes.

Mr. SHAPIRO. In what way is that an objection, if the bill itself prohibits the teaching of those doctrines which the gentleman has himself described as un-American?

Mr. MILLER. I would say that by the amendment inserted by the House it makes it almost necessary to be specific, to produce one specific act tending to overthrow our government.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the gentleman from Luzerne point out in the bill on what basis his argument is made?

Mr. MILLER. On what basis, Mr. President?

Mr. SHAPIRO. What part of the bill is the basis for the statement it will be necessary to prove an overt act?

Mr. MILLER. The bill reads that "no person who hereafter advocates or participates by an overt act or acts in un-American or subversive doctrines" shall be permitted to be employed in any capacity."

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, did the Senate remove from the bill the words "overt act"?

Mr. MILLER. I do not believe the Senate did, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. All the Senate did was to say any person who was guilty of Naziism, that was an overt act, is that not right; it would have to be an overt act even if you add the words which the Senate added.

Mr. MILLER. That is correct.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Then, Mr. President, the House has done nothing more nor less than adopt a definition of what is a doctrine which advocates the overthrow of this government by force it has given a definition of what the Senate has not given; is that not true?

Mr. MILLER. The Senate has not given a definition in this bill, Mr. President; it is a House definition.

Mr. SHAPIRO. But the Senate has not inserted in this bill any definition of Naziism, Communism or Fascism, has it?

Mr. MILLER. No, Mr. President, it has not, but they are defined.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Where, Mr. President?

Mr. MILLER. I would say, Mr. President, they are defined in the latest dictionary.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the gentleman from Luzerne give us the definition from the latest dictionary?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I believe I can quote a definition from Funk and Wagnals on Communism: a doctrine or practice calling for the complete abolition of all private property of every description and the absolute control by the community in all matters pertaining to labor, religion and social relations, etc.; a phase of extreme socialism shading into anarchy exemplified in France after the overthrow of Napoleon III in 1870. That is the definition I find, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That, Mr. President, of course, amounts to advocacy of doctrines to overthrow or attempt to overthrow a democratic form of government; is that not correct?

Mr. MILLER. I would say it relates to the overthrow of a Democratic form of government.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Well, Mr. President, if it does not, it would not do any good to put the mere word "communism" into this bill, would it.

Mr. MILLER. In my opinion Mr. President, Communism to me has a certain definition.

Mr. SHAPIRO. What is the definition of the gentleman from Luzerne?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, my definition might not be the same as I related here, but I am of the opinion that the communistic doctrine as advocated, we will say, in Soviet Russia, is the overthrow of a form of government by force.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Well, Mr. President, would the gentleman from Luzerne say that Communists are not included in the bill as it was drawn by the House, as it is now drawn.

Mr. MILLER. They are to a certain extent yes, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Why to a certain extent? Does the gentleman think that the statement that those who are guilty of teaching the doctrine of overthrowing this government would exclude communism, naziism or fascism?

Mr. MILLER. No, Mr. President, it would not.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I thank the gentleman from Luzerne.

On a matter as serious as this I agree with the gentleman from Luzerne that we ought not to hestitate to act, but I think it is unfair to quibble and to try to fasten upon a party a crime which has not been committed. Everyone in this room has seen the difficulty the gentleman from Luzerne had in describing or defining communism—and it is not his fault; I could not describe it any more than he could.

We live under a Democratic form of government and if we commit an offense we ought to be told what the offense is. When we say that a man guilty of larceny shall be sent to prison, in the same law we define what is larceny; when we say a man guilty of treason shall be sent to prison, we in the same law describe what is treason. If we art going to talk about democracy and at the same time be un-democratic, we are inconsistent.

I dislike communists just as much as any man in this room. I have no ability to describe what a communist is. One of the reasons I have norability is because I have been so angry at them I have never been able to take the trouble to clearly define just what communism is. I want to be just as democratic as they are un-democratic. I am perfectly willing to concede that the Democratic Party in the House has made mistakes, and so has the Republican Party in the Senate, in my opinion, but that is no reason why I will charge either of them with any less patriotism than I have, whether I belong to a patriotic organization or not. I say in all sincerity to the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Miller, I believe he feels there is something wrong about this bill, but I suggest to him that he calm his fears and with the same sincerity as he has expressed his opinion, I express mine, that this bill is in better shape now than it ever was, that this bill is much better than ranting about Communists and Fascists and Nazis. This bill protects us by saying that anybody guilty of something, the effect of which might be the overthrow of this form of government, or anybody who teaches something, the very teaching itself is an overt act, which this bill speaks of, the effect of which is to help, to advocate or to result in an attempt to overthrow this government. When this bill says that it has done something more than using mere words, and let us not be unfair or quibble about it. As the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Miller himself, has admitted, if anyone of those three parties that he talks about, if their doctrines are or if their members do advocate the overthrow of this government, they are within the terms of the bill, and I am satisfied with it. If the gentleman from Luzerne can suggest any improvement, outside of using mere names, I will go along with him.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GELTZ and were as follows, viz:

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to make a short statement but before doing so I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask the gentleman from Cumberland whether or not it is true the committee considering Senate Bill No. 507, dealing with congressional apportionment, is hopelessly deadlocked?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, if I might amend that statement, I would say we are deadlocked.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TAYLOR. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Dauphin whether it is true the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 507 is in complete disagreement and that the possibility of an agreement is extremely remote, if not definitely out of the question.

Mr. TAYLOR. Well, Mr. President, I will have to answer that in my own way. It is not remote as far as we are concerned, but I will illustrate it in this way: more than fifty years ago I worked down in the mills with a deaf and dumb man and in a year or so I learned their alphabet. Of course, my education has been neglected, I am sorry to admit that, and I can only go so far, but if I could have used that alphabet maybe we could have gotten an expression from our Democratic colleagues. I can except Dr. Mundy from that and say I am sorry there were not two more Dr. Mundys on that committee, because he was eminently fair, but it was practically impossible to reach an agreement. We submitted proposition after proposition, and they would walk out and see somebody and then come back and say, "no, it is out of the window."

That was done constantly and repeatedly, I do not know how often. We repeatedly asked them to submit a counter proposition but we have not received one up to this minute. As far as I am concerned I would like to see Congressional reapportionment and I am willing to stay here as long as any member of the Senate to get it, but when we can not get any expression about the matter, of course, we are temporarily or permanently deadlocked.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Senator Mundy.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MUNDY. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask the gentleman from Luzerne, as the minority conferee on the part of the Senate, if it is true as newspaper and other reports have indicated, that the committee is hopelessly deadlocked.

Mr. MUNDY. Well, Mr. President, the committee so far has not made very much progress in handling this situation. We have, as the Senator from Dauphin stated, entertained a number of propositions in trying to arrive at a solution of this problem, but we find it very difficult for this reason, that each proposition that we take up presents some very serious objection. I agree with the Senator from Dauphin in saying that all of the Senate members of the committee have tried to handle this thing in a non-partisan manner; we feel the responsibility placed upon us is very grave, that it is a serious problem, and affects all of the people of the State of Pennsylvania, and we have tried to discharge that responsibility to the best of our ability, but it is a very perplexing problem. I think some of us have felt that we have reached a position where this thing is hopelessly deadlocked, but we have been somehow carried on by the enthusiasm on the part of the Senator from Cumberland, Senator Wade, who always recurs with some idea whereby the committee might yet arrive at some favorable conclusion.

If the gentleman from Lackawanna wishes me to express my personal opinion, I would say the outlook at the present time is not very bright.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. COLEMAN. I rise on a point of order, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will proceed.

Mr. COLEMAN. I rise to the point of order, Mr. President, that the conferees appointed by the President Pro Tempore on the part of the Senate to consider Senate Bill No. 507, having made their report to the Senate body that they are hopelessly deadlocked, that the committee is automatically discharged and that the bill is in the physical possession of the Senate and the question recurs on the adoption of the amendments inserted by the House.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rules the point of order of the gentleman from Lackawanna is not well taken.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask the gentleman from Cumberland whether or not, as Chairman of the Committee on Congressional Apportionment, he is willing to have a recess of the Senate for the purpose of having the committee meet to consider the resolution introduced by myself, the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, the gentlemen from Allegheny, Senator Cox and Senator Barr, which would have the effect of preventing this Legislature from adjourning sine die without having passed a legislative apportionment bill.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, before answering the interrogation, I should like to make a short statement, if the gentleman from Lackawanna will permit.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection, the gentleman from Cumberland will proceed.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, on behalf of the conferees on Senate Bill No. 507, I would like to add a word to what Senator Taylor and Senator Mundy have already said. We have held repeated meetings of this committee; we have had, I think, possibly fifteen meetings and those meetings were extended. As a matter of fact, I still retain in my mind the memories of the efforts I have made, together with the Senator from Luzerne, Dr. Mundy, and the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Taylor. We have done everything within our power in order to reach a satisfactory conclusion.

If I may, Mr. President, I will tell you that we have presented seven different propositions and have had in return not a single indication that the opposing side wished the matter to be solved, or any solution whatever of the problem, except the one which was amended into the bill in the House, which is inherently very unfair to the problem to be solved. It takes a county, for instance, similar to the County of Montgomery—it takes the actual county of Montgomery, which now has a population of 288,856, just about 11,000 short of the actual quota by dividing the state by the number of congressmen to be elected, and ties it to a county that has a population of 107,658, which would make the total district almost a hundred thousand larger; also it takes two counties which have entirely different interests.

The counter-propositions that we have made, being seven in number, are as follows:

1. Philadelphia should lose one, Allegheny lose one, and add one to the present heavy district of Luzerne.

2. Take one out of Philadelphia, the reason being that the population has shrunk almost twenty thousand.

3. Combine Berks and Montgomery.

4. Take one away from Allegheny County.

5. Combine Bucks and Montgomery, Berks and Lehigh, take one away from Philadelphia and elect one at large.

6. Take one away from Philadelphia, one away from Allegheny, elect one at large.

7. The O'Connor proposition, which readjusts a number of the central Pennsylvania districts.

In view of that, Mr. President, and in view of the fact that we have done everything from our angle—and I sincerely appreciate the cooperation of Dr. Mundy and Senator Taylor—I think that our side of this political question, and it must be somewhat of a political question, has done everything that they could in order to adjust the matter equitably and honestly.

However, Mr. President, in answer to the interrogation of the gentleman from Lackawanna I might say that we are not through, from our side of the Senate, we are perfectly willing to hold further meetings of this committee and to consider this resolution or to do anything else within reason so that the matter may be adjusted as it should be.

MOTION THAT SENATE RECESS

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate now recess for ten minutes, if it is agreeable to the chairman of the committee, for the purpose of calling a meeting to consider the resolution on congressional apportionment.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. I rise on a question of parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, suppose we take a recess for ten minutes for the purpose of that committee having a meeting, and it does not have a meeting, what are we going to do about it?

The PRESIDENT. In that event the Senate would then reconvene.

Mr. SHAPIRO. May I ask, Mr. President, what is the validity of a motion which says we shall take a recess for the purpose of holding a meeting of that committee; is not a motion to that effect out of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair did not understand the gentleman from Lackawanna made a motion to that effect; he simply moved that the Senate recess.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I will explain the reason I made the motion and the reason I phrased it in the language I did. I assumed from the statement of the gentleman from Cumberland he was perfectly agreeable to call a meeting of the committee considering the bill on congressional apportionment. If I am in error on that I would like to be corrected.

Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Cumberland, whether or not, if the Senate recesses for a period of ten minutes, it will be agreeable to him to call a meeting of the Committee on Congressional Reapportionment to consider the resolution referred to.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, in answer to the inquiry of the gentleman from Lackawanna, I might say that I am informed by the leaders of this body that there is important business now before the Senate that should be cleared first. After that I shall agree with the gentleman who is making the interrogation to call a meeting of the Committee on Congressional Apportionment.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, the Majority Floor Leader, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny if he considers there is any more important business before the Senate of Pennsylvania or the General Assembly than congressional reapportionment.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I consider congressional reapportionment very important business and I am sorry that apparently the Democratic members of the conference committee on congressional reapportionment, from the House, do not so consider, or at least do not consider it as important as their political standing.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, in answer to the gentleman from Allegheny, I am not concerned about the responsibility for the deadlock of the committee, I am concerned, however, about the breakdown of the election machinery and the disfranchisement of hundreds of thousands of voters throughout the Commonwealth. I desire to ask the gentlemen whether or not, when the important business referred to has been completed, if he will be agreeable to a recess in order that the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade, can call a meeting of the Committee on Congressional Reapportionment.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I will be perfectly agreeable to a meeting of the Committee on Congressional Reapportionment when the proper time comes. If my colleague from Lackawanna, Senator Coleman, was as interested in this matter, sincerely so as he says and professes to be, it seems to me, instead of endeavoring to do something like he is doing now, he could have done a great deal more good by endeavoring to see if he could not have had some activity on the part of his Democratic colleagues in the House.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Lackawanna if he will yield for a moment.

Mr. COLEMAN. I will be delighted, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I would like to hear the last answer of the gentleman from Cumberland to the interrogation by the gentleman from Lackawanna.

(The answer referred to was repeated by the reporter as follows):

"Mr. WADE. Mr. President, in answer to the inquiry of the gentleman from Lackawanna, I might say that I am informed by the leaders of this body that there is important business now before the Senate that should be cleared first. After that I shall agree with the gentleman who is making the interrogation to call a meeting of the Committee on Congressional Apportionment."

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, did the gentleman refer to leader or leaders?

Mr. WADE. Majority leaders, Mr. President; I am informed by the leaders of this party.

Mr. BARR. I would like to know to whom the gentleman was referring, Mr. President. I think that is very important, Mr. President, as to whether he is talking about the majority or the minority side.

The PRESIDENT. The question before the Senate is a motion by the gentleman from Lackawanna.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I withdraw the motion, having had the assurance of the chairman of the committee and the Majority Floor Leader, that when the other business has been disposed of, there will be a meeting of the Committee on Congressional Reapportionment. Accordingly, I withdraw the motion at this time.

Mr. DENT. I withdraw my seconding of the motion, Mr. President.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON HOUSE BILL No. 846 ADOPTED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the Conference Committee Report on House Bill No. 846.

Mr. CRIDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Report was read as follows:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 846

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering House Bill No. 846, entitled:

"An act requiring school boards in all school districts and boards of directors of all vocational school districts to grant leaves of absence to all school employes who shall volunteer or be called for military or naval service in time of war or during a state of national emergency, preserving certain contracts, salaries, increments, retirement rights, seniority, State contributions and grants to local school boards, eligibility lists re-employment, authorizing school boards, and boards of directors of vocational schools to employ substitutes in place of such employes requiring school districts and vocational school districts to make additional payments into the School Employes' Retirement Fund, reserving all rights and privileges of employes granted leaves of absence under the provisions herein, and superseding or repealing all contrary laws."

Respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

FRED L. HOMSHER
PAUL M. CRIDER
B. B. McGINNIS
(Committee on the Part of the Senate.)

EDWIN A. LEE
JOHN B. HERING
WALTER GRYSKEWICZ

An Act requiring school boards in all school districts and boards of directors of all vocational school districts to grant leaves of absence to all school employes who shall volunteer or be called for military or naval service in time of war or during a state of national emergency preserving certain contracts salaries increments retirement rights seniority State contributions and grants to local school boards eligibility lists reemployment authorizing school boards and boards of directors of vocational schools to employ substitutes in place of such employes requiring school districts and vocational school districts to make additional payments into the School Employes' Retirement Fund reserving all rights and privileges of employes granted leaves of absence under the provisions herein and superseding or repealing all contrary laws

Section 1 The Congress of the United States of America has enacted and the President of the United States has approved a statute entitled "An act to provide for the common defense by increasing the personnel of the armed forces of the United States and providing for its training" in which it is provided that certain male citizens of the United States shall be liable for training and service in the land or naval forces of the United States under a system of compulsory selective induction into such forces

Under said statute and subsequent statutes of the United States of America and under the laws of the United States concerning the National Guard and the land and naval reserve forces employes of school districts and vocational school districts in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania may volunteer or be selected and assigned to military or naval service in defense of this nation.

It Is Hereby Declared To Be The Intention of this act that such employes so affected shall retain all of the rights and privileges they shall have acquired prior to assignment to service under said Federal statutes or any such rights and privileges they would have acquired or received if they had not been assigned to such service it is intended that such employes assigned to such service shall be considered in all respects to be continuing in the service of the school board or board of directors of vocational schools for which they were last working prior to such assignment to military or naval service

Section 2 (a) Any employe of any school district or vocational school district within the Commonwealth who shall have been regularly employed by said school district or vocational school district for a period of not less than one year prior thereto and who shall volunteer or be called for military or naval service by the United States of America in time of war or during a state of national emergency shall within thirty days of the receipt of notice to said effect send a copy of such notice to the secretary of the school board or board of directors of vocational school by which he is employed

(b) The secretary of the school board or board of directors of vocational schools shall verify the information contained in the notice from any employe concerning selection or induction into military or naval service and upon verification of such facts shall record the same in the records of the school board or board of directors of vocational schools and send notice thereof to said employe

(c) Without further action by the board of school directors or board of directors of vocational schools the employe inducted into military or naval service shall forthwith be considered to be upon leave of absence for the entire duration of such service all rights and privileges shall be reserved to such employe as if he continued in the service of said school board or board of directors of vocational schools provided however that no such leave of absence shall be granted unless said employe shall in writing agree upon termination of the said leave to return to employment in said school district or vocational school district for a period of not less than one school year

Section 3 (a) Wherever a contract is required by law and wherever a contract actually exists between the school board or board of directors of vocational schools and the employe the same shall be considered to continue in full force and effect during said leave of absence

(b) Upon termination of the military or naval service of an employe in time of war or during a state of national emergency the school board or boards of directors of vocational schools shall immediately return said employe to the same position in the same school or schools vocational school or vocational schools from which said employe was granted leave of absence or if this is impracticable in the opinion of the board then to a similar position

(c) During the leave of absence under the aforesaid conditions the school board or board of directors of vocational schools shall be required to pay to the dependent wife dependent child or children or dependent parent or parents of the employe the difference between his regular salary and the salary paid to any substitute employe temporarily engaged because of such absence but in no event more than half of the employe's regular salary from the school district or vocational school district provided that no school district or vocational school district shall pay to the dependent or dependents of any employe in military or naval service a total of more than two thousand dollars ($2000) per annum

No school district or vocational school district shall pay to the dependent or dependents of any employe more than the difference between the military or naval pay including communtation and allowance of said employe and the regular salary that said employe would have received if he were actually performing the duties of his regular position as an employe of the school district or vocational school district

No allowance shall be paid under the provisions of this Act to the dependent or dependents of any employe if his military or naval pay including commutation and allowance exceeds the regular salary that said employe would have received if he were actually performing the duties of his regular position

(d) Increments shall not be abated during the said leave of absence but shall continue to accrue to such employes

(e) The school district or vocational school district shall pay into the School Employes' Retirement Fund on behalf of each such employe in addition to the contributions required by law to be made by it the full amount of the contribution required by law to be paid by the employe so that such employe's retirement rights shall in no way be affected by such leave of absence In all cases where any part of the salary of any employe is payable to his dependents under the provisions of this act the school district or vocational school district shall deduct from the part of his salary so payable in so far as the same is sufficient therefor all moneys paid by it into the retirement fund on account of the employe's contributions

(f) The period of said leave of absence shall be considered as service to the school board or board of directors of vocational schools in the matter of seniority rights and credit toward the time necessary for sabbatical leave Such leave shall not be regarded as a Sabbatical Leave

Section 4 During the period of said leave of absence if a qualified substitute is employed the Commonwealth shall pay the school board or board of directors of vocational schools the full amount of State contribution or grant as if the said employe were performing his regular school duties for the said school board or board of directors of vocational schools

Section 5 (a) No person who shall have acquired a place upon the eligibility list for any position in any schoool district or vocational schoool district shall suffer the loss of such listing and the position thereon as the result of such induction into military or naval service it shall be the duty of the school board or board of directors of vocational schools to provide a fair and equitable method of preserving rights of such persons

(b) Any person who shall have entered the military or naval services as aforesaid and whose name shall be reached upon said eligibility list for any position in any school district or vocational school district shall be appointed to said position as if such person were in fact available for actual service in said position and such person shall be so notified by the secretary of the school board or board of directors of vocational schools of said district and thereafter all of the provisions of this act shall apply

Section 6 The act approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 600) entitled "An act providing that appointive officers and employes employed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in its civil service or by any department bureau commission or office thereof or by any county municipality township or school district shall not be deemed or held to have resigned or abandoned their offices or employments by reason of enlistment enrollment or draft in the military or naval service of the United States or any branch or unit thereof in time of war or contemplated war prohibiting the removal from their offices or employments of such officers and employes during the perid of their service in the Army or Navy directing that one-half of the salaries or wages of such officers or employes as have dependent wives children or parents and not exceeding two thousand dollars per annum be paid during the term of their service in the Army or Navy to such dependents authorizing the employment during said term of substitutes to perform the duties theretofore performed by such officers or employes respectively and providing for the compensation of such substitutes" is hereby repealed in so far as it applies to employes of school districts and vocational school districts

All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith or supplied hereby are hereby repealed

Section 7 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment any employe inducted into military or naval service as aforesaid prior to the final enactment hereof shall nevertheless be entitled to all of the benefits hereof

Section 8 This act shall apply to all employes of all school districts and of vocational school districts who volunteer or are inducted into the military or naval services under the laws of the United States of America

Section 9 The provisions of this act are severable If any provision shall be construed or deemed to be in violation of the Constitution of the Commonwealth or of the United States or otherwise invalid then the other provisions herein shall not be affected thereby but shall be enforced

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the report?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE CONCURS IN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL No. 1766

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has concurred in amendments made by the Senate to House Bill No. 1766, entitled:

A Supplement to the act, approved the eighteenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred seventeen (P. L. 1043), entitled "School Employes Retirement Law," defining the rights and obligations of members of the School Employes' Retirement Association engaged in active military service.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I ask permission to make a brief statement.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Warren may proceed.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I wish to make a short statement relative to congressional reapportionment. At this session, in perhaps one of its closing days, I am alarmed that the Legislature has failed to act upon the congressional reapportionment bill. I consider this one of the most important pieces of legislation remaining to be passed by the Pennsylvania law makers. If we fail to act on this bill, we have betrayed our state and our constituents. I feel many members of both parties have failed to realize the importance of this matter of congressional reapportionment. I am utterly opposed to allowing this piece of legislation to go by the Board, and I will not cast my vote for adjournment sine die until some action is secured, if we have to stay here all summer.

BILLS SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title were publicly read as follows:

House Bill No. 605, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Pennsylvania State College for expenditure by the School of Mineral Industries thereof, under the supervision of the Department of Mines, for the purpose of developing new uses and markets for anthracite and bituminous coal.

House Bill No. 654, entitled:

An Act authorizing counties, cities, boroughs, towns, townships, school districts, poor districts and institution districts, at any sale of real property for the nonpayment of taxes or municipal claims to take title jointly in proportion to their tax claims; provide for the management of such real property and for the re-sale and conveyance of their interests to a purchaser.

House Bill No. 1213, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred seventeen (P. L. 600) entitled "Status of Public Officers and Employes in Military Service in Time of War or Contemplated War Act," by more fully definings the times during which the benefits shall be payable and the amount thereof and to whom payable.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I believe that every member here is leg weary and mind weary. I know that I am not too smart at any time, but I have become a little befogged now and do not know whether I am going or coming.

I want to say to the members of the Senate, perhaps this might be the proper thing to do—I have often stayed here for half a day or a day and a half over the time scheduled for adjournment sine die, but I think when we go into the second week of waiting and staying up all night, we are going a little too far. The people of Pennsylvania are not fooled. Every person in this room knows that we can not honestly go home unless we do something on congressional reapportionments. Any man in this room who votes to go home when there is a ten thousand dollar job at stake for some political high-hat congressman that wants to go to Washington, and on the other side of the balance sheet you are going to spend millions of dollars of Pennsylvanians money to count ballots that will be worthless and cause confusion that will take six months to straighten out, just because we do not want to give up or rather because some congressman in somebody's district does not want to be left out of a job. I think the problem is serious and one that is going to take longer than the few hours remaining of this night, and I am certainly not going to sit here until tomorrow. Some of the older Senators have said they will have to adjourn sine die, and some others have said they will stay here until the last cat is hung.

So, therefore, Mr. President, I offer the following resolution and ask for its immediate adoption.

RESOLUTION

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. DENT offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, July 12, 1941.

Whereas, there are many important issues affecting the welfare of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which should be acted upon by the present session of the Legislature and,

Whereas, both Houses of the General Assembly for the past ten days have been in session long hours, the members not being able to give proper consideration to their work due to lack of sleep,

Be It Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Senate do now adjourn and reconvene on Monday, July 21, 1941, at 4:00 o'clock, p. m., and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday, July 21, 1941, at 4:00 o'clock, p. m. the purpose of the recess of a week being to allow the members of the General Assembly to return to their homes, become completely rested and then return in order to more expeditiously finish the business remaining before this General Assembly.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I move immediate adoption of the resolution.

Mr. HALUSKA. I second the motion, Mr. President

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. GELTZ. I object, Mr. President, to immediate consideration of the resolution.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I understand when there is objection to a resolution it goes to committee, and therefore there would be no roll call.

The PRESIDENT. There will be a roll call.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, as I understand the resolution of the gentleman from Westmoreland, if it were adopted, then automatically all members of the Senate would receive mileage for the week of July 14th, is that correct?

Mr. DENT. That is a trifling matter, Mr. President; that probably is correct, but I am willing, however, to donate mine to the U.S.O.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I am not asking the gentleman from Westmoreland what he is going to do with it; I am merely asking whether what I asked him is correct.

Mr. DENT. That is correct. I understand the purpose, probably, behind the asking of the question was to draw a red herring over the fact we will get eight or ten dollars mileage. I want to say, Mr. President, I do not care about that; I want to get some sleep.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I am not trying to draw any red herring across anything. May I also say that the only purpose of my interrogation was to make certain in my own mind that if I voted for this resolution I was voting twenty-six dollars more for the relief of the Walkers.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask that the roll be called.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, may I ask just what the question is.

The PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion to adopt the concurrent adjournment resolution presented by the gentleman from Westmoreland.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, objection was made to immediate consideration of this resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair ruled previously on a similar question that such a motion is in order.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DENT and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—9

Barr,	Cox,	Haluska,	McQuiddy,
Cavalcante,	Dent,	McGinnis,	Mundy,
Coleman,

NAYS—32

Bartlett,	Frey,	Mallery,	Tallman,
Becker,	Geltz,	McCreesh,	Taylor,
Chapman,	Heyburn,	Miller,	Thomas,
Crider,	Homsher,	Ruth,	Tyler,
Crowe,	James,	Scarlett,	Walker,
DiSilvestro,	Jaspan,	Snowden,	Watkins,
Ealy,	Kephart,	Stevenson,	Wilson, H. I.,
Farrell,	Letzler,	Stiefel,	Wilson, T. B.,

So the question was determined in the negative.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President and members of this respected body, it is absolutely a shame and a disgrace that here in this great country of America we are drafting our youth, our young boys to defend our great country, and at the same time can it be in this great Keystone State there is not one Congressman who will say, "I will resign, I will withdraw and permit my district to be combined with another district in the State of Pennsylvania." Can it be that there is not one living human being in Washington that feels that way? It is absolutely a disgrace, and this is a fiasco that we are going through in connection with this bill.

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for thirty minutes.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, because of conference committee reports coming from the House and from the printer, it is necessary that we have some time to arrange these matters. We have reached the end of the string so far as the schedule which we had arranged is concerned, and for that reason at this time I would like to request a recess. I would like to ask, during that recess, if there are any conference committees which have not completed all their work, that they endeavor to get together and see if they can not reach a satisfactory agreement.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have been honored by the Republican Caucus by being given the opportunity to present to the Senate the nomination of the Republican Caucus for President Pro Tempore during the interval between the sessions of the Legislature.

All during this session we have been very deeply gratified with the excellent work of our President Pro Tempore. There is no one who has been in this Senate for any length of time, who in any capacity at all has been associated with him, who has not been deeply impressed by his sincerity, his patriotism and his love for his fellowmen.

Rarely, Mr. President, do we have the opportunity of being associated with a person who instinctively makes us feel that here is a man who is looking after us, here is a man who impresses us, that he has that sincere feeling which makes us feel he is sincerely trying to help us, and that he has that quality called statesmanship.

So, Mr. President, at the direction of our Caucus, I take great pride in placing in nomination for President Pro Tempore of the Senate, during the interval, the Senator from Somerset, Charles H. Ealy.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the Democratic party for years has been known to override custom and to disregard tradition. It has always been the custom, as I recall it, for the minority party, even though they were aware there were not sufficient votes to carry out their desires, to nominate from their group some one as candidate for President Pro Tempore. That has been the custom and the tradition, but we are going to follow our usual procedure in disregarding custom and tradition. If we had followed that tradition, I am sure every one on our side of the Senate would have felt that it would have been a pleasure and a privilege to suggest as our candidate for the office the gentleman from York, Mr. Lanius, for whom we have a high regard, and who has served so long and so ably. We are not going to do that, because he agrees with us also that in this instance there is a real reason why we should not, just as we Democrats feel there is a reason for not living up to custom and tradition on all occasions.

On this occasion we are going to join with you, and I can sincerely say that I speak for all my colleagues when I suggest to you that in ignoring custom and tradition we are recognizing merit, that in violating tradition and shattering tradition we are establishing precedent.

The recognition of merit is because this gentleman deserves that recognition; the establishment of precedent is necessary that we may give to the future a basis for our actions. That is no reason why the honor which belongs to this man should be in the slightest way disturbed or challenged, because we have all enjoyed knowing him—each of you has had the privilege of knowing him—and that is no small privilege, the privilege of talking to him and exchanging views and getting from him those things which we could not get from anyone else in the heat of battle that goes on here.

He is not aggressive, and that is one of his virtues, —some of us are aggressive and it may be essential to us—but to him aggressiveness must be foreign to his make up; rancor would find no place and would be foreign to him.

In recognizing his merit we could do nothing else than respond in emotional tones to the suggestion, for we too feel that you have made a proper choice.

Many a time when I have felt like standing on my feet and disturbing the atmosphere, it has been our good President Pro Tempore only that has brought about a different situation. I know that it might be embarrassing for the gentleman from Somerset, Senator Ealy, to listen to this, but outside of that it might do him some good, because I know the work here is difficult and that only those that sit here with it can realize that something has been done in a personal way. This game is like an umpire, you may make ninety-nine decisions that are pleasing to the crowd and you are a hero; you make one that is wrong and the bottles come flying.

This is not a great thing we are doing, and we do not deserve any credit. It is spontaneous, because it is the right thing to do, and it is being done because it is right, it is being done because it is deserved, and I am happy to be the one selected by any colleagues to express to you their views and of having the privilege of saying to you that one of the finest things I have had the pleasure of doing on the floor of this Senate, sincerely and honestly I say to you, is to show my appreciation of the many courtesies I have received from him.

We join with your side in seconding the nomination of Charles H. Ealy as President Pro Tempore of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any further nominations?

The Chair hears none.

The Clerk will call the roll.

FOR MR. EALY—49; PRESENT—1.

PRESENT—1

Ealy,

The PRESIDENT. The Honorable Charles H. Ealy, having received forty-nine votes, the Chair declares him to have been duly elected President Pro Tempore of the Senate for the interim.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I understand that the newly elected President Pro Tempore will take his oath of office and deliver his inaugural speech at a later time.

RECESS

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for five minutes.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE FOR THE INTERIM INDUCTED INTO OFFICE

The PRESIDENT. At this time the newly elected President Pro Tempore, the Honorable Charles H. Ealy, will be inducted into office. The oath of office will be administered by the Honorable Karl E. Richards, of the Dauphin County Court.

The oath of office was accordingly administered by the Honorable Karl E. Richards.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Somerset.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I have been considerably bewildered by this unusual and sudden nomination and election as President Pro Tempore today. I deeply appreciate the fact that both the representatives of the Republican majority and the representatives of the Democratic minority have joined in my nomination and election. This was a very unusual distinction and I can not tell the members of the Senate how much I appreciate it. I have served in this Senate for a number of years and I have had a high regard for many of the members of the Senate in the past, but I seem to have a sort of special affection for the members of this Senate who were here during the last two sessions. Perhaps the memories are a little fresher and greener, but whatever it might be, I shall always hold those members who were here in 1939 and in 1941 in special remembrance and affection.

The service of a State Senator is arduous. It seems to me perhaps that too many of our people are forgetting that they are also co-rulers or co-members of this state corporation, and when they make demands they ought to also consider what effect they will have on the business of the conduct of the organization. It is difficult for men of ability to serve in this Legislature; sometimes I feel that our business and professional associates look at us with a sort of a pity or half scorn that we would serve here in the Legislature.

I remember that the late Honorable George E. Alter, a former Speaker of the House of Representatives and afterwards President of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, told members of that Association who were gathered at Bedford, in part and in substances, in his address "you lawyers complain about the quality of the legislation which comes out from Harrisburg," and he said to them, "how many of you would be willing to give of your time in the service of the state?"

I have tried to secure cooperation between persons generally and the members of the Legislature so that we would receive disinterested advice on these important subjects. I hope that in the future sessions of the Legislature people may realize the importance they have in effecting good legislation.

Now again, Mr. President, I want to thank all my colleagues, the Liteutenant-Governor, all the members and officers of the Senate, and employes, for their help and cooperation during this past session, and I wish to thank especially today Judge Richards for consenting to come here and for coming here and administering the oath of office.

RECESS

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for ten minutes.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

An Act making an appropriation out of the Motor License Fund to the Department of Highways for allocation to and expenditure in the second class townships of the Commonwealth for maintenance construction reconstruction resurfacing or improvement of township roads and bridges during the calendar years one thousand nine hundred forty-two and one thousand nine hundred forty-three permitting the use of the funds for maintenance and repair of township roads and bridges under certain conditions and providing for the method of payment to townships

Section 1 The sum of ten million dollars ($10,000,000) is hereby appropriated to the Department of Highways for the two calendar years beginning January first one thousand nine hundred forty-two out of the Motor License Fund for allocation to and expenditures in the townships of the second class of the Commonwealth in the amounts upon the terms in the manner and for the purposes hereinafter set forth in this act

Section 2 The moneys hereby appropriated shall be allocated and apportioned among the second class townships of this Commonwealth in the ratio which the mileage of township roads in each township of the second class bears to the total mileage of township roads in all of the townships of the second class in the Commonwealth as of January first one thousand nine hundred forty-two

The funds so apportioned shall be expended by the supervisors of each township but only after consultation with the Department of Highways as to the most beneficial and efficient manner of making such expenditures and shall be used for the maintenance construction reconstruction resurfacing and improvement of township roads and the maintenance construction and reconstruction of township bridges in townships of the second class excepting that in townships which do not have sufficient funds from other sources for the maintenance and repair of all the roads and bridges under their jurisdiction the allocation to such townships shall be used in whole or in part for such maintenance and repair purposes

Section 3 Nothing in this act shall be construed to relieve any of the second class townships from any obligation they may have incurred under any contract or agreement entered into prior to January first one thousand nine hundred forty-two for the construction or repair of any highway or structure now under their jurisdiction

Section 4 The supervisors of each township shall appoint a foreman who may be a member of the board of supervisors to supervise the work to be done under the provisions of this act and in the event more than one foreman is required the Department of Highways may authorize the supervisors to appoint one or more additional foremen The Secretary of Highways shall have the right to remove any foreman so appointed for incompetency Said supervisors, shall also employ any laborers required for said work and fix their wages

Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent work under the act being done by contract let by the township supervisors

Section 5 No payment shall be made from moneys allocated under this act to the townships of the second class except on warrants drawn by the Auditor General upon the State Treasurer as provided by the act of Assembly to the treasurer of the board of supervisors and such payment if approved by the Secretary of Highways shall be made in four equal installments payable the first day of March the first day of June the first day of September and the first day of December of each year

There shall be submitted to the Department of Highways by the board of township supervisors a report on the last days of May and November of each year showing the cost of the work done under the provisions of this act in such detail as may be required by the Department of Highways In case any records or reports required by law are not made in the manner or at the time required no further funds shall be approved for payment by the Secretary of Highways to such township until such reports have been made and approved

Nothing in this act shall be construed to permit the funds appropriated by the act to be paid for other than labor rental of equipment payrolls material purchases including repair parts for equipment small tools road drags and snow fence on road and bridge work performed by the townships under the provisions of this act

Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the use of any of the funds allocated under this act for Federal projects sponsored by the townships or for county-aid work relating to the improvement of roads and bridges

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the report?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I think that I would be remiss in my duties as a Senator of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania if I did not rise on my feet and make the following remarks with regard to House Bill No. 481 as it has been reported from the Conference Committee.

House Bill No. 481 amends Sections 18 and 19 of Act No. 210 passed in July of 1935 (P. L. 589). In this present bill, Section 19 is amended to provide that the Dairy Advisory Council shall supersede the Advisory Health Board of the State Department of Health, and empowers the new Advisory Council to promulgate rules which may set aside any municipal legislation.

This act repeals existing municipal ordinances and prevents municipalities from enacting and enforcing new ordinances inconsistent with the provisions of this act or with the rules and regulations of the Department of Health. In effect, the bill retains its original objectives to which every municipal health officer in this Commonwealth is opposed. It takes away from my city of Pittsburgh and from every city in this Commonwealth the right to protect the health of its citizens by guarding them against the dangers which may result from an unsanitary milk supply. We are put at the mercy of a board over which neither we in Pittsburgh nor the Legislature itself has any protection. This proposed board is not a board dominated by men interested in the protection of the public health. It is a board dominated by men interested in the production and sale of milk. I do not charge nor do I anticipate that the proposed board would deliberately debase the standards of milk sanitation in the Commonwealth. I do feel, however, that the people of Pittsburgh and any city have the right to legislate in the interest of the health of their children.

Therefore, I cast my vote and ask the Senate to reject the Conference Report.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I feel I must speak in opposition to the views expressed by the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, much as I hate to do it. In discussing the problem of milk I think sanitation, of course, has its proper place, but in this Bill No. 481 an effort is being made to give to the farmers or producers of milk some relief from conditions as they exist today.

This Advisory Council is a very fair proposition. We have in Pennsylvania too many complicated rules and regulations pertaining to the production and distribution of milk. An effort is being made through this bill, No. 481, to standarize the regulations and rules so that a farmer who is producing milk has some idea of just what he has to comply with in order to meet the requirements demanded by various boards. We have no idea in mind of tampering with the rules and regulations in the City of Pittsburgh. This Advisory Council will do nothing except set up a standard of rules and regulations at the point of production, back on the farm. It will not go into the City of Pittsburgh and say to the City of Pittsburgh that they must accept milk that meets certain requirements, there will be nothing like that done by the Advisory Council; what they will do, is that they will say to the City of Pittsburgh "You can go so far in your regulations pertaining to farm dairies that are miles and miles and miles away from the City of Pittsburgh; but we are not going to have your city dairy inspectors come running all over the farms of Pennsylvania issuing rules and orders counter to the rules and regulations of the Department of Health."

The farmer who produces milk today for public consumption must meet certain requirements, but under the present practice the city of Pittsburgh and the City of Philadelphia and other cities in the state make up their own rules and regulations and go out into various townships where our farmers are struggling hard trying to cut the cost of production of milk, and those inspectors go out there and make life unbearable by insisting on various rules and regulations that the farmers can not comply with.

There is nothing in the bill to hurt the City of Pittsburgh whatever. The Legislature can feel very safe they are doing something to help the farmers in this state, the milk producers, because basically you must realize this, if a farmer can not produce milk you people in Pittsburgh can not regulate against it.

I would like to have the Senate concur in these amendments.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, will this bill interfere with a farmer selling raw milk?

Mr. HEYBURN. No, Mr. President, it will not.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I would like to further interrogate the Senator from Delaware.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Warren will proceed.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Will this bill create any more inspections than are now required, or less inspections of the farmer?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, it will not create any less inspections, or inspectors; it will not in any way interfere with local inspection. All it does is to attempt to set up a standard, a uniform standard, which will be enforced by all inspectors whether they be local or state or dealer inspectors.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, this regulatory bill probably in theory is a good thing, but I know from practical experience as a lawyer that many statutes which seem at least in principle to be good things are never enforcible. Probably the chief reason for that condition is the fact it costs a lot of money to regulate any industry or anything. A good example is the impotency which we find in the Public Utility Commission in its attempts to fight rates of the larger public utilities. We know as a fact that for every lawyer the Public Utility Commission has, the big utilities can have one hundred or one hundred and fifty, and the result is in the skirmish of rate fixing usually the Commonwealth comes out second best, and I feel that is the same sort of thing that would happen in this particular bill.

We do know this in Allegheny County, we have ordinances which are very fair and which do protect the health of the citizens of our County and our city. We from Allegheny County would hate to see a repeal of those ordinances, particularly in view of the fact there is nothing concretely offered to us at this time to indicate what we are going to get from this State Advisory Council. Under these amendments the Secretary of Agriculture has the right to determine whether a municipal ordinance is inconsistent with its rules and regulations and the Advisory Council has that same right. I tell you very frankly I think the question is a very serious one and it is one that has given me great concern.

I have great sympathy with the farmer who produces milk and it is unfortunate that we have let this session of the Legislature go by without a better attack on this very important problem, because I feel this is not a proper solution of our problem.

I am going to vote "no" on this bill and I hope the other member of the Senate will do the same.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, every legislative session since I have been a member of the General Assembly has been confronted with the threat of the enactment of a bill of this character. This subject first made its appearance, I believe, in the 1935 session and a bill of the same character made its appearance in the 1937 session and was vigorously fought by the cities of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Scranton, as was this particular bill.

I had the impression, from information which I received, that this bill was dead for the session, but now we find in what most Legislators feel are the dying hours of an unusual legislative session it again makes its appearance. I am frank to confess, Mr. President, I have not had a chance to study the bill; I just got a copy of the bill from my friend, Senator Kephart, and I have not seen a copy of the bill on any of the Senators' desks around here.

I want to read this provision to support my contention that this bill rips out in the City of Scranton all regulations with respect to milk, which regulations have kept the people in the City of Scranton healthy and which I think has been admittedly a good situation in our particular county.

Section 18 of the bill which I will read, clarifies in very plain English and certainly offsets the argument that some of the members of the Senate have given to me, that it will not repeal the existing ordinances and has nothing to do with the repeal of the laws governing this subject in the City of Scranton. Section 18 reads as follows: "This section shall become effective on September 1, 1942, or at any time prior thereto in the event that the Dairy Advisory Council shall have at any time prior to said date adopted and promulgated rules and regulations."

Mr. President, the people in the City of Scranton have lived in constant fear of having an act of this character imposed upon them, and I want to share the anxiety and the protest of my friends, Senator Cox and Senator Barr and ask my colleagues in the Senate to vote down this conference report.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, in my opinion this is a very good bill and as our colleague from Allegheny, Senator Cox, says, a very serious one, but not in the sense he said it. It is a very serious one concerning the happiness and prosperity of the farmers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. As the gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator Coleman, has said, this has been a subject considered by the Legislature for the last several years, and why should it not be? A great industry in our Commonwealth is being harassed by a lot of silly inspectors, some of whom even went so far as to tell the farmer on what side of his head he must part his hair.

This bill, whether you think so or not, enters into the economic side of the dairy industry and I will tell you why it does. A great many dealers in the Commonwealth sell milk in several boroughs and municipalities. This thing has gone so far that every borough and municipality has its own ordinance and some of them are so ridiculous as to say that milk sold on one side of the street in one borough is sanitary and milk sold on the other side of the street is poison; one inspector will tell a farmer he must have one type of pasteurization and another inspector will tell him he needs a different one and the net result of making the dealer spend all this money unnecessarily is that it must be taken out of the farmer's milk check. I hold a milk stub in my hand now from a poor farmer who is getting as little as two cents a quart for his milk in Pennsylvania. If that is not a crime then I must confess I do not know what one is.

Now, these gentlemen who have spoken, I do not think have laid this bill alongside the Health Act of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and if they do that they will find plenty of safeguards to protect the health of the people of Pennsylvania.

What really happens in a lot of towns in the State of Pennsylvania is this; they will have these ridiculous regulations relating to Pennsylvania milk, and yet milk will come into Pennsylvania from as far west as Wisconsin without any regulations, to be set on the doorstep for the poor babies to drink.

This bill sets up an Advisory Dairy Council. I would like to read to the Senate the makeup of that committee or commission. The reason for abolishing the so-called Advisory Health Council was that it was inoperative, it never met, and this is an attempt to set up a commission which recognizes all branches and phases of the dairy industry in order that they may sit down together and draft a code which would protect the health of babies and residents everywhere. I am interested in Scranton and Pittsburgh babies, Mr. President, but at the same time I am interested in Concordville babies, where I come from.

Mr. President, it seems to me to be perfectly silly to even suggest that this commission is going to deliberately go out and try to murder babies. There is a lot of talk put out by those fellows that want to continue this very thing that has been going on for years, which has resulted in the utter collapse of the dairy industry as far as the producer is concerned.

The Dairy Advisory Council shall consist of seven members, as follows:

"The Secretary of Agriculture or his authorized representative shall be the Chairman of the Council The Secretary of Health or his authorized representative shall be a member of the Council One member shall be a person actually connected with the Health Department of one of the municipalities of the Commonwealth and shall be appointed by the Secretary of Health The other four members shall be appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture Two members shall be persons familiar with and possessing either training or experience in dairying and the production of milk Two members shall be persons who through training or experience are familiar with the operation of milk plants and the handling and distribution of milk"

Also, Mr. President, there is an additional safeguard provided in this bill because it grants appeals to the Courts, and how any attorney who has respect for his profession and the courts can have any fear that the courts of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are going to concur in any scheme to help kill babies, I think that argument falls of its own weight.

I do not want to prolong this session of the Senate, but I want to say I think this is a very great victory for the dairy farmers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It is not particularly a victory, except in this manner, that we are getting what I think can be considered a fair bill and a voice in the dairy industry, and I for one expect to vote "aye".

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Under the terms of this bill, Mr. President, will the sale of raw milk be permitted in the City of Scranton.

Mr. HEYBURN. I do not think so, Mr. President. However, that is entirely in the hands of the City of Scranton and they are not, I think, going to allow the sale of dirty or impure milk anywhere.

This question of raw milk should not enter into this, Mr. President, but I would like to talk a minute about raw milk. Raw milk is nature's product. Can you tell me why people should not be allowed to drink raw milk, properly taken care of? I would like someone to give me one reason. To say that pure raw milk is not fit to drink is to say the Lord did not know what he was doing when he made the cow.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, my understanding of the answer of the gentleman from Delaware is that there is still some doubt in his mind whether or not under the terms of this bill raw milk will be permitted to be sold in the City of Scranton. I think that is tremendously important and if there is any doubt I do not think we ought to pass the bill.

I do not want to go into the question of the food value and qualities of raw and pasteurized milk, because I am frank to confess that I probably know about as little about the milk problem as anybody in the Commonwealth, but I am concerned about the dumping of raw milk into the City of Scranton. If we have a situation, as we have now, where we are going to make certain that does not happen, and that situation results in the saving of some flaxen haired youngster of somebody or other in our community I think I am justified in opposing enactment of this bill.

I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware if I am correct in my information that the farmer is complaining about being subjected to multiplicity of inspections.

Mr. HEYBURN. That is true, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Then, Mr. President, why could there not be some provision that a city ought to have some say as to whether or not raw milk should be sold in any particular community.

Mr. HEYBURN. This bill grants rather wide latitude to the so-called Advisory Council and I still insist that, while this is not a matter which should be discussed here now, raw milk properly taken care of is fit for human consumption. In a lot of cases raw milk is ruled off the turf for this reason, there is a very little farmer who goes into the milk business and he can not afford a lot of equipment and he wants to sell raw milk. Make the standards for raw milk as high as possible—I think that is a good thing—but after that then the next step is to forbid the sale of raw milk.

If the City of Scranton is aggrieved by any action of this Advisory Council, it can appeal to the courts, and under this very setup there is wide latitude, and I think that raw milk can practically be forbidden in the City of Scranton if they wish to deny their children the benefits thereof.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, what the farmer complains about that this bill remedies.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the farmer of Pennsylvania does not care if you put these rules and regulations up to the sky, but once he complies with them he wants to know he has complied and that is the end of it; he does not want to buy a lot of equipment and have some inspector come out and tell him it is all wrong. That is what the farmers of Pennsylvania complain about.

Mr. KEPHART. It is not the multiplicity of inspections he complains about, it is the fact that the standards are changed from time to time?

Mr. HEYBURN. That is exactly right, Mr. President.

Mr. KEPHART. Is that caused by municipal inspectors or by inspectors hired by dealers or by out of state inspectors?

Mr. HEYBURN. It is caused by municipal inspectors principally.

Mr. KEPHART. And this is to make the standard uniform; is that the idea?

Mr. HEYBURN. It does, Mr. President.

Mr. KEPHART. So that once he has complied with the standards he will not have to change.

Mr. HEYBURN. He will probably have to change from time to time at stated intervals, Mr. President, as conditions change and as this Council agrees that something must be done to protect the health of children and adults; and that is as it should be.

Mr. KEPHART. This bill does nothing toward creating uniformity of interpretation of such standards and rules and regulations, does it?

Mr. HEYBURN. I have heard that question raised before, Mr. President. The inspectors should be able to read the regulations and if a regulation is promulgated and an inspector can not read it and enforce it, then you ought to get another inspector.

Mr. KEPHART. I would like to state my position on this bill. The City of Philadelphia is proposing to put a milk ordinance into effect, I understand, and if this bill is passed, any state regulations that this Dairy Advisory Council makes will repeal Philadelphia's milk ordinance. In other words, if the Dairy Advisory Council passes regulations with respect to raw milk, the City of Philadelphia will not be able to pass more stringent regulations because they would be inconsistent with the state regulations. For that reason I am going to have to vote against this bill.

I appreciate the position of the farmers in this matter and I think the bill the Senate sent over to the House would have corrected that situation without too much disturbance throughout the State of Pennsylvania and without the loss of any money on the part of a lot of farmers. If you will read on page 4, lines 14 and 15, it says:

"This act shall be considered as establishing uniform requirements and regulations."

As the gentleman from Delaware has already pointed out that is the purpose. At the present time regulations are not uniform throughout the state, because as we have been told, different municipalities have different requirements. When you say you are going to establish a state uniform standard, you presuppose the standard is not uniform now, the present condition is like this, some of the standards in the state are enforced at a low level and some at a higher level and some even at the top.

The gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn, says the farmers are all willing to come up to the top. I do not think that is necessary in a lot of cases because some farmers in rural areas do not have to produce milk to come up to the standard that is required, where milk is sent from a rural area, a couple of hundred miles to a large city. To make all farmers come up to the top standards means those farmers will have to spend a lot of money to come up to the top. If you put the standards in the middle, then those who are below must spend money and those who are above will lose a lot of their investment, and the municipalities to whom those different farmers sell milk will get an inferior grade of milk. Therefore, Mr. President, I do not think this bill will do the farmers as much good as has been said here.

However, as I said before, the City of Philadelphia desires to pass a milk ordinance and they believe this bill will interfere with that, and for that reason I am voting against this bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I think there has been a lot said about this bill which is really not in the bill and a lot of prophecies made which will not occur. This bill first came over here with the intent to establish uniform regulations and uniform standards. I think unfortunately, without proper explanation when this bill came over, there was a great deal of unnecessary criticism. This bill is a part of the program of the Democratic Party. It was made up after there had been a committee appointed of farmers in the rural districts to ascertain certain facts in connection with the milk control situation, so far as it concerned its administration in Pennsylvania, and we found as a result of that report that there was a multiplicity of requirements and regulations with regard to the production of milk in the barn that ranged from municipal to outside states, and in addition to having to meet the requirements of the municipality, if a man sold his milk in different states, he would have to meet their requirements also. The result was a great deal of confusion that did not bring anybody any benefit. It is true even if this bill passes there will be a question as to what other states will do, but I think the amendments to the bill are an improvement on the bill because it will establish a system which may even eliminate that.

Now, Mr. President, let us get this raw milk thing settled right now. I think Mr. Kephart knows that the City of Philadelphia or any other city can establish a health regulation which, if valid and in the interest of its citizens, will be upheld by the Supreme Court, notwithstanding any rule this Advisary Board might make.

This Advisory Board will not regulate Philadelphia out of existence, it can not regulate its right to establish health standards, and if the City of Philadelphia establishes a rule that it believes is in the interest of safety of its citizens, that raw milk from twenty-five miles away shall not be delivered, no court in this state will hold that invalid. I think that ought to be apparent, and that lawyers will admit that is the first principle of self government.

The question of raw milk does not arise, in my opinion until it becomes usable and when it becomes usable in Philadelphia or in any other locality, those localities through their Departments of Health will have the right to regulate it.

On the other hand, there is provided a period of time, September 2, and that was done deliberately and not as a sop—that was provided for the purpose of enabling this Advisory Council to listen to every city and every county in the state, and after listening to every county and every city in the state, to adopt that standard which in their opinion is most nearly suited to protect the health of the citizens and at the same time protect the interests of the farmers.

The arguments that are being made here by the various municipalities, through their Senators, will be made and should be made by the representatives of the various communities to the Advisory Commission. The statement that has been made that there will be a lot of farmers on this Commission who do not know anything about health has been very well answered by the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn, when he said the Department of Health is still here, and they are not a lot of farmers, it is the Department of Health, and they know what is safe and they ought to know by now what is a safe standard.

After public hearings have been held, after all of these hearings have been held and after these men, who should be disinterested persons, and I think they will be from the way in which this bill has been drawn, make the rules and regulations, then every city and every municipality will have milk control. Any person interested can go to court and appeal from their decision and you will eventually come through with rules and regulations which have received the examination and the inspection of everybody in interest, with the sanction of the court. No court is going to establish rules and regulations to permit milk to be sold that these gentlemen fear so much, the sale of raw milk, and if it is a menace to the state no court will permit it to be sold.

Sometime sooner or later this problem must be solved. It never will be solved by the Senate and the House. It has been before them for years and we have heard all these stories for years on each side. If this bill is passed the result will be that the highest standards will be adopted and nobody will have a right to complain, and then there will be cut out from the whole picture this vicious system that has grown up, reducing inspection to a matter of compelling the sale of milk at a lower price. Dealers and everybody else have been able to go into those farms and make the painting of the outside of the barn a question of the value of the milk that is sold; they would raise the question that your barn should be 22 feet wide, and if you had a twenty-two foot barn in one municipality that would be O.K. but for another municipality it must be twenty-three feet and if you did not have it twenty-three feet you could not sell milk as grade "A" milk. That is utter nonsense.

On this conference committee are men who know more about milk than I will even know. I know nothing about milk but I have made it my business to find out things about the situation. I have come to the conclusion there must be a separate body, not connected with the Senate or the House, and not connected with any individuals who have an interest—and I have no interest in milk except that it be pure and clean and that it be kept so. I do not represent any milk dealer, I do not represent either side, but I do represent the public, which wants good clean milk that is healthy, and this Advisory Council is the way to do it and from now to September 1942 their job will be to hear these gentlemen and the people they represent and come to some conclusion which will be safe for everybody.

If you kill this bill now you will have the same chaotic condition; you are not taking a step forward but you are taking a step backward. This is the time I think this proposition ought to be studied by those who will have a fair opportunity to listen and for those who will be given a fair hearing and be allowed to speak.

Mr. CARR. Mr. President and fellow members of the Senate, while I am in entire sympathy with what the last speaker has said, there must be one exception to that statement. The speaker says this is a part of the Democratic program. It may have had its origin as such but in the operations through which it has gone in its enactment into what I hope will be legislation that situation has changed considerably.

I am forced and believe I am safe in saying that the Minority Leader with the help of those of his own party in the Senate would be absolutely unable to have this bill enacted, and therefore I want to claim the right to challenge that part of his statement, by the roll call that we shall have on this bill.

The second thing I want to say that there are a good many of us here this afternoon who are of the age in life where if raw milk were the bad thing that it is always claimed to be that possibly we would not be alive, but that the ravages of disease would have gotten us into the grave before we were ever eligible for election to this honorable body.

The reason I am in favor of this bill and heartily in favor of it particularly, while I have only one city but a large rural territory in my district, is the fact that I have never believed in the right of extra territoriality. I hate to use a big word like that but it is the only word that expresses what I mean.

When the people of a city claim the right to go out and legislate as to how people shall live in the rural districts, then I say their attitude is wrong. I say that where the interest of a city lies is in the reception of milk that is of such good quality that it will be safe for distribution and consumption in the city, but that their right to determine that does not extent beyond the territorial limits of the city.

They should have, and I believe under this law will have, with the consent of the Dairy Advisory Council, the right to set up every high standard of perfection for milk that they desire, and that standard can only be arrived at in one particular way and it is not arrived at by determining whether a gallon of milk has passed through a pasteurization process; it is arrived at by a definite count of the number of bacteria in cubic centimeter of that milk and by determination of the amount of sediment, which means dirt, that is contained in the same amount of milk.

When a city has been given the right to determine those two things with regard to its milk supply, I think its interests have been fully and completely protected, and therefore I am casting my vote as a good Republican for this bill.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I do not like to be in the light of opposing farmers in connection with this particular bill because that is not true, but I think the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, and the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, if they were sincere when they worked on this committee, they would have seen that more than one of the seven members of this board would have represented the Health Department of some municipality.

In 1937 a very similar bill to this passed the House and the Senate but the Governor had the foresight to veto the bill. If this bill should happen to pass today I hope Governor James will have the same intestinal fortitude.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I have listened to members of this body representing Philadelphia, Allegheny and Scranton speak in defense of the health regulations in their various cities. I feel it my duty to say something about my own borough, that of Kingston, Pennsylvania. We have in that borough a Board of Health which has set up hard and fast rulings in regards to raw milk and that is my particular interest in this bill we are now discussing.

During the progress of this Moul-Woodring Bill through the Senate, I sat in meetings in the City of Wilkes-Barre with the local director of health and the state Director of Health and there I saw letters from large metropolitan centers such as Cleveland, Baltimore, Washington and Detroit, from the directing heads of their health departments, setting forth facts why raw milk should not be allowed in particular cities, while in Luzerne County we have a great number of milk producing farmers, all during the course of this bill, including the public hearings, I as one of the representatives of Luzerne County, did not receive any communications or personal calls from my farmer friends, so I feel that I should lisen to those who are in authority in bringing about the health of our communities and that I should oppose this conference report which is before us.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I probably know more about milk than even my distinguished colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, because for at least twenty-five years I have been a director of the biggest, cleanest, most extensive milk company in the United States, namely, the Walker-Gordon Laboratories. This company has been a pioneer in clean milk, and those interested with us get twenty per cent dividends out of it.

Now, the point is they do not pasteurize or boil this milk, they use clean raw milk. Clean raw milk is very much better than any heated milk and, contrary to the opinion of my colleagues. I expect to support this bill because as I understand, this bill will tend to promote the production of clean raw milk. Because of that bogeyman—typhoid fever—which is supposed to be transmitted by impure milk, many rules and regulations are set up, ninety-nine per cent of which are unnecessary, and if this bill is going to promote production of clean raw milk then I am all for it.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I want to state for the record a telegram I just received. I do not know the author of the telegram but he is State Chairman of the Milk Drivers' Union, and in strong language, almost to the point of a threat, he demands that the Senate defeat this bill.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I think that is the most vicious piece of propoganda I have ever heard. Is it not rather singular that this telegram from this union would single out the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, who decided to be against the bill only a matters of hours ago. It seems to me very ridiculous. How could this bill effect the economic stability of any driver's union? I do not think that is fair, and I do not think it should be brought up here at all.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I am going to vote for this bill. I think it affords the best protection the farmers have had for quite some time, and I am going to vote for it, especially after I heard the telegram read by my colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, and I want to go on record as stating that I welcome opposition, and the next time I seek public office, when I am threatened by anybody, I will welcome their opposition.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I think the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn, could not apply to a man like Dr. Hubley Owen from Philadelphia who sent me a telegram and asked me to vote against this bill. He is a very fine physician. A member of the Municipal Hospital staff in Philadelphia also recommended that I vote against this bill. However, since there have been clarifying amendments put into the bill, I am convinced it is a good bill, and I am going to vote for it, so I was not convinced by any telegram.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I would like to be informed as to the name of the third member of the committee. As I understand it, Senator Shapiro and Senator Scarlett are two of the members. Was there a third member?

Mr. SHAPIRO. The gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Homsher.

Mr. JASPAN. Then, Mr. President, I take it the gentleman from Lancaster did not approve this conference report.

Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Homsher.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lancaster permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOMSHER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Is that correct, Senator Homsher? May I know the reasons of the gentleman from Lancaster, if he cares to express them?

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I expressed my reasons in the conference committee, as to what I thought would make a good bill, I do not want to discuss the merits of the bill on the floor of the Senate.

Mr. JASPAN. Then, Mr. President, I take it that the gentleman from Lancaster is not satisfied with the merits of the bill at this time.

Mr. HOMSHER. I am not, Mr. President.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I only hope that the passage of this bill will dispel the myth about Philadelphia fighting against the rural sections of Pennsylvania.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the Conference Report?

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred.)

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The PRESIDENT. The roll will be so verified.

The Clerk read the names of those voting in the affirmative as follows:

Becker,	Edmonds,	Mallery,	Thomas,
Carr,	Geltz,	McQuiddy,	Tyler,
Cavalcante,	Haluska,	Shapiro,	Wade,
Chapman,	Heyburn,	Snowden,	Watkins,
Crowe,	James,	Stevenson,	Wilson, H. I.,
Dent,	Lanius,	Stiefel,	Woodward,
DiSilvestro,	Letzler,	Taylor,

The PRESIDENT. Are there any corrections? The Chair hears none.

The affirmative roll stands as verified.

The Clerk read the names of those voting in the negative as follows:

Barr,	Crider,	Homsher,	Miller,
Bartlett,	Deitrick,	Jaspan,	Ruth,
Coleman,	Farrell,	Kephart,	Walker,
Cox,	Frey,	McGinnis,

The PRESIDENT. Are there any corrections? The Chair hears none.

The negative roll stands as verified.

Yeas—27; Nays—15.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the report?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—27

Becker,	Edmonds,	Mallery,	Thomas,
Carr,	Geltz,	McQuiddy,	Tyler,
Cavalcante,	Haluska,	Shapiro,	Wade,
Chapman,	Heyburn,	Snowden,	Watkins,
Crowe,	James,	Stevenson,	Wilson, H. I.,
Dent,	Lanius,	Stiefel,	Woodward,
DiSilvestro,	Letzler,	Taylor,

NAYS—15

Barr,	Crider,	Homsher,	Miller,
Bartlett,	Deitrick,	Jaspan,	Ruth,
Coleman,	Farrell,	Kephart,	Walker,
Cox,	Frey,	McGinnis,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

HOUSE MESSAGES

HOUSE NON-CONCURS IN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL No. 1768

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has non-concurred in amendments made by the Senate to House Bill No. 1768, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (P. L. of 1937, p. 2897) entitled "Unemployment Compensation Law," by providing therein as to the replacement of certain moneys received pursuant to the provisions of Section three hundred two of the Federal Social Security Act as amended.

SENATE INSISTS UPON ITS AMENDMENTS NON-CONCURRED IN BY THE HOUSE TO HOUSE BILL No. 1768

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate insist upon its amendments non-concurred in by the House to the foregoing bill.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—47

Barr,	DiSilvestro,	Lanius,	Stevenson,
Bartlett,	Ealy,	Letzler,	Stiefel,
Becker,	Edmonds,	Mallery,	Tallman,
Carr,	Farrell,	McCreesh,	Taylor,
Cavalcante,	Frey,	McGinnis,	Thomas,
Chapman,	Geltz,	McQuiddy,	Tyler,

Crowe,	James,	Scarlett,	Wilson, H. I.,
Deitrick,	Jaspan,	Shapiro,	Woodward,
Dent,	Kephart,	Snowden,

NAYS—0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

SENATE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE APPOINTED, ON HOUSE BILL No. 1768

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that a Committee of Conference be appointed to confer with a similar committee of the House of Representatives (already appointed) to consider the differences existing between the two houses in relation to said bill.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT. The President Pro Tempore appoints Messrs. Heyburn, Henry I. Wilson and Coleman to be said committee on the part of the Senate, and that the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

SENATE RECEDES FROM ITS AMENDMENTS NON-CONCURRED IN BY THE HOUSE TO HOUSE BILL No. 931

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now recede from its amendments non-concurred in by the House to House Bill No. 931, entitled:

To further amend section six of the act, approved the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2603), entitled "An act relating to vocational education; creating vocational school districts for the purpose of conducting systems of vocational schools, departments or classes; providing for their government; prescribing their powers and duties; conferring powers and imposing duties on school districts and on the State Board for Vocational Education; and providing for referendum in certain cases," fixing the rate of the annual tax levy; requiring county commissioners or boards for the assessment and revision of taxes to furnish, at the expense of the county, certified duplicates of last adjusted valuations of real estate; making the same taxable for vocational school purposes; and making further provision with reference to the bond of tax collectors.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—47

Barr,	DiSilvestro,	Lanius,	Stevenson,
Bartlett,	Ealy,	Letzler,	Stiefel,

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 298 ADOPTED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to consideration of the Conference Committee Report on Senate Bill No. 298 which is one of the highway appropriation bills.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Report was read as follows:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL No. 298

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering Senate Bill No. 298, entitled:

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the report?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this is a companion bill to the bill distributing liquid fuel taxes among townships and cities. This is the city bill. Originally this bill appropriated a total sum to cities for the same purpose as a bill making appropriations to townships. In its original form, it included Philadelphia as one of the cities. As the bill is reported out, or rather, as the Conference Committee report now reads, there is a separate amount of a million and half dollars appropriated to cities of the first class, and the balance of the original amount is designated to the other cities. The object of that is to allow the other cities to take advantage of the fact that Philadelphia, in addition to this money that it will get from this bill No. 268, will also receive the sum of fifty million dollars over a period of five years, under the Lee Bill. There was some objection from the outlying districts, the up-state gentlemen of the Senate, to the fact that Philadelphia, in addition to getting fifty million dollars, is going to get another portion of the amount provided for by this bill. We were told in conference, but not in confidence, that Philadelphia, by receiving this total amount of fifty million dollars, should not participate in the rights of this bill.

I want to make a point of the fact that for many years, at least during the last two years I have been in this Legislature, every side street or alley in any township has been taken over almost, according to the bills which came in here, to make them state highways, and all during that period Philadelphia certainly did not get any money.

I do not think it is fair that Philadelphia, because it is trying to catch up with its share of the fund, should be penalized in this bill.

However, the matter is now before the Governor, or will be before the Governor, and it will be for him to say whether or not in making the appropriation contemplated that Philadelphia should be deprived of its share. I do not want to assume the responsibility nor do I by my vote want to be understood as agreeing to have any monies taken from Philadelphia.

I suggested that the opinion of Council and the Mayor, who really were the ones to answer that question, should be sought, but if this is the way it is to be done, I am satisfied it will give the representatives from Philadelphia an opportunity to present their picture, but in order to keep the record straight and without intending in any way to criticize the conferees because they were sincere and honest in their efforts, I desire to be recorded as voting "no" on this matter.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the report?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, there were a series of bills introduced early in the session in the House in connection with soldier voting, on which bills there was no action for some time, and others were introduced in the Senate, one by me, being Senate Bill No. 1090, which seems to have traveled too fast, or for some reason or other got over to the Governor's office without having been acted upon by the House.

The bills originally introduced in the House were moved after the bills were introduced in the Senate, and those bills were passed. The Senate bills, therefore, need not be passed. Senate Bill No. 1090 was the one which traveled too fast and got into the hands of the Governor, and I therefore offer a resolution for the recall from the Governor of Senate Bill No. 1090, Printer's No. 436, for further consideration.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to commend the action of sending a bill directly to the Governor without going to the House. I think that was a very good action. I would like to say I have introduced twenty-nine bills in this session and the only bill that got through the House was the bill appropriating two thousand dollars for a caretaker.

RESOLUTION RECALLING SENATE BILL No. 1090 FROM THE GOVERNOR

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. GELTZ offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, July 12, 1941.

Resolved (if the House concurs), That Senate Bill No. 1090, (House Bill No. 1871), Printer's No. 436, entitled:

"An Act to amend the act, approved the first day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1132), entitled 'An act to provide for the permanent personal registration of electors in cities of the second class A as a condition of their right to vote at elections and primaries. and their enrollment as members of political parties as a further condition of their right to vote at primaries; prescribing certain procedure for the conduct of elections and primaries and the challenge and proof of qualifications of electors; and prescribing the powers and duties of citizens, parties, political bodies, registration and other appointees of registration commissions, county election boards, election officers, municipal officers, departments and bureaus, police officers, courts, judges, prothonotaries, sheriffs, county commissioners, peace officers, county treasurers, county controllers, registrars of vital statistics, certain public utility corporations, real estate brokers, rental agents, and boards of school directors; and imposing penalties,' as amended, by requiring and providing for the registration of persons in military service to entitle them to vote at any election."

now in the hands of the Governor, be recalled from the Governor for further consideration.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the house of Representatives for concurrence.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna may proceed.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, when I came into the Senate Chamber today I saw something which I think may have escaped the attention of the members of the Senate, which I believe carries a very significant message.

Upon entering the Senate Chamber my attention was called to the fluttering of wings near the ceiling of the Senate Chamber, and as I looked skyward, I saw two beautiful white pigeons flying around the Senate Chamber.

Now, Mr. President, doves have always been symbolic of peace and harmony and I am hopeful that this incident that I witnessed today is a prophetic sign.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny may proceed.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, for some time I have been very deeply interested in the discussions on the floor in connection with congressional reapportionment, and at various times I have read in the newspapers about members of this body who were making positive statements that they would not vote for adjournment sine die unless there had been some agreement reached on congressional reapportionment.

Now, Mr. President, we have been told on this floor repeatedly about our responsibility to properly reapportion the state for congressional elections, and we at the same time have been warned repeatedly on this floor of the dangers that might arise if we permitted this Legislature to adjourn without some kind of a reapportionment bill. The multiplicity of impossible situations that we would get into if we elected these congressmen at large has been repeatedly told, not only in the cloak rooms and through the newspapers but on the Senate floor, so that all the people throughout the state realize how impossible the situation would become if this conference committee on congressional reapportionment does not reach some conclusion.

In both political parties we have men in the House of Representatives in Congress, who have spent years and years acquiring experience and knowledge of federal plans and federal projects and federal business; they have obtained envious positions on various committees of the House of Representatives in Washington permitting them to more extensively function as public officials.

I think it would be a travesty if those men would lose the positions they have acquired through their years of experience in Washington, men who have throughout their terms studied federal problems, and have them replaced by a Joe Blow who might be lucky enough to acquire one of the first thirty-three places on a congressional ballot that would carry over five hundred names. Not only would we lose the lifetime work that is represented by their positions on these committees, but we, the citizens of Pennsylvania, would lose the opportunity of having at our finger tips their knowledge and their experience, especially at a time, Mr. President, when the federal government is calling upon all of the brains of this great nation to devote themselves to public service.

The maze of situations that have arisen have disturbed each and every member of this Senate, and the sympathetic encouragement of all the members of the Senate has gone out to the conferees of this conference committee, hoping and hoping and rehoping that something would happen to bring about an agreement of this committee.

Now, Mr. President, there have been a lot of stories told back and forth as to what was holding it up. I personally have been deeply interested and wondering why we could not agree on something, and finally came to the personal conclusion, and I want to say to the members of this Senate, that any conclusions that I might state are my own and of course do not bind my party; neither do they bind the Royal Oak party—The trend of population as reflected in the 1940 census indicated very strongly that the City of Philadelphia and the County of Philadelphia had lost in population. Mr. President, one of the most natural objectives in this reapportionment would be to go into the County of Philadelphia and remove one congressman and redivide the County of Philadelphia so that there would be one congressman out of Philadelphia, and leave the rest of the districts alone. That would probably be the most expeditious plan, because that would least disturb the present members of Congress and their districts.

Of course, Mr. President, if you were to take the sixty-seven counties of the state and redivide all of our thirty-three congressional districts, then, Mr. President, you might have chaos that would not only be dissatisfactory to the major political parties, but would not please the citizens of the Commonwealth.

For a long time, Mr. President, I contemplated voting against adjourning sine die unless and until a congressional reapportionment project had been agreed on. Sometime ago I decided that perhaps the best thing to do would be to actively and physically prevent a sine die adjournment. At this present moment, Mr. President, I have the floor of this Senate and I have here on my desk two volumes by Carl Sandburg on the Life of Abraham Lincoln. These two volumes, Mr. President, run over one thousand pages, and I contemplated standing up here and quoting, starting at page one, volume one and reading these two volumes slowly and carefully and with gestures, so that about Labor Day perhaps, these conferees, who would still be out conferring, would come to some kind of an agreement. I talked to various political leaders to see whether or not there could be some method of agreement, and I asked various members of the conference committee why it was they did not take one from Philadelphia, take him out and leave the rest of the districts alone, reshuffle the congressional districts in Philadelphia, and I was advised that the only reason that seemed to be apparent why they could not do that was because the political leaders in Philadelphia, Mr. President—and I say political leaders without designating either party, because I think this is a bi-partisan proposition—the political leaders of Philadelphia were absolutely opposed to losing one of their congressmen; they did not care where Pennsylvania lost a congressman, as long as he was not from Philadelphia County.

Mr. President, when the Wade bill was first introduced in the Senate, it provided for the elimination of one congressman from Allegheny County. When that bill passed the Senate, my distinguished colleague, the gentleman from Allegheny Senator Geltz and I both voted against the bill. It has become apparent—as we speed closer to adjournment, and it has been indicated by our Floor Leader that within a few moments we will speed through three days in three minutes—it has become very apparent that the conferees, in spite of their valiant and patriotic work, have been unable to get the political leaders of both political parties to agree on something. So, Mr. President, I would like to suggest that I am very reluctant to start reading these two volumes by Carl Sandburg of the Life of Abraham Lincoln, to give this Senate some idea about how Abraham Lincoln felt upon congressional reapportionment, and I would like to suggest to the distinguished gentleman on this conference committee that they go back into a huddle and take one congressman from the great State of Allegheny and then leave the rest of the districts as they are, because I feel that back in Allegheny County, although we gained in population and although we are entitled to the five congressmen we now have, that rather than see Pennsylvania plunged into chaos we would rather have the burden on the Congressmen in Allegheny County made just a little heavier, and we are perfectly willing—and I speak for myself when I use the Lindbergh "we"—that Allegheny County have only four congressmen, and give Philadelphia one more than it deserves, rather than have political re-apportionment chaos in this great Commonwealth.

I should like to suggest to these gentlemen that they go back again, call the conference committee together, and see whether or not the political leaders of both parties, who have in their endeavors, and rightfully so, tried to get the best political bargains they could, see whether or not Allegheny County will give up one congressman, and leave the rest of the state undisturbed, so that we can go back home and report to our people, bad as it is and weak as it is, at least we did not adjourn sine die without a reapportionment plan.

I am not inclined to threaten by keeping these two volumes on my desk, and I say to the members of the Senate in all sincerity, if it is impossible to get some kind of an agreement on congressional reapportionment, I am still opposed to adjourning sine die without a congressional reapportionment bill, and I feel that we are passing the buck, if I may use that expression, to the chief executive of this Commonwealth in expecting him to call a special session to do the job that we have been unable to do here in this present regular session.

Mr. President, I again say I am not threatening to read these two volumes if I take the floor again, but I feel we should now make any sacrifice for the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am glad the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, gave me an opportunity to say what has been in my mind for several days. I have heard very many rumors around this Capitol and the streets during the last two or three days, about a great many things that have not occurred, and I think it might be helpful to clear the atmosphere by removing the smoke screen of paper discussion and political discussion. I think, after all, when we go home most of us will realize this session of the Senate accomplished very little. There are, however, several important bills which in my opinion are of sufficient importance to make it necessary for us to do something about them.

There remain for determination two bills which deal with the unemployment compensation laws. One of them is a bill which deals with the civil service provisions of that department and several others. The other is a bill which is in the nature of a moral obligation bill, which commits the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to repayment to the Federal Government of all of the monies which the Federal Government claims should be repaid, by virtue of the improper handling—and I use that word as the best word I can find at the moment—improper handling of the administration funds of unemployment compensation.

With respect to the first one, which is civil service, that takes in several departments; with respect to the second one it takes in only one department.

There remains also another bill, which is unemployment compensation itself, that is, the basis, the rate upon which unemployment compensation shall be paid to unemployables.

Then, of course, there is the bill just referred to, the reapportionment bill, and there is I think a bill dealing with the subversive activities of those on relief. There is also, I should say, the truck bill, No. 690, which has been referred to here.

Mr. President, it seems to me that the application of a little common sense and the ascertainment of certain information should bring about an early settlement of these disputes.

I want to dispose of two of them because I have no suggestions to make as to them, and then proceed to the others with which I am concerned and about which I think I can make suggestions which will be helpful.

In the first place, if I had an opportunity to do so again, I would vote for the truck bill. I think it is a pity that a piece of legislation the merits of which no one has yet questioned, the desirability of which no one can doubt, should have received such a bad start and have been placed in such an atmosphere of discredit, in view of the fact there are reasons now which might not have existed a year ago that make that an important bill. When it first came up I knew nothing about the bill. I was curious to know why there must be an overall weight for a truck of forty-five thousand pounds and then in addition to that an axle weight, and when I investigated the matter I found out that when a man loads a truck and there is a permissive weight of thirty-nine thousand pounds, even if he only had thirty-seven thousand pounds on that truck, he still could be fined if the weight is so distributed that on one of the axles there would be nineteen thousand pounds instead of eighteen thousand pounds, which means that the trucker either must adjust his weight, employ help to adjust it, or subject himself to a fine.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is spending five hundred thousand dollars this coming biennium—it did spend that amount last biennium—to advertise all over the country that Pennsylvania has the most beautiful scenery and the finest roads, and yet when these people from outside the state who read those pamphlets come in with a truck weighing over thirty-nine thousand pounds and that truck arrives at the state line, they must either unload the truck or divide the load or take another truck, and that does not only happen once, but it happens in the four surrounding states of New York, New Jersey, Maryland and Ohio.

It seems to me silly, aside from the expenditures we are making, when we with one breath tell those people what a marvelous state we have, what marvelous roads we have, and then in the next breath we set up a barrier, in addition to which we know from information already before all of us that the railroads are short in their equipment to such an extent as to interfere with national defense and throw a burden on these trucks.

The only trouble with that bill, the only thing that is keeping that bill from passing, is the fact that two lobbies which are interested in it, and have a right to be interested in it, are lobbying for it. In my opinion they have a right to lobby for it like anybody else around here. I have been discussing and conferring with what I consider the greatest legitimate lobby existing in the state, the labor lobby, and I want to say that those men have an interest and they have things to consider, matters to direct to our attention.

I have always, and propose to continue to discuss these matters with anybody who has an interest. I am not afraid to sit down and take dinner with them; I am not afraid of myself, and there is no danger, I repeat, if a Senator or a Representative who sits down with a lobbyist knows he will do nothing which is not right; he will do everything right, he will listen, and if he is offered a bribe he will know how to reject it, and he will not get excited, I propose to continue along those lines, I will take dinner with lobbyists and sit down and talk with lobbyists, no matter who they are, and if that be treason, you may make the most of it. I have never found it hard or difficult to talk to lobbyists, and I have never been offered a bribe.

These two lobbies have brought the situation to a point where whichever has the most strength will prevail. Insofar as I am concerned, I am not interested in what the committee does that has this bill, but I think in fairness to the people who are interested in the passage of this bill they have good cause to be disappointed, because it is a shame they have not been able to present their case without some people and somebody surrounding it with an atmosphere it does not deserve.

So much for that.

Now, as far as congressional re-apportionment is concerned, let me say to you quite frankly the way the law is now, it always was and always will be a political problem. When one party is in complete control of the affairs of the state and re-apportionment comes up, that party will do what it thinks best for its political future, and there is no crime in that, it will either re-apportion or, according to law, they will have representatives at large. I have not heard a single word raised here about one of the things I think we are wrong about and according to the law we are malfeasant, because nobody on the floor of the Senate has said or suggested that they would not vote to adjourn sine die unless there was legislative apportionment, and yet we have failed twice to do that job. Nobody is crying about that. Why? Because there is no reaction to that.

The individual congressmen who feel that they can be elected from their district but cannot be elected from the whole state, are up in arms and certainly the individual senators know that if their districts are not changed they will go back home and the situation will be the same and they will run from the same district. No senator coming up for re-election talks about the fact that he wants to stay here all summer unless we have a bill covering legislative re-apportionment.

I say to you it is completely political. May I suggest a story which comes to me from my father, which is to the effect that you can always get two people to agree to how much a third should give to charity. You can always get Allegheny to agree that Philadelphia shall give up a congressman, and I am sure you can get Philadelphia to agree that Allegheny give up a congressman, and that repeats itself throughout the state. There is no crime in that. It is political. It is made political. The whole basis of it is political representation and our present leaders will simply have to say to themselves either we will have or we will not have re-apportionment, and I do not see any reason why there should be any excitement about that.

I do see every reason why there should be excitement and an effort made to pass this other bill, Senate Bill No. 80, the Unemployment Compensation Bill, and I would like to give you some figures about that in an effort to bring about an adjustment. Senate Bill No. 80, without going into all of the details, in its present form provides a decrease of from three to two weeks in the waiting period. It provides for an increase from seven and one-half to eight dollars as the minimum compensation.

The labor people say: "Our greatest difficulty is not covered in this bill; we can have a situation where a man works three days a week for five weeks straight and he gets no compensation; we want what is known as partial unemployment compensation." They also say "We want a maximum increase; other states have increased it"; and they have several other important questions on which I think they are entitled to a hearing. They say they want also the period of compensation extended from thirteen to sixteen weeks.

Now, in the first place, when you reach that problem, you ask yourself the question, whose fund is it, for whom was it established, and I think you will agree it was established for the purpose of aiding the unemployed. The second question you have to ask yourself is, what is the inroad to be made on this fund if these requests are granted.

Let me give you some figures on that. We all know what the fund is. The fund in the first year brought in $26,000,000—I will use just round figures—and that was due to the fact that the tax was then one per cent; by the end of the second year there was $69,000,000 in the fund. The third year alone produced $69,000,000, and the fourth year produced $78,000,000, and last year, 1940, produced $83,000,000.

This year, the first quarter has produced $22,000,000, and that means that we will receive $88,000,000 approximately this year. Payments from that fund have never, except for one year, exceeded the actual income, and that was in 1938, which was the first year, because there were no payments in 1936 and 1937. Then, if you add interest, the sum of a million and a half dollars, you will find a very slight difference between the income and the payments, which as I pointed out to you for 1938, were $71,000,000 and the receipts were $69,000,000, and $1,500,000 for interest. In 1939 the receipts were $73,000,000, and the expeditures $54,000,000. In 1940, the payments were $44,000,000, and the interest in 1940 is now up to $2,500,000.

Here is an amazing picture. Out of the $22,000,000 received in the first quarter of this year, there were seven and one half million dollars $7,844,000, to be exact, paid out in benefits. On that basis, if there would be $88,000,000 received, there will be $30,000,000 paid out. There is now $131,000,000 in the fund. At the end of this year, on the basis of the figures I have given you, there will be approximately $185,000,000 balance in the fund.

Now, we allow companies to reinsure, to be self-insurers, if their capital, their assets and surplus is one and one-half times the highest amount paid out. The highest amount paid out here is $71,000,000. If we had $100,000,000 in surplus, we could insure, according to the actuarial figures.

Now, the cost of the three things that these gentlemen are asking for is this, figuring an increase from $15 maximum to $18 maximum is on the basis of $800,000 for the first dollar and lower as you go on, because as the maximum is increased, the money paid out is less, but assuming it will be $800,000, that is $2,400,000, the increase necessary to cover partial compensation, and that is interesting, because according to all other states it will not exceed more than fifteen per cent.

I have prepared a list of my own from the percentage to the total payments for the partial payments, pay in other states, and one of the most interesting things about this is that in forty-five out of forty-eight states there are partial payments and Pennsylvania and New York are two of those remaining three states that do not have partial payments.

If you take fifteen per cent of the $44,000,000 that we paid out last year, it would cost us somewhere around $6,600,000 to take care of that request and those two requests, that is, $6,600,000 and $2,400,000, would cost approximately $9,000,000.

If you grant the third request, which is an increase in the period of compensation to sixteen weeks, it will cost $2,000,000 for each week, or $6,000,000, so that you would have a total expenditure, if you granted the requests of these men, who are the only ones to benefit from the fund, of $15,000,000 out of a fund that will have a surplus this year of over $35,000,000, and if you take that $15,000,000 off the total surplus, the fund will be left with $170,000,000.

I say to you in all sincerity, first of all, I do not criticize any member of the conference committee, I want to pay my respects to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, who has worked hard on this matter and has been very careful and has tried to do a good job for both sides, but what this thing required was to have some figures to let us know just what we are doing and just where we are going if we are going to do these things. Up until now, we did not have available many of these figures. The figures which I have given you are subject to fluctuation, but these are the nearest approach that you can get to the figures, but with this picture before us it seems to me we ought to be able to sit down and arrive at a conclusion that will satisfy everybody. I think that bill can be disposed of.

The civil service bill is the next bill. The only objection that I see, first of all, is that I am now of the opinion that civil service is not regarded by all as a good thing. I do not think we are doing a whole lot of good when we have civil service, as we have a division on the other side of the House—there is a definite group which says we want civil service and if—we want it, we want to get as good a civil service bill as possible and then there is another group on the other side of the house which says we do not want civil service, and you have those two groups to satisfy.

Their objection to this bill is, first, that the Governor has the right to dismiss anybody for any reason. They say that is not civil service, and as a matter of fact, I think the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Tallman, will agree with me that "the federal government and the Federal Security Commission also said that is not civil service, but after some time, when this matter was thoroughly discussed, they finally said, very well, they would agree to accept this bill, with the Governor having permission to dismiss."

Under the present law there is granted the right to every aggrieved person on the civil service lists to appeal. This bill takes it out. In the last bill, in the present law, it is provided that if a man against whom a charge is made is exonerated, the Commission must restore him to his position. This bill provides that he may.

In this bill there are eleven referees who were removed and placed on civil service. You say, why should they not be? Well, I am afraid when you get eleven referees selected from examinations held on the basis of the kind of examinations we have had here at the Hill, you will get a lot of scientists and social service workers and scholars who will sit there and treat every case as we see some bills treated here by some constitutional lawyers who will argue for days over whether the word "or" is conjunctive or subjunctive, and in the meantime the gentleman who is trying to get a decision will have to appeal to some other place.

I say that a practical man who is a referee, an honest man, a business man with experience can handle these contests as a referee from a common sense viewpoint. I have had such experience, and the members of the House feel the same way about the matter, and I am not so sure but what a lot of the Senate members feel the same way about it.

Those are the four points. I think there is enough common sense on the other side which will enable us to sit down and settle that bill.

The third and last bill of this group is the bill which is known as 1768. In that bill it is provided that any of the things that the present Department of Labor and Industry in the Unemployment Compensation Division did, which are contrary to the civil service law, as approved by the Social Security Board, must be paid back, and we commit ourselves morally to do that.

Now, our objection on the other side is that bill in effect frees everybody who had anything to do with the wrongful expenditure of those monies—and I use the word wrongful not in the sense of a commission of a crime—that bill frees them and prevents the state from at any time recovering that money if it should want to. There is a difference of opinion, in an administrative sense, as to whether that matter should remain as it is. I can not see any point in our standing up and saying we want to protect the state and the administration does not, but I think even that can be ironed out, and I might suggest along the lines of the Senator from Lackawanna, Senator Coleman—that you pay some heed to that omen that happened this morning and maybe you could have a Caucus and sit down and see if these things can not be ironed out. I do not see any necessity for any special session of this Legislature to take care of these matters, because they will still be before us, and if they are not adjusted at this stage it would be foolish to call another session of this Legislature.

I think the matter can be straightened out. In the last few days I have been working on both sides of the House and I am quite convinced there is no attitude of merely saying "no". Those men have their opinions on the matter and they are sincere, just as you think you are sincere.

I do feel, if you want a civil service bill, you must satisfy those people on Civil Service, and in real civil service there ought to be an appeal as far as an employee is concerned; that has been in the law for two or three years now, and if this administration changes that law if this administration persists in it, the responsibility will be theirs. In any event to me there are no insurmountable difficulties.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will proceed.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I request permission to make a brief statement with reference to my congressional district. When I voted for the Wade Bill I made a few brief remarks and I said that at some later date I would rise on the floor and protest if nothing were accomplished with reference to the Twenty-seventh Congressional District.

The gentleman from Philadelphia stated a while ago that any two men could easily decide how much a third man should give to charity, and that is why we are in this deadlock today, because Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties are deciding how much we should give to charity.

Mr. President, nothing has been done with one of the greatest and largest congressional districts in Pennsylvania. That is where I come from, the Twenty-Seventh Congressional District, comprising Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson and Armstrong Counties with a population of 428,490, more than twice as many as in one of the Pittsburgh districts of 205,000, and almost twice as many as in a district in Philadelphia County of 239,000.

Then they have the audacity to fight for their districts to retain their present congressmen. They have given no thought whatsoever to my district and I think every man in this chamber will agree that if any district should have some consideration it is the Twenty-Seventh Congressional District of Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, I do not intend to vote for any bill unless my district is given some consideration; whether it be a Republican district or a Democratic district I care not, but I say that no congressman can truthfully and sincerely represent 428,000 persons; compared with others which have 205,000; it appears like trying to cut the melon from the inside.

I say that two counties, Allegheny and Philadelphia, are entirely to blame. We members here from the rural districts sit here like puppets; we have no knowledge of what is going on because the leaders have made up their minds that they shall not yield, and as long as they maintain that position we will be here until Christmas and then into the next year, so I say let us go home, let us adjourn, let us elect them at large, or if you are honest about this reapportionment bill, let us start from one state line to the other and take them in order and make up thirty-three districts, and let the chips fall where they may, but no, they will set aside any thought, any consideration of my district, knowing full well it is out of bounds, and fight like kids over marbles, over Philadelphia and Allegheny. All I can say is that I am going to vote against any bill, Mr. President, unless my district is given some deep and sincere consideration. My colleague in the House, Mr. O'Connor, offered a bill combining Clearfield and Cambria Counties and it was given no consideration. Give us Indiana and Cambria, give us Blair and Cambria. We do not care what counties you give us. I do not care, I will say again, whether we have a Democratic District or a Republican District, but certainly you are unfair to fight here for weeks and weeks and weeks as to whether Allegheny and Philadelphia shall maintain their positions and the people back in my district are never mentioned.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, my remarks will be very brief. I welcome the opportunity to thank the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, for his prospective vote for the resolution introduced in this body by Senator Dent, Senator Coleman, Senator Barr and myself, which would call on the members of the General Assembly not to adjourn sine die until such time as we have congressional reapportionment.

I assure the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, that if he cares to filibuster on the floor of this Senate and read two volumes of Carl Sandberg's life of Abraham Lincoln, that the four of us, I know, will be very happy to help him if his voice should become weak or if he should become tired. I further assure the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, if those two volumes are not sufficient we will be glad to go into the eight volume set of Carlisle's History of England or perhaps the four volume set of the life of George Washington.

Mr. President, when this resolution was introduced we were very serious about it. We feel that congressional reapportionment should not be a matter of partisan politics and we feel that as members of this Senate we have an obligation to reapportion the congressional districts of Pennsylvania. The legislative halls of the House and Senate of this General Assembly are among the most beautiful legislative halls in the world. During the last six and one-half months as I sat in the rear of this room frequently my attention was directed to the beautiful murals which we find in the front of this Senate. On the left, Mr. President, is a scene taken from the history of Pennsylvania and of this great country, which has for its local Independence Hall in Philadelphia. When I looked at that picture during the many speeches that have been made on congressional reapportionment the thought again recurred to me constantly that those men, Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, and the other men who were the original fathers of our great country had problems much greater than this one on Congressional Reapportionment, and we know that our government is a government of compromise, compromise not only as to the form of government but as to the philosophy and the economic conception of those men who have created our great country.

I assure the gentleman from Cambria, Senator Haluska, that as far as I personally am concerned, if the Joint Committee on Congressional Reapportionment can agree on a method of reapportioning this state, I shall certainly vote for the acceptance of that report.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I ask permission to make a statement.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lehigh will proceed.

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I should like to make a very brief statement in connection with what the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, has said with relation to civil service matter.

In the first instance, I should like to say that this entire matter, not only in connection with civil service but all of these things that are happening has in a great measure to do with just the ordinary decencies of give and take, and I think what happened in connection with the civil service bills, Senate Bills Nos. 653 and 654, sheds some light upon this situation.

First of all I should like to say that I want to pay my respects and compliments to Senator Shapiro for endeavoring sincerely I think, to bring these matters to some satisfactory conclusion. However, on Saturday night and that was the factual Saturday night of last week—the House conferees and the Senate conferees on Senate Bills Nos. 653 and 654, met in the conference room from nine o'clock in the evening until five minutes of nine the next morning. When we left that room it was my understanding, and I am certain it was the understanding of all the other gentleman that were there, that conclusions had been reached and that a report was ready to be made.

There were, of course, serious disputes but it was felt that they had been ironed out, with the exception of one House member, Mr. Petrosky, who reserved the right not to sign the conference report, and there was some misunderstanding on my part about that, for which I take full responsibility.

The matter which Senator Shapiro brings up concerning the referees was a further thought on the part of some person, and it emanated from the House. It was not a matter which was a subject of discussion in the course of that conference. There was grave, long and serious debates with regard to the matter of the Governor's right of removal.

When we left that conference I certainly, and the other members of that committee I believe, were under the impression that the matter had been settled, not probably to the satisfaction of everyone who was there, but that an agreement had been reached and that it was concluded. The pressure on that matter comes, therefore, anew from the members of the House. I can not understand for the life of me why that matter should be a matter of serious dispute now by the gentlemen on the other side in the House, because I would remind them that in 1937, in a Democratic administration, the Liquor Control Law was amended by the Democrats, who then had control of both houses of this Assembly, to do the very thing that is proposed to be done in Senate Bill No. 653 in that direction.

I think everybody in this Assembly knows that right was exercised once by the Liquor Control Board, immediately after the passage of that amendment, by Governor Earle. I think everybody knows that right has been exercised by Governor James in the Liquor Control Board with regard to I believe three employes. Since the Department of Public Assistance Law has been amended giving the Governor that same right, and it happens to be this Republican Governor, I believe that I am correct in making the statement on the floor of this Senate that it has never been exercised.

The other point at issue, concerning the right of appeal, was a matter that was thoroughly discussed in that conference. When the conference was over I believe and I think the other members of this committee believed that that matter had been ironed out satisfactorily to the conferees and that it was agreed that the bill should remain in the condition that it passed the Senate.

It seems to me to be a little bit unfortunate at this time, when time and earnest effort is spent, that there should always be these afterthoughts which prevent the culmination and the bringing before this Legislature of matters that have been agreed upon ostensibly by the people authorized to speak on these matters, and I take it certainly the conferees should be the people who should have the authority to say, this is the result of our best thinking on the subject, and it seems to me that in this entire situation with regard to these particular bills, and I cite it simply as an example, that there ought to be some time now in this procedure when the idea will cease that the gentlemen in the House have the right to determine completely what shall be done.

So, Mr. President, I hope and trust very sincerely and very earnestly that the thing that Senator Shapiro is talking about, the thing he has said that there ought to be, some means of reaching these agreements, may come about. I know he is exerting his good offices to bring it about, but let the gentlemen in the House take heed, that there comes a time when they must in the interest of all that is right and all that is decent, recede from the position where they say, "you must take what I want or you get nothing."

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WADE. I ask permission to address the Senate, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cumberland will proceed.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, during the discussion of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, the matter of congressional reapportionment has again been brought before this body and I want to say for the members of the committee, including myself, that we have—I want to repeat, Mr. President—that we have had a great many meetings. As a matter of fact my reference to rooming with Senator Mundy and Senator Taylor is correct.

I might add too that this committee, after these repeated meetings, being easily led, decided because the Senate had adopted the famous song entitled "Old soldiers never die," we thought it would be well to adopt a theme or motto; one of the suggestions coming from Senator Taylor, "it is more blessed to give than to receive." Senator Mundy suggested that we adopt the motto that "conference committees make funny bed fellows." However, on the final vote the motto adopted was "to get the boys out of the trenches before Christmas."

I stated to this body the other evening, when we were discussing congressional reapportionment, that we had presented seven different propositions, all of which we felt to be of merit, and at that time there had been no counter proposition nor any approval of the propositions we had offered. Since that time the Democratic members of the Conference Committee have offered two proposals and I think in fairness we should discuss them. The first was the abolition of the nineteenth district, now comprising Dauphin, Lebanon and Cumberland Counties. Speaking for Senators Becker, Taylor and myself, we would be perfectly willing to accept that proposition if it were an honest solution to the problem, but in proving it is not an honest solution to the problem, I submit that the Shoe String District, it which the proposition suggested would add the County of Dauphin, now has a population of 255,000 and with the addition of 177,000 population for Dauphin, would make it a district composed of 392,863 people. That would be 92,863 over its quota.

If the County of Cumberland was added to the twenty-second district composed of Franklin, York and Adams Counties, it would then have a population of 361,635, or 61,635 more than the state ratio.

Again, if the County of Lebanon were added to the tenth district, now composed of Lancaster and Chester Counties, it would bring the population up to 420,726, or a total population in excess of the state quota of 120,726.

The second proposition was to add to what is now known as the Horseshoe District of the County of Lackawanna. This proposition was immediately accepted by all of the Republican members of the Conference Committee.

Now, let us go back and quote a few statistics regarding this, and I submit to you the record of the districts prior to the last congressional reapportionment in 1931. At that time the State of Pennsylvania lost two congressmen; its members were reduced from thirty-six to thirty-four and after a bitter fight in the House and Senate—and I was a member of the House at that time—those districts were taken from central Pennsylvania and it led to a condition, the exact condition that the Senator from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, refers to. Prior to that time his district was composed of Cambria County only. In order to make this new reapportionment and reduce the number of districts, his district was increased from one county to four counties with a total population now of 428,500, which I agree with him, was very inequitable.

The sixteenth district was increased from four to six counties; the fifteenth district was increased from five to eight counties; and the two districts abolished were the Twentieth and Seventeenth districts.

Again I say to you, in an effort to solve this problem, I give you some figures regarding Philadelphia where we believe, and we are honest in that belief, that the district now to be lost should be taken from Philadelphia. They now have a population of 1,935,086 people. On the average their districts are 23,534 light—they lack, I repeat, 23,534, on the average of having the state ratio. By reducing that to six districts they would have 322,516 people in each district, but that would only be 22,516 over the quota, leaving out the geographical advantage, the fact that a candidate, whether he is a Republican or a Democrat, can go from one corner of his district to the extreme farthest point in a matter of a few minutes instead of from the central Pennsylvania districts, where it takes an entire day.

If this proposition were accepted I think that we would reverse the process that was followed ten years ago and again bring about an equalization of the congressional districts.

In conclusion, Mr. President, I ask permission to submit some of the figures that have been prepared so that you will realize, and the members of this body will realize, that the members of the Committee on Congressional Reapportionment—not the Conference Committee but the Committee on Congressional Reapportionment—have dug into it, have worked out every possible solution and finally arrived at what we consider a sensible, sound and fair solution to the problem, which is to take one district from the City of Philadelphia.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny may proceed.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, we have been sitting around here for several days wondering what might be the final result on several bills, and I was glad to hear the Senator from Philadelphia Mr. Shapiro, say a word on behalf of the truck owners of this state. I regret I was not here a few weeks ago when insidious charges and other remarks were made about the truck owners of Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, do you know that to my mind the ugliest word in the English language is the word "suspicion." It has caused brothers to become bitter enemies; it has caused sisters to part forever; it has caused husbands and wives to follow different paths to their graves, and when this monster "suspicion" gets into a legislative body like this, to be leveled against the truck owners of this state, I feel that a word should be said in their behalf. I have not been proud of the press of this state the way they have attacked the truck owners of this state about the Box Car Bill. Did you ever stop to think, ladies and gentlemen, that if you see a box car truck on the road, that truck may be filled with goods for some poor souls' needs at the other end?

In this state, the truck industry is a new industry. In the past, the railroads and the steel corporations had a lot to say about legislation in Pennsylvania, and in a few years the truck industry has come to be a great industry. A few weeks ago the truck drivers in Pittsburgh pulled a strike, and after a week or so industry and business practically stopped in Pittsburgh, so that the trucking industry, three hundred thousand persons, came down here like any other body. They were not as well schooled, perhaps, as the railroads and the utilities, but they came here in their humble way and they had a right to organize. Most of these trucks are owned by some poor soul, some individual who had to borrow the money, who does not own his truck, his boy runs those trucks over the highways day and night, and half the people in Pennsylvania have their green goods and their fruit every morning, something that never happened before.

Right now we talk about national defense. Railroads are several hundred thousand cars short. We have always been proud of the fact, as we watched the movements of freight throughout the United States, that we ship our steel to California to build their bridges, or to Florida, and have the cars come back loaded with fresh fruit, and never stopped at the line. Today a railroad car can be loaded in Pittsburgh and pass to California without ever being stopped at a single state line, but lo and behold you, in this State of Pennsylvania, where the heavy loads originate, coal, iron and steel, with every state around us having their limitations up to 45,000, 50,000 or 65,000 pounds, here in this heavy industrial state, where heavy loads originate, in twenty-three years we have not done a single thing for these three hundred thousand truck owners that employ and pay taxes. Do you know that last year the trucking industry, paid $27,000,000 in license fees and gasoline taxes alone in this state? Since when is it a crime for three hundred thousand people that pay $27,000,000 of taxes, more than the State Highway Department put into their system in this state, since when has it became a crime for them to come to Harrisburg and ask for something without being suspicioned and accused and practically driven out of the Capitol?

I say to you, Mr. President, it has been unfair; we have not done the right thing for those people, we have not listened to them, and I am very glad of what the House did; in spite of the press, in spite of the propaganda that was cut loose, the House stood up and represented the people back home. Why, do you know there is not an automobile dealer in Pennsylvania, there is not an automobile salesman, there is not a truck owner, there is not a truck driver but what is offended and hurt. Mr. President, that is a group that I would not want to have against me if I were running for reelection.

I say to you, Mr. President, if there was one industry in the United States that kept its chin up during the depression, it was the automobile industry. Most of them lost money, but their store fronts looked as though they were millionaires; most of them were losing money, but they sold their cars and the wheels of their factories kept turning. In other words, they would not be downed even during the depression, and when that industry comes to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and receives the treatment that they did receive—I would not say by this Senate, but I say to you Mr. President the truck bill deserves more consideration than has been given to it on this floor.

The way to kill a thing is perhaps to start propaganda and raise and bring into this Senate that ugly monster "suspicion." I regret it was brought in here against an industry that can not be stopped; you cannot stifle it, you can not turn back progress. I say to you the trucking industry is a modern industry, it has grown fast, it will grow faster, and you can not put barriers around your state. To me it is a regrettable thing that Pennsylvania should not allow these trucks that come from other states to roll over our highways and that our heavy loads should not be allowed to go out of our state.

This barrier, Mr. President, in the last ten years in the United States is one of the most dangerous things that we have seen, and I think if the states of this nation continue to put barriers around their state lines and stop the free movement of goods, it will be the worst thing that ever happened to the United States, and so in defense of these truck owners, if they go back home licked, if they do feel that they were not treated right here, if they do feel that unjust suspicion and criticism were thrown upon them, I am glad that I at least have brought this thing into the open, and have defended the truck drivers, the truck owners and the automobile industry of the State of Pennsylvania.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Dauphin will proceed.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President. In answer to the suggestion of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, that we consider calling a meeting of the Committee of Conference on Congressional Reapportionment, to take one congressman from Allegheny, I want to say to the Senate that was the third proposition we made to the Conferees and it was rejected, so I see no reason for calling a committee meeting for that specific purpose.

Mr. President, I appreciate that the conferees are appointed to effect a compromise, but I do not think they should be the only fellows to compromise. We are the majority party in Pennsylvania, we have the administration, we have the Senate, and our friends on the other side have the House. We have made proposition after proposition; I think we have held more meetings than all the rest of the conference committees put together, with no result.

Now, at the last minute, after we said we had made six different propositions, our friends on the other side come in with two propositions, one was to go from the State of Maryland, and go three-quarters of the way up the state and then jump across and add Dauphin County to it. They laughed when they presented it, so we considered it a joke, just to have a little fun with the freshmen Senators. Then a Democratic Senator suggested that we add Lackawanna to the northeast corner, which is low in population but large in area. Within thirty seconds the Republican members agreed to it, and then we had to take a little recess until somebody was talked to and they came back and said, "out the window."

I do not see any rhyme or reason to it, when we are advised by the three conferees on the other side that there is not anything further to offer, that we take the minority party's suggestion in Pennsylvania and lose a Republican congressman, or everything is out the window.

Mr. President, we are ready to sign a report that we can not agree. I can not for the life of me see how we can do otherwise, unless the leaders on the other side will tell somebody they must get together. I could say a great deal about this but I am not going to get personal. I made some notes here that are a little personal, but I am just going to sit down.

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill has passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 1215, entitled:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

SATURDAY, July 12, 1941

The House met at 11 a. m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, be Thou patient with us and lovingly overlook and forgive the faults which we so presumptuously carry into Thy presence.

When, O God, our highest hopes in Thee are blighted, help us to see that they were not too high, but not high enough. Open our eyes to see ourselves just as we are and as we would be if Thou hadst not befriended us. Give us grace to humble ourselves, to deny our wilful self, and to follow Thy loving counsel to the end that we shall know Thee better and desire to serve Thee more.

Hear our prayer. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. McSURDY, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return it to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 937, (Senate Bill No. 298), as follows:

An Act Making an appropriation out of the Motor License Fund to the Department of Highways for allocation to and expenditure in cities boroughs towns and townships of the first class of the Commonwealth for maintenance construction reconstruction resurfacing or improvement of municipal roads highways and bridges during the calendar years one thousand nine hundred forty-two and one thousand nine hundred forty-three permitting the use of the funds for maintenance and repair of municipal roads highways and bridges under certain conditions and providing for the method of payment to such political subdivisions

Section 1 The sum of eight million dollars ($8,000,000) is hereby appropriated to the Department of Highways for the two calendar years beginning January first one thousand nine hundred forty-two out of the Motor License Fund for allocation to and expenditure in the cities boroughs towns and townships of the first class (hereinafter called municipalities) of the Commonwealth in the amounts upon the terms in the manner and for the purposes hereinafter set forth in this act

Section 2 Sixty-five per centum of the moneys hereby appropriated shall be allocated and apportioned among the municipalities of this Commonwealth in the ratio which the mileage of municipal roads and highways in each municipality bears the total mileage of municipal roads and highways in all of the municipalities in the Commonwealth as of January first one thousand nine hundred forty-two

Thirty-five per centum of the moneys hereby appropriated shall be allocated and apportioned among the municipalities of the Commonwealth in the ratio which the population of a municipality bears to the total population of the Commonwealth as shown by the 1940 decennial census of the United States

The funds so apportioned shall be expended by the respective municipalities under the supervision and subject to the approval of the Department of Highways and in compliance with such rules and regulations as the Department of highways may prescribe in carrying out the provision of this act

The funds allocated by this act shall be used for the maintenance construction reconstruction resurfacing and improvement of municipal roads and highways and the maintenance construction and reconstruction of municipal bridges in municipalities excepting that in municipalities which do not have sufficient funds from other sources for the maintenance and repair of all the roads highways and bridges under their jurisdiction the allocations to such municipalities shall be used in whole or in part for such maintenance and repair purposes

Section 3 Before any of the funds allocated to municipalities by this act shall be expended for construction reconstruction resurfacing or improvement the corporate authorities of the respective municipalities shall by resolution specify the location and type of construction of the road or highway proposed to be constructed reconstruced resurfaced or improved or the bridge to be constructed or reconstructed and shall submit the same to the Department of Highways together with estimates plans if any and specifications for the approval of said department

Section 4 Nothing in this act shall be construed to relieve any municipality from any obligation they may have incurred under any contract or agreement entered into prior to January first one thousand nine hundred forty-two for the construction or repair of any road highway or bridge now under its jurisdiction

Section 5 The corporate authorities of each municipality not having a department or bureau of highways or streets shall appoint a foreman who may be an officer or employe of the municipality to supervise the work to be done under the provisions of this act and in the event more than one foreman is required the Department of Highways may authorize the corporate authorities of the municipality to appoint one or more additional foremen The Secretary of Highways shall have the right to remove any foreman so appointed for incompetency or for neglect or refusal to comply with the rules and regulations of the Department of Highways prescribed for the work under this act The corporate authorities of each municipality shall also employ any laborers required for said work and fix their wages

Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent work under the act being done by contract let by the corporate authorities of the municipality and approved by the Department of Highways

Section 6 No payment shall be made from moneys allocated under this act to the municipalities except on warrants drawn by the Auditor General upon the State Treasurer as provided by the act of Assembly to the treasurer of the municipality on vouchers approved by the Secretary of Highways and such payment if approved by the Secretary of Highways shall be made in four equal installments payable the first day of March the first day of June the first day of September and the first day of December of each year

There shall be submitted to the Department of Highways by the proper authorities of each municipality a report on the last days of February May August and November of each year showing the cost of the work done under the provisions of this act in such detail as may be required by the Department of Highways

In case any records or reports required by law are not made in the manner or at the time required no further funds shall be approved for payment by the Secretary of Highways to such municipality until such reports have been made and approved

Nothing in this act shall be construed to permit the funds appropriated by the act to be paid for other than labor rental of equipment payrolls material purchases including repair parts for equipment small tools road drags and snow fence on road highway and bridge work performed by the municipalities under the provisions of this act

Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the use of any of the funds allocated under this act for Federal projects sponsored by municipalities and approved by the Department of Highways or for county-aid work relating to the improvement of roads highways and bridges

Section 7 The term "municipal roads and highways" as used in this act shall be construed to mean all roads and highways for the maintenance of which municipalities are by law responsible and shall not include any roads and highways taken over by the Commonwealth as part of the state highway system

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 1860, (Senate Bill No. 575), Printer's No. 608, was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1940, (Senate Bill No. 913), as follows:

An Act authorizing and directing the Department of Revenue to prepare airport approach plans for publicly owned airports empowering and directing such department and also counties municipalities and other political subdivisions to promulgate administer and enforce airport zoning regulations limiting the height of structures excepting those structures that are under the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission and objects of natural growth and otherwise regulating the use of property in the vicinity of such airports providing for the granting of zoning permits and variances and for appeals from zoning regulations authorizing the acquisition by purchase grant or condemnation of air rights and other interests in land and providing penalties and remedies for violations of this act or of any ordinance or regulation made under the authority conferred thereby

Section 1 Definitions as used in the act unless otherwise requires

(1) "Airport" means any locality either of water or land which is adapted for the landing and taking off of aircraft and which provides facilities for shelter supply and repair of aircraft or a place used regularly for receiving or discharging passengers or cargo by air

(2) "Airport hazard" means any structure or tree which obstructs the aerial approaches of a publicly owned airport or is otherwise hazardous to its use for landing or taking-off except those structures that are under the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission

(3) An airport is "publicly owned" if the portion thereof used for the landing and taking-off of aircraft is owned by a governmental body political subdivision public agency or other public corporoation

(4) "Department" means Department of Revenue

(5) "Person" means any individual firm copartnership corporation company association joint-stock association or body politic and includes any trustee receiver assignee or other similar representative thereof

(6) "Structure" means any object constructed or installed by man including but without limitation buildings towers and smokestacks except those structures that are under the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission

(7) "Tree" means any object of natural growth

(8) Airport approach shall for the purpose of this act mean property located adjacent to or in the vicinity of any publicly owned airport but shall not be construed to include any portion of the said publicly owned airport

(9) Airport zoning regulations mean regulations adopted for the zoning of property adjacent to or in the vicinity of any publicly owned airport

Section 2 Airport Hazards Not in Public Interest It is hereby found and declared that an airport hazard endangers the lives and property of users of the airport and of occupants of land in its vicinity and also if of the obstruction type in effect reduces the size of the area available for the landing taking-off and maneuvering of aircraft thus tending to destroy or impair the utility of the airport and the public investment therein and is therefore not in the interest of the public health public safety or general welfare

Section 3 Preparation of Airport Approach Plans The department is hereby empowered and directed to formulate and adopt and from time to time as may be necessary revise an airport approach plan for each publicly owned airport in the State Each such plan shall indicate the circumstances in which structures and trees are or would be airport hazards the area within which measures for the protection of the airport's aerial approaches should be taken and what the height limits and other objectives of such measures should be In adopting or revising any such plan the department shall consider among other things the character of the flying operations expected to be conducted at the airport the nature of the terrain the height of existing structures and trees above the level of the airport and the possibility of lowering or removing existing obstructions and the department may obtain and consider the views of the agency of the Federal Government charged with the fostering of civil aeronautics as to the aerial approaches necessary to safe flying operations at the airport

Section 4 Adoption of Airport Zoning Regulations (1) The department for the purpose of protecting airport approaches shall adopt administer and enforce airport zoning regulations applicable to such area which regulations shall divide the area into zones and within such zones specify the land uses permitted regulate and restrict the height to which structures and trees may be erected or allowed to grow and impose such other restrictions and requirements as may be necessary to effectuate the department's approach plan for the airport

(2) In the event that a political subdivision has adopted or hereafter adopts a general zoning ordinance regulating among other things the height of buildings any airport zoning regulations adopted for the same area or portion thereof under this act may be incorporated in and made a part of such general zoning regulations and be administered and enforced in connection therewith but such general zoning regulations shall not limit the effectiveness or scope of the regulations adopted under this act

(3) Any zoning or other regulations applicable to any area within which according to an airport approach plan adopted by the department measures should be taken for the protection of airport approaches including not only any airport zoning regulations adopted under this act but any zoning or other regulations dealing with the same or similar matters that have been or may be adopted under authority other than that conferred by this act shall be consistent with and conform to the department's approach plan for such area and shall be amended from time to time as may be necessary to conform to any revision of the plan that may be made by the department

(4) All airport zoning regulations adopted under this act shall be reasonable and none shall require the removal lowering or other change or alteration of any structure or tree not conforming to the regulations when adopted or amended or otherwise interfere with the continuance of any non-conforming use except as provided in section five (1)

Section 5 Permits and Variances (1) Permits To facilitate the enforcement of zoning regulations adopted pursuant to this act a system shall be established for granting permits to establish or construct new structures and other uses and to replace existing structures and other uses or make substantial changes therein or substantial repairs thereof In any event before any nonconforming structure or tree may be replaced substantially altered or repaired rebuilt allowed to grow higher or replanted a permit must be secured from the department authorizing such replacement change or repair No such permit shall be granted that would allow the structure or tree in question to be made higher or become a greater hazard to air navigation than it was when the applicable regulation was adopted and whenever the department determines that a non-conforming structure or tree has been abandoned or more than eighty per centum torn down destroyed deteriorated or decayed (a) no permit shall be granted that would allow said structure or tree to exceed the applicable height limit or otherwise deviate from the zoning regulations and (b) whether application is made for a permit under this paragraph or not the said department may by appropriate action compel the owner of the non-conforming structure or tree at his own expense to lower remove reconstruct or equip such object as may be necessary to conform to the regulations or if the owner of the non-conforming structure or tree shall neglect or refuse to comply with such order for ten days after notice thereof the said department may proceed to have the object so lowered removed reconstructed or equipped and assess the cost and the expense thereof upon the object or the land whereon it is or was located Unless such an assessment is paid within ninety days from the service of notice thereof on the agent or owner of such object or land the sum shall bear interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum until paid and shall be collected in the same manner as are general taxes Except as indicated all applications for permits for replacement change or repair of non-conforming uses shall be granted

(2) Variances Any person desiring to erect any structure or increase the height of any structure or permit the growth of any tree or otherwise use his property in violation of airport zoning regulations adopted under this act may apply to the department for a variance from the zoning regulations in question Such variances shall be allowed where a literal application or enforcement of the regulations would result in practical difficulty or unnecessary hardship and the relief granted would not be contrary to the public interest but would do substantial justice and be in accordance with the spirit of the regulations

(3) Obstruction Marking and Lighting In granting any permit or variance under this section the department may if it deems such action advisable to effectuate the purposes of this act and reasonable in the circumstances so condition such permit or variance as to require the owner of the structure or tree in question to permit the political subdivision at his own expense to install operate and maintain suitable obstruction markers and obstruction lights thereon

Section 6 Procedure (1) Adoption of Zoning Regulations No airport zoning regulations shall be adopted amended or changed under this act except by action of the department after a public hearing in relation thereto at which parties in interest and citizens shall have an opportunity to be heard The public hearing shall be conducted by the county commissioners of the county in which the said zoning regulations will have effect The said county commissioners shall after such public hearing transmit notes of testimony plus its recommendations to the department At least fifteen days' notice of the hearing shall be published in a legal periodical or a periodical of general circulation in the counties

(2) Administration of Zoning Regulations Administrative Agency The department after adopting zoning regulations for airports shall delegate the duty of administering and enforcing such regulations to the county commissioners of the county in which the airport is located The county commissioners however shall not hear any appeals from their own orders but such appeals shall be heard by the department

(3) Administration of Airport Zoning Regulations The department may not delegate the following matters to the county commissioners but must itself take charge of such matters

(a) To hear and decide appeals from any order requirement decision or determination made by the administrative agency in the enforcement of this act or of any ordinance adopted pursuant thereto

(b) To hear and decide special exceptions to the terms of this statute upon which such department may be required to pass under this statute

Where the department has delegated initial authority to the county commissioners appeals may be taken by any person aggrieved or by any officer department board or bureau of the political subdivision affected by any decision of the county commissioners An appeal must be taken within a reasonable time as provided for by the rules and regulations promulgated by the department Upon taking an appeal the appeal must be filed with the county commissioners and a notice of the appeal specifying the grounds thereof must be filed with the department The county commissioners shall forthwith transmit to the department all papers constituting the record upon which the action appealed from was taken

An appeal shall stay all proceedings in furtherance of the action appealed from unless the county commissioners from which the appeal is taken certifies to the department after the notice of appeal has been filed with it that by reason of the facts stated in the certificate a stay would in its opinion cause imminent peril to life or property In such case proceedings shall not be stayed otherwise than by a restraining order which may be granted by the department or by a court of record on application on notice to the agency from which the appeal is taken and on due cause shown

The department shall fix a reasonable time for the hearing of the appeal give public notice and due notice to the parties in interest and decide the same within a reasonable time Upon the hearing any party may appear in person or by agent or by attorney

The department may in conformity with the provisions of this act reverse or affirm wholly or partly or modify the order requirement decision or determination appealed from and may make such order requirement decision or determination as ought to be made and to that end shall have all the powers of the administrative agency from which the appeal is taken

Section 7 Judicial Review (1) Any person aggrieved by any decision of the department or any taxpayer or any officer department board or bureau of the political subdivision may present to the common pleas court of the county in which the airport is located a verified petition setting forth that the decision is illegal in whole or in part and specifying the grounds of the illegality Such petition shall be presented to the court within thirty days after the decision is filed in the department

RETURNING HOUSE BILL No. 267 TO THE GOVERNOR

Mr. ACHTERMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 267, Printer's No. 713, entitled "An act making an appropriation to aid certain school districts," which was recalled from the Governor on July 1st for amendment.

be returned to the Governor without amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. GATES from the Committee on Ways and Means re-reported as committed House Bill No. 1506, (Senate Bill No. 379), entitled:

An Act to further amend section one of the act, approved the seventeenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (P. L. 507), entitled "An act to provide revenue for State and county purposes, and, in cities coextensive with counties, for city and county purposes; imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property; providing for the assessment and collection of the same; providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith; and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes," by excluding proceeds of life insurance policies from the provisions thereof.

BILL ON THIRD READING

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of House Bill No. 1506, (Senate Bill No. 379), Printer's No. 194. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and consent is granted.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1506, (Senate Bill No. 379), entitled:

An Act to further amend section one of the act, approved the seventeenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (P. L. 507), entitled "An act to provide revenue for state and county purposes, and, in cities coextensive with counties, for city and county purposes; imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property; providing for the assessment and collection of the same, providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith; and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes," by excluding proceeds of life insurance policies from the provisions thereof.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his question of information.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know what bill we are voting on.

The SPEAKER. Senate Bill No. 379.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, is it on the calendar?

The SPEAKER. It is not. The Chair requested unanimous consent of the House for the immediate consideration of the bill.

Mr. LOVETT. Is this the bill that deals with the four mills personal property tax in counties?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, we are now back to the point where I told you we would get the other day when we voted on House Bill 1639. The gentleman on the other side, the floor leader was so much worried about not paying any attention to the interests of the working people, or that those that were trying to represent the working people were being misled. Now, we have a bill this morning which slips right out onto the calendar, another one of those personal privileges. We do not see anybody on the other side getting up telling us we don't know what we are talking about now. This particular bill, the one that they shout about taking care of the widows, and orphans. The widows and orphans are not receiving protection in this bill.

Mr. Speaker, will the Chair please state the number of this bill for the information of the House?

BILL PASSED OVER

The SPEAKER. It is Senate Bill 379, Printers' No. 194. If there is no objection this bill will be passed over. The Chair hears none and the bill will be passed over for the present.

For the information of the Members the bill will be taken up later in the day. It is understood that the question will then recur, shall the bill pass finally? Unanimous consent having been granted by the Members to consider the bill.

Mr. HARKINS. Might I request, Mr. Speaker, that at the time the bill is taken up the title be read because there are a large number of Members who are not in their seats, and many of them are opposed to the bill.

The SPEAKER. That is the reason the Chair is passing it over at this time.

HOUSE BILL No. 280 TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 280, together with the communication from the Governor which was laid on the table July 7, 1941, be taken from the table.

The motion was agreed to.

The communication was read by the Clerk as follows:

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL No. 280

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of information.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, a bill that is reported out of committee on one legislative day, is that bill permitted to be placed on the calendar by unanimous consent on the same day?

The SPEAKER. To what bill is the gentleman referring?

Mr. LEVY. I am talking about Senate Bill No. 379.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senate Bill No. 379 was re-reported from the Committee on Ways and Means. It has been read twice before and comes before the House for third reading and final passage. The House gave unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the bill.

thereby dispensing with the printing of the title of the bill on the calendar.

The Chair would further inform the gentleman that the bill may be considered today on third reading and final passage under the provisions of the constitution. Has the Chair answered clearly the inquiry of the gentleman?

Mr. LEVY. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to inquire of the Chair whether or not the ruling of the Chair in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, violates Section 2 of Article III of the Constitution which reads:

> "No bill shall be considered unless referred to a committee, returned therefrom"—

The SPEAKER. Article II, Section 3 of the Constitution reads:

> "Senators shall be elected for a term of four years and Representatives for a term of two years."

Mr. HARKINS. Perhaps, Mr. Speaker, we have our wires crossed. I am reading from the Pennsylvania Manual on page 34, Section 2 of Article III, under the general title of "Legislation".

The SPEAKER. That is different, Section 2 of Article III.

Mr. HARKINS. That is what I did say, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. You said Article II of Section 3.

Mr. HARKINS. I beg the Speaker's pardon. Mr. Speaker I have consulted the stenographer and he said that I did say Section 2 of Article III.

The SPEAKER. Section 2 of Article III is:

> "No bill shall be considered unless referred to a committee, returned therefrom and printed for the use of the members".

For the information of the gentleman from Allegheny, Senate Bill 379 was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, returned therefrom and was printed for the use of the members.

Article III, Section 4 reads:

> "Every bill shall be read at length on three different days in each House; all amendments made thereto shall be printed for the use of the members before the final vote is taken on the bill, and no bill shall become a law, unless on its final passage the vote be taken by yeas and nays, the names of the persons voting for and against the same be entered on the journal and a majority of the members elected to each House be recorded thereon as voting in its favor".

This bill was printed and the members have before them all the information necessary to vote on the bill when they are ready to consider it.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I have not been furnished with a printed copy of the bill and inasmuch as a meeting has just been held a few minutes ago I did not know whether the bill was printed, and I wanted to inquire whether the printing had to be done subsequent to a committee meeting or whether or not a bill which was not amended in a committee could be considered if it was in print from a prior date.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Allegheny Mr. Harkins, Senate Bill 379 has been in the files of the members for months.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, the point I wanted the Speaker to rule on was whether or not the prior printing would be sufficient, if the printing was made prior to date it was reported from committee. I understand the Chair to rule that that is sufficient. Is my understanding correct?

The SPEAKER. The only time it is necessary to reprint a bill under the Constitution is when it is amended.

Mr. HARKINS. I so understand the Chair to rule at the present time. Is my understanding correct?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's understanding is correct.

SENATE BILL No. 236 MADE SPECIAL ORDER

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1481, (Senate Bill No. 236), Printer's No. 496, entitled·

An Act to amend section six hundred fifty-four of article six of the act, approved the seventeenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

RESOLUTION

YOUTH'S DAY

Mr. YESTER offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Be it resolved (if the Senate concur) That the Governor shall, at an appropriate time, issue his proclamation designating and calling upon the schools, the Boy Scouts of America, other organizations devoted to promoting the interests and welfare of youth and the citizens of the Commonwealth in general to observe the birthday of Daniel Carter Beard, the great benefactor of boyhood, which is the twenty-first day of June.

This day shall be known as "Youth's Day", and shall be observed on the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and forty-two, the twenty-first falling on a Sunday.

In pursuance of said proclamation of the Governor, appropriate exercises observing the anniversary of Daniel Beard's birth, reaffirming the principles so long advocated by him and furthering the interests and welfare of youth in general shall be held.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 108

Mr. CHUDOFF. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Resolution No. 108, Printer's No. 1193.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 9, 1941.

Whereas There have been serious disturbances in certain sections of the City of Philadelphia because of the failure on the part of the city authorities to furnish proper recreational facilities and competent police protection for the young men and women residing in such districts and

Whereas It has been repeatedly recalled to the attention of the City Council that such disturbances would occur unless the situation were immediatel remedied and

Whereas In spite of these recurring disorders principally in the vicinity of the 15th 28th 29th 32nd and 47th wards of the City of Philadelphia City Council has remained apathetic and indifferent to the needs of these communities be it therefore

Resolved That the House of Representatives requests the City Council and the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia to take immediate steps to provide proper and adequate recreational facilities and equipment in these respective wards and provide for their construction and installation in the proposed city budget and be it further

Resolved That a copy of this resolution be mailed to the Chief Clerk of City Council and to the Mayor of Philadelphia and the Director of Public Safety of the City of Philadelphia as a symbol of the House of Representatives' desire that this situation be immediately corrected

On the question,

Will the House adopt the amendment?

It was adopted.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. Under the provisions of Rule 31 of this House

> "All Committee Records shall be filed with the Chief Clerk, Upon the final adjournment of the House to be kept for a period of two years."

This includes all bills and resolutions in the committees, the loose leaf record books, the minute books and any other official papers. The committee chairman will carry out the requirements of this rule.

SENATE BILL No. 236 SPECIAL ORDER

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House the special order of business fixed for 2 p. m. today, House Bill No. 1481, (Senate Bill No. 236), Printer's No. 496, on page 17 of today's calendar, bill on third reading and final passage.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1481, (Senate Bill No. 236), as follows:

An Act to amend section six hundred fifty-four of article six of the act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682) entitled "An act relating to insurance amending revising and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies and the regulation supervision and protection of home and foreign insurance companies Lloyds associations reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges and fire insurance rating bureaus and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies associations and exchanges including insurance carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund providing penalties and repealing existing laws" providing for appeals from any classification rule rate or schedule of the Insurance Commissioner affecting insurance of employes and employers under the Workmen's Compensation Act of one thousand nine hundred and fifteen and the supplements and amendments thereto and exempting the State Workmen's Insurance Fund from the control of the Rating Bureau and the Insurance Commissioner

Section 1 Section six hundred fifty-four of article six of the act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682) entitled "An act relating to insurance amending revising and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies and the regulation supervision and protection of home and foreign insurance companies Lloyds associations reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges and fire insurance rating bureaus and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies associations and exchanges including insurance carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund providing penalties and repealing existing laws" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 654 Classification of Risks Underwriting Rules Premium Rates and Schedule and Merit Rating Plans The classification of risks underwriting rules premium rates and schedule or merit rating plans for insurance of employers and employes under "The Workmen's Compensation Act of nineteen hundred and fifteen" and acts amendatory thereof shall be [established] proposed annually by one or more rating bureaus said rating bureau or bureaus to be situate within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania subject to supervision and to examination by the Insurance Commissioner and approved by the Insurance Commissioner as adequately equipped to compile rates on an equitable and impartial basis Such schedule or merit rating plans shall be applied [proposed] only by the approved rating bureau or bureaus and in the preparation of schedules no employer shall be discriminated against or penalized because of physical impairment of any employe or because of the number of dependents of any employe

The classification of risks underwriting rules premium rates and schedule of merit or rating plans for insurance of employers and employes under "The Workmen's Compensation Act of nineteen hundred and fifteen" and acts amendatory thereof shall be filed with and shall be subject to review by the Insurance Commissioner and the Insurance Commissioner shall by order modify amend or approve the same Any person corporate or otherwise aggrieved by such order classification rule rate or schedule issued by the Insurance Commissioner may obtain a review thereof in the Common Pleas Court of Dauphin County of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by filing in the said court a written petition praying that the order classification rule rate or schedule issued by the Insurance Commissioner be modified amended or set aside in whole or in part The judgment and decree of said court modifying or enforcing or setting aside in whole or in part any such action of the Insurance Commissioner shall be final subject to review by the Superior and Supreme Courts of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania upon certiorari or certificate as in such cases made or provided The commencement of proceedings under this section shall not unless specifically ordered by the court operate as a stay of the Insurance Commissioner's order

No risk classification underwriting rule premium rate or schedule or merit rating plan shall take effect without the consent of the Insurance Commissioner and he may withdraw his approval whenever in his judgment the same is inadequate or discriminates unfairly between risks of essentially the same hazard

Neither the State Workmen's Insurance Fund nor any No insurance corporation mutual association or company shall issue renew or carry any policy or contract of insurance against liability under "The Workmen's Compensation Act of one thousand nine hundred and fifteen" and acts amendatory thereof except in accordance with the classifications underwriting rules premium rates and schedules or merit rating proposed by the rating bureau aforesaid for the risk insured and as modified amended or approved by the Insurance Commissioner for such insurer

The State Workmen's Insurance Fund shall adopt such classification of risk underwriting rules premium ratings and schedule of merit rating plans for insurance of employers and employes under the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 and acts amendatory thereof which shall be consonant and in accordance with the experience of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund over the period of years during which such fund has been in existence

A complete copy of every policy or a true copy of the substantive provisions of any policy or contract of insurance against liability under "The Workmen's Compensation Act of one thousand nine hundred and fifteen" or acts amendatory thereof and a true copy of every endorsement upon any such policy and of every agreement pertaining thereto shall be filed with the rating bureau aforesaid within a reasonable time after the effective date of any such policy endorsement contract or agreement

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, this bill as originally passed by the Senate contained a provision which would be reasonably good legislation. It permitted an appeal to the courts from rates which are fixed by the Workmen's Compensation Rate Fixing Board. However, after the bill got into the House, the bill was amended and as a result of those amendments it was put into such shape that in the first place it is meaningless, in the second place it contains provisions which are definitely inconsistent, and in the third place it sets up a method of rate making which would be entirely unsound and would be ruinous to the Workmen's Compensation Fund which, it proposes, I suppose, to help, as well as to the Workmen's Compensation Insurance Law generally.

In order that the situation may be understood, at the present time there is a board which gets experience from all the different insurance companies, including the State Fund, and as a result of that experience they determine and make the rates. The State Workmen's Insurance Board is bound by those rates and writes insurance under those rates. The Board alone does not have control because the Board's actions must be and are reviewed by the State Insurance Commissioner. He passes upon the rates when they are made. They are the experience of the entire industry in the entire state and as a result of that they are much more equitably made than could be made by any insurance company.

As a result of these amendments being placed in this bill let me call your attention to this. It says, "The State Workmen's Insurance Fund shall adopt". Well, the Insurance Fund is a fund of money. What they probably mean by that, I would assume, would be the State Workmen's Insurance Board, but that is not what they say. They say the State Workmen's Insurance Fund. In other words, if this bill were to be enacted into law, the law would call upon a sum of money or a fund to make a rate. That certainly is a ridiculous provision in the bill and impossible of being carried out.

In the second place, if it means the Board, as I assume it does, the bill then says that the Insurance Commissioner shall have nothing to do with the making of the rates. Then it says the Board shall make the rates, on which the Insurance Commissioner is bound to be the most important financial factor, because he is one of the three members of the Board and the member who knows most about the subject. So, in one breath, you are saying in this amendment, take the Insurance Commissioner out of the making of the rates,—you say definitely he shall have nothing to do with the making of the rates, and in the very next breath you say he along with the other two members of the Board, the other two members being those who know little about the subject, are to make the rates. It has been argued or soon will be argued, because it was stated on the floor of this House by the gentleman on the other side during the debate on House Bill 1002, that this would result in cheaper insurance. That also is a ridiculous assumption because you can not get cheaper insurance by merely changing the rate when there is no profit being made by the fund at the present time. There cannot be any profit made under the law and therefore that provision of the bill is bad and definitely unsatisfactory.

Another thing, you have here the establishment of a rate based upon the experience of the fund loan. The fund may not have very wide experience in certain definite occupations, and yet you say in this amendment that this fund shall be bound by their own experience regardless of how limited they may be. It is certainly evident by that that being bound by their own experiences, regardless of what other factors of importance may be taken into consideration, but being bound by their own experience, no matter how limited that experience may be, they can not properly make the rates. They can not, with safety to themselves, make rates.

What really ought to be done to this bill, Mr. Speaker, is that these amendments which were inserted in the House be stricken out. If they were to be stricken out, the bill would be good legislation and there would be nothing wrong with it, but if this bill were passed with the amendments that have been inserted in the House, the bill would be entirely in operative, could not be effective and could not work. If to any degree it could work, the only thing it would do would be to ruin the fund.

So. Mr. Speaker, I appeal to the gentlemen on the other side who are interested in this legislation, that they agree that the amendments which are inserted in the House be stricken out of the bill and that the bill be permitted to pass in its original form because in that way a decent piece of legislation could be made out of the bill.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, eliminating the amendments that the gentleman from Dauphin is objecting to, what would be the significance of the bill; what would it do without the amendments?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Without the amendments, Mr. Speaker, the bill permits an appeal from the rate making board and the Insurance Commissioner to the court.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, what does the bill do with the amendments?

Mr. WOODSIDE. With the amendments inserted by the House, Mr. Speaker,

Mr. HERMAN. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides that the State Fund shall make its rates based on its own experience, independent of the rate making board.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, does that prevent the State Fund, if it deems necessary, from employing experts to determine those rates?

Mr. WOODSIDE. What does the gentleman from Philadelphia mean, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERMAN. I mean would it prevent the State Fund from procuring experts' knowledge in fixing their own rates?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Let me read the amendment. It is as follows:

> "The State Workmen's Insurance Fund shall adopt such classification of risk, underwriting rules, premium ratings and schedule of merit rating plans for insurance of employers and employes under the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 and acts amendatory thereof which shall be consonant and in accordance with the experience of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund over the period of years during which such fund has been in existence."

It states it shall be in accordance with the experience of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund. I would certainly think by that that their rates would have to be based upon the experience of their fund. That is what the act says.

Mr. HERMAN. What is wrong with that, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. The thing that is wrong with that, Mr. Speaker, is this, here you have one fund which has not nearly as much experience as all of the Funds or all the workmen's insurance companies put together. The Workmen's Insurance Fund is, in fact, an insurance organization and therefore if you take their experience and use their experience along with the exprience of all other insurance companies, you will get a much better rate and a much more accurate rate than you could from any one insurance company alone.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know the present set-up of the Insurance Rating Bureau?

Mr. WOODSIDE. The set-up, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. HERMAN. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. I do not think, Mr. Speaker, I can give it to the gentleman in its entirety. I would be glad, if he has it, to have him give it to the House.

Mr. HERMAN. That is all. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this bill. The gentleman on the other side succeeded the other day in confusing this House, so far as House Bill 1639 is concerned, which was defeated. He is attempting to do the very same thing with this bill. Now, to my mind, Senate Bill 236 is really a companion bill to 990 and 1002, which were passed by this House last week.

It takes the State Insurance Fund from the control of the present Rating Bureau and gives it the right to fix its own rates. The present Rating Bureau is dominated by representatives of private insurance companies who fix their own rates. These rates have been proven to be exorbitant, as been shown by the public hearings which we held on this legislation. Insurance companies are making profits of from forty to fifty per cent on this insurance.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his point of order.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, is it permissible for lobbyists to sit on the side and lobby for or against bills in this House?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin will state his point of order.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Is it permissible, Mr. Speaker, for a former Democratic floor-leader to sit in the seat of a Member during the debate and advise the minority whip?

The SPEAKER. No one other than Members is permitted to be on the floor of the House and sit in the seats of the Members.

Mr. LOVETT. What about my point of order, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland repeat his point of order?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, is it permissible for anyone to sit on the sidelines and there lobby for or against a bill?

The SPEAKER. Members may not be interrupted during the debate of a bill on the floor of the House or while in their seats. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, my friend on the other side in his debate on Bill 1639—

Mr. WOODSIDE. Will the Chair restate his ruling on the point of order?

The SPEAKER. The ruling of the Chair was that no member may be interrupted while in his seat during the debate on a bill before the House.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Woodside, in his remarks on Bill 1639, stated he was very solicitous about the welfare of the workingman and told us that 1639 was detrimental to the interests of the workingman. However, I never agreed with that theory, but that bill has been defeated.

The effect of this bill is this: there has been a lot of contention whether the present rates for insurance are prohibitive. The present Workmen's Compensation Act is elective. When the rates are prohibitive, there are less employers coming under the act and less employes are protected. By the passage of this bill, and giving the State Insurance Fund the right to fix its own rates, we feel that the rates of insurance can be lowered to the extent of forty to fifty per cent, which will be an inducement to those employers who are unable to come under the act, and therefore, more workers will be protected. This and the other bill are companion bills, and it will help not only the enforcement of the main act, which is No. 1002, fixing the rates of benefit, but it will help, as I said before, to bring in those employers who are unable to come under the act, due to the high rates of insurance which have been fixed by this commission, which is controlled by the private insurance companies.

I therefore urge every member of this House who is interested in the welfare, not only of the worker, but the employer, to vote for this bill.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Herman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I understand from the gentleman that he feels this bill if it were enacted into law, and the state Workmen's Insurance Board were permitted to set the rates for the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, they could make those rates lower than the rates now are, is that correct?

Mr. HERMAN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Philadelphia think that they could be able to be reduced forty to fifty per cent lower than the rates which the State Workmen's Insurance Fund is now charging?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, on the expert testimony that was adduced at the public hearings we had, I feel that they can.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I want to know from the gentleman then whether he feels that the rates would have been much lower last year or the year before and on back?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I think the rates could be that much lower at the present time with the present set-up, but the insurance companies want to make too much profit out of this business.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I should like the gentleman to tell me how much profit the State Workmen's Insurance Fund has made since it was established in 1915.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I did not hear the last part of the gentleman's question.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the gentleman tell me how much profit the State Workmen's Insurance Fund has made on the rates which they charge?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, they made a very good profit up until the advent of this administration, when they were forced to discharge all their solicitors, and the only insurance they could obtain was the insurance that was rejected by the private insurance companies.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell me what has been done with the profits?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the profits were eaten up by the losses which they sustained after their business was curtailed by this administration.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker does the gentleman mean to tell me that the Workmen's Insurance Fund under the old administration made a profit?

Mr. HERMAN. I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, and the profit was turned into the treasury and not distributed?

Mr. HERMAN. There was a profit, yes, Mr. Speaker, they made money.

Mr. WOODSIDE. And the gentleman means to say, does he, Mr. Speaker, that under the law that money was retained in a fund. What was to be done with that money? Suppose it made a profit now, what is now to be done with the money?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I do not know the exact setup there. I imagine it would be put into a reserve fund to meet any future losses.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, would they continue to pile up that reserve fund?

Mr. HERMAN. Well no, Mr. Speaker, if that fund would get too large they would again apply that to a reduction of their rates, which the private companies failed to do, and hand it out in dividends.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, does not the gentleman know that the State Workmen's Insurance Fund hands out their profits in dividends to their policy holders?

Mr. HERMAN. I don't know, Mr. Speaker. If the gentleman is telling me I will take it for granted.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I will tell the gentleman they do. They do not make any profit under the law, and if they should they give the profit back to the insurers.

Mr. HERMAN. Yes, Mr. Speaker, but there is a certain amount held in reserve, is there not?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Certainly, Mr. Speaker. The gentleman would not suggest for a minute that there should not be a proper reserve kept for future losses. Certainly they keep reserves for future losses. If they did not they would be insolvent. They keep a certain amount of reserve. There is some question frequently as to whether or not it is enough. They keep a reserve for future losses, but any profit that is made is paid back. In other words it is an operation which is carried on under the law without the profit. You cannot make less than nothing. The State Workmen's Insurance Fund under the law makes no profit.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thought I was being interrogated. I cannot follow the gentleman. It is a very long question which he has asked, and I don't know whether the gentleman is asking me a question or making a speech.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, do I have the floor?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, if he is making a speech I will sit down.

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman through with his interrogation?

Mr. WOODSIDE. No, Mr. Speaker, but the gentleman seems to avoid a certain point, and I was trying to make an explanation of something which he said he did not understand, and which I intend to follow with another question.

What I was stating is that you cannot make less than nothing, and the State Workmen's Insurance Fund under the law operates in the same manner as a mutual company does. Therefore, they make no profit now. If they don't make any profit now, I want to know how the gentleman thinks the over-all rate can be lowered to any degree at all.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I agree with the gentleman one hundred per cent, that they are not making any profit now, because the only insurance they get now, they tell me, is the undesirable insurance that the private companies refused to handle.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman does not understand. Under the law they never did make any profit and under the law they cannot make any profit; they give it back in dividends. They operate as a mutual company, and a mutual company does not make a profit. They pay their operating expenses and if there is a profit it is paid back to the policy holders. That is the way the State Insurance Fund operates, and the gentleman should know that.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, that is exactly what we are trying to accomplish by this bill; instead of making a profit, we want to reduce the rates to bring more employers under the act so that more workers will be protected.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell me how a profit is made by a mutual insurance company.

Mr. HERMAN. By the rates that they charge, Mr. Speaker; dependent upon the rates they charge.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, what do they do with the profit, if the gentleman from Philadelphia calls it a profit?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, what they do with it after they take care of their expenses and the high salaries of their officials, whatever is left they hand back to the policy holders.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Then Mr. Speaker there is no profit any more, is there?

Mr. HERMAN. Well, Mr. Speaker, that is a profit.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Which, Mr. Speaker, is distributed among all the policy holders and reduces the cost of insurance?

Mr. HERMAN. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, in other words a mutual company charges a man a standard rate as set up by the board, say fifteen dollars, and as the result of that charge of fifteen dollars they make a profit of three dollars, that three dollars is given back to the man who pays the fifteen; is that correct?

Mr. HERMAN. I do not agree with that, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, what does the gentleman understand the procedure to be that is followed in a mutual insurance company?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, if they get the three dollars profit they hand it back to the policy holder according to you, but I do not agree with that.

Mr. WOODSIDE. What does the mutual company do with it?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, after they deduct their expenses, there probably would be about twenty-five cents of that three dollars which will be handed back to the policy holders.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, then take the twenty-five cents as an example. As a matter of fact, that is not nearly the average profit, and the gentleman should know that. Many of the companies pay ten, fifteen, twenty-five or thirty per cent, but let his figures stand, let us say that they charge fifteen dollars and they make only twenty-five cents profit and they pay back a quarter, how much does the insurance cost the man?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, that is where we disagree. I say by this bill the State Fund will be able to charge lower rates for insurance than the private insurance companies do.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, if the Insurance Fund now charges fifteen dollars, and after they pay their expenses, which must be paid, whether this bill is passed or whether it is not passed, there is left two dollars, in other words they could have written it for thirteen dollars, as the gentleman suggests, what will they do with that two dollars?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, they return it to the policy holders.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, then the policy holder only paid thirteen dollars in the final analysis for that insurance, is that not correct?

Mr. HERMAN. That is correct.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, if they could write it in that way, they would write the insurance at cost. In making up cost two things must be taken into consideration, the cost of administration, and their losses?

Mr. HERMAN. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, what would be the difference in that respect under this bill? They could not write any insurance under any circumstances at less than cost, that is, less than their loss expense and the cost of administration. I think the gentleman will agree with me on that. They are not writing at any more than that at the present time, because whatever the difference is is paid back to the insurers.

Mr. Speaker, the point I am trying to make to the gentleman is that when insurance is written at cost, as it is in any mutual organization, as it is in the Workmen's Insurance Fund, there is no material difference whether the original rate is high or low, because after all you can not write insurance and stay in business at less than cost. Therefore, if the rate is fifteen dollars originally and experience shows that it should have been only thirteen dollars, the two dollars is paid back, and that is all the insured has to pay. That situation is exactly the same whether you pay it back or whether you charge thirteen dollars originally, except for the fact in one case you are taking a chance on insolvency and in the other case you are not.

I would still be interested, if the gentleman can tell me any possible way that this bill will result in lowering rates, to explain in detail how it would operate to result in an over-all lower rate for insurance. If the gentleman can do it, I will be glad to have him explain it.

Mr. HERMAN. The only way I can do it is this: at the present time, as I said before, the State Insurance Fund writes only those risks which the private insurance companies turn down and which they do not care to handle. They are naturally the most hazardous risks, and they pay out more money than the average insurance companies do on their more favorable risks. By this bill, the State Insurance Fund will be able to set up a schedule of rates affecting the different industries, and I feel that the rates that are being charged those various industries by the private insurance companies can be reduced by the State Insurance Fund to the extent of forty-five or fifty per cent, and thus encourage the private insurance companies to reduce their rates, and that is why they are against this bill.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I am very much disappointed with Senate Bill 236. As the Journal will show, it passed the Senate by a vote of forty-eight to nothing, and was forced to lie on the calendar until the closing hours of the session. In view of that fact I cannot understand the minority floor-leader in his statement with respect to the transfer of the Rating Bureau into the hands of the Workmen's Fund itself, how he arrives at his conclusions, when he attended and listened very carefully to the testimony that was taken at the various hearings before the Workmen's Compensation Committee when bills of this type were discussed. I would say to the minority floor-leader that if he were sincere, as he says he is, and I believe he is sincere in his own judgment of the problem, but if he were sincere from the standpoint of the employe and the employer, I think there would be no doubt in his mind that Senate Bill 236 should be finally passed by this House and enacted into law.

The minority floor-leader, in interrogating the gentleman from Philadelphia asked him a very pertinent question as to how could the Rating Bureau in the hands of the Workmen's Fund could reduce the rates which the private companies throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have been unable to do? My answer to the gentleman from Dauphin is this, that when he attended the hearing of the Workmen's Compensation Committee on this bill and similar bills, he heard the Governor's own representative, the manager of the Workmen's Fund, tell the Committee in no uncertain terms that Governor James had, in the early part of his administration, ordered fifty solicitors that were employed under the Earle administration dismissed. His reason for doing so was given in the form of a letter to the manager of the Fund, in which he stated very emphatically that he thought the insurance business relative to Workmen's Compensation should be handled by private companies. At that time, the Governor not only made the statement, but he allowed a wedge to be thrown into the Workmen's Compensation business in Pennsylvania by inviting these fifty solicitors to be dismissed from the Workmen's Compensation Fund and to be hired by private outfits throughout the State. As a consequence, they gobbled up almost all the good business in Pennsylvania. I ask the gentleman from Dauphin, knowing that this came from no less an authority than his own representative, the manager of the Fund, what is his answer to the actions of the Governor in that situation? If the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was sincere in regard to workmen's compensation, why did he order the dismissal of fifty solicitors who had performed a valuable service to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in regard to the Workmen's Fund? And if he did so, what was the reason for his statement that the insurance business relative to Workmen's Compensation belonged entirely in the hands of private companies under private control?

Mr. Speaker, I say to the gentleman from Dauphin, if he wants to find the answer as to how, under this bill, the rates will be decreased in Pennsylvania, he need only look at the testimony offered at the public hearing on these bills by his own manager of the Workmen's Fund. Naturally, the rates will be reduced. I defy the gentleman from Dauphin to deny that statement, and I say to the gentleman from Dauphin it is only common sense that if the Workmen's Fund is permitted to adjust its own rates through its experience, and I would say without experts, then certainly the gentleman cannot tell me why on interrogation by the gentleman from Philadelphia, he admitted that he did not know the complexion of the present Rating Bureau.

Mr. Speaker, the rating bureau at the present time is in the hands exclusively—and I will repeat, exclusively in the hands of the private insurance companies in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, because they have an unmistakable majority of opinion on that Board. Five members of that Board are representatives of private companies throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Now, is it so hard to understand that with a majority of opinion making up the rates of Pennsylvania representing private insurance companies, is it so difficult to understand why the rates in Pennsylvania are so absurdly high when compared to the states of West Virginia, Ohio and New York? I say to the gentleman from Dauphin, let him answer that question.

I further say to the gentleman from Dauphin if he cannot figure out how the rates in Pennsylvania can be materially decreased by Senate Bill 236, then his logic is not perfect because he says on one hand, "We do not like the amendments introduced in the House of Representatives. The bill as it came from the Senate was all right, but when it was amended in the House we rebelled against it". Then I say to the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, if he is sincerely interested in the employers of the Commonwealth, if he is interested in the working man of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, he will not insist on the bill's being amended at this late hour but he will say, "Let us pass this bill. Let it go to the conference committee and probably by the wee hours of tomorrow morning the House and the Senate may reach an agreement upon this measure." That, Mr. Speaker, I believe, is the logical method to pursue. If we cannot appreciate the policy of the Democratic party relative to the rating bureau in Pennsylvania, then let us have a conference committee between the Republican Senate and the Democratic House and that, I say to the gentleman from Dauphin, is the logical way to handle this situation. We maintain that the rate can be drastically reduced. The minority floor leader says he does not see how. Then, Mr. Speaker, let us pass this bill in its present form. It is not a law then, as the Senate has not concurred. Let it go to a conference committee and let us see by the end of the legislative day if we cannot reach an agreement. That I think is the sensible way to attack the problem.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman stated at the beginning of his remarks that this bill was passed by the Senate 48 to nothing, thus showing that this bill must have been an excellent bill. I hope he has made it clear that afterward amendments were inserted in the House and they would have to go to the Senate. When it came from the Senate it was perfectly proper for every body to vote for the bill. It was good legislation, but the bill as it has been amended is not good legislation, it is unworkable legislation, and with all the debate of the gentleman on the other side who has very eloquently argued this case, and who has been very closely associated with this problem, I have not yet heard him demonstrate in any respect whatsoever how you can save money for the insured under this bill. When you are operating at cost you cannot operate at less than cost; if you are operating at cost you are operating with the lowest possible amount of money and that is what the State Workmen's Insurance Fund does under the law.

We can debate for hours the question that was raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, in his attack upon insurance companies in the Senate quite some time ago, but it was answered conclusively on two separate occasions. It was answered by the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade, on the floor of the Senate and it was answered item for item categorically by the Insurance Commissioner in the answer he made to it.

There is one point which the gentleman raised which I think should be cleared up. He states that the board is made up of insurance men. Of course it is, but the gentleman did not call the attention of the House to the fact that the Insurance Commissioner passes upon all those rates, that they cannot be put into effect until they are passed upon by the Insurance Commissioner, and if the Insurance Commissioner says the rate is no good, the rate cannot be put into effect and insurance cannot be written until that rate is approved by the insurance Commissioner. That is not merely a superficial matter because in many instances the Insurance Commissioner has control of the rates, not only in workmen's compensation but in many other fields. They make a real study and represent the entire Commonwealth in a careful, scientific and conscientious consideration of rates. All this would be very good and you might be able to argue and it could not conclusively be refuted that this would save money to the insured if all insurance, including the state fund, were written as stock companies write insurance. But when you write insurance as a mutual insurance company does or as the state fund does, there is no such thing as profit; you cannot save any money on the rates because there is no profit made on the rates, and that profit is the only place you can save money.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is talking about forty to fifty percent profit made by these various insurance companies. About one half of workmen's compensation that is paid into the state is paid by the self-insurers. I think everybody understands and appreciates that there is not a cent of profit made from that. The rate is not jacked up in any way because there is no write up. Each company pays exactly what it costs them in the way of payments for insurance and administration and there cannot be any profit in that. There is no profit in that. Another large percentage of the balance is written by mutual insurance companies and those mutual insurance companies do not make any profit because whatever profit is made, or what we normally call profit, is paid back to the policy holders.

I just want to recite an example of what the gentleman from Philadelphia is intimating and what the Senator from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, said on the floor of the Senate. He took a case where one mutual insurance company made thirty percent on the rate. He called that a profit but he totally disregarded the fact that that thirty percent went back to the policy holder. Instead of paying one hundred dollars for that policy of insurance he paid seventy dollars for it.

There is so much involved in the argument presented by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, and which was touched upon by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, that I think there is no question about it, we could be here discussing and arguing it back and forth for quite a long time, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, made a very long speech on it. That speech has been answered and appears in the record and there is no real advantage in going into it. I will say this to the gentleman, however, there are provisions in the bill that are good and are satisfactory, but the bill is entirely unworkable as it is now, as well as useless. I presume the gentleman is interested in getting a useful bill which can pass this House and go into conference, and is interested in seeing that a decent bill is written. Therefore, I agree with the suggestion he has made that we try to work out a bill which will be workable and satisfactory, and will not attempt to do some of the foolish things the amendments inserted in the House do. It might be a good idea for this House to pass this bill as it is, definitely with the idea and with the understanding that when the bill passes the House the Senate will nonconcur in the amendments, as I am sure they will, and the bill go to conference. It may be we can get a decent bill out of it.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman from Dauphin has expressed a desire or has inferred that they will go along with the bill, and that a conference committee be appointed?

Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman from Dauphin to say that he would be willing to go along with the bill as it is so that a conference committee might be appointed?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I personally am torn between two thoughts, as one always is when you must vote for a bill with a double proposition. This bill has a double proposition. It started out with one idea definitely concerning appeals from the Rating Board. There is nothing wrong with that, that right ought to exist. I do not think it is going to do a whole lot of good, but it is all right and it ought to exist.

The bill in its present form as amended in the House is dangerous; it would not accomplish anything if enacted into law, except endanger the state fund and possibly ruin the set-up of that fund. If the gentleman will agree, as a representative of those interested in this bill, that he will go along in striking out the House amendments and inserting the Senate amendments, we will go along on this side of the House in passing the bill with that understanding.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, I might say he is asking me to tie both my hands and my mouth at the same time, on an agreement to pass this bill in order to go into conference.

I will say to the gentleman from Dauphin I am broad enough and would be broad enough in a conference committee, or the members of my party would be broad enough to say if there could not be an agreement reached between the two principles involved, that either one of the principles should be adopted or the bill should be killed. However, I would say to the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, that I will not tie my hands and my mouth at the same time. I would say to the gentleman from Dauphin in further answer, if he would be in agreement to pass this bill this afternoon so that we might be able to sit in the calm and quiet of the conference room, possibly we might, out of all this confusion, evolve some plan that might be a compromise between the two lines of thought. That, in my judgment, would be the fair thing to do.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that there is no question of compromise on the amendments which were put in by the gentleman on the other side. They are absolutely impossible of sound operation. The theory is not sound and as a result of that it seems to me that there can be nothing done in the way of suggesting a compromise on the amendments which were inserted by the House. If the Members of the House will agree to let the bill go back to third reading and strike out the Senate amendments, which we could do without reprinting, I am sure we would go along with the passage of the bill. Of if the gentleman, speaking for his colleagues, will agree to strike out the House amendments, I will be very glad to go along and I am sure the other Members on this side of the House will be very glad to get the bill in conference committee. But the proposition, as it stands now, is very definitely unsound, it represents a theory which is so definitely unsound that I do not think we can in fairness go along with the bill in its present form, unless we have an understanding now that the amendments which were inserted in the House be stricken out.

MOTION TO LAY ON TABLE

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that it is quite disappointing that the gentleman from Dauphin does not wish to come fifty per cent of the way, I move that Senate Bill No. 236, House Bill No. 1481, Printer's No. 496, be placed on the table.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my motion to lay on the table.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question, and ask for a roll call.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Stank, Marks, Paul A. Brunner, Wright, McDermott, Vogt, O'Mullen, Finestone, Duffy, Hersch, Kolankiewicz, Boies, Verona, McLane, Herman, Voldow, Samuel Rose, Schwab, Goodwin, Shaffer and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I believe in my motion for the previous question, I made it emphatic that I desired a roll call.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Levy and Mr. Weiss.

Messrs. Levy, Maxwell and Weiss asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The roll was called.

(During the verification of the roll).

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Northampton will state his question of information.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker, cannot the members vote before the result of the vote is announced?

The SPEAKER. Members are required to be in the hall of the House when the "yeas" and "nays" are taken to qualify to vote. Was the gentleman in the hall of the House?

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker, I was in the hall of the House during the calling of a portion of the roll.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is qualified to be recorded.

Mr. WOODRING. I desire to be recorded as voting "aye."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be recorded as voting "aye."

(Following the verification of the affirmative roll).

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask whether the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Thompson was in the Hall of the House during the calling of the roll.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Monroe will state his question of information.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, are we engaged in verifying the affirmative roll?

The SPEAKER. The affirmative roll has been verified.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Monroe will state his point of order.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is in violation of the rules of the House in endeavoring to verify the affirmative roll now.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. The Chair was merely extending a courtesy to the gentleman from Blair.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, it seems to have been the custom for the Clerk to have missed my name. I did vote on the roll call. I asked for recognition and got it. I did vote "no."

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman, the Chair cannot hear the Members when they answer to their names, there is too much noise and confusion. The Chair is attempting to maintain order.

Mr. STAMBUAGH. It is not the fault of the Chair, I am sure, Mr. Speaker, but it seems to have become a custom to miss my name. I am not raising the question in any manner whatsoever excepting that I do feel that I was embarrassed a great many times when I had to get on the floor to ask for recognition, because someone was either intentionally or otherwise missing my name.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Perry, if he has noticed the gentleman sitting in the back row, the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Tarr, he will have noticed that there were many times when it was necessary for him to take the floor and ask to be recognized. That has frequently been because of the noise in that part of the House.

Mr. STAMBUAGH. I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. Turner, Habbyshaw and Tarr asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return it to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

(CONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL No. 379 RESUMED)

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up Senate Bill No. 379 (House Bill No. 1506).

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House, Senate Bill No. 379, (House Bill No. 1506), entitled:

An Act to further amend section one of the act approved the seventeenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (P. L. 507), entitled "An act to provide revenue for state and county purposes, and, in cities coextensive with counties, for city and county purposes; imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property; providing for the assessment and collection of the same, providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith; and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes," by excluding proceeds of life insurance policies from the provisions thereof.

which was passed over.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of information.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that we are now considering Senate Bill No. 379, Printer's No. 194?

The SPEAKER. That is correct on final passage.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that this is the bill that was reported out of the Committee of Ways and Means?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. LEVY. Unanimous consent was given, Mr. Speaker, to have it placed on third reading and final passage calendar without the title being printed?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

MOTION TO DROP BILL FROM CALENDAR

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the House is now considering on final passage Senate Bill 379, Printer's No. 194, I feel that a statement coming from one who might rebel against a procedure of this kind is appropriate.

I am going to make a statement, Mr. Speaker, in reference to this bill. Truthfully, gentlemen, I have read the bill in its entirety and I regret very much that I was not more interested in the bill when it was on first and second reading, but I certainly do protest the fact that a bill, reported out of committee on one legislative day, is to be pushed through for final enactment on the same identical day. The only reason I rise in protest to this bill, notwithstanding the fact that it might have merit and might be a proper bill on our legislative calendar, is that I maintain this is the beginning of a very dangerous precedent. I might add, in my memory as a Member of this legislative body, this procedure did not occur in the special session of 1936, in the regular session of 1937 or in the special session succeeding that, nor in the sessions of 1938-1939, and 1940-1941.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, in view of that, after conversing with many of my colleagues regarding this proposed procedure on Senate Bill 379, I now move, in order to avert the possibility of doing something that might haunt us in succeeding sessions, that Senate Bill 379, Printer's No. 194, be dropped from the calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. FINESTONE. Mr. Speaker, I have not arisen during the entire session to speak on any bill, but I feel that this bill is of such importance to every man, woman and child in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that regardless of the doubt of my good friend and colleague, Mr. Levy, this bill should be passed.

The bill proposes to cure something that was recently decided by the Supreme Court in the Beisel decision. The purport of the decision, as I take it, is to tax the proceeds of life insurance which has been left with the company by the assured and make it subject to the four mills county tax.

Now, the effect of this, gentlemen, would be this, that in the case of a man leaving life insurance, say in the sum of ten thousand dollars, and making a provision with the company that the amount be left with the company for the protection of his widow, she would on that sum receive say three per cent interest. That would be an income of three hundred dollars a year, or at the rate of twenty-five dollars a month.

Under the Beisel decision that amount would be subject to the state tax of four mills and the county tax of four mills, making a total of eighty dollars, leaving instead of three hundred dollars a year income, only two hundred and twenty dollars, and reducing the monthly income to eighteen dollars and thirty-three cents a month.

When you stop to consider what that means, Mr. Speaker, you can readily see the importance of exempting such insurance from the four mills tax. It would be a tax on the widow's income of 26 and two-thirds per cent.

All that this act intends to do is to exempt such insurance from the four mills tax, and it is in conformity with the policy of the state in exempting life insurance from the inheritance tax, exempting the proceeds of life insurance from the payment of debts, and I think it is in line with the humane policy of the state to exempt such insurance from the payment of taxes.

We have been talking a great deal on both sides of the House during the campaigns of protecting widows and orphans, and here is one bill more than any other bill that has come up in this House that is a real bill for the protection of the widows and orphans, and I say to you if you pass this bill, the widows and orphans will rise and call you blessed.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, we have heard an awful lot about widows and orphans in this bill. I want to say that I am just as much interested in the widows and orphans as any body else in this House. If these gentlemen will tell me some way in which we can set an exemption of funds at two thousand dollars or something of that kind, so that we do not protect the one hundred thousand dollar insurance policies, I am perfectly willing to go along with the gentleman.

To sum up what this bill really does, in the state, we have the same kind of law, but the state refuses to allow them to be exempt. Don't forget that the state refuses to allow the exemption, but we men sitting here are going to ask that our poor counties, mind you, let them be exempt. We hear a lot about widows and orphans. Do you gentlemen realize that your county taxation comes from real estate, and that your local municipalities get their taxation from real estate? The state has a large field in which to collect taxes, nevertheless we refuse to let them come out from under the law as far as the state is concerned. But in this bill we are going to say to our poor counties and our poor home owners back home, who are losing their homes on account of taxation, here is a bill in which we are going to exempt these fellows. Now, do not let them get it over to you that they are only exempting poor widows and poor orphans, because some of these are fifty thousand, seventy-five thousand or one hundred thousand dollar beneficiaries. I for one am perfectly willing that we pay our fair share of taxes. I even went so far as to say we should have a flat income tax for school purposes, that is going a long way. Nevertheless, I say to you that this is unfair. I say there is a question of whether or not it is constitutional, because taxation must be equal, and if the state refuses, then it is not uniform and we are asking the county to do something that the state will not do.

Gentlemen, I cannot plead with you too strongly to defeat this measure because it is unjust. Again we have the specially privileged asking for an exemption. The poor widows and orphans do not mind paying their share of taxation if they ever get anything to pay it with. I am not so much worried about the people who have something to pay it with; I am worried about the poor widows and orphans who do not have anything to pay it with, the poor people who are losing their homes day after day. You are proposing deliberately to take that tax away from your county and compel your county to put that tax on the home.

If you are in favor of this bill and you go back and tell them that you are protecting the widow and orphan, they will tell you you are crazy.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker—

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, as I explained before in my brief statement, I am not so much concerned with the merits of this piece of legislation. We have a variance of opinion there. Some of us believe it is meritorious and some believe it is not, but I am deeply concerned with the precedent that we are setting in these closing hours of the session.

This bill was committed to the Committee on Ways and Means approximately three or four weeks ago. It lay dormant in Committee for that length of time, and finally very suddenly this morning the bill was reported out of the Ways and Means Committee. Now, I am looking into the future. If we are on agreement to report bills, read them and pass them in one day, then what is going to happen in the future when we have bills that are far more controversial than this issue? If we are going to use this procedure on bills on which we are in agreement, then I say we are also going to use this procedure on bills which are in controversy. For that reason I rise in protest against the consideration of this bill.

Probably a little hastily I made a motion to drop the bill from the calendar. I really should, in better judgment, change that motion, and I withdraw it, Mr. Speaker, and move.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, if he makes a motion to lay the bill on the table that motion will not be debatable; it will close the debate.

Mr. LEVY. I intend, Mr. Speaker, for reasons that are more ethical to make that motion. I mentioned that in my haste I probably made the wrong motion. I did not want to act in such a manner as to infer that I was against the bill or against the principles of the bill, but I say to you if the other motion can be entertained I would rather have that motion placed in the journal.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman, the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, yielded to the gentleman from Philadelphia, after having been recognized by the Chair.

Mr. LEVY. In that case, Mr. Speaker, I will withdraw my motion to drop the bill from the calendar and withhold my tentative motion to place it on the table.

Mr. Speaker, may I ask the courtesy of the Chair to recognize me for the purpose of making that motion following Mr. Woodside's speech?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman may. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, withdraws his motion to drop the bill from the calendar and withholds his motion to place the bill on the table.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, may I first state in reference to what has been said by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, that it is my recollection during the five regular sessions—

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I understand in effect Mr. Levy is yielding the floor now to Mr. Woodside?

The SPEAKER. That is correct. The gentleman from Dauphin will proceed.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I was saying that within my recollection, although I would not be absolutely certain of this, I think during every session of the Legislature particularly during the last several days, there have been at least one or two instances where we have considered bills that were not on the calendar.

The matter before us is one which received a great deal of consideration I think, throughout the entire state. It is a bill in which a number of people have had an interest for a considerable length of time; it is a bill that was before this House on two readings and it has been in our files for many months. Therefore, it would seem to me it would not be improper at all to consider this bill at this time and I'm confident that we would not be setting a precedent because I recall a number of instances where this was done within the past few terms. I have spoken to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, who has served in this House for more than seventeen years, and he tells me that he is of the opinion that in practically every regular session in which he has served it has been done. Therefore, I think the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, is in error when he says he feels we will be setting a precedent. I agree with him we should have time to consider all important legislation. I think this bill should be debated as it is being debated. It is a very simple bill. It only changes one or two words. It is not difficult to understand, and I think all the Members of the House can vote on this bill intelligently.

Mr. Speaker, just one word after what has been said concerning the counties. I can never have very much patience with people who suggest the difficulties of counties at the present time. During the last ten years, the problem of the state, particularly in relation to financing has increased tremendously. So have the problems of the Federal Government, so have the problems of the school districts and so have the problems of most of the cities, boroughs and townships, but the problems of the counties certainly should not have increased in any respect or to any extent during the last decade, because during that period the state has relieved the counties of one responsibility after another until they should be able to carry on their work very, very easily, without any problem of financing. For example, first we took away outdoor relief, which was a rather substantial burden and put it upon the State. We took away the roads and the bridges from the counties and put that responsibility on the state and at the present time the counties have very few roads and bridges to take care of because that responsibility rests practically entirely on the State. Again in this session we are saving them large sums of money because we have taken over the mental hospitals and relieved them of another substantial burden. During all of this time we have been helping them out because the amount of tax that is being collected by the state is being paid back to them. The gasoline tax has increased yearly so that each year they are receiving more and more money collected by the state and paid to them. In another respect, we helped them. Many of the counties did not successfully collect the personal property tax until the state passed its Personal Property Tax law and enabled them to collect the personal property tax with much greater ease. As a result of that all of these things were taken away from the counties and it seems clear to me that the argument that this will be a great burden upon the counties is fallacious and it should not be considered as meritorious in the consideration of this bill.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his point of order.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, under the unusual position in which we find ourselves in at this particular time on this particular bill, not being on the Calendar and being reported out, I feel somewhat like my friend, Mr. Woodside, that at least we should be able to debate it and I have certain questions that I would like to ask Mr. Woodside. I do not think it is fair to the membership of this House to close off debate on this very important issue. I don't know whether they are going to lay it on the table or recommit it, or what they are going to do. I only ask the Chair and the House to give me the privilege of asking the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, a few questions.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland restate his remarks in the nature of a point of order? Did the gentleman say he would like to interrogate Mr. Woodside?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I said that due to the fact that we find ourselves in this position on this particular bill, although Mr. Turner, said it has happened many times, which may be true, I desired to interrogate Mr. Woodside. I do not know if it has happened as I probably have sat here and have been fooled many times. You men do not want to be fooled, I do not want to be fooled. I would not want to do anything that is wrong. I ask the consideration of the House that I may ask Mr. Woodside a few questions, and I wish to further debate the bill.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that apparently my request to the Chair to make a motion has tied up the debate on the floor, I want to make myself very clear.

I feel like the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, and the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, that this bill deserves every consideration. I think the gentleman from Dauphin has made himself clear on this issue. I think the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Finestone, was so enthused by this great piece of legislation that he probably wants to speak again, and I think he has every right to do so. If my tentative motion gives the impression to the Chair and to the membership that I wish to close debate on this issue, I want to make it clear that I do not want to do that at all. I want to give every man a chance to speak, but regardless of how many times Mr. Finestone or Mr. Woodside take the floor and speak on this piece of legislation, I nevertheless say in the most emphatic way that I know we are today setting a bad precedent, and I differ with the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, when he says that Mr. Turner has informed him that this has happened before. I don't know; perhaps it has, but I don't recall it.

I think I inquired of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, whether or not he remembered such a procedure being followed and I think Mr. Brown answered me in this manner: He said he believed too it is a dangerous precedent. I am not debating the merits of the bill I am very anxious to withhold my motion in order to give the members an opportunity to debate it.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Dauphin said he felt the counties were very well taken care of, that for some years past they have been out of the picture and the state has been taking over the burden of the county. I would like to ask if we passed a tax abatement bill during this session of the legislature.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, we passed an optional tax abatement bill, if I remember correctly.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman feel that the reason we passed the tax abatement bill was to give the people an opportunity to pay their taxes?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, that was the motive and the reason that was given for the passing of the bill.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman feel, due to the fact that we do pass such bills, that the county is really not out of the woods?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the taxpayers are not all out of the woods, I know that, but I am talking about the counties. I say that the counties as governmental units have had less financial problems during the last ten years than any other municipal unit. They have increased their income by our acts during the last few years, we have decreased their responsibilities, their duties and their outgo of money, and that is a situation which is absolutely the reverse from that which exists in any other governmental unit.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Dauphin say that in the past ten years the country as a whole has been in a panic up until the past few years?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Well, Mr. Speaker, the New Deal has had us upset and in a whirl for a great deal of the time. I don't know that I would call it a panic but we have been in pretty bad shape a good part of the time. I will grant that.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, in other words, the revenue that runs the counties comes from taxes on homes, is that correct?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Some of it, Mr. Speaker, is on real estate. Many of the counties have reduced their real estate tax. Lancaster County for example, I think has one and nine tenths mills or something like that.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know that there are now measures before this House asking for the return of some of the gasoline taxes to the counties?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Yes, Mr. Speaker, each year the gasoline tax returned to the counties mounts up more and more. Each year the counties are finding it more difficult to disburse that money under the law, they are having trouble using it up.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman realize that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, has quite a number of bills asking for the return of the gasoline tax to the counties?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, what does the gentleman mean by the return of the gasoline tax?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I mean to the municipalities.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, what does the gentleman mean by municipalities?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, cities, counties, boroughs and townships.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I don't know that the return of the gasoline tax to the cities, boroughs and townships has anything to do with the matter before the House. There are bills on that surely.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I am just trying to explain to the gentleman that the counties get their revenue from real estate taxes as a whole. Is not that correct?

Mr. WOODSIDE. No, Mr. Speaker, they get revenue from real estate tax certainly but they also get it from personal property tax and they get it from gasoline tax and they get it from fees.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Dauphin say that the counties receive most of their money from the property tax?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I think that would depend on the counties. I imagine most of the counties receive a very large percentage of their taxes from real estate but that may not be true of all counties. I don't know which, I never went down over the budgets of the counties with that thought in mind, but I know that many of the counties have reduced their real estate taxes very substantially in the last ten years, and there are no other governmental units that I know of which as a whole have not increased that tax and which have been forced, by the greatest economy, to still seek new means of getting revenue.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman made a statement that the state has taken over many of the roads. I would like to ask the gentleman if the state during this legislative session is going to pass the omnibus bill.

Mr. WOODSIDE. I don't know, Mr. Speaker. As a matter of fact I can tell the gentleman this, there are a number of counties in the state to whom that does not make any difference because they do not have any roads any more. May I remind the gentleman from Westmoreland that the state does not take over the county roads as such. The counties have been out of the road business for a number of years and many of the counties are building no roads at all.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman mind answering my question yes or no? Does he know if there is going to be an omnibus bill passed during this session of the legislature to take over any more roads?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman talking about county roads?

Mr. LOVETT. No, Mr. Speaker, any roads.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I have seen dozens of cases of the taking over of township roads but we have not taken over any county roads for a number of years, and the reason is that there are no county roads left to take over because the counties are really out of the road business.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman realize that regardless whether they are county roads or township roads or what roads they are, the home owners back home have to keep them up?

Mr. WOODSIDE. The gentleman is trying to draw a red herring across the path. That has nothing to do with the question of the county budget. If the gentleman is so much interested in the home owner, I wonder how he can justify his vote—

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I will be glad to be interrogated if the gentleman wishes to interrogate me.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I have asked the gentleman to confine his remarks to the subject before the House in asking questions.

Mr. LOVETT. That is all. Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to prolong the debate. I think my statement was clear. I think everybody understood if there is anybody trying to becloud the issue it is Mr. Woodside on the other side. We are fighting in the interests of the taxpayers and home owners of Pennsylvania. I know they have been losing their homes and I know that every session we have passed these tax abatement bills giving them a chance to pay their taxes. That has happened not only in one session, but it has happened in every session of the Legislature. We said it would start a bad precedent when we first started it. We have continued it all along the line. Here we find special privilege coming in again at the last moment trying to shove down our throats legislation that is not in the interests of the taxpayers.

Mr. FINESTONE. I just desire briefly to answer the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett. I would be the last man in this House to stand up here if I felt for one moment that this was a bill that would favor special interests. I think my record in this House answers that argument most effectively. However, I think the issue should not be beclouded on either side. The argument of the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, strikes me very much as an attempt to cut your nose to spite your face. He said it would exempt the rich man who might leave one hundred thousand dollars of insurance. May I tell you gentleman as a matter of common sense an encyclopedia is not needed to answer that question, but for every man that carries one hundred thousand dollars of insurance, you have one thousand or possibly five thousand whose entire estate may not exceed a policy of insurance in the amount of five or ten thousand dollars. It is the little fellows you are going to strike at in not passing this legislation.

I am informed, although I can not vouch for it, that the counties themselves in the past years have collected the tax only because of the Beisel decision which endangers this form of insurance proceeds. I understand there are only one or two counties in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that have collected this four mills tax on the proceeds of life insurance. This is distinctly a bill which would not favor the large interests, but is a bill, more than any other bill that I know of or that has come up for discussion in this House, that would really protect the widows and orphans of Pennsylvania.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this bill because in my judgment, while the bill is fair as between the various beneficiaries in the proceeds of life insurance policies, in theory it will more greatly benefit the person who receives the proceeds of the large insurance policies because the widow and orphan who will benefit from small one thousand, two thousand, three thousand or five thousand dollar policies will not in all probability have much money left on deposit with the insurance company.

There is another reason: this bill will interfere greatly with the budget of the County Commissioners in the County of Allegheny, which is the county from which I come. I believe it will also interfere with the budgets already established in all the other counties in the Commonwealth. I believe we should not, in this late day in the session, suddenly bring forth a bill from committee and proceed hastily to pass it probably on the last day of the session, when we have lulled the County Commissioners into a sense of false security by sending the bill back to committee.

I say, further, Mr. Speaker, if the intent is that these proceeds shall not pay this tax, we are by passing this bill going to interfere with one item of the personal property tax which has been one of its most laudable characteristics, namely, that of uniformity as between the county personal property tax and the state personal property tax. If this bill is good so far as removing the tax of the counties from this particular subject matter, then we ought also relieve the same funds from the state personal property tax. The same question is involved; the only difference is that we are here robbing the county treasury instead of the state treasury. I am informed that since this decision an effort has been made by the state to collect from the various insurance companies the corporate loans tax, and I understand in this session we have definitely said that type of account is not subject to the corporate loans tax because we have in this session passed a bill setting forth clearly that it does not fall within that particular category. That relieves and clarifies the situation to the extent of eight mills which the insurance companies have benefitted by in this very session. I believe we ought not to pass this act now, but rather if it is to be done at all we should leave it to the next session to take similar action on this matter as respects both the state and county personal property tax, and I ask you to vote down the bill.

MOTION TO LAY ON TABLE

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I move that Senate Bill No. 379, be laid on the table.

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his question of information.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, is this bill still debatable?

The SPEAKER. The bill is debatable.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, may I ask Judge Woodside if the four mill personal property tax did not pass recently?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, first there was a one mill personal property tax adopted and then it was raised to four mills. I am not sure of the year it was first passed, but it seems to me it was just about ten years ago.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, the four mill personal property tax passed this session, is that not right?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, does that include the present exemptions that the gentleman wants adopted for the counties?

Mr. WOODSIDE. What is that, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, does the bill that we just passed include the exemption that is asked for in this particular bill?

Mr. WOODSIDE. No, Mr. Speaker, as I understand it as the conference report adopted it, it does not contain that provision.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, may I ask Judge Woodside if he thinks this bill would be constitutional if it were passed?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has me on the spot now; he has been calling me Judge. What if I were a Judge? I might have to pass on it and I would be prejudging. Maybe I had better not answer the question.

Mr. WEISS. I thank the gentleman from Dauphin County, Judge Woodside.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Judge from Allegheny County, Mr. Brown.

Mr. BROWN. I don't know whether the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Weiss, is just being funny or not, Mr. Speaker. Seriously, I do not want to be put in a facetious light because probably the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, has secured the services of Mr. Weiss for the purpose of getting newspaper publicity. If it will help the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, and if there are any other Judges in the House, whom it will help in the next campaign, I will be glad to answer the gentleman's question.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland will proceed.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, as to whether or not he thinks, and I am serious about it, this would be constitutional.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I see no objection to it from a constitutional standpoint.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Allegheny think we can pass legislation here allowing two different forms of taxation, or exemptions from taxation?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, we can exempt anything from taxation so long as the tax is reasonable and follows a particular classification.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, think it is reasonable to exempt from state tax and not exempt from the county tax or vice-versa?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman mean how the courts would construe it or what I think about the principle? From a constitutional standpoint I think it is all right, but as to whether or not it is good policy is another matter.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown.

I believe the very fact that Judge Woodside refused and is afraid to answer the question due to the fact that he might become a judge, is a reason in this particular case why he might declare it to be unconstitutional. I certainly agree with the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, and the other gentleman that it is very unfair to have two forms of taxation. If this bill would go the whole way, exempting the proceeds from both the county tax and from the state tax, I would personally be in favor of it because I believe it would help the widows and orphans. Why should you help the widows and orphans as far as the county is concerned and not help them as far as the state is concerned? Some say half a loaf is better than none. If we are going to give only a half a loaf, we might as well take it from the state as take it from the county. Therefore, that argument does not seem to hold water for that particular reason. Either take it away altogether or not at all. If you are going to take it away from the county alone then I believe it is very unfair. Furthermore, I think beyond any question of doubt it is unconstitutional, and as I am an attorney I will give you that as my opinion on the question.

Mr. FINESTONE. Mr. Speaker, may I say for the information of the Westmoreland delegation that I am also a candidate for judge. I do not hesitate for one moment to agree with my colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, that it is constitutional and I would so hold

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, now that the House has decided that this bill shall be considered, I do not believe the most important question in this bill is whether the bill is constitutional or unconstitutional. I disagree with my friend from Westmoreland when he says that the important phase of the bill is whether or not it is ethical for the state to tax and for the county to exempt. The important part of this bill, now that the House wants to consider this bill, and I want any man in this House to deny this charge—

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Armstrong will state his question of information.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I think somebody should give Mr. Levy the megaphone that was presented to him.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, the megaphone is now lying in the archives of the legislature with the pasters and folders.

Mr. Speaker I seriously say that the most important part of this bill has not been touched upon and I think every man will agree with me when they hear it explained.

This bill comes not from the orphans and widows of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania but comes directly from the offices of the big insurance companies in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I am going to tell you why. If the Members of the House will read this bill carefully they will find that the poor widow that Mr. Finestone cried about, if she takes her insurance money and invests it in railroad bonds or utility bonds or any other investment, she is not exempt under this bill from this tax. Oh, no, but if she leaves the money with the insurance company and they invest it then they are exempt from paying the tax, In other words the insurance companies are exempt from paying the tax. Gentlemen, I say to you in all seriousness let us take off the mask of hypocrisy. If you are going to exempt the widows and orphans exempt them when they invest their money and not when the insurance companies invest their money. Let not any man be deceived.

That is why I warned at the opening of this debate that these bills that are hustled out of committee in the closing days of the session are neither fair nor justifiable. These bills that are hurried out of committee on the closing days of the session, under the guise of protecting the widows and orphans do not protect them at all. This bill does favor the big insurance companies of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and I challenge the Senator on the other side of the Assembly to deny it. I would ask the gentlemen of the House if they know the profession of the Senator on the other side of the Assembly. This is an insurance company bill. Write into this bill an exemption for widows and orphans who invest their own money and then I will vote for the bill, but I will not vote for the bill if it does not exempt them on the one hand, but exempts the insurance carriers on the other hand. Let us get the truth of this situation. You Members of the House may bellow and yell and laugh but that is the truth. Let the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Finestone, deny it. Let the gentleman from Dauphin deny it. That is the purpose of this bill; that is what the bill does. If you want to enact legislation like this that is your business but I am going to walk out of here at the close of this session with a clean record. I am not going to vote for bills like this no matter how jovial the House feels this afternoon. Let us be honest about it. The bill was debated in the Senate. The charge was made in the Senate that that was the purpose of the bill and it was not denied. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, I am making the charge this afternoon, which I did not want to do before, that I thought it was unfair, because the bill was not on the calendar and I asked that the bill be laid on the table. I repeat the charge made in the Senate back in March which was not answered and I defy any of you gentlemen to deny it now.

Mr. FINESTONE. Mr. Speaker, there is evidence of an attempt to becloud the issue with a lot of loud speaking. I think the fact that some of the large insurance companies might be interested in this bill ought not to really make us lose our common sense.

In many instances, the widow has absolutely no say in the matter as to how she is going to invest her funds. Take the case, Mr. Speaker, of the average man who has possibly twenty-five thousand dollars, or let us say ten thousand dollars of insurance. He might feel that his widow if given that amount in a lump sum would dissipate it or be subject to the wiles of some unscrupulous person. He makes that decision in his own lifetime. He has said to the company, "I want my insurance money to be paid to my widow and children; leave it here to accumulate interest at the rate of three and one-half per cent." Then, whatever the amount may be, it is payable to the widow and children, including the principal and interest, over a period of time, depending upon the amount of insurance and the amount of monthly payments, possibly for ten or fifteen years. The widow has no choice about the matter. If it had been left to her directly, she might have taken that money and invested it in tax-exempt government bonds, or any other tax-exempt securities; she might have done that if she had the choice, but she did not have the choice, and in most instances, the insurance is left that way. She has no choice in the matter at all. In the first place, this fund is the result of her savings because of her frugality, because of her good housekeeping which made it possible for her husband to save enough to pay the premiums. Why should she be subjected to the payment of this tax? She had no say in the matter, and just because the husband wants to protect her is no reason in the world why the state which now exempts insurance companies from this form of taxation should levy this tax which falls most heavily on those who are least able to pay.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LEVY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, whether the other day he voted for the four mill personal property tax?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Armstrong, I would say I did vote for it.

Mr. GATES. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

If I recall, Mr. Speaker, I was the only Member of the House who voted against the four mill personal property tax. I did that because I do not believe in the tax. I believe it is a levy, and it is taxing these same widows and orphans that you have been discussing today.

Mr. Levy said, "We will take the mask off." I think the mask came off in his first remarks on the floor of the House when he asked to either recommit the bill or lay it on the table. He said he was not against the bill on its merits, but he was against it because of its establishing a precedent in the state of Pennsylvania.

Someone intimated the other day that organized labor was very much opposed to this particular piece of legislation. I made it my business today to interrogate the heads of both of the large labor unions of the state of Pennsylvania, and I say to the membership of this House and I say to them authentically that neither of the labor organizations in the State of Pennsylvania are opposed to this humane piece of legislation. I do not think we should pass on to these widows and orphans a tax, as explained by Mr. Finestone, that in some instances amounts to twenty-six per cent. Maybe it is not perfect legislation, but I say for the great majority of the mothers and the children of the state of Pennsylvania if there is one humane piece of legislation that should be passed by the House before we adjourn, it is this particular piece of legislation. The membership of this House knows that I have many times gone against my own party when I voted for labor legislation, when I have been the one Member on this side of the House that has done so. So if you are really interested, if you are honestly and truly interested in humane legislation in the interest of the poorer class of people in the state, vote for this bill.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Gates.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GATES. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, as one man in whom I have a lot of confidence, one man who has voted for labor, I think the remarks the gentleman just made are unfair, and I want to ask the gentleman a question in regard to it.

The gentleman from Armstrong said that he contacted the labor leaders of both the outstanding labor organizations in the state of Pennsylvania.

Mr. GATES. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. And they said, Mr. Speaker, they were not opposed to this act?

Mr. GATES. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Would the gentleman say that the labor leaders were in favor of this act?

Mr. GATES. I would not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. That clears the issue, and that is the point I am making. That is all.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LOVETT. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, when the labor organizations of the State felt that a certain piece of legislation was against the best interests of the working people of Pennsylvania, they have always been open and above board in stating their position either for or against that legislation. So I say to the gentleman from Westmoreland, when they were not against this bill, they did not think it was against the best interests of the working people of the State of Pennsylvania. I assure you, Mr. Speaker, that I think it is not against their interests, but rather I think it is in their favor.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question of the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Gates, I might say to him that I do not feel—I may be wrong in this statement—that group insurance held by employes and manufacturers throughout the state of Pennsylvania will be affected by this act. If I am wrong, I stand corrected. I might also add and tell the gentleman from Armstrong that the labor leaders possibly know that the majority of the working people in the state of Pennsylvania have the large majority of their insurance placed in that type of insurance. So, therefore, the labor leaders would not be too much interested in this particular bill.

Mr. Speaker, I now rise in defense of free womanhood. The insurance companies were tricky enough, they were plenty tricky enough to go around our men and tell them, "Listen, your wives and children are not capable of taking care of your money; you had better leave it right here with us; we will protect them, we will give them the benefit of this money, we will invest it, and of course, we will give a little sprinkling of it back to your poor wife and children." I rise in defense of free womanhood.

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, if there are any twenty-five thousand dollar widows foot-loose, they will not be widows very long after they get twenty-five thousand dollars.

Mr. Speaker, we have had this issue before us for close to two hours and I think both sides of the House have pretty well made up their minds, and, I now move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Finestone, Mooney, Wright, Hersch, Paul A. Brunner, Matthew J. Welsh, Reynolds, Shaw, McLane, Schwab, Tate, Early, Pettit, Powers, Williams, Turner, VanAllsburg, Snyder, Stockham, Lloyd H. Wood, Charles H. Brunner, Cadwalader and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. Lovett, Gerard and Bentley asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendments were concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 1253.

An Act providing a method of annexation of parts of townships to cities of the first class and regulating the proceedings pertaining thereto.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend the title, page 1, at the end of line 1, by inserting after the word "townships" the words "now owned by and contiguous"; also same page, line 2 of the title, by inserting after the word "class" the words "acquired and used or to be used as an airport seaplane base and rail and marine terminal".

Amend Section 1, page 1, line 1, by inserting after the word "township" the words "contiguous to and now owned by an adjacent city of the first class acquired and used or to be used as an airport seaplane base and rail and marine terminal not exceeding six hundred acres in area"; also same page, line 2, by striking out the words "any adjacent" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "the said"; also same page, at the beginning of line 3, by striking out the word "following"; also at the end of same line by striking out "viz" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "hereinafter set forth Provided however That no such annexation shall be made under the provisions of this act after the expiration of two years from the effective date of this act"; also same page, by striking out all of lines 4 to 9 inclusive as follows:

"Two-thirds of the taxpayers in number and amount in that part of the township shall present a petition to the Council of said City asking for such annexation which said petition shall be accompanied by a plot of the township and of the portion thereof proposed to be annexed to the said City."

Amend Section 2, page 1, by striking out in lines 10 and 11 and on page 2 by striking out all of lines 1 to 5 inclusive the following:

"Upon the presentation to the Council of such City of such petition and plot said Council may by ordinance annex such part of the township whereupon the said part thereof shall become a part of the said City and if such City be in a different county it shall become a part of the county in which such City is situated"

and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"The Council of the said City of the first class shall pass an ordinance annexing said contiguous part of the township owned by it to the said City of the first class Said ordinance shall contain a plot of the township and of the portion thereof to the annexed to the said City."

Amend Section 3, page 2, by striking out in line 6 to 14 inclusive the following:

"That the action of said City Council shall be final and conclusive unless an appeal therefrom be taken within ten (10) days to the Court of Quarter Sessions of the county in which such City is situated upon such appeal the Clerk of said City Council shall certify to said Court all the papers and proceedings in the case whereupon said Court shall examine and inquire and if the proceedings appear to have been in conformity with law shall approve the same"

and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"After the passage of the said Ordinance a certified copy thereof shall be filed in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the county in which the said City of the first class is located and in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the county in which such township is located and thirty (30) days after such filing the said annexation shall become effective and such part of the township shall become a part of the City and if such township and such city be in different counties the part of the township annexed shall become a part of the county in which such City is situated."

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. MIHM. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of information.

Mr. MIHM. Mr. Speaker, I would ask whether the Conference Reports on House Bills 1464, 1465, 1466, 1467 and 1468 are on file? I have not received the printed reports.

The SPEAKER. They are all printed and on file except on House Bill No. 1466.

Mr. MIHM. Mr. Speaker, may I call up all of the Conference Reports at the present time?

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Allegheny, he may call them up.

Mr. MIHM. Mr. Speaker, I call up the reports of the Committees on conference on House Bills 1465, 1467, 1468, 1469, and 1526.

(e) Registration in this manner by persons in military service may be made at any time Provided however That if any registration card is received by any registration commission from any person in military service at any time when registration by personal appearance in the manner provided in section eighteen of this act could not be made under the provisions of section sixteen of this act such application shall be retained by the commission until the beginning of the next period during which such registration by personal appearance could be made and at such time the applicant if otherwise entitled shall be duly registered

(f) The status of any person in military service with respect to residence shall remain the same as it was when such person entered military service Provided however That if at the time of entering military service any person shall not have resided in Pennsylvania or in a particular election district thereof for a sufficient time to have been entitled to be registered but by continued residence would have become so entitled he shall be entitled to be registered at such time as he would have been so entitled had he not entered military service and had continued to reside where he then resided

(g) Registration cards returned by persons in military service to any registration commission shall be examined by a member of the commission or any clerk or registrar at a time and place when personal registrations are being received and such member of the commission clerk or registrar shall announce in the hearing of all present the name of the person in military service who has thus offered to register and the address of his residence on the date of entering military service The right of such person in military service to be registered shall not be subject to challenge for any reason other than failure to have mailed the commission a properly completed registration card If the commission finds the registration card not properly completed it shall reject it in the manner hereinafter provided

Section 4 Section twenty-three of the said act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 23 Incomplete or Rejected Applications to Be Recorded The registrar commissioner or clerk shall record on registration cards the surname Christian name or names and street and number of residence of each person who applies for registration whether or not the application is accepted Whenever the applicant is rejected after a portion of the record has been filled in the registration card or cards shall be marked "Applicant Rejected" and the registrar commissioner or clerk shall note thereon the reason for the rejection and shall sign his name thereto The registrar commissioner or clerk shall forthwith personally notify the applicant if his application for registration is rejected Provided however That if the registration card was received by mail from a person in military service notice of rejection shall be by mail All such cards shall be returned to the commission and shall be preserved for a period of two years

Section 5 Subsection (a) of section twenty-nine of the said act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 29 Change of Enrollment of Political Party Cancellation of Party Enrollment Persons Suffering Disability After Registration to Have Fact Recorded Cancellation (a) At any time prior to the fifteenth day next preceding a primary or an election excepting the thirty days next following each election and the five days next following each primary any person who desires to change the enrollment of his political designation or who although registered has not hitherto enrolled as a member of a party may appear before a registrar commissioner or clerk and state in writing over his signature the political party in which he desires to be enrolled and the registrar commissioner or clerk shall cause the enrollment of the elector's political designation to be made or altered accordingly in the general and district registers In such cases the signature of the elector shall be verified by comparison with his signature on the general and district registers before the change of enrollment is made If any elector desiring to change his party enrollment is unable to sign his application he shall make his mark thereto in the presence of the registrar commissioner or clerk and shall produce such other evidence as may be necessary to establish his identity When an elector has applied for a change in the enrollment of his political designation as provided herein the registrar commissioner or clerk shall upon request stamp or mark the change so made on the elector's card attesting his registration Any person in military service who desires to change his party enrollment shall be permitted to do so by addressing to the commission a signed written application under oath taken and subscribed to before any commissioned officer of the military or naval forces either within or without the Commonwealth or before any officer of this or any other state or territory of the United States authorized to administer oaths The application shall be sent by the applicant by registered mail return receipt required and shall also contain a statement that such person is at the time of making the application absent from his residence in military service If upon examination the signature appears authentic and the application conform to the provisions of this section the enrollment shall be changed in accordance with the application

Section 6 Section thirty-one of the said act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 31 Check-up of Registers

(a) At any time prior to the thirtieth day next preceding an election or primary the commission may send by mail to any elector whose name appears in any district register a notice setting forth the elector's name and address as it shall appear in the register and requesting him in case of any error to present the notice on or before the tenth day next ensuing at the office of the commission and secure the correction of the error and warning the elector that any discrepancy between his actual name and address and his name and address as recorded in the original register will constitute ground for challenging his vote Such notice shall contain on the outside a request to the postmaster to return it within five days if it cannot be delivered to the addressee at the address given thereon

(b) At any time prior to the thirtieth day next preceding an election or primary the commission may cause a check-up to be made by postmen of the United States Post Office of any elector whose name appears in any district register

(c) At least once in each four years the commission shall conduct a check-up of each registered elector in the city by either of the methods provided for in subsections (a) and (b) above

(d) Upon the return by the post office of any such notice which it has been unable to deliver at the given address because the addressee cannot be found there or upon report by the post office that any registered elector does not reside at the address given on his registration card the commission shall direct an authorized employe to visit in person the address of the elector and if he shall find that the elector does not reside at the address he shall leave at such address the notice prescribed by section thirty-two of this act and the commission shall at the expiration of the time specified in such notice cancel the registration of such person unless he personally appears and proves his qualifications as an elector Provided however That the registration of any person in military service shall not be cancelled by reason of the failure of such person to reside at the address appearing upon the district register if such person did reside at such address on the date of entering military service

Section 7 Section thirty-seven of the said act is hereby amended by adding thereto a new subsection (h) to read as follows

(h) Persons in military service shall be entitled to vote if duly registered in a manner provided by this act Persons in military service and by reason thereof absent from their places of residence on the day of any election shall be entitled to vote in such manner as may now or hereafter be provided by law unaffected by the provisions of this section insofar as they relate to the manner of voting

Section 8 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I feel I would be derelict in my duty to the people of this great Commonwealth did I not rise at this time in opposition to Senate Bill No. 575. Those of us who are familiar with the legislation of our state that has given the medical profession their status know that prior to the year 1911 all that one needed to do to become a medical doctor was practically to say he was a doctor and to think he was a doctor and hang out his shingle. There were practically no formalities whatever that he had to go through. In 1911 we had the law enacted that formed the foundation for the medical profession in Pennsylvania, and almost every year since there have been added to that law amendments and new laws from time to time, and some parts of these laws were repealed, until today we have our present law governing the medical profession in this great state.

Now I submit to you, Mr. Speaker, that at this time no new law is needed, no further power is needed in order that the physicians or medical doctors of our country can proceed with their work and perform this work efficiently.

I do not think at any time in my history here in this House have I ever tried to create a noise of any kind so that one may not be heard, and I ask that I be extended the same courtesy for a few moments,—I do not intend to talk long, I do not intend to talk loud, because I do not expect and I do not want to frighten anybody.

I contend Mr. Speaker that no further legislation is needed. I can think of no instance in which the medical doctor is hampered. When he is called by a patient he has the privilege of deciding whether the patient will need an operation, whether he will be put in some kind of a plaster cast, or whether he will give the patient some kind of tablets; nobody else can say anything, and the laws are so much in his favor today in this state that should he make a mistake it is almost impossible to call him to account for it.

I have another reason for opposing this bill at this time. I believe I am safe in saying that not ten per cent of the Members of this House have read this bill; not ten per cent of the Members of this House understand this bill. In this closing time of our legislation, when there is excitement and when we are not given much to deliberation, we should be very careful not to allow something to go through that is not needed, something that might prove injurious to the people of our state. I remember when I first came here I contacted an old lawyer, and he said to me, "I am going to give you a bit of advice; when you go down to the legislature, if ever there comes a time when you are in doubt upon any bill I am going to tell you just how to vote". I said, "I would be pleased to have such advice". He said, "Always vote 'no' ".

Let us examine this bill for just a moment. You will find definitions that I tried to amend yesterday. Our definitions were carried over verbatim from the 1937 law. Those definitions are all-inclusive. They go further than Webster's dictionary; they go further than any legal dictionary in defining medical practice and the healing arts. They have combined these two together in one definition and made them inseparable, when in reality they are two different terms.

Mr. Speaker, I quote from Bouvier's Law Dictionary of 1940, which defines the meaning of the word "Medicine" as follows:

> "The practice of medicine includes the application and use of medicines and drugs for the purpose of curing, mitigating or alleviating bodily diseases, while the practice of surgery is limited to manual operations usually performed by surgical instruments or appliances."

Mr. Speaker, I say we should give no further grounds for this powerful organization now is protected by law better than any other organization in the state of Pennsylvania. They can move in any direction now as far as they care to go, yet here they come asking for further leave and further license.

Mr. Speaker let us call attention to the bill and turn to page six and the amendment that we have there. I am quoting:

> "It shall not be lawful for any person in the state of Pennsylvania to engage in the practice of medicine or surgery".

I quite agree with that, Mr. Speaker. That is all right. Then it goes on further and says,

> "—or to pretend a knowledge of any branch or branches of medicine."

In other words Mr. Speaker it forbids you to think. You can use baking soda in making biscuits, but you don't know whether it is an acidifier or an alkalizer. You dare not know of the potentialities of Epsom Salts or castor oil; you are forbidden that, you dare not do that.

The bill goes on further and says,

> "the treatment of disease by the use of medicine or surgery".

It must be either one of those things; it makes no exception whatever. It would not be permissible under this law for a mother to give her child afflicted with croup a spoonful of molasses; it would not permit any person to trim the fingernails of another person.

Mr. Speaker, I submit this bill was designed with malice aforethought. This bill is selfish, and I can prove it to you from yesterday's activities. This bill was sent from the Senate into the House and referred to our committee. There was opposition to this bill by certain groups because the sponsors of this bill, seemingly purposely, intentionally and maliciously left it in such shape that our optometrists and our osteopaths and our dentists were left out in the cold. This bill was amended. It was not their intention to have this bill go through in any way other than in the form in which it was drafted, forgetting the interests and the welfare of all these other noble professions that we need.

I do not think evil of our medical profession; I think our medical doctors and our surgeons have a place in our country and we should accord them their right, but when it comes to the building of an organization of this type, and attempting to put the last rail on the fence, they are now in the trough with all four feet, and they want to begin now to lie down.

Under this bill, if it were enacted into law, that great Galilean Prince of Peace who came to our world some two thousand years ago, Jesus Christ, if he would attempt curing as he did then, this law would require that he go behind bars and even pay a fine of five hundred to one thousand dollars.

I ask you to give this bill careful consideration. Consider the people of our state. You will not take from the medical profession anything if this bill fails to pass. You are simply keeping them where they are, where they are amply protected, where they have a right to do just as they please. There is no law in Pennsylvania today governing medicine higher than the Medical Board. Why should we give them more? I ask you to vote against this bill.

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, I do not care to take up a great deal of time of the House. I know we have gone through a very strenuous afternoon in debate, but I do wish to point out what this bill really does.

In the first place, this bill was formulated as a result of the approval of the accepted hospitals, that is, approved hospitals of the State, as well as the unapproved hospitals of the State, along with the Department of Health of the State a member of the Attorney General's office and the medical societies.

In 1911, the original act was passed. In 1937 Act No. 232 was passed amending the 1911 act. The definition of medicine and surgery as it appears in this particular act, Senate Bill 575, is identical with that contained in the Act of 1937. It is put into this act as Section one. This act does not have anything to do with any other board that is established in this State. By that I mean the Dental Board, the Nurses' Board, the Optometrist Board, or any of the other boards under the statutes of the state. They are not affected one iota by this bill. When an interne has graduated after one year's service in a hospital, there comes a waiting period between the time that he takes his State Board Examination and the time he receives his license from the state. This bill will permit that interne, instead of being a nobody during that period, as the board has decreed, or as one of its members really has taken it upon himself to decree, to be a doctor the day he is through as an interne in the hospital, along with post-graduate work in one of the greatest schools in the state of Pennsylvania. Anybody who attacks this bill does not realize that we are the mecca of the world in the practice of medicine. If we do realize that, then we ought to boost it sky high and we ought to keep it that way. This bill will allow post-graduate work. Along with that, this bill does not touch any chiropractor, any chiropodist, or any of the practitioners of the healing arts. This bill, in fact, protects that individual; this bill will make for better enforcement in our state and reduce illegal practice in the state. If you want to pass laws to make illegitimate work in this State legitimate, then you vote against this bill.

I don't know what the former speaker was referring to when he spoke about baking soda. There is nothing in this bill referring to baking soda. If this bill should not pass, but be defeated, the law would remain as it is on the books. It was only yesterday that Mr. Nagel inserted or attempted to insert his own amendments. If by inserting those amendments it made the bill good, why is not the bill good without the insertion of those amendments?

Mr. Speaker, I do not care to take up any more time, and I ask the gentlemen of the House to vote in favor of this bill.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Sarraf.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SARRAF. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker, will this bill permit men who have graduated from a medical school to serve as internes during the period between their graduation and the time they are formally licensed?

Mr. SARRAF. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker, it will.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker, is that provision a necessary one at the present time throughout the hospitals of our state?

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, as I stated previously, this will limit the power of the Board because the Board today, under the law, can rule those individuals out, that is, they do not permit them to be internes after they are through their one year's interneship; they are not employable by recognized or non-recognized hospitals.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker, from the gentleman's knowledge of the hospitals in Allegheny County or throughout the state, are hospitals at the present time experiencing difficulty in securing internes to serve in their institutions?

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, there is dire need of internes, there is no doubt about that.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Sarraf.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SARRAF. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny please tell us whether or not the graduates or those who have just graduated are not now permitted to act as internes?

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Beaver asks whether graduates are entitled to become internes, and I answer that graduates must be internes before they become doctors in our state.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker is there not now power within the board to govern all of these things?

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, there is discretionary power on the part of the board, there is no doubt about that. The chairman of that board has made this particular ruling, and his interpretation prevents that individual from being able to take advantage of an opportunity for service in a hospital. This law if passed will limit the board, in other words, it will confine their power to the extent that they must accept these gentlemen as they finish their interne year to be eligible for service in hospitals.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I think this interneship business is just a thin veil spread over this thing to cover something that they do not want known. I think it is a dangerous bill and I repeat again, gentlemen, vote it down.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

3 If any other day than the day of any general municipal or primary election be fixed by the corporate authorities of any municipality school district or incorporated district for the holding of a special election on the question of increase of indebtedness or any other question as authorized by law such municipality school district or incorporated district shall be liable for and pay the entire expense of holding such election including the cost of printing ballots and supplies pay of election officers the rental of polling places and the cost of canvassing and computing the votes cast

(b) The county commissioners or other appropriating authorities of the county shall provide the county board with suitable and adequate offices at the county seat properly furnished for keeping its records holding its public sessions and otherwise performing its public duties and shall also provide such branch offices for the board in cities other than the county seat as may be necessary

(c) The Commonwealth shall reimburse each county for election expenses incurred at every election for the preparation handling and mailing of ballots for electors in actual military service in the sum of forty-three cents for each ballot mailed to an elector in actual military service in such manner as is now or may hereafter be provided by law

Each county board of elections shall file in the Department of State not later than thirty days after every election on a form prescribed by the Department of State a statement of the number of ballots mailed in such manner as is now or may hereafter be provided by law to electors in actual military service upon the written application of each such elector Such applications shall be preserved by each county board of elections until reimbursement is made as herein provided subject to inspection or production in the Department of State if demanded by the Department of State

The Department of State shall ascertain and fix the amount due as herein provided to each county for election expenses incurred for the preparation handling and mailing of ballots to electors in actual military service and by requisition in the usual course shall provide for payment of such amounts so found due from moneys appropriated to the Department of State for such purpose or shall prorate the moneys so appropriated among the several counties to be reimbursed if the amount so appropriated shall not be sufficient for the payment in full to each county of the amount found to be due

Section 3 Article thirteen of said act is hereby repealed absolutely

Section 4 Said act is hereby amended by adding thereto a new article thirteen to read as follows

Article XIII

Voting By Persons In Actual Military Service

Section 1301 Qualified Electors in Actual Military Service Whenever any of the qualified electors of this Commonwealth shall be in any actual military service and as such absent from their place of residence on the days appointed by law for holding any election within this State or on the days for holding special elections to fill vacancies such electors shall be entitled at such times to exercise the right of suffrage as fully as if they were present at their usual places of election in the manner prescribed in this article and whether at the time of voting such electors shall be within the limits of this State or not

Section 1302 Ballots Ballots for use by electors in actual military service under the provisions of this article shall be prepared sufficiently in advance by the county boards of election and shall be by such boards distributed as hereinafter provided to the electors in actual military service entitled to vote at any election Such ballots shall be in substantially the form prescribed by article ten of this act for ballots to be used at the same elections within this Commonwealth but in cases where there is not time in the opinion of the county boards of elections to print on said ballots the names of the various candidates for district county and local offices the ballots shall contain blank spaces only under the titles of such offices in which the voters may insert the names of the candidates for whom they desire to vote and in such cases the county boards of elections shall furnish to the elector in actual military service a sufficient number of printed lists containing the names of all the candidates who have been regularly nominated under the provisions of this act for the use of the elector in preparing his ballot

Section 1303 Duties of County Boards In the case of any election at which votes are cast by electors in actual military service under the provisions of this article it shall be the duty of each county board of elections to withhold the completion of the computation of the returns of the county until the second Friday after such election within which period all votes cast by electors of the county in actual military service as provided in this article shall be added to and included in its computation of the returns of such election but not afterwards

Section 1304 Manner of Voting by Electors in Actual Military Service Electors mentioned in section one thousand three hundred and one shall have the right to apply not less than thirty (30) days and not more than fifty (50) days before any election for a "military ballot" The application shall be in writing signed by the applicant in his own hand and addressed to the county board of elections of the county wherein the applicant is registered to vote and shall state the county and the city borough or township and the precise ward or election district in or the street and number at which the applicant is registered to vote If the application is for a ballot for a primary election it shall also state the political party in which the applicant is enrolled

Section 1305 Ballots and Envelopes for Electors in Actual Military Service The County boards of elections shall prepare and upon request deliver to the said electors in actual military service a ballot by registered mail with return receipt required in an envelope addressed to each such elector at the address furnished by the elector in his application for a military ballot Such ballots shall be prepared and printed in the same form as the ballots provided for by section one thousand three hundred and two of this act but shall have in addition printed stamped or endorsed thereon the words "Military Ballot" The county boards of elections shall also provide and deliver as aforesaid three envelopes for each military ballot of such size and shape that will permit the placing of one within the other On the first shall be printed stamped or endorsed only the words "Military Ballot" On the second shall be printed the affidavit of the elector together with the jurat of the officer in whose presence the ballot is marked and before whom the affidavit is made such affidavit and jurat to be in form prescribed by the Secretary of the Commonwealth On the third shall be placed the name and address of the county board of elections of the proper county All military ballots and envelopes shall be mailed at least fifteen (15) days before the election involved to the electors requesting them

Each county board of elections shall print and post in a conspicuous public place at its office a list setting forth the name present location and local voting district or ward of every elector to whom a military ballot has been sent This list shall be posted at least ten (10) days before the primary or election involved and shall also set forth the total number of military ballots prepared by the county board of elections Copies of such list shall be furnished upon request to the county chairman of each political party and political body

Section 1306 Voting by Electors in Actual Military Service Any such elector may make application within the time prescribed by section one thousand three hundred and four to the county boards of elections for a "Military Ballot" At any time after receiving such military ballot but on or before the day of the election such elector in actual military service may appear before any commissioned officer of the military or naval forces either within or without the Commonwealth or before any officer of this or or any other state or territory of the United States authorized to administer oaths and mark such ballot under the scrutiny of such officer in the following manner The voter shall first display the ballot to such officer as evidence that the same is unmarked and shall then proceed to mark the ballot in the presence of such officer but in such manner that such officer is unable to see how the same is marked and then fold the ballot enclose and securely seal the same in the envelope on which is printed stamped or endorsed "Military Ballot" This envelope shall then be placed in the one on which is printed the affidavit of the elector and the jurat of the officer before whom the elector appears and such envelope sealed in like manner by the elector The elector shall then make out subscribe and swear to the affidavit printed on the face of such envelope and the jurat shall be subscribed by the officer before whom the affidavit was taken Such ballot and envelope shall then be securely sealed in the third envelope which the elector shall send by mail to the county board of elections of the proper county with postage prepaid

Section 1307 Receipt and Counting of Military Ballots The county board of elections upon receipt of such third envelope shall safely keep the same in their office until they meet to canvass the vote of such election under the provisions of this act

At such time the members of the county board of elections may in person dispose of military ballots in the manner hereinafter set forth or they may designate a sufficient number of clerks to perform such duties When it is determined that clerks shall be appointed the total number shall in every case be in multiples of three each member of the county board of elections shall appoint an equal number thereof

Watchers appointed in the manner prescribed by and subject to the restrictions imposed by section four hundred and seventeen of this act insofar as applicable shall be permitted to be present whenever any of the envelopes containing military ballots are opened and whenever any such ballots are counted and recorded

In disposing of military ballots the county board of elections or the clerks designated as aforesaid shall first examine the third envelope and set aside unopened all such envelopes which bear a post mark later than the date of the particular election day involved The envelopes thus set aside shall be retained for a period of one year and then destroyed unopened

They shall then open the third envelopes not thus set aside and after examining the affidavit and jurat shall compare the signature of such absent voter with his signature upon any register or other record in their possession If the county board is satisfied that the signatures correspond that the affidavit and jurat are sufficient and that the voter has been duly registered as provided by law they shall announce the name of the elector and shall give any person present an opportunity to challenge the same in like manner and for the same causes as such elector could have been challenged had he presented himself in his own district to cast his vote If there are no challenges they shall open the second envelope in such manner as not to destroy the affidavit and jurat printed thereon which envelope shall be kept in their office for a period of one year thereafter All envelopes on which are printed stamped or endorsed the words "Military Ballot" and containing the ballots shall be put into one depository at one time and said depository well shaken and the envelopes containing the ballots mixed before any ballot is taken therefrom The county board shall then break the seals of such envelopes and record the said ballots in the same manner as district election officers are required to record votes under the provisions of this act In like manner all military ballots received prior to completion of the computation of the returns of the county shall be counted and recorded and upon completion of the computation of the returns of the county the votes cast upon the military ballots shall then be added to the votes cast within the county city borough incorporated town township ward or election district as designated on each ballot Military ballots shall be safely kept by the county board of elections for a period of one year

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Mr. ELY asked and obtained unanimous consent to call out of order House Bill No. 1620, (Senate Bill No. 714), Printer's No. 227, on page 6 of today's calendar, bills on third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1620, (Senate Bill No. 714), entitled:

An Act to further amend section fifteen of the act, approved the eleventh day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 522) entitled "An act relating to dogs, and the protection of live stock and poultry from damage by dogs; providing for the licensing of dogs by the Secretary of Agriculture; providing for the enumeration of dogs by assessors; regulating the keeping of dogs, and authorizing their destruction in certain cases; providing for the protection of licensed dogs, and for dogs temporarily imported for trial, show, and breeding purposes; prescribing certain privileges for hunting dogs, and dogs owned or used by the Board of Game Commissioners; providing for the assessment of damages done to live stock and poultry by dogs, and for the illegal killing of licensed dogs, and the payment of such damages by the Commonwealth; imposing powers and duties on certain State, county, city, borough, town, and township officers and employes; directing the payment of all moneys collected into the State Treasury; and making an appropriation thereof; and providing penalties," by providing for the return of a portion of moneys received for licenses to the counties for use by Societies for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and specifically appropriating the same for such purpose

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ELY. Mr. Speaker, I want to call the attention of the House to what this bill does. This is an amendment to the act passed in 1921 in relation to dogs, and setting up a fund from which the damage done by dogs to live stock and poultry is paid. This bill would take fifteen per cent of that money and return it to the different counties for the use of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. I think it is a dangerous precedent to tap this fund. If it should be returned to this society there are several others that could then with equal justice ask for a share of this money. I ask the Members of the House to vote this bill down.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker, voicing the sentiment of the gentleman from Susquehanna Mr. Ely, I urge the membership to vote "no" on this bill. I think it is a bad precedent to divert these funds from their original purpose.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, I think the vote by which this bill was defeated is a tribute to the gentleman from Susquehanna, Mr. Ely.

Mr. ELY. Mr. Speaker, I wish to thank the gentleman of the House and also the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Tarr.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Mr. READINGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up out of order House Bill No. 1942 (Senate No. 1096), Printer's No. 607, on page 14 of today's calendar, bills on third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1942, (Senate Bill No. 1096), entitled:

An Act to further amend section one of the act, approved the thirteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and seven (P. L. 640), entitled "An act to provide revenue by levying a tax upon the shares of stock of companies incorporated under the provisions of section twenty-nine of an act, entitled 'An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations,' approved April twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, and the supplements thereto; for the insurance of owners of real estate, mortgages, and others interested in real estate, from loss by reason of defective titles, liens and encumbrances; and of companies entitled to the benefits of, and of companies having any of the powers of, companies entitled to the benefits of an act, entitled 'An act conferring upon certain fidelity, insurance, safety deposit, trust, and savings companies the powers and privileges of companies incorporated under the provisions of section twenty-nine of an act, entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations," approved April twenty-ninth, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, and of the supplements thereto,' approved June twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, commonly known as title insurance or trust companies," by basing the tax upon the book value of the shares; continuing the increased rate of tax for a further limited period of time and reducing the rate of tax after such limited period of time.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Ways and Means for further study.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. READINGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up out of order House Bill No. 1943, (Senate Bill No. 1097), Printer's No. 606, on page 14 of today's calendar, bills on third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1943, (Senate Bill No. 1097), as follows:

An Act to further amend section one of the act, approved the fifteenth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven (P. L. 292) entitled "An act to provide revenue by taxation," by redefining the base for taxation of shares of stock of banks and savings institutions, and by increasing the rate of tax for a further limited period of time.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Ways and Means for further study.

The motion was agreed to.

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return it to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

QUESTION OF INQUIRY

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker I arise to a question of inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Northampton will state his question of inquiry.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker, has the House taken action on Senate Bill 302 on page one of the calendar?

The SPEAKER. No, we have not.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker, I would like that bill to be made a special order of business at this time.

The SPEAKER. It will not be necessary to do that. The Chair will lay the bill before the House.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1445, (Senate Bill No. 302), entitled:

An Act to further amend section one thousand four hundred sixteen of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue, and repealing all laws general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," changing the qualifications of certain children for exemption from compulsory attendance provisions.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, is there anyone in the House who can explain this bill?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, is there any agreement on the part of the floor leaders to recess at any time in the near future?

The SPEAKER. The Chair hopes to be able to declare a recess at six thirty until nine o'clock standard time.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, the title of the bill having been read and the vote now about to be taken, is it in order to ask that the bill go over?

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the bill will go over.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I so request. I am fearful we are going to become involved in a real lengthy debate and we are just about worn out.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objections and the bill will go over.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

RESOLUTION

HIGHWAY BRIDGE

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Whereas, In the City of Connellsville, Fayette County, there is a bridge over the Youghiogheny River, which is a connecting link between important and heavily traveled Federal and State highways; and

Whereas, Such bridge is at present inadequate to carry the traffic which must necessarily pass over it, being too narrow and in a poor state of repair; and

Whereas, Great increase of highway traffic resulting from the National Defense Program and general business improvement has even further overtaxed the facilities of this bridge; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby urge the Department of Highways to make an immediate investigation of the present condition of the aforesaid bridge with a view to determining what changes or repairs should be made; and be it further

Resolved, That the Department of Highways is urged upon the conclusion of such investigation, to promptly undertake and complete the construction of an adequate bridge, sufficient to handle the present and future traffic requirements; and be it further

Resolved, That a certified copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Governor and to the Secretary of Highways.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Messrs. O'NEILL and KENEHAN offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Whereas, The House of Representatives often pauses in its deliberations to pay homage to the distinguished citizens of this Commonwealth; and

Whereas, The younger citizens of this Commonwealth sometimes bring distinction to the Commonwealth, as well as do its adult citizens; and

Whereas, Gerald (Chick) Robinson has just won the National Marble Tournament in Wildwood, New Jersey thereby bringing distinction to Pennsylvania and to his home City of Scranton; and

Whereas, Young "Chick" Robinson has shown himself to be a true sportsman, and a worthy representative of young America, and a true representative of the traditions of this Commonwealth; be it therefore

Resolved, That the House of Representatives congratulates "Chick" Robinson and his parents on this, a singular achievement of their son; and be it further Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House forward a copy of this resolution to Mr. and Mrs. Robinson.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL No. 24.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up the report of the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 24, Printer's No. 602.

The report was read by the Clerk as follows:

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering Senate Bill No. 24, entitled:

"An Act defining and prohibiting unfair sales; providing remedies for violations thereof; and establishing penalties therefor."

John M. Walker
J. Fred Thomas
John H. Dent
(Committee on the Part of the Senate.)

Reuben E. Cohen
George J. Sarraf
David P. Reese, Jr.
(Committee on the part of the House of Representatives.)

An Act defining and prohibiting unfair sales providing remedies for violations thereof and establishing penalties therefor

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Whereas The practice of selling certain items of merchandise at cost or less than cost in order to attract patronage is generally a form of deceptive advertising and an unfair method of competition in commerce and

Whereas Such practice causes commercial dislocation misleads the consumer works back against the farmer directly burdens and obstructs commerce and diverts business from dealers who maintain a fair price policy and

Whereas Bankruptcies among merchants who fail because of the competition of those who use such method result in unemployment disruption of leases and nonpayment of taxes and loans and contribute to the inevitable train of undesirable consequences including economic depression now therefore

Section 1 This act shall be known and designated and may be cited as the "Unfair Sales Act"

RESOLUTION

75TH ANNIVERSARY OF BOROUGH OF PLYMOUTH

Mr. BONEY offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Whereas, during the second week of October of this year the Borough of Plymouth, Pennsylvania, will celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding; and

Whereas, this community has long maintained its position as the pulsating heart of the anthracite region of Pennsylvania, representing the progress, advancement and achievement of the hard coal territory; and

Whereas, Old Shawnee has contributed to the government of this Commonwealth and of this nation to a greater degree than any other community of its size in America, by sending loyal sons and daughters to positions of high place in the nation and in the state; and

Whereas, this community, through its sons and daughters, has in a large measure guided the destinies of the County of Luzerne, has sent one of its citizens to the Governor's chair at Harrisburg, and has sent another to the Postmaster Generalship of the United States; and

Whereas, the legend of "Shawnee against the World," through the accomplishments and cooperative attitude of the municipality, has become "The World for Shawnee"; Now, Therefore, Be It

Resolved, that the House of Representatives join with the rest of the Commonwealth in extending to the officials and citizens of this great borough, congratulations and best wishes on the occasion of its seventy-fifth anniversary; and Be It Further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the burgess, president of the borough council, president of the Chamber of Commerce and the chairman of the Seventy-five Anniversary Celebration.

Mr. BONEY. Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the committee making ready for this great celebration I am extending to each and every Member of this House an invitation to attend this great celebration. I thank you.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE ON RULES

Mr. ACHTERMAN from the Committee on Rules offered the following report:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), that this Regular Session of the General Assembly adjourn sine die, Saturday, July 12, at 11:45 p. m.

Signed by the Committee on Rules

Leo A. Achterman
Anthony J. Gerard
Albert S. Readinger
James E. Lovett
Chas. Melchiorre
Elmer Kilroy

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker, so long as it does not interfere with adjournment.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I just want the gentleman from Monroe to give some of us who are exhausted an assurance as to just when we will adjourn, notwithstanding the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Monroe said 11:45.

Mr. BROWN. I understand that, Mr. Speaker, but I mean truthfully speaking, not by way of resolution, but by way of actual fact, according to the days of the week as we know them in our ordinary course of life.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to inquire from the gentleman from Allegheny whether he is speaking off the record. It is very important.

Mr. BROWN. Well, Mr. Speaker, it may be off or on. If the answer does not conflict with the resolution, we will keep it off the record, as it may perhaps hearten some of us by keeping it off the record.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, either off or on the record, it will be 11:45 p. m. today.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 51

Mr. BRADLEY presented the report of the Committee of Conference on the part of the House on Senate Bill No. 51.

The report was read by the Clerk.

The SPEAKER. This being a Senate bill the report will be printed by the Senate, and placed in the files of the members of the House.

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE INSISTS ON NON-CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate insists on its non-concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the House of Representatives to Senate Bill No. 169, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the twenty-fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 814), entitled "An act to provide for the permanent personal registration of electors in cities of the second class as a condition of their right to vote at elections and primaries, and their enrollment as members of political parties as a further condition of their right to vote at primaries; prescribing certain procedure for the conduct of elections and primaries and the challenge and proof of qualifications of electors; and prescribing the powers and duties of citizens, parties, political bodies, registration commissions, commissioners, registrars, inspectors of registration and other appointees of registration commissions, county election boards, election officers, municipal officers, departments and bureaus, police officers, courts, judges, prothonotaries, sheriffs, county commissioners, peace officers, county treasurers, county controllers registrars of vital statistics, certain public utility corporations, real estate brokers, rental agents, and boards of school directors; and imposing penalties," abolishing the existing registration commission for cities of the second class and providing that the county commissioners of each county in which any such city is located shall act as a registration commission therefor further regulating the appointment of employes and assistants by the registration commission and removing the present appointees providing for the consolidation of the second class city general register with the general register of cities of the third class and boroughs towns and townships of the county providing for the transfer of the registration of electors upon change of residence from a third class city borough town or township in the same county changing the period during which changes of enrollment of political party may be made eliminating preparation and distribution of preliminary street lists and permitting the destruction of certain records

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House insist upon its amendments non-concurred in by the Senate to Senate Bill No. 169 and that a Committee of Conference be appointed.

The motion was agreed to.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL No. 169

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a Committee of Conference on said bill, Messrs. MIHM, BAKER and RHEA.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

INTERROGATION

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I made reference to two bills on page fourteen of the Calendar, Senate Bill No. 1096 and Senate Bill No. 1097. When the gentleman from Monroe and I went over the calendar together, these bills were marked to be recommitted because of an agreement made in the Ways and Means Committee at the time they were reported to the floor of the House, that they would be recommitted after two readings. I can make no objection to the recommission of those bills on account of that agreement, but I was not present when the bills were recommitted, because the gentleman from Monroe and I were attending a conference with the Governor. Since this is the last day of the session, or at least apparently so, and these bills will be dead if they are not brought out again and passed, I am going to ask the gentleman from Monroe whether he will agree to have the Committee on Ways and Means have a meeting, so that these bills can be considered by that committee, with the hope that they may be reported out on the floor of the House for final passage today.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee advises me he is going to hold a meeting of his committee to consider these bills. Of course, we will interpose no objection to the holding of such a meeting. As to any action that the committee might take, of course, I am making no commitment.

Mr. WOODSIDE. I thank the gentleman from Monroe.

BILLS SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TROUT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to call your attention to the fact that in these closing hours of the Legislative session of 1941, we are greatly honored in having with us a very distinguished gentleman, a man who formerly attended the sessions of the Legislature very regularly, but of late has been absent most of the time. The reason for this was intimated on the floor of the house some time ago. However, tonight we have with us the well known columnist, John M. Cummings.

Mr. Speaker, the coming of Mr. Cummings was sensed by a number of beautiful blondes in Harrisburg, and a reception committee has been appointed to do him honor, but to their very great chagrin it was discovered that Mrs. Cummings came with him, as she was advised to do some time ago. I suggest that we welcome Mrs. Cummings.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. BRETHERICK asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from Lancaster referring to Mr. Cummings as a columnist or a calumnist?

The SPEAKER. He is referring to the gentleman as a Communist.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SARGE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, since one of America's most prominent columnists, Mr. John M. Cummings is in the House tonight I wish to make a brief and belated statement about the altercation he and Ellwood Turner had about a shad dinner several weeks ago.

Herr Schwetzer, pour wocha surick hut der Cummings und de Turner un dialogue cota uf de butta fun de Haus volfa un shad Midtaugh easa. De Cummings hut sakt as de Turner spote vor. Sis un sposicha ding as de Turner spote vor fer easa. Ich denk es vor der airsht mohl Whas wissa se fun goota esa? Won se guta esa hava wella, se setta noch Lebanon cooma und seta fun unsa Lebanon Balogna, unsa snitz und knepp und unsa pissabet essa. No data se wissa whas goot esa is.

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not believe anything the gentleman said.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I move you that the remarks of the gentleman from Lebanon be spread upon the Journal just as they were made.

The SPEAKER. Impossible.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, possibly we ought to have an interpreter to interpret his remarks. I suggest that Mr. Trout from Lancaster County be appointed.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair is about to declare a recess for thirty minutes. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The SPEAKER. The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House insist upon its non-concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the Senate and that a Committee of Conference be appointed.

The motion was agreed to.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1365

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a Committee of Conference on said bill, Messrs. CORRIGAN, O'BRIEN and LICHTENWALTER.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1365

Mr. CORRIGAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to submit the report of the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 1365.

The SPEAKER. The report will lie over for printing under the rules.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in presenting the following privileged resolution, I want it distinctly understood that even though the thought has been in the minds of the second, third, fourth and fifth term Members of the House, and those who have been here longer, yet the resolution came into being through the untiring efforts of the first term Members of the House. Many of us came here with vim and vigor, aspiring to do great things. Yet again we found but one man who became our leader on the floor, a gentleman who, at no time in his experience in the past six and a half months has shown any qualities of trepidation nor has he shown any qualities of being contumelious, but he is a man who has been straightforward and of the utmost value to the first term members of this House. We deeply appreciate that fact. He is a man we have heard ejaculate most vociferously, and yet again we have heard his voice in the most gripping sarcasm that can be acquired by man.

Mr. Speaker, it is only on an occasion of this kind, just a few days prior to a very historical occasion, that we take this opportunity of showing our deep respect for the majority floor-leader of this House from the first term members, and those of the second, third, fourth, fifth, and longer terms, to our dear friend and fine leader, Leo A. Achterman.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Whereas, In these closing moments of the Legislature, we believe we may be pardoned if we take certain liberties with that dimension known to the physicist as time, particularly in view of the fact that we are always turning back the clock to suit our own individual purposes; and

Whereas, On July 15th of this year, one of the most outstanding, if not the outstanding Member of the House, will celebrate his birthday; and

Whereas, It is our fervent wish that we shall not be here in person to present this resolution for the edification of the House on July 15th, although the present indications seem to make that highly improbable; and

Whereas, Since this session has been particularly marked by the efficient and diplomatic activities of Leo A. Achterman, it is most appropriate that the day of final adjournment marking another milestone in the history of the General Assembly should closely coincide with Leo Achterman's birthday; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives congratulates the Honorable Leo A. Achterman on this, his retroactive birthday, and wishes him many happy returns in the capacity of Majority Floor Leader of the day.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, some time ago, I think about three or four months ago, the newspapermen wanted to know when we were going to adjourn. I told them that it would be on the 15th of July, and gave them my reasons. They assured me that they would be happy if the House adjourned before that time and they would be very glad to send me a card. Now with all the Members knowing that the adjournment is going to be before that time I can understand their happiness, and, Mr. Speaker, I want to thank you for the sentiments, expressed in this resolution.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House, House Bill No. 1445 (Senate Bill No. 302), Printer's No. 464, on page 1 of today's Calendar, bill on final passage, which was passed over earlier in the day.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1445, (Senate Bill No. 302), as follows:

An Act to further amend section one thousand four hundred sixteen of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" changing the qualifications of certain children for exemption from compulsory attendance provisions

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section one thousand four hundred sixteen of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as last amended by section four of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (Pamphlet Laws 786) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 1416 The provisions of this act requiring regular attendance shall not apply to any child who has attained the age of sixteen years and who is regularly engaged in any useful and lawful employment or service during the time the public schools are in session and who holds an employment certificate issued according to law nor to any child who has been examined by an approved mental clinic or by a person certified as a public school psychologist or psychological examiner and has been found to be unable to profit from further public school attendance and who has been reported to the board of school directors and excused in accordance with regulations prescribed by the State Council of Education nor shall the said provisions apply to any child who has attained the age of [fifteen years] fourteen years has satisfactorily completed either in public or private schools the sixth grade or the equivalent thereof and is engaged in farm work or domestic service in a private home on a permit issued by the school board or the designated school official of the school district of the child's residence in accordance with regulations which the Superintendent of Public Instruction is hereby authorized to prescribe [Provided That such a permit may be issued to any child who is at least fourteen (14) years of age and has satisfactorily completed either in public or private schools the equivalent of the highest grade of the elementary school organization prevailing in the public schools of the district in which he resides if the issuance of such a] Provided That such permit has first been recommended by the county or district superintendent of schools having supervision of the schools of the district where such child resides or by the principal of the private school where such child is enrolled and [such reason] the reason for the issuance of such permit has been approved by the Superintendent of Public Instruction

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Beaver will state his question of information.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, is this the last bill on our calendar upon which we will vote during this session?

The SPEAKER. It is not. There are other bills on the calendar to be considered.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, it was my impression that it was the last bill. I am not going to ask anyone else to vote for it, and I am not going to talk for any length of time on this bill but my thought was that it was the last bill on the calendar on which we were going to vote. We have voted on the conference agreements.

I know many times during the roll call you have had to rap this House down. You have felt no doubt, Mr. Speaker, like throwing that gavel back into this audience and striking some recalcitrant Member. I want to say as we are about to reach the close of this session that our Speaker has been long suffering and patient with us during the roll calls. Let us during this particular bill preserve quietness and order, as we have done during our devotional exercises in the mornings when our sessions were opened, and show our leader that we still respect him notwithstanding our past conduct, and regard him as our leader; we are obeying his commands. Let us demonstrate to ourselves even though we have this closing time of hilarity that there still remains in us something of statesmanship and something of good order.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, it has been some time since I stood here before the microphone to say anything.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has missed the gentleman.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker if the Members will bear with me in what I have to say I will take only about three minutes. I wish to pay a tribute to the Plain people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Speaker, had this bill come up earlier in the session, when it should, I was prepared to talk on it and for it for five hours, but at this late date in the session, I do not propose to talk over five minutes and I hope other Members of the House will be as brief.

This bill is aimed primarily to aid the Amish and similar agricultural groups, but it is so worded that all agriculturalists will benefit by its enactment. Farm boys and girls, if this bill is enacted, will be able to leave school at age of fourteen years instead of sixteen, as is now the law. It is my opinion that very few farmers except those of the Amish and similar groups, will make use of this liberalized law.

I was born and brought up on a farm when there was no compulsory school law, and farm boys could quit, if their parents so desired, at almost any age, but did farmers keep their boys and girls out of school in those days because the law permitted them? They did not.

The Amish are our best type of agricultural people, our best type of citizens. Few if any criminals among them. None of them on relief dole, none of them asking for alms. None of them filling our courts with county or Commonwealth cases, none of them filling our jails. They don't cost our county or Commonwealth a cent, yet they pay their just share of taxes, and it is simple justice to give them this small measure of home rule and parental rights.

These plain people have kept to their quiet life, their simple ways of living, their agricultural vocation over several centuries, with the quaint customs and picturesque costumes, with their deep and abiding faith in their right to worship their Creator according to the dictates of their conscience.

Shall we by our votes aid in destroying this agricultural people; shall we by our votes help to drive these plain people from the farms to the crowded cities? Heaven forbid!

Let us be just to a just people, let us be honest to on honest people, let us be fair to the squarest citizenry of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, I possibly could stand here for five hours talking on this bill but I am not going to do so. However, I am going to ask the membership of this House to vote down this bill, because as I understand it covers all the fourth class districts and we have many of those districts in the mining communities, and as one who had to work when he was thirteen years of age in the mines I do not think we should now change the child labor law in the state of Pennsylvania to allow any child at fourteen or fifteen years of age to go into the mines or any other industry. I thank you.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I just want to correct a wrong impression that the former speaker has given. This bill does not affect anyone except agricultural people.

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, I don't know as I could agree with Mr. Dix. I have read the bill and I believe the impression and understanding that I have of the bill is that the bill applied to all fourth class school districts.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker this bill has been sponsored by the Amish people of Lancaster County, and it does refer only to those engaged in farm work or domestic service in private home on a permit issued by the school board and the state school officials. Further it is provided that such permit be recommended by the county or district superintendent of schools, or the supervisor of schools of the district where such child resides, or by the principal of a private school where such child is enrolled.

Mr. Speaker I want to say to the Members of the House that these people have been up here, they have talked to a great many Members of the House. This is definitely a bill for agricultural people and does not extend farther. As far as the Members from Lancaster County are concerned we have asked and urged that the bill be brought before the House that the Members be given the opportunity of voting thereon. Your judgment will determine the result of this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will call the roll.

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, for a number of months these Amish people have spent a lot of time in this House. They are not lobbyists, they are perfect gentlemen — — —

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, there is nothing in order but the calling of the roll.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, that is what I am speaking about. I think the Amish people have had no recognition here at all tonight. I believe they deserve the respect of the Members. However, I am satisfied with the Chair's ruling to the effect that there is nothing in order but the calling of the roll.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz.

On the question.

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. CORDIER. Mr Speaker, I intend voting against this piece of legislation. I do so because the provision providing for the approval of the Public Utility Commission before these authorities are created or where created they can acquire private utility property, is stricken from the Bill as passed in the Senate. Also the provisions which requires a certificate of approval on the bond question from the Department of Internal Affairs is taken out. This, and other features of the Bill as amended make it a flat, meaningless Bill with no voice for the people in the areas that will be affected, provided in the Bill.

Mr. Speaker, in February I introduced a Bill which required a referendum by the people in the various municipalities where these authorities would operate, on this vital question. This Bill failed to get the approval of the Committee to which it was referred to in the House. When the Bill before us reached the Public Utilities Committee of the House, I attempted to have it amended to include the referendum clause—this effort also failed.

I am voting against this Bill because it is my firm conviction that the taxpayers should have a voice in this matter.

What a pity it is that the voice of the people seems to be so weak in the Legislative Halls on this most important question. It is my considered opinion that their voice should ring in sonorous tones, through these Legislative Halls because of happenings in this Commonwealth under the creation of these municipal authorities, why shouldn't they have a say in this matter. I make this statement on this Bill so that the people I have the honor to represent will know that I have gone all the way in my efforts to give them a voice in the matter. I shudder to think of what will happen in some sections of the Commonwealth including my own county on this question after we adjourn. I hope the people are fortified for the shock.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. MALLOY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, during the long weeks of this memorable Session of this House, we have had occasion to meet and work with many men, and the experience of knowing these outstanding personalities will, I am sure, remain forever pleasant images indelibly engraved upon the tablets of our memories.

As a Member of this House from the great County of Luzerne, I am proud to know that I speak for the entire membership in declaring that outstanding in this parade of able citizens, a native of my County, stands well to the fore. Especially during these last trying days when the nerves of most of us have become a bit frayed and jangled, our tempers—perhaps not at their best, this gentleman's pleasing personality, the even tenor of his disposition, his calm poise and graciousness and his many other fine qualities of service have endeared him to our hearts and cemented our friendship.

Mr. Speaker, and Members of the House, I pay tribute to the Chief Clerk, of the House of Representatives, Mr. Thomas J. Callahan.

There is no official of this General Assembly, nor member of this august body whose duties are more exacting, more demanding of time, ability and skill than are his. Diplomatic, kind, always willing to listen to our tales of woe and distress, ever ready to lend a helping hand to give wise counsel and advice to the new members, and experienced aid to the veterans, this tireless gentleman has made himself indispensible to the smooth functioning of this Session. And how especially happy were we to enter his hospitable office on those glad days when the eagle screamed and our checks were ready for our willing and toil-worn hands.

I have been privileged to be a neighbor of his, as a native of his native County, and I am happy to testify to the high regard and esteem in which he is held by the citizens of God's greatest gift to this Commonwealth, the County of Luzerne.

Loyal and faithful to his friends, a civic leader, patriotic and God fearing gentlemen, it was only natural that he be entrusted by this House with the many responsibilities of his important office.

Mr. Speaker, not only do I congratulate Mr. Callahan for his splendid record of service to this House but I congratulate the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and this House on its wise judgment and good fortune in having Tom Callahan as the Chief Clerk.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Messrs. MALLOY and SCHWAB offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 11, 1941.

The great task and responsibility of managing the activities of the extensive personnel employed by the House of Representatives to perform the multitude of services neecssary to properly carry forward the details of legislation, falls to the lot of the Chief Clerk.

The House at its present session is particularly fortunate in having as its Chief Clerk a man well fitted by temperament, experience and training for the position which he holds, and whose energy and leadership have contributed materially to the highly satisfactory manner in which the activities under his supervision have been conducted, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Members of the House of Representatives take this opportunity to thank Thomas J. Callahan and his able and loyal staff of assistants for their cooperation and their ready and willing assistance in the performance of their routine duties, as well as whenever specially called upon to do whatever was necessary to further the business of the House; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be presented to Mr. Callahan as a further token of the appreciation of this House of his efficient services.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. LICHTENWALTER offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

The experience gained as Chief Clerk of the Senate during the legislative sessions of 1937 and 1938 has made Dennis J. Mulvihill particularly well qualified to carry out the functions of Secretary of the House of Representatives. He has performed with marked efficiency the important duty of supervising the roll calls. The correspondence of Members of the House has been courteously and expeditiously handled. And his multitude of other duties are always performed promptly and well; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the thanks of the membership of the House of Representatives is hereby tendered to Mr. Mulvihill, its Secretary; and that, in token thereof, a certified copy hereof be prepared and delivered to him in person by the Chief Clerk of the House.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. SHEPARD offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Amid the haste and confusion of a legislative session the spiritual values of life are apt to be minimized, and the many practical problems demanding immediate solution may cause us to lose sight of the all important place which religion must play in the application of our democratic philosophies.

In frequent reaffirmation of our faith in Almighty God and in order to bring us closer to His wisdom and guidance, it has long been our custom to rise in prayer at the opening of each day's legislative session.

At this session it has been our special privilege to have the Reverend Donald McFall with us as Chaplain to make the opening prayers.

These prayers have been a never failing source of help and inspiration to the Members of the House, and have started our daily sessions with a fitting atmosphere of reverence, devotion and responsibility, therefore be it

Resolved, That we the Members of this House, extend to our Chaplain, the Reverend Donald McFall, our deepest appreciation and most sincere thanks for his truly inspiring services at our daily sessions, and direct the Chief Clerk of the House to transmit to him a copy of this resolution.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. BROWN offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Since the creation of the Legislative Reference Bureau by the Act of April 27, 1909, P. L. 208, its personnel has labored tirelessly and efficiently to lighten the arduous tasks of the members of the General Assembly and to make the legislative machinery run more smoothly. At no time however, has this Bureau filled a more necessary or satisfactory function than during this regular session of one thousand nine hundred and forty-one.

Due to the now existing National Emergency as well as to various other circustances the present session of the General Assembly has been unduly prolonged and the number of bills introduced has been unusually large.

It has been the task of the Legislative Reference Bureau to draft the greater portion of these bills, many of which related to new and comparatively unexplored fields of the law. It has also been the duty of the Legislative Reference Bureau to prepare a great number of amendments for these bills required partly by the nature of the legislation involved and party by the divided political complexion of the General Assembly.

In spite of its added burdens, the Legislative Reference Bureau, without any increase in personnel or expenditures, performed all its functions promptly and efficiently to the great benefit of the General Assembly and the Commonwealth, therefore be it

Resolved, That we the Members of the House of Representatives extend to the new director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, the Hon. Herbert B. Cohen, our thanks and appreciation for the helpful, efficient and courteous services performed by the Bureau under his supervision, and for the valuable contribution which his wide legislative experience has brought to the Bureau; and be it further

Resolved, That we extend our gratitude to the attorneys, stenographers, clerks and other members of the staff of the Legislative Reference Bureau for their long hours of tiring work and close application, not only during regular office hours but also at night, and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays in order that the drafting of the great number of bills and amendments might continue promptly and accurately for our accommodation, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House to the Director of the said Legislative Reference Bureau as evidence of our appreciation of the invaluable services performed by the Bureau under his direction.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. HOLLAND offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 10, 1941.

In daily parlance, whenever "the press" is referred to our thoughts too often visualize only a collection of all the available printed daily newspapers, without consideration of the numberless individuals whose thoughts, ingenuity and enterprise combine in the gathering of news and the presenting thereof in a manner to arrest the attention and to make interesting and informative reading.

To us as members of the General Assembly the attitude of the press can be a source of much gratification or a scourge of justice or injustice. Be it said, however, of the gentlemen of the press who cover the activities of Pennsylvania's legislative deliverations that their treatment has been uniformly fair and courteous, and wholly free from unmerited rebuke and unfair criticism; be it therefore

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby thanks the legislative correspondents for their courtesy and consideration during the long months of this session; and expresses its sincere hope that the cordial relations existing between members of the General Assembly and members of the press may long continue and grow stronger and fuller as time goes by; and be it further

Resolved, That a certified copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House to the Legislative Correspodents' Association, in further token of our friendly feeling towards its members.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Whereas, On Friday, July 11, 1941, there was held in the Hall of the House, a most enjoyable and appropriate ceremony whereby particular tribute was paid to the characteristics and abilities of certain Members of the House; and

Whereas, At such ceremony gifts were presented to certain officers and leaders of the House in fitting recognition of their able, industrious and unselfish service in their respective capacities; and

Whereas, The preparation for, and conduct of, this ceremony and presentation was due to the careful planning of a committee of House Members of which the Honorable William A. Shaw was chairman; therefore be it Resolved, That the House of Representatives extends its thanks to the Honorable William A. Shaw and to the members of his committee for the satisfactorily arranged and conducted ceremonies held on the floor of the House on Friday, July 11, 1941, in recognition and honor of certain leaders and officials thereof.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Shaw.

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the committee I wish to extend our gratitude to you for this resolution. I thank you very much.

The SPEAKER. No action has been taken on the Conference report. The conference committee was appointed on the part of the House on July 11th.

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, we are not accepting the report of the Conference Committee now, are we, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

SENATE MESSAGES

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON SENATE BILL No. 236

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate insists on its concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the House of Representatives to Senate Bill No. 236, entitled:

An Act to amend section six hundred fifty-four of article six of the act, approved the seventeenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682), entitled "An act relating to insurance, amending, revising and consolidating the law: providing for the incorporation of insurance companies, and the regulation, supervision, and protection of home and foreign insurance companies, Lloyds associations, reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges, and fire insurance rating bureaus, and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies, associations, and exchanges including insurance carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund; providing penalties; and repealing existing laws," providing for appeals from any classification, rule, rate, or schedule of the Insurance Commissioners affecting insurance of employes and employers under the Workmen's Compensation Act of one thousand nine hundred and fifteen and the supplements and amendments thereto and exempting the State Workmen's Insurance Fund from the control of the Rating Bureau and the Insurance Commissioner.

And has appointed Messrs. Bartlett, Stevenson and Dent a committee of conference to confer with a similar committee of the House of Representatives (already appointed) on the subject of the differences existing between the two Houses in relation to said bill.

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON SENATE BILL No. 1044

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate insists on its nonconcurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the House of Representatives to Senate Bill No. 1044 entitled:

An Act to further amend section eleven and section seventeen of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred twenty-three (P. L. eight hundred fifty-eight) entitled "An act establishing a State employes' retirement system and creating a retirement board for the administration thereof establishing certain funds from contributions by the Commonwealth and contributing State employes defining the uses and purposes thereof and the manner of payments therefrom and providing for the guaranty by the Commonwealth of certain of said funds imposing powers and duties upon the heads of departments in which State employes serve excepting annuities allowances returns benefits and rights from taxation and judicial process and providing penalties" by permitting a member to borrow from his or her funds under certain provisions and regulating exemption from execution

And has appointed Messrs. Crowe, Wade and Cavalcante a committee of conference to confer with a similar committee of the House of Representatives (already appointed) on the subject of the differences existing between the two Houses in relation to said bill.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 1044

Mr. WOODRING presented the report of the Committee of Conference on the part of the House on Senate Bill No. 1044.

The report was read by the Clerk as follows:

Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, July 12, 1941.

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

The conferees on the part of the Senate and the House of Representatives appointed to compose the differences between the said Senate and House of Representatives on Senate Bill No. 1044, Printer's No. 590 entitled "An act establishing a State Employees Retirement system * * *", respectfully report that the conferees have been unable to agree upon said differences and to arrive at a mutually satisfactory report, and hereby respectfully recommend that the bill be dropped from the calendar of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

Montgomery F. Crowe
Geo. M. Wade
Committee on the part of the Senate

Carleton T. Woodring
James J. McDermott
Committee on the part of the House

The Speaker. The Conferees having failed to agree they are discharged with the thanks of the House.

AMENDED SENATE BILL NONCONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has nonconcurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to Senate Bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENAAE BILL No. 559.

An Act prescribing additional powers and duties on the Joint State Government Commission to make a survey of the educational facilities of the Commonwealth conferring upon the commission full power to issue subpoenas to carry out such additional functions and duties and conferring upon the courts of common pleas power to enforce obedience to subpoenas so issued imposing duties on departments and agencies of the State government and on colleges and universities and making an appropriation

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House insist upon its amendments non-concurred in by the Senate to Senate Bill No. 559 and that a Committee of Conference be appointed.

The motion was agreed to.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL No. 559

The SPEAKER. The hair appoints as a Committee of Conference on said bill, Messrs. BOIES, MELCHIORRE and SOLLENBERGER.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of information.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I understand we are about to take a recess which will probably result in having a Sunday session.

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I want to state that in a conference of the leaders I objected to holding a Sunday session. I object to this recess on that basis, feeling that we should come back at one minute after twelve on Monday to take up the business of the House.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of information.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, has the Chair any information as to whether the Senate is likewise going to recess until a similar hour?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HARKINS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to call to the attention of the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside the fact that probably the reason for the House being required to have a Sunday session is also the reason that the Senate will find itself holding a Sunday session. I am quite sure as far as I am concerned I would rather be here at 12.01 a. m. and I would suggest to the minority floor leader if he can persuade his side of the House and the Senate to do so, we will accommodate them and come back at 12.01 Monday morning, if the Senate does the same.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair will declare a recess for thirty minutes. The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON SENATE BILL No. 236

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to announce that on Senate Bill 236 the Chair has appointed instead of the Gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, and instead of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Boies and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Reuben E. Cohen.

MR. LOVETT IN THE CHAIR

RESOLUTION

GAME AND FISH

Mr. GRYSKEWICZ offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby protests against the continuance by the Commonwealth of the stocking of our public lands and streams with game and fish which will benefit only a few who can afford membership in clubs owning or leasing large tracts of land, and the moneys contributed by sportsmen throughout the Commonwealth shall be used only for replenishing of game and fish for the enjoyment of all licensed hunters and fishermen.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, I would ask favorable action on this resolution due to the fact that certain interests in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are making an attempt at the present time to appropriate for themselves land which has been stocked by the Commonwealth out of the game funds of the Commonwealth, which were paid by sportsmen, for their own selfish use. I am very glad the resolution was introduced because no doubt it will bring to the attention of the sportsmen of the state that some of the best hunting land in Pennsylvania, forty thousand acres is about to be or has been leased by a group of so called Philadelphia sportsmen. It is high time that we of the General Assembly and the sportsmen of the Commonwealth wake up to the fact that if we do not focus the attention of the sportsmen of the state on these lands we will soon be without any such lands. I would respectfully ask that this House unanimously adopt this resolution.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

THE SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, for presiding.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. GATES asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the confusion and the misunderstanding that has arisen in this House in the last two weeks reminds me very much of an incident that happened back in the country town where I live. A stranger came into our town who had imbibed a little too freely.

He staggered across the street to a policeman on the corner and said to the policeman, "Would you please tell me where the other side of the street is"?

The policeman being a man of understanding and heart, took the fellow kindly by the arm and pointing said, "My dear friend, it is right over there."

The stranger looked at him with disgust in his eye and said, "I'll be damned. I was just over there and they told me it was over here."

My friends of the legislature and my colleagues, I believe in the closing days of this particular session we have sunk to a new low in the workings of democracy in the state of Pennsylvania. We have transgressed not only the laws of man but we have transgressed today the laws of God. You men of this House were elected by your constituents because they believed you to be honorable, honest and trustworthy, and in the services that I have seen you perform in this House on both sides of the House I will gladly say that you all have tried to do the very best that you possibly could under the circumstances that have confronted you. But in the last two weeks the actions of this House have been influenced by vested interests. In a few minutes I hope to call upon this House to rise above petty politics, to rise to a new height of independence in the state of Pennsylvania and to say to these particular interests that they are not interested in you, they are not interested in me, they are not interested in the people of the state of Pennsylvania, but they are only interested in their own selfish gains.

Mr. Speaker, I read an editorial in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette a few days ago, one of the leading newspapers in western Pennsylvania. In that editorial it said that they would not support a Representative and they would not support a Senator who voted for adjournment until a new reapportionment act was on the statute books. But I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that patience has ceased to be a virtue in this scramble of ours. The cost of this session, as I understand, will be over two million dollars, and you men who come from different parts of the state, representing entirely different interests, can now meet on common ground when you discuss the ever increasing tax burden of the people of my state and your state.

I believe you will say with me that this session probably has been longer than any other for one hundred years.

In a few moments, Mr. Speaker, I shall offer for the consideration of this House a resolution to which I hope sincerely you will unanimously consent. Before I do that, however, I would like to ask unanimous consent for this resolution, which is not a privileged resolution, to be read by the Clerk at this time, and unanimously endorsed by this body.

I therefore present this resolution and move for its immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent for the resolution to be read and for its immediate consideration?

Mr. LOVETT. I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted. The resolution will be referred under the rules.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. GATES. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 110.

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That all bills be dropped from the calendar of the House of Representatives and from the calendar of the Senate, that all conference committees appointed in the House of Representatives and the Senate be discharged, and that this Regular Session of the General Assembly adjourn sine die immediately.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Be It Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Governor shall, at an appropriate time, issue his proclamation designating and calling upon the schools, the Boy Scouts of America, other organizations devoted to promoting the interests and welfare of youth and the citizens of the Commonwealth in general to observe the birthday of Daniel Carter Beard, the great benefactor of boyhood, which is the twenty-first day of June.

This day shall be known as "Youth's Day," and shall be observed on the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and forty-two, the twenty-first falling on a Sunday.

In pursuance of said proclamation of the Governor, appropriate exercises observing the anniversary of Daniel Beard's birth, reaffirming the principles so long advocated by him and furthering the interests and welfare of youth in general shall be held.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1176.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to submit the report of the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 1176.

The SPEAKER. The report will lie over for printing under the rules.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 298

Mr. ACHTERMAN presented the report of the Committee of Conference on the part of the House on Senate Bill No. 298.

The report was read by the Clerk.

The SPEAKER. This being a Senate Bill the report will be printed by the Senate, and placed in the files of the Members of the House.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 236

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN presented the report of the Committee of Conference on the part of the House on Senate Bill No. 236.

The report was read by the Clerk.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, in asking the Members of the Democratic party at the proper time to vote in support of this conference report, I am doing so with the full knowledge of the obstinacy on the part of the Republican party against our efforts to liberalize this phase of the Workmen's Compensation Law in Pennsylvania, an attitude which is quite opposed to the attitude expressed by the leader of that party. We know we are making a very small advance forward in the ultimate fight to give Pennsylvania a truly liberal workmen's compensation system. I will not debate the particular items of the bill; that was done at length the other day, I only want to tell the Republican party here and now that my party has just begun to fight for a real, honest-to-God Workmen's Compensation Law.

The SPEAKER. This being a Senate bill the report will be printed by the Senate, and placed in the files of the Members of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TAYLOR asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I want at this time to take jovial exception to the remarks of the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Gates. He spoke about the differences between the House and Senate, and he proposes to adjourn sine die,—I don't know which pronunciation is correct.

It reminds me very much of the story I have told in the House on a number of occasions, in which two Lancaster County Dutchmen met one day.

One Dutchman said to the other, "Now, Jake, you know this war in Germany is getting bad now."

He said, "Oh, yes, Louie, it is getting bad now."

Louie said to Jake, "You know, I wouldn't be a bit surprised if we have an invasion in the United States one of these days."

He said, "Do you think these Dutchmen would come over and fight in the United States?"

Louie said, "Yes."

"Then," Jake said, "there won't be any fight in Lancaster County because the battlefield is over in Gettysburg."

I might say to the gentleman from Armstrong the battle is not in the House; it is over in the Senate.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TROUT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to take exception to part of the statement made by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Taylor. There has never been a Pennsylvania Dutchman in Lancaster County by the name of "Louie."

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to know whether the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Taylor, knows any good bedtime stories.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I know a lot of them, but I would not dare tell them here.

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE ADOPTS CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 624

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has adopted the report of the Committee of Conference on the subject of the difference existing between the two Houses on Senate Bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 624.

An Act to further amend clause seven of section one thousand two hundred ten of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special, or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," by increasing the minimum salaries of teachers and providing annual increments in school districts of the fourth class and requiring the Commonwealth to make certain payments on account of such salaries.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL No. 624

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up the report of the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 624, Printer's No. 615.

The report was read by the Clerk as follows:

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering Senate Bill No. 624, entitled:

"An Act to further amend clause seven of section one thousand two hundred ten of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred eleven (P. Mr. GATES asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Taylor, I wonder if he thinks the House is in the same position as the gentleman in Harrisburg the other day, who was imbibing quite freely, and was strolling down the street. The policemen were watching very carefully, as he was acting very suspiciously, but they decided to let him go until he stopped in front of the bank down on Market Street. When he got there, he pulled an envelope out of his pocket and started to write. At that, the policeman got suspicious enough to go up and tap him on the shoulder:

He said, "My dear friend, what are you doing?"

The man staggered around a little bit and said, "I am just writing myself a letter."

The policeman said, "What's in the letter, will you please tell me?"

The man said, "How in the h---- do I know? I won't get it until tomorrow."

SENATE ADOPTS CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 236

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has adopted the report of the Committee of Conference on the subject of the difference existing between the two Houses on Senate Bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 236.

An Act to amend section six hundred fifty-four of article six of the act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682) entitled "An act relating to insurance amending revising and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies and the regulation supervision and protection of home and foreign insurance companies Lloyds associations reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges and fire insurance rating bureaus and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies associations and exchanges including insurance carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund providing penalties and repealing existing laws" providing for appeals from any classification rule rate or schedule of the Insurance Commissioner affecting insurance of employes and employers under the Workmen's Compensation Act of one thousand nine hundred and fifteen and the supplements and amendments thereto.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL No. 236

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up the report of the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 236, Printer's No. 621.

The report was read by the Clerk as follows:

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering Senate Bill No. 236, entitled:

"An Act to amend section six hundred fifty-four of article six of the act, approved the seventeenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682), entitled 'An act relating to insurance, amending, revising, and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies, and the regulation, supervision and protection of home and foreign insurance companies, * *' providing for appeals from any classification, rule, rate or schedule of the Insurance Commissioners affecting insurance of employes and employers under the Workmen's Compensation Act of one thousand nine hundred and fifteen and the supplements and amendments thereto, and exempting the State Workmen's Insurance Fund from the control of the Rating Bureau and the Insurance Commissioner."

Respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

C. A. P. Bartlett
Henry I. Wilson
John H. Dent
(Committee on the part of the Senate.)

Reuben E. Cohen
David M. Boies
David P. Reese, Jr.

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the report of the Committee of Conference was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. McMILLEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, one time in examinations in school I asked a question, "What are the two great enemies of society?" I expected, of course, to get the answer, "Poverty and ignorance".

There happened to be a boy in that class of more than average ability—he was exceptional. When I came to his paper, he wrote as his answer, "The Democrats and the Republicans."

I think in the way history will be written about the fighting on the other side, he was wrong. He should have added, "A few of the Democrats."

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his question of information.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, what day is it now?

The SPEAKER. This is Saturday, fourteen minutes to eleven.

Mr. MAXWELL. I wish, Mr. Speaker, you would inform the hotels of Harrisburg that today is still Saturday.

PERMISSION REQUESTED TO HOLD COMMITTEE MEETING

Mr. SKALE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the Committee on Banking to meet during the session of the House.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent? Is there objection? The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, hearing the remarks of the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. McMillen, the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Maxwell and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Skale reminds me of the story of what the thread said to the needle at the Nudist camp, "sew what?".

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, a few minutes ago we had a resolution introduced into the House for the purpose of adjourning immediately and thereafter a member, the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Gates stood up and gave us some more of his thoughts along the lines of legislation, which proves that some people can never be satisfied.

Hearing that I am reminded of a little story about the gentleman who obtained a room in a rooming house with the understanding that the landlady would supply each day for him a lunch to take to work. The first day he went to work she packed for him a sandwich and three pieces of fruit. When he returned from work she asked how he had enjoyed his lunch. He said there wasn't much bread in it. So the next day she gave him two sandwiches, and upon his return from work she again asked him and he said, "There still isn't enough bread in it."

Finally the third day she put eight sandwiches in his lunch and upon his return he still said he didn't have enough bread, whereupon she went down the street and bought one of those three foot long sandwich loaves. She sliced it lengthwise and put in it lots of meat and made a big sandwich like some of those fish I want to catch after the session is over, wrapped it up and gave it to him with his lunch. The next day when he came back she asked, "How did you like your lunch today?" He said, "All right, but you are back to two pieces of bread again."

SENATE MESSAGES

SENATE ADOPTS CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 594

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has adopted the report of the Committee of Conference on the subject of the difference existing between the two Houses on Senate Bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 594.

An Act to amend the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2051) entitled "An act relating to public assistance providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children aged persons blind persons and other persons requiring relief providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose authorizing the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with and to accept and disburse moneys received from the United States Government for assistance to such persons providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency Relief Board Boards of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind ond repealing laws relating to mothers' assistance pensions for the blind old age assistance and the State Emergency Relief Board" as amended by redefining assistance to include work relief providing for the appointment of an administrator to supervise coordinate and regulate work relief projects authorizing the Department of Public Assistance with the approval of the Governor to contribute funds to and cooperate in the operation of work relief projects subject to certain provisions and conditions making certain acts unlawful and imposing penalties

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 1768.

An Act to further amend the act approved the fifth day of December one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (P. L. of 1937 page 2897) entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis requiring employers to keep records and make reports and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons providing procedure and administrative details for the determination payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer and prescribing penalties" by providing therein as to the replacement of certain moneys received pursuant to the provisions of Section three hundred two of the Federal Social Security Act as amended

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 3, line 1, by striking out the words "a new section" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "new sections"; also same page, line 2, by inserting after the word "one-tenth" the words "Section six hundred two and two-tenths"; also on page 4, by inserting between lines 4 and 5 the following:

"Section 602.2 All moneys received from the Social Security Board under Title Three of the Social Security Act or the provisions of the Wagner-Peyser Act and all moneys made available by the Commonwealth or its political subdivisions and matched by moneys granted to the Commonwealth pursuant to the provisions of the Wagner-Peyser Act shall be expended solely for the purposes and in the amounts found necessary by the Social Security Board for the proper and efficient administration of this Act."

Amend Section 2, page 4, at the end of line 7, by striking out the word "forty-two" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "forty-one".

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, this bill as amended by the Senate contains the amendments to the Pennsylvania Unemployment Compensation Law which are required by the acts of Congress, and which have been approved by the Social Security Board in Washington. If this bill is not enacted into law with the amendments made by the Senate the Federal Social Security Board will not approve any further administrative expenses for the administration of the Unemployment Compensation Fund. It, therefore, becomes one of the most important "must" bills.

I, therefore, ask the members of the House to vote to concur in the amendments made by the Senate.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1176

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up the report of the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 1176, Printer's No. 1208.

The report was read by the Clerk as follows:

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering House Bill No. 1176, entitled:

"An act making an appropriation out of the Motor License Fund to the Department of Highways for allocation to and expenditure in the second class townships of the Commonwealth for maintenance, construction, reconstruction, resurfacing or improvement of township roads and bridges during the calendar years one thousand nine hundred forty-two and one thousand nine hundred forty-three; permitting the use of the funds for maintenance and repair of township roads and bridges under certain conditions; and providing for the method of payment to townships."

Respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

Charles R. Mallery
J. G. Snowden
Edward J. Coleman
(Committee on the Part of the Senate.)

Leo A. Achterman
Albert S. Readinger
Ira T. Fiss
(Committee on the part of the House of Representatives.)

An Act making an appropriation out of the Motor License Fund to the Department of Highways for allocation to and expenditure in the second class townships of the Commonwealth for maintenance construction reconstruction resurfacing or improvement of township roads and bridges during the calendar years one thousand nine hundred forty-two and one thousand nine hundred forty-three permitting the use of the funds for maintenance and repair of township roads and bridges under certain conditions and providing for the method of payment to townships

Section 1 The sum of ten million dollars ($10,000,000) is hereby appropriated to the Department of Highways for the two calendar years beginning January first one thousand nine hundred forty-two out of the Motor License Fund for allocation to and expenditures in the townships of the second class of the Commonwealth in the amounts upon the terms in the manner and for the purposes hereinafter set forth in this act

Section 2 The moneys hereby appropriated shall be allocated and apportioned among the second class townships of this Commonwealth in the ratio which the mileage of township roads in each township of the second class bears to the total mileage of township roads in all of the townships of the second class in the Commonwealth as of January first one thousand nine hundred forty-two

The funds so apportioned shall be expended by the supervisors of each township but only after consultation with the Department of Highways as to the most beneficial and efficient manner of making such expenditures and shall be used for the maintenance construction reconstruction resurfacing and improvement of township roads and the maintenance construction and reconstruction of township bridges in townships of the second class excepting that in townships which do not have sufficient funds from other sources for the maintenance and repair of all the roads and bridges under their jurisdiction the allocation to such townships shall be used in whole or in part for such maintenance and repair purposes

Section 3 Nothing in this act shall be construed to relieve any of the second class townships from any obligation they may have incurred under any contract or agreement entered into prior to January first one thousand nine hundred forty-two for the construction or repair of any highway or structure now under their jurisdiction

REMARKS EXPUNGED FROM RECORD

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the remarks of the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, and all the remarks made by gentlemen of the House following their remarks, including the question of personal privilege, be expunged from the record.

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I have been looking over the Pennsylvania Manual and gathering some information concerning the length of sessions, which I think would be interesting to the Members of this House and to any person who might subsequently read the Legislative Journal. I think it would be a good idea to call the attention of the Members of the House to the information contained in the Manual, and which can be found by reference thereto.

In the first place we might note that this session which opened on January 7th of this year is, to this calendar day of July 14th, 188 days long. This is the longest regular session and is the latest date of adjournment of any regular session for 99 years.

In 1842 the regular session of this Legislature opened on January 4th and closed on July 26th, for a record of 204 days. That was the longest session since the Constitution of 1790 was adopted. There was one other session of equal length which opened on December 4, 1938 and adjourned on June 25, 1839. That was the last regular session of the legislature which opened during the first week of December. Up until that time that was the regular date of convening the legislature, but since that time the legislature convenes during the first week of January.

Those were the only times since the Constitution of 1790 was adopted that sessions were longer than the present one.

Second place for length of the session goes to 1897, 1901 and 1917. In those three years the regular sessions lasted 178 days, and only one of them, the session of 1897, ran into July, and that session adjourned on July 1st.

There is one other very interesting incident that is noted there, and that is concerning the session of 1883. The Legislature went into regular session on January 2, 1883 and adjourned June 6, 1883 after being in session 186 days. On June 7th of that year the Governor called them back in Special Session, which of course was the day after they adjourned, and they continued in session until December 6, 1883. So that in 1883 this legislature was in continuous session, either regular or special, without any days intervening from January 2, 1883 to December 6, 1883, a total of 339 days.

I thought that this information would be interesting to the members of the House. I came across it a few days ago when I was looking over the lengths of the sessions.

SENATE MESSAGE

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House non-concur in the amendments made by the Senate and that a Committee of Conference be appointed.

The motion was agreed to.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1952

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a Committee of Conference on said bill, Messrs. READINGER, MIHM and TURNER.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. WOODSIDE offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1941.

Fifty-eight years ago in Plymouth, Luzerne County, a boy was born whose life is the perfect examplification of that equality of opportunity which has been the heritage of every youth in America and which that boy has since striven to save and preserve for those who follow.

Starting life in humble circumstances he grasped every opportunity afforded by our democratic form of government and by study and application and perseverance he rose to eminence.

From the public schools of his home county he went to Dickinson School of Law and upon graduation with the class of 1904 was admitted to practice law in Luzerne County.

In 1919, after spending fifteen years in the practice of his profession, making friends and proving his worth, he was elected district attorney of Luzerne County and was reelected in 1923.

In 1926, before the full completion of his second term as district attorney, he was elected Lieutenant Governor of the Commonwealth and served in that capacity until January 20, 1931.

At the election succeeding his retirement as Lieutenant Governor he was elected for a full term as Judge of the Superior Court and served with credit to himself and the Court until he resigned to take the oath of office as Governor of this Commonwealth on January 17, 1939.

He embraced every opportunity presented by our American form of Government and so used each succeeding one as to make way for the next. In all his public life he was sincere and earnest and honest. His sincerity carried conviction, his earnestness compelled belief and his honesty commanded respect; therefore be it

Resolved, That this House extends to his Excellency Governor Arthur H. James its most sincere congratulations, its best wishes for the often repeated return of this anniversary and its hope that there remains for him many more opportunities to perform public service so that his life will be an example to the youth of our great Common wealth of what is their's under our form of government; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to his Excellency, the Governor.

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bill numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 413.

Vol. 25. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, JULY 15, 1941. No. 87.

SENATE

TUESDAY, July 15, 1941

The Senate met at 5:10 o'clock, p. m., E. S. T.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

In the absence of the Chaplain, prayer was offered by the Senator from Butler, Mr. CARR.

Our Heavenly Father, at the beginning of this a new legislative day, we do feel the need of Thy guidance and direction, that we may do those things which are more pleasing in Thy sight. Grant, our Heavenly Father, that in the moments when we shall be debating questions of import that our minds may be sane, that we may restrain ourselves in our speaking, that we may endeavor to bring about the passage of such legislation as will redound to the honor and credit of this our great state, and, our Heavenly Father, as this may be the concluding session of this year, grant that Thy blessing may rest upon each one of us as we shall go back to our homes and take up our daily occupations, and grant that we may ever strive to please Thee in all things. We ask it in Thy name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceeding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. TAYLOR and Mr. WADE, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

HOUSE MESSAGES

HOUSE CONCURS IN RESOLUTION RECALLING FROM THE GOVERNOR SENATE BILL No. 1090 (PRINTER'S No. 436)

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That Senate Bill No. 1090, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the first day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1132), entitled "An act to provide for the permanent personal registration of electors in cities of the second class A as a condition of their right to vote at elections and primaries, and their enrollment as members of political parties as a further condition of their right to vote at primaries; prescribing certain procedure for the conduct of elections and primaries and the challenge and proof of qualifications of electors; and prescribing the powers and duties of citizens, parties, political bodies, registration commissions, commissioners, registrars, inspectors of registration and other appointees of registration commissions, county election boards, election officers, municipal officers, departments and bureaus, police officers, courts, judges, prothonotaries, sheriffs, county commissioners, peace officers, county treasurers, county controllers, registrars of vital statistics, certain public utility corporations, real estate brokers, rental agents, and boards of school directors; and imposing penalties," as amended, by requiring and providing for the registration of persons in military service to entitle them to vote at any election.

HOUSE INSISTS UPON ITS NON-CONCURRENCE IN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL No. 1768 AND APPOINTS COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

He also informed the Senate that the House insists on its non-concurrence in Senate amendments to House Bill No. 1768, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (P. L. of 1937, p. 2897) entitled "Unemployment Compensation Law," by providing therein as to the replacement of certain moneys received pursuant to the provisions of Section three hundred two of the Federal Social Security Act as amended.

and has appointed Messrs. R. Cohen, Harkins, and Woodside as a Committee of Conference to confer with a similar committee of the Senate (already appointed) to consider the differences existing between the two houses in relation to said bill.

REPORT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1727

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, I am directed by the Committee of Conference to make a report on House Bill No. 1727, entitled:

An Act providing that proceedings, acts and bonds issued, by Authorities incorporated under the Municipality Authorities Act, as amended and supplemented, shall not be invalid by reason of certain circumstances.

The report will lie over for printing.

HOUSE INSISTS UPON ITS NON-CONCURRENCE IN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL No. 1727 AND APPOINTS COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House insists on its non-concurrence in Senate amendments to House Bill No. 1727, entitled: and has appointed Messrs. Harkins, Longo, and P. Brunner as a Committee of Conference to confer with a similar committee of the Senate (if the Senate shall appoint such committee) to consider the differences existing between the two houses in relation to said bill.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON HOUSE BILL No. 957 DISCHARGED

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I call from the table for consideration at this time report urging the discharge of the Conference Committee on House Bill No. 957, Senate Bill No. 1109,

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The report was read as follows:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

We, the undersigned Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives, for the purpose of considering House Bill No. 957, hereby submit our report to the effect that we have failed to agree and respectfully request the discharge of the Committee.

ROBERT M. MILLER
G. HAROLD WATKINS
JOHN H. COX
(Committee on the part of the Senate)

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the report?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I move that the resolution be adopted.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 10:00 o'clock p. m., E. S. T.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

REPORT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON HOUSE BILL No. 690, (SENATE BILL No. 472)

Mr. SNOWDEN. Mr. President, I have been instructed by the Committee of Conference to submit the following report on House Bill No. 690, (Senate Bill No. 472):

The report was read as follows:

July 12, 1941.

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

The conferees on the part of the Senate and the House of Representatives appointed to compose the differences between the said Senate and House of Representatives on House Bill No. 690, Senate Bill No. 472, Printer's No. 824, entitled "An act to further amend sections 402, 411, 703, 704, 705, 707, and 903 and to repeal section 706 of the act approved the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine x x x," respectfully report that the conferees have been unable to agree upon said differences and to arrive at a mutually satisfactory report, and are therefore constrained to respectfully request that they may be discharged from further consideration of said bill.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES E. LOVETT
ELLWOOD B. WELSH
(Committee on the part of the House)

J. G. SNOWDEN
THOMAS B. WILSON
ISRAEL STIEFEL
(Committee on the part of the Senate)

REPORT ACCEPTED AND COMMITTEE DISCHARGED

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate accept the Report and that the Committee be discharged.

Mr. SNOWDEN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the gentleman from Blair will be so recorded.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows, and laid on the table:

APPROVED AND SIGNED RESOLUTION RECALLING SENATE BILL No. 1090, (PRINTER'S No. 436) FROM THE GOVERNOR

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, July 15, 1941.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed a resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives recalling from the Governor Senate Bill No. 1090, Printer's No. 436, for the purpose of further consideration.

Accordingly, the original bill is herewith returned.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

HOUSE RECEDES FROM ITS NON-CONCURRENCE IN THE AMENDMENTS MADE BY THE SENATE TO HOUSE BILL No. 690 AND CONCURS IN THE SAME

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House has receded from its non-oncurrence in the amendments made by the Senate to House Bill No. 690, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections 402, 411, 703, 704, 705 and 903 and to repeal section 706 of the act approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 905) entitled, "Vehicle Code," providing for the registration and fixing registration fees of commercial motor vehicles, truck tractors, trailers and semi-trailers according to gross weight; fixing the maximum gross weight of such vehicles which may be used and operated on the highways; and eliminating existing provisions relating to the chassis of such vehicles.

and has concurred in the same.

REPORT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON SENATE BILL No. 507

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a committee report.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cumberland may proceed.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, congressional apportionment, so far as the Conference Committee is concerned, is apparently out. We have offered several counter-propositions and proposals and find the leaders of the opposing party adamant.

Without prejudice to the other plans offered, unquestionably a proper, fair, equitable and sensible plan is to redistrict Philadelphia on a six district basis. During the past ten years Philadelphia has lost approximately sixteen thousand in population, showing a definite downward trend, because of modern transportation and communications, and government attempts to clear closely populated and poor housing districts such as central and southern Philadelphia. This trend will undoubtedly continue as the use of automobiles and the necessity of parking spaces increases. Again, the European war is threatening heavy centers of population.

To accept the proposal, on the other hand, of the Democrats, would be unfair and unreasonable. For example, Montgomery and Bucks, and Lehigh and Berks have shown a constant and generous growth in population. Montgomery alone has shown an increase in the last ten years of some twenty-three thousand. Ten years ago after the census had been taken, Pennsylvania's delegation was reduced from thirty-six to thirty-four, the Legislature redistricting at that time the central counties by increasing one district from one to four counties, with a total population of over 428,000. Other changes were just as inequitable.

To divide Philadelphia's population by seven makes the average district 23,000 short; by dividing it into six districts, gives an average slightly over the state ratio, with a decided geographical advantage, and a definite shrinking of population trend.

Mr. President, we have made every honorable effort to adjust this on an equitable basis, and I will never cast my vote for a plan I do not consider reasonable, equitable and fair to the people of Pennsylvania.

I want to personally thank my associate members of the Conference Committee for their untiring efforts to endeavor to effect a just compromise.

Mr. President, at this time I send to the Chair a report of the non-agreement from the members of the Senate Conference Committee.

The report was read as follows:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

To the Members of the Senate:

The conferees on the part of the Senate appointed to confer with a similar committee on the part of the House to compose the differences between the Senate and the House of Representatives on Senate Bill No. 507, Printer's No. 292, entitled "An act to apportion the State in Congressional districts," respectfully report that the conferees have been unable to agree on a report.

GEO. N. WADE
M. HARVEY TAYLOR
LEO C. MUNDY
(Committee on the Part of the Senate)

REPORT LAID ON TABLE

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that the report of the Committee be laid on the table.

Mr. GELTZ. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Luzerne will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I want to know, if after this report is presented, even though it is laid on the table, if the original question does not recur, does the Senate concur in the House amendments?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair did not understand the inquiry.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, the report of the Committee having been filed, the parliamentary question that arises is: does this revert to its original status and does the question recur, namely, does the Senate concur in the House amendments, or what is the position of the Senate on the House amendments?

The PRESIDENT. It is in the same status as it was before the presentation of the report, because the report has been laid on the table. Action can be taken at a later time, if the Senate so desires, and at that time the Senate may if it so desires, discharge the Committee and appoint different conferees.

Does that answer the inquiry of the gentleman from Luzerne?

Mr. MUNDY. Yes, Mr. President.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I suggest that if the report of the Committee is accepted, that automatically acts as a discharge of the Committee and allows the bill to remain for the appointment of another conference committee.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct. That is practically what the Chair said in different words.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

HOUSE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL No. 1952 FROM THE SENATE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the House of Representatives, July 15, 1941.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 1952, (Printer's No. 1199), entitled:

An Act fixing the salary of the Parliamentarian of the House of Representatives.

passed finally, July 12th, be recalled from the Senate.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate adopt the Resolution.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

SENATE ADOPTS CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON HOUSE BILL No. 1727 (PRINTER'S No. 1209)

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the Report of the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 1727 (Printer's No. 1209).

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The report was read as follows:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1727

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering House Bill No. 1727, entitled:

"An Act providing that bonds, notes and other evidences of indebtedness issued by Authorities incorporated under the Municipality Authorities Act as amended and supplemented shall not be invalid by reason of certain circumstances."

Respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

FRANK W. RUTH
CLARENCE D. BECKER
CHARLES R. MALLERY

(Committee on the Part of the Senate.)

L. KENNETH HARKINS
JOSEPH A. LONGO
CHAS. H. BRUNNER, JR.

(Committee on the Part of the House of Representatives.)

An Act providing that bonds notes and other evidences of indebtedness issued by Authorities incorporated under the Municipality Authorities Act as amended and supplemented shall not be invalid by reason of certain circumstances

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 No bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness heretofore issued by Authorities incorporated under the Municipality Authorities Act approved June 28 1935 (P. L. 463) as amended and supplemented shall be invalid by reason of the fact that any member of the Board or any officer of said Authority was at the time of the issuance of such bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness a member or officer of the governing body of the incorporating municipality or municipalities or an officer thereof provided that such bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness or otherwise valid

Section 2 Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to validate any bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness in connection with the issuance of which any fraud or conspiracy has been committed

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the report?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—44

Barr,	Dent,	Jaspan,	Snowden,
Bartlett,	DiSilvestro,	Kephart,	Stevenson,
Becker,	Ealy,	Letzler,	Tallman,
Carr,	Edmonds,	Mallery,	Taylor,

Crider,	Heyburn,	Mundy,	Watkins,
Crowe,	Homsher,	Ruth,	Wilson, H. I.,
Deitrick,	James,	Scarlett,	Wilson, T. B.,

NAYS—1

Shapiro,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I desire to call attention to the fact that on line 11, where the word "or" appears, that is a mistake, it should be "are." I mention this fact in order that this mistake may be noted on the record and in order to notify those charged with the duty and authority to correct technical errors in bills.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE ON EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. JAMES from the Committee on Executive Nominations reported with a favorable recommendation the following nominations, made by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth:

APPOINTMENT AS MEMBERS OF THE STATE BOARD OF HOUSING

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governors Office, Harrisburg, January 27, 1941.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate the following persons for appointment as members of the State Board of Housing:

George E. Evans, Pittsburgh, Allegheny County, until August 17, 1945, and until his successor is appointed and qualified.

Vance C. McCormick, Harrisburg, Dauphin County, until August 17, 1944, and until his successor is appointed and qualified.

Charles L. Suhr, Oil City, Venango County, until August 17, 1943, and until his successor is appointed and qualified.

Arthur C. Kaufman, Ardmore, Montgomery County, until August 17, 1942, and until his successor is appointed and qualified.

Tudor R. Williams, Scranton, Lackawanna County, until August 17, 1941, and until his successor is appointed and qualified.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

JUSTICES OF PEACE

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, June 10, 1941.

Glenn F. Cook, South St. Clair Street, Ligonier, Westmoreland County, for appointment as Justice of the Peace, in and for the Borough of Ligonier, Westmoreland County, until the first Monday in January, 1942, vice W. H. Lowry, resigned.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

RULE 38 SUSPENDED

By unanimous consent,

A motion was made by Mr. JAMES and Mr. TAYLOR

That Rule 38, which requires nominations made by the Governor, to lie on the table one day be dispensed with, and the Senate do now resolve itself into Executive Session, for the purpose of acting upon all the nominations reported at today's session.

Which was agreed to.

Whereupon,

A motion was made by Mr. JAMES and Mr. TAYLOR

That the Senate do advise and consent to the nominations reported.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—45

Barr,	Dent,	Jaspan,	Scarlett,
Bartlett,	DiSilvestro,	Kephart,	Shapiro,
Becker,	Ealy,	Lanius,	Snowden,
Carr,	Edmonds,	Letzler,	Stevenson,

Crowe,	Homsher,	Mundy,	Walker,
Deitrick,	James,	Ruth,	Watkins,
			Wilson, H. I.,

NAYS—0

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Governor be informed accordingly.

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I move that the Executive Session do now rise.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna may proceed.

Mr. COLEMAN. First, Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. WALKER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny the reason for tabling the report of the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 507.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, it was tabled at the request of the Republican caucus so that we could study it.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman if that does not put the question of Congressional reapportionment in more doubt than it did when it was in the hands of the committee, since it automatically suspends Committee activity.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, the word "more" is a relative term and depends upon the conclusion reached by the individual. In my opinion there has been a lot of doubt about this for some time, and I have expressed myself accordingly. I do not think this places it in any more doubt. As I stated at the beginning of my answer, the word "more" is relative.

REPORT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON SENATE BILL No. 507 CALLED UP

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I now call from the table Report of the Committee of Conference on Congressional Reapportionment, Senate Bill No. 507.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The motion was agreed to.

The Report was read as follows:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

To the Members of the Senate:

The conferees on the part of the Senate appointed to confer with a similar committee on the part of the House to compose the differences between the Senate and the House of Representatives on Senate Bill No. 507, Printer's No. 292, entitled "An act to apportion the State in Congressional districts," respectfully report that the conferees have been unable to agree on a report.

GEO. N. WADE
M. HARVEY TAYLOR
LEO C. MUNDY

(Committee on the part of the Senate)

Mr. GELTZ. Do I understand, Mr. President, that the gentleman from Lackawanna has called from the table Report of Conference Committee on Senate Bill No. 507?

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

The gentleman from Lackawanna has called from the table the report of Conference Committee on Senate Bill No. 507. What action is now desired?

MOTION TO ACCEPT REPORT

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate accept the report of the Committee on Conference on Senate Bill No. 507.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, it is my understanding that when the committee made the report on its disagreement, that the gentleman from Allegheny moved to table the report, and I am suggesting that the report be taken up for action by the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna has already called the report from the table.

Mr. COLEMAN. That is correct, Mr. President, and I am asking that the Senate adopt the report, and I so move, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I have seconded the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. WALKER. I would suggest, Mr. President, that the report of the Committee was laid on the table and the gentleman from Lackawanna would have to make a motion to call it from the table. It was simply a request, and a motion is required to call it from the table.

The PRESIDENT. As the Chair has frequently ruled, when there is no objection to a request it is equivalent to unanimous consent.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I respectfully suggest to the Chair that the Chair did not understand what the gentleman from Lackawanna was doing, and neither did I understand what the gentleman from Lackawanna was doing. The motion he made was the motion which was seconded by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro. There has been no motion as yet made to take the report from the table, and I respectfully suggest that should be done first.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair differs with the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker. The Chair understood very plainly that the Senator from Lackawanna requested that the report be taken from the table, and, as has been the practice here during this entire session, it was taken from the table. What the Chair did not understand was what action the gentleman from Lackawanna desired to be taken. Then, the Senator from Lackawanna moved, seconded by the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that the report just taken from the table be accepted.

Now, that is the motion before the Senate and the Senate may dispose of that motion as it pleases.

Mr. COLEMAN. I ask for a roll call, Mr. President.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cumberland will state his point of order.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, is it not true that a Conference Committee report must lie over for printing.

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the gentleman from Cumberland this is not a Conference Committee report. This is only a statement of the Conferees on the part of the Senate.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I now rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, if that is not a report of Committee I would like to ask the purpose of the motion made by the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Coleman. My inquiry is addressed to the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. The report is a statement of the Conferees as to the position of the Conferees on the part of the Senate and that may be voted on. During this session, the Senate has not resorted to the mechanics of appointing conferees by motion. The Chair at the request of the President Pro Tempore has appointed conferees. The Senate by such motion as it sees fit can take any action it desires on this statement by the Conferees appointed on the part of the Senate.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the question is, is the report filed by the Committee signed by the Committee.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair takes the position that this is not a report of the Committee. To have a report of committee it is necessary that a majority of the conferees sign the report. That is the understanding of the Chair.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is that report signed by the Committee?

The PRESIDENT. Only by the Conferees on the part of the Senate.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, if this report of the conferees asks for their discharge, it does not, under the rules, have to lay over for printing. As a matter of fact, we have not followed the rule that conference reports lay over for printing.

The PRESIDENT. That is right.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Therefore, Mr. President, this report is before the Senate for action?

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, do I understand now that this is being ruled as a report of the Conference Committee and not a report of the Conferees on the part of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair has never regarded this as a conference report. This is a report of the Conferees on the part of the Senate.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Asking that they be discharged, Mr. President?

The PRESIDENT. That is correct, which can not be considered a report of the Conference Committee, the way the Chair understands the rules of procedure. This could not be considered a conference report unless it be signed by a majority of the Conferees of both the House and the Senate.

For the information of the Senate the report will be again read.

(The report was read.)

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the Senate, a similar report was adopted today, signed by the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. Miller, the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, and the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Cox. The only difference between that committee report and this report is that committee asked to be discharged. This report does not.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the Chair will remember that when the Chair was ruling on this question, I suggested that if the report is adopted the committee is automatically discharged. That was the reason I made the suggestion.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair was then under the impression that report asked for the discharge of the committee, but the Chair was misinformed. The report does not ask for the discharge of the committee.

Mr. SHAPIRO. It is not necessary for them to ask for their discharge, Mr. President. I should be very glad to quote from the decisions of the Senate to the effect that if the report of a conference committee be that they can not agree, that automatically acts as a discharge of the committee.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion that would be correct if this was a report of a majority of the committee, that they could not agree. The Chair construes this as only a statement or report of the conferees on the part of the Senate. This is merely a statement on the part of the conferees appointed by the Senate.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would ask my colleagues to vote "aye" on the motion of the gentleman from Lackawanna.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I think we ought to be familiar with the mechanics of this thing, and if I may be permitted to review what has been developed thus far, I think it sufficiently important that there ought not to be any iota of doubt in the minds of the members of the Senate—the Conference Committee made a report which was tabled at the request of the gentleman from Allegheny. I then moved, as any member may, to lift it from the table, and moved to have it formally adopted, which motion was duly seconded, and the question now is as to whether or not the Senate will adopt the report.

I now ask the Chair whether or not, in the event this report is adopted by a majority of the members of the Senate, if the question does not recur on concurrence in the amendments inserted by the House.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna please restate his inquiry?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, my understanding is, in the event a majority of the members of the Senate, voting on this proposition, vote in the affirmative, the bill is then in the physical possession of the Senate and the question recurs on concurrence in the amendments inserted by the House; it is in the same position as it was prior to the appointment of the Conference Committee.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rules the point of order of the gentleman from Lackawanna is not well taken. If the gentleman from Lackawanna will read this he will see it is simply a report; it does not ask for anything but simply states a position; it does not ask for the discharge of individuals but is simply a statement that they were unable to get together. Even though it were to ask for the discharge of the members, the bill would not be in possession of the Senate; it would still be in possession of the conferees.

The question is on the adoption of the report, which means nothing.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(The following occurred during the calling of the roll.)

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise on a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The calling of the roll has started.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I would like to know on what are we voting? I am like the rest of them here; I have been right here but I am pretty well confused.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman has a right to be intelligently informed, if the Chair is able to do so, as to what is before the Senate. As the Chair understands it, the question is a motion to adopt the statement made by the Senate Conferees in relation to this particular bill.

Mr. HALUSKA. I would like to ask the Chair, if we vote for this motion, will that not automatically discharge the conferees on the part of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. No. The Chair has ruled on that. The Conferees do not ask for their discharge; they simply make a statement.

Mr. HALUSKA. Then, Mr. President, what are we voting on?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask that the motion of the Senator from Lackawanna be read to the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair agrees it would be well to have the motion read again as some of the Senators may be under the impression that the Committee asks to be discharged.

(Motion repeated by reporter as follows: "Mr. COLEMAN. I move that the Senate accept the report of the Committee on Conference on Senate Bill No. 507.")

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland will proceed.

Mr. DENT. As I understand this procedure, Mr. President, this is nothing but a statement on the part of the Conferees on the part of the Senate, and since when does a statement on the part of anybody in the Senate become the property of the Chair, to be laid upon the table, on any motion? It is a statement that goes into the record automatically as a statement of those individuals and it can be nothing else; similar to a statement printed in the Journal.

I raise the parliamentary inquiry that this is not properly a matter for a motion of any kind. It does not belong on the table; it belongs in the record of the daily session of this Senate.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY SUSTAINED

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion the point of order of the gentleman from Westmoreland is well taken. That is what the Chair has previously stated. The Chair is of the opinion that a majority of the Senators thought this was a report of the conferees of the Senate, that they were unable to agree and asked for their discharge. That is not the case; they simply reported to the entire Senate what they apparently had previously done in Caucus. It is merely a matter of record.

Mr. HALUSKA. That is why I rose on my feet, Mr. President and brought about a laugh which was not very courteous. I confess I was confused because I did not know what I was to vote on. Now I am happy to know the rest were confused also because we were going to vote illegally and no roll call was necessary.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in view of the fact that the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, acting as Committee Chairman, in his statement on the floor clearly stated his position, in that in these conferences certain counter proposals had been made by himself and his colleagues in the Senate to the conference committee, and then also in his statement, if my memory serves me right, he took the position that he would not vote or could not vote for anything that was unfair, and earlier in his statement he said the amendments to the Senate bill put in by the House were unfair, now, Mr. President, if that position is true and I am right, we can stay here from now until Christmas and we are not going to get anywhere, because the conferees on the part of the Senate have stated they will not agree to the House amendments.

Conference committees are named in order to confer and try to find a common ground upon which they can all meet and, therefore, Mr. President, in order to expedite the matter before us and in order that some of us may go back home and take up our proper position in life, especially in the defense work in which we are now engaged, I make the following motion.

MOTION TO DISCHARGE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

Mr. DENT. I move that we now discharge the Conference Committee from further consideration of Senate Bill No. 507, and if necessary that a new Conference Committee be appointed, or else that we vote on the bill as it came from the House.

Mr. HALUSKA. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SHAPIRO. I rise to a point of order, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. My point of order is: can the Senate discharge a committee that has been appointed jointly by the House and the Senate?

The PRESIDENT. The point of order of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is well taken. This is a committee of conference. What the gentleman from Westmoreland wanted to do was to have the Senate Committee discharged; is that correct?

Mr. DENT. Yes, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Otherwise, as the gentleman from Philadelphia said, this being a joint committee it requires concurrent action.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, whenever a resolution is offered to discharge a committee it is always worded that way. I got that out of the Journal. However, I will insert the word "Senate" if that is so desired. I will be very glad to do that, if the Senate will be at ease for just a minute.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I hope this motion is now in proper shape. I would like to have the Chair rule as to whether or not it is acceptable. I present the resolution on behalf of Senator Haluska and myself.

MOTION AMENDED

Mr. DENT. I offer an amended motion, Mr. President: I now move that the Senate Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 507 be discharged from further consideration of this bill.

Mr. HALUSKA. I second the motion, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion this is equivalent to the discharge of a committee from further consideration of a bill and requires a vote of the majority of the Senators present.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I have never yet voted for the discharge of a committee. I have great confidence in every member of this committee. I believe that if there were any committees that could be appointed by this Senate to properly perform the duties entrusted to it, it is this committee. I have the utmost confidence in this committee. I think that the Legislature has been charged with this most important duty and it is one thing that we should do before we go home.

The very fact that this committee has, as we all know, held numerous meetings and I believe has striven honestly to perform its duty, is not proof to me that they can not do it and do it to the satisfaction of the people of this Commonwealth and therefore I propose to vote "no" on this motion.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Berks will proceed.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, inasmuch as this is a joint committee appointed by concurrent resolution of the House and Senate, neither House may discharge the committee unless by a joint concurrent resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair must rule the point of order of the gentleman from Berks is not well taken. If the gentleman from Berks can show authority for his point of order the Chair will gladly recede from his position.

Mr. DENT. Before a vote is taken, Mr. President, I just want to answer the remarks of the gentleman from Blair, Senator Mallery, by saying this resolution is not by any means intended to cast any reflection upon the membership of the Senate committee; it is done practically at their own request in the light of the report that they have made. If a committee that is named by this Senate comes into this Senate and makes a report or reads a statement in which they say they are hopelessly deadlocked, to the point that they will not agree to amendments put in by the House, and absolutely take that position, and in the same report say the House members will not recede from their position, can we stay here forever waiting for them? I know I have been waiting over ten days for this committee to report. By their action they show clearly that the committee is stalemated—one side takes one position and the other side takes the other position. I do not know whether the committee on the part of the House is being fair; I do not know who is being unfair. I only know we have waited ten days for a report and now we finally get a statement out of the committee and in that statement they say they are hopelessly deadlocked because they say "We will not accept the House amendments to Senate Bill No. 507," and the House takes the position that it will not recede from its position.

Are we going to stay here forever or shall we take the bull by the horns and discharge the committee, have the bill placed on the table before us and take a position as Senators one way or another on the House amendments? I take the position, Mr. President, that is what has got to be done.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Cumberland tell us whether he and the remaining members of the Senate Conferees conferred with the members of the House on the same Committee of Conference.

Mr. WADE. We did, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. In connection with the report just filed?

Mr. WADE. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia please repeat his interrogation?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Did the three House members of the Conference Committee on this bill know of the intention of the Senate members to file this report, and were they consulted about it.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, the members of the House were not informed we were going to file this report this evening.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Does the gentleman from Cumberland request or intend to request by his report that the Senate members of the Conference Committee be discharged?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, we merely make this report to the members of the Senate so that our position may be known.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That was the only purpose of the report?

Mr. WADE. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Then, Mr. President, does the gentleman from Cumberland agree that the proper thing to do with this report was to receive it and file it in the records.

Mr. WADE. I do, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. And was there any other suggestion that the gentleman wished to indicate in connection with the action of the committee, or its future conduct? Is the gentleman requesting instructions from the Senate by virtue of this report?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, so far as my signature to the report is concerned, I merely put it on there as a statement of our position and an invitation to all members of this body for any suggestions that they may have to bring an end to the deadlock.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Cumberland feel that three other members appointed by the Senate might reach an agreement.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, that is a question that I cannot answer.

Mr. SHAPIRO. To be perfectly frank, Mr. President, I would like the gentleman to understand that my interrogation is for the purpose of finding out whether there is anything the Senate can do, or whether there is anything the gentleman thinks can be done about this matter, so that we may take some steps, necessary steps, to bring about a definite conclusion. If the Senate has any power or any ability to do that, they must be informed as to what is the desire of the Committee. The gentleman has merely stated that three members of the Senate Conference Committee conferred with the members of the Conference Committee on the part of the House and the House members say that they will not sign the report. We can either understand that the Senate Committee wants to be discharged, if they think somebody else might agree, but they have conscientious scruples about voting for this report; they might vote for the bill but they would not like to vote for the report.

Frankly I would like to know just what is behind the proposal, because I understand we are about to adjourn tomorrow, and if there is anything to be done it ought to be done before that. I have a suspicion this report was filed for a purpose and I think we ought to know the purpose. I do not want to vote to discharge a committee unless they want to be discharged. I think they are able members of the Senate and I think these three members can work out the problem as well as any other three men.

Will the gentleman from Cumberland tell us whether the Committee wants to be discharged.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I rise on a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cumberland will proceed.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I maintain the gentleman from Philadelphia is making a speech and not an interrogation.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Possibly I am, Mr. President, but I am trying to make my position clear. My last question and what I want to know is: will the gentleman from Cumberland tell us whether the members of the Committee want to be discharged? The gentleman from Blair in explanation rightfully says he does not want to reflect upon the committee. I ask the committee do they want to be discharged, and if so, it is understood that there will be no reflection.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I think I am voicing the views of the other members of the Senate committee, Dr. Mundy and Senator Taylor, in saying we are perfectly willing to continue to wrestle with this problem. However, we were anxious that it be before this body and we wanted to tell this body that so far we have had numerous meetings, possibly twenty, and so far have been unable to agree.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the gentleman answer, Mr. President, whether the committee wants to be discharged.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, so far as I personally am concerned it makes no difference.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair wishes to correct the Senator from Philadelphia before he makes any further statements. The Committee do not say they are unalterately deadlocked. The statement reads: "Respectfully reports that the Conferees have been unable to agree on the report." That means it is simply a report that up until this time they are unable to make a report.

Mr. DENT. I understand that, Mr. President. If the Chair will refer to the statement made by the gentleman from Cumberland, prior to submitting the statement from which the Chair is reading—I would like to hear that statement repeated, as the gentleman from Cumberland made a statement wherein he said he would not vote for the House amendments, and if he is a member of the Committee on Congressional Reapportionment and will not vote for them, of what good is the Conference Committee? The gentleman from Cumberland made the statement he would not vote in favor of the House amendments.

The way it is going now this resolution will not get five votes, because they think we are taking a slap at Senator Mundy, Senator Taylor and Senator Wade. We do not want to take a slap at them, that committee We do want to get some clear understanding, if you are going to get this straightened out, what is the purpose of making this statement tonight. If you are not going to get anywhere, you ought to stand up and say "we want to be discharged and let a new group of conferees start." I know from my experience in labor disputes when one group cannot reach an agreement they step aside and new men are appointed.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I feel this Conference Committee is in a position similar to that in which a jury finds itself when it is unable to reach an agreement. The lawyers tell me that when a jury comes into a court room and says it cannot agree, the court discharges them. What is the use of kidding ourselves; let us get down to the point.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I think the Senator from Cumberland was within his rights to come in and make this report, because it is a semi-official report. Everytime we come out of the committee room we are supposed to have made reports to the press and to have made reports to individual Senators. I think the gentleman from Cumberland felt, from the number of requests from various sources, that it might be proper and fitting to turn in this report to the Senate as a body.

In answer to the statement of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, I would say that none of the committee, I think I am speaking for the other members of the committee—would be offended if in the judgment of the Senate it thought best that they should select other conferees whom they thought could better cope with the situation, but we do at the same time feel that if the Senate expresses its confidence in us, as a committee, and asks us to again hold meetings, we are perfectly willing to render our services to the Senate and continue our endeavors to arrive at some conclusion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

MOTION WITHDRAWN

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I will withdraw my motion, with the consent of the seconder, but I want to say that tomorrow morning—I understand we are going home again sometime during the night and we are coming back tomorrow—but remember this, when we do and you have not agreed yet, then you have a hard proposition ahead of you, you have another day and probably another night session and I suggest that some of us will have to send out some laundry if we are going to continue to do that. However, Mr. President, I withdraw the motion in order to give our able conferees an opportunity to go out and confer again. However, it begins to look like a sit-down strike to me.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, has the motion been formally withdrawn?

Mr. DENT. I have not had an opportunity to do so as yet.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I have not withdrawn my seconding of the motion. I have not yet had a opportunity.

May I be permitted to make a few remarks before I withdraw my seconding of the motion, if I do.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will proceed.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, there is only one sound solution. I may later withdraw my seconding of the motion. Up until the present time I do not believe there has been any consideration given to a plan to divide Philadelphia, whether or not they shall lose one Congressman.

Briefly, as I have analyzed the figures for Philadelphia, they have seven Congressmen and each one of them represents in round figures 261,000 population. Naturally they want to hold on to them. My Congressman represents 430,000 people. As my good friend from Cumberland stated this evening, ten years ago the County of Cambria was one congressional district. We had thirty-six Congressmen at that time and we were compelled to reduce that number to thirty-four, and they came to Cambria County and added Armstrong, Indiana and Jefferson and gave us a population of 430,000. Nothing has been said about my county or about the County of Luzerne on this floor, two top-heavy counties.

Allegheny County represents about 271,000 per Congressman but certainly they have no thought of receding or yielding, they are hollering for more.

There is only one sound solution, Mr. President, if we have any hopes of agreeing, and that is to either accept the report of the conferees and let them go back to work, or else appoint new conferees and let them start out and let them go down to the slums of Philadelphia and take county by county, take district by district, knowing full well we only have thirty-three seats, and work out a platform or combination of counties and present a plan to the Assembly for approval and let the chips fall where they may.

Just as long as we sit here and talk about Philadelphia and no other district, I can not see any hope of ever getting together. I can not blame Philadelphia. It is a nice soft job for all that they represent.

In my district we have 175 miles from line to line, and in Philadelphia I am told in a space of half an hour they can go from one end of the county to the other. Why certainly, if we sit back and let Philadelphia have its seven Congressmen, they will sit here all summer, but I think it is up to us, we members here, to rise up and say we shall do the job, not one or two men in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, whether it be Jack Kelly or Governor James or anybody else, but let us get up and be men and be counted.

Take the entire Commonwealth. It is our duty every ten years to reapportion the state, not one county, but all that I hear is that Philadelphia will not recede. So I say to you once again, gentlemen, if you are honest, if you are sincere, if you wish to go home, let us pick a new committee or the same committee, let four or five of us help them out, take paper and pencil, and I will sit with them, and I say within three days we would draw up a new bill; come back next week and pass it, and that will save a special session and send us all home.

Otherwise we will be dilly-dallying here until next Christmas and still Philadelphia will keep on crying and insisting upon their seven Congressmen. I am getting sick of Philadelphia asking for everything. My community has not been mentioned, and I say to you gentlemen once again, is there one of you who think down in your hearts that my district is not worthy of your consideration? I am asking you an honest question. Here is a district of 430,000 which you have not mentioned, and you quibble over a district of 205,000. It is unfair, it is not human at all and I am sick of it.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I would just like to answer the gentleman on one statement or correct his statement, to a certain extent, although by and large, I agree with the entire context, but I would like to state to him one of the counter propositions that was offered in committee affected his district, the Twenty-seventh District, and in order to have it clearly understood, without reading the entire statement and figures, I might say it would combine Clearfield and Cambria and make a district of 305,557.

Mr. President, I ask permission to file this statement with the clerk so that it may become a part of the record.

I want to say again, Mr. President, when you start to re-district the central counties of the State of Pennsylvania, then again you run into the same unjust proposition that we had ten years ago, when those districts were made geographically too large, as well as very uneven, so far as population is concerned.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection, the statement referred to by the gentleman from Cumberland will be made part of the record.

MOTION THAT SENATE RECESS

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate take a short recess.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I think that we have been a little unfair to the members of this committee, and if the gentleman from Allegheny—

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, if the gentleman from Allegheny will permit me to say so, it is my opinion the Senate should express its confidence in the Committee of Conference on the reapportionment bill and request that the Committee continue its valiant efforts.

I shall make no statement about Philadelphia; I will not try to defend the city in which I have lived for so many years. I am quite sure when I get back to Philadelphia I will find the same people, the same Philadelphia, and the same millions of dollars being paid by the City of Philadelphia into the oil fund, into the motor fund and into the coffers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, just as they have been doing for years, far in excess of any county in the state, and if you gentlemen feel there ought to be something done about it, I think this winter the fences we use to keep the snow off the roads can be gathered together and put around the City of Philadelphia and we will get along just as well.

Mr. WALKER. I will second that, Mr. President.

EXPRESSION OF CONFIDENCE EXTENDED TO CONFEREES ON SENATE BILL No. 507

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I suggest a motion expressing our confidence in the committee and requesting them to continue their valiant efforts.

Mr. WALKER. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the ttile was publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 298, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to Sleighton Farm School for girls, situate in Delaware County, Pennsylvania.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

RECESS

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for one hour.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

SINE DIE ADJOURNMENT CALLED FROM TABLE

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I now call from the table the House Sine Die Adjournment Resolution, Serial No. 27; and move that the Senate concur in the resolution as follows:

SINE DIE ADJOURNMENT

In the House of Representatives, Tuesday July 15, 1941.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That this Regular Session of the General Assembly adjourn sine die Tuesday, July 15, 1941, at 11:45 p. m.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Majority Floor Leader, in the event this resolution passes, if he is not cognizant of the fact that the congressional reapportionment and the unemployment compensation bills, now in committee, will die.

Mr. GELTZ. I did not get the last part of the interrogation, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Will die.

Mr. GELTZ. They may, Mr. President, but it seems to me as though there is nothing else that can be done. We have been advised and informed by the leaders of the other side that they are not interested in congressional reapportionment and that we will either take the Achterman Bill or none.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Chair whether or not I am in order in making a motion at this particular time that the resolution be laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT. Is that an inquiry addressed to the Chair?

Mr. COLEMAN. Yes, Mr. President, am I in order in making a motion that the resolution be laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT. Such a motion is in order.

MOTION THAT RESOLUTION BE LAID ON THE TABLE

Mr. COLEMAN. I now move, Mr. President, that the resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. COX. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware will state his point of order.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, there has been no intervening business, and therefore the motion of the gentleman from Lackawanna is out of order.

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the Senators, the Chair will read Rule 8 of the Senate as follows:

"A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, excepting when on the call for the previous question, the main question shall have been ordered to be now put, or when a member has the floor and shall be decided without debate."

The question is on adjournment, and the Chair must reverse himself. The only thing before the Senate is the resolution to adjourn sine die. The motion to lay the resolution on the table is out of order.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—29

Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Kephart,	Tallman,
Becker,	Farrell,	Letzler,	Taylor,
Carr,	Geltz,	Mallery,	Thomas,
Crider,	Haluska,	McCreesh,	Wade,
Crowe,	Heyburn,	Miller,	Walker,
Deitrick,	Homsher,	Ruth,	Watkins,
DiSilvestro,	James,	Stevenson,	Wilson, H. I.,
Ealy,

NAYS—9

Barr,	Cox,	McGinnis,	Mundy,
Chapman,	Dent,	McQuiddy,	Snowden,
Coleman,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I desire permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny may proceed.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, no member of this Senate can overlook what has happened in this Senate chamber during the past week. You will recall on Saturday, which really consisted of a seventy-two hour day, a resolution was introduced in which it was requested that there would be no adjournment sine die until an agreement was reached on congressional reapportionment. The four sponsors of that resolution were invited to a committee meeting of the Senate committee on reapportionment, and at that time a gentleman's word was given to us that if there was any attempt on the part of the Senate to permanently adjourn, that resolution would be reported to the floor of this Senate and we would at least have an opportunity to have the resolution voted on.

I am amazed and distressed that after waiting here from nine o'clock this morning, after having waited yesterday and nothing having been accomplished, that the first motion on the part of the majority of this Senate would be to pass an adjournment resolution. I personally feel that this is a betrayal of the welfare of the people of Pennsylvania, and I tell you frankly that my position in the matter is this, that I would not care whether a congressman whose seat was to be lost was a Republican or a Democrat. I believe in the democratic form of government, and I believe in minority parties and minority representation, and if we adjourn without reapportionment, it means there is a great possibility that either party is going to have all the members in Congress from Pennsylvania, and to my mind this is a serious and a bad thing.

One of the healthy things in this session, particularly in the Senate, has been the fact that there has been a strong majority and a strong minority, and in this session the members of both parties have exchanged points of view, and I feel that out of this session has come much legislation of value, because of the fact that there were two points of view.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I agree with my colleague, the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Cox, as to the importance of congressional reapportionment, and I want to assure him that not only I but many of my colleagues have been extremely interested in endeavoring to secure a decent, honest and fair reapportionment act. I wonder why he would think we were willing to take the beating we have been taking for the last ten or eleven days, if it were not because we were sincerely interested in an endeavor to secure congressional reapportionment for this state.

However, Mr. President, it seems that there are people who can be dealt with decently and fairly, and that there are other people who do not understand the meaning of decency, fairness and honesty, and so, when one has to deal with people of that kind, it becomes necessary that you go sometimes to greater lengths than you ever expected to go in an endeavor to secure that which you honestly believe should be secured.

Mr. President, there comes a time when human endurance reaches an end, and I want to say in all honesty, Mr. President, that there are many of us who have reached that point where human endurance is just about at an end and it seems most foolish to continue on in an effort that from all indications can mean nothing but fruitless endeavor, to the extent that the health of not one but many would be sacrificed in an endeavor to secure that which should have been secured long before this, months ago, in fact, Mr. President.

When you reach that stone wall, when you are advised that notwithstanding that which has gone on before, notwithstanding what compromises have been made in connection with other bills and other matters, "you will either take our bill as we give it to you or you will take nothing, because we are not interested in reapportionment," that, Mr. President, was and should have been all the advice we needed that our sacrifice in health and otherwise has certainly been in vain.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I agree by and large with the statement of the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Cox. However, he made one statement which the members of this committee must resent to a certain extent.

The gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Cox, stated that there was an agreement made that this resolution would be brought out on the floor before a motion to adjourn would be considered. I do not know there was any such agreement.

Now, Mr. President, to enlarge somewhat on that statement, the resolution that we hold in committee is what you might term a strangulation resolution. It says for the most part that we shall stay here, the members of the House and the Senate will be required to stay here until some agreement is reached. At the same time, I know that I am not making any unfair accusation when I say to the members of this body that it is the members of the opposition party that are now holding up the proposition, and that counter proposition after counter proposition has been made to them without any agreement whatsoever from them to take any of them, except, as the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Geltz, has so ably said, "you will take our proposition or none."

Mr. President, earlier in this legislative day, we went further, we made an informal report to this body and at that time we were again assured that the members of the Senate had confidence in us in solving the problem, if a solution were possible, and as a matter of fact the Minority Floor Leader at that time moved a vote of confidence in the conferees.

In view of that, Mr. President, I see no reason whatever to hold another meeting of the Committee on Congressional Reapportionment. However, I stated to the members of the Senate we would hold a meeting if it was deemed necessary to hold it, to consider this resolution. I see no need for it, but I shall live up to that agreement and call a committee meeting if it is thought necessary.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, may I interrogate the Majority Floor Leader, Senator Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Did I understand the Senator to say there was nobody on the other side, or that the members on the other side were not interested in congressional reapportionment?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I did not say that, and if my remarks were construed by Dr. Mundy or anyone else as a reflection on Dr. Mundy, I apologize, because I know not only from what the Republican conferees have said about Dr. Mundy's conduct, but I, from my own personal knowledge, know that Dr. Mundy was just as much interested, and I believe just as honestly and just as sincerely interested, as any of the rest of us in his endeavors to work out this congressional reapportionment question on a satisfactory basis.

So that there will be no misunderstanding, Mr. President, I was referring to the Minority Floor Leader of the Senate and the Majority Floor Leader of the House, when I referred to the leaders of the other side.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I would like to further clear the record. I am going to ask the Majority Floor Leader if in his remarks he includes anybody else on this side of the House except the Minority Floor Leader whom, I take from his statement, must have made an expression of his feelings on the matter.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I unhesitatingly state that I can not recall having discussed this matter with any member on the other side of this body other than Senators Mundy, Coleman, Cox, Barr, and Dent, and I am not certain, but I believe Senator Haluska, in one meeting of the Committee on Congressional Reapportionment, and I am glad to say, Mr. President, that at that time every one of the Democratic Senators whom I mentioned seemed just as resentful at the attitude of the representatives of the other House as did the Senators from our own party.

May I also just add Senator DiSilvestro's name to that list. I forgot to mention his name, but I recall now he was present.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, may I ask the Senator from Allegheny, did the Minority Floor Leader of the Senate, Senator Shapiro, express his opinion, that is, Mr. Shapiro's opinion, on reapportionment to the Senator?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, the Minority Floor Leader, in his discussion in connection with the statement which I made said "we are not interested in congressional reapportionment." Now, that "we" might mean anything and might have been taken as including our Democratic brethren, the Senators to the left, but I think in fairness it should be known that the ones I mentioned, and I do not doubt but what there are others on that side, at least some of them, some others than the ones I have mentioned feel the same way as we do about it.

We are not only told, Mr. President, by the Minority Floor Leader of the Senate and the Majority Floor Leader of the House, that "we are not interested in congressional reapportionment,' but we were told very clearly that the leaders of the Democratic Party did not want congressional reapportionment because, as they put it, "all we need to do is to have the great White Father come up to Pennsylvania and he will elect thirty-three Pennsylvania Democratic congressmen."

Mr. MUNDY. Does the Senator, as a Senator, by his association and his talks with the Senators on this side have any reason to doubt that this side of the House, the minority side of the House, had told me without exception, including the Minority Floor Leader, Mr. Shapiro, that I was to exert every possible effort to bring about reapportionment.

Mr. GELTZ. I am sorry, I did not understand I was being interrogated. I thought the Senator from Luzerne was making a statement. I beg his pardon.

Mr. MUNDY. I will repeat the question, Mr. President. Does the Senator from Allegheny have any reason to doubt my statement that every man without exception on this side, including Mr. Shapiro, the Minority Floor Leader, instructed me both individually and collectively to exert every effort to bring about congressional reapportionment.

Mr. GELTZ. Yes, Mr. President, I would have some right to question or to doubt that statement, not as to what was said but as to the sincerity of it, if it came also from the Minority Floor Leader of this body.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, may I ask a roll call of the Democratic Senators on this side, before I ask permission to interrogate each one of them separately.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Luzerne has the floor, and he may address an inquiry to the several Senators.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, may I ask the Senator from Westmoreland whether he did or did not instruct me to exert every effort to bring about reapportionment?

Mr. DENT. I did, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. I thank the gentleman from Westmoreland. May I now interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator DiSilvestro?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Senator DiSilvestro, did you or did you not instruct me to exert every effort to bring about reapportionment?

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Absolutely, Mr. President, because I believe in Dr. Mundy's sincerity and integrity.

Mr. MUNDY. Thank you, Senator DiSilvestro. Now, Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lawrence, Senator McQuiddy.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lawrence permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McQUIDDY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, did or did not the gentleman from Lawrence instruct me to exert every effort to bring about reapportionment?

Mr. McQUIDDY. I absolutely did, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. I thank the Senator from Lawrence. I would now like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator McGinnis.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McGINNIS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, did or did not the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, instruct me to exert every effort in the committee to bring about reapportionment?

Mr. McGINNIS. I did, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. I thank the gentleman from Allegheny

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I desire to ask my colleague, Dr. Mundy, if he will yield for just a moment.

Mr. MUNDY. Gladly, Mr. President.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, my colleagues and I are perfectly willing, for the purpose of saving repetition, to concede that every Democratic Senator who is here to be questioned today made that request of Dr. Mundy. We have no doubt of that.

Mr. MUNDY. I thank the gentleman from Allegheny. I take it the gentleman from Allegheny really believes that every Senator on this side sincerely instructed me to do everything possible to bring about reapportionment; is that correct?

Mr. GELTZ. I will agree to that, Mr. President, with one exception, and that is the exception which I mentioned heretofore, because I would not agree with that, Mr. President, in the face of the business I had with that gentleman.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, it was not my purpose, and I have tried to adhere to that, as the Senators will testify, to have talked about any of the details, nor to have expressed any of the details on this floor of what transpired in the committee, without the consent of the full committee, but since such details have been discussed on the floor, I now desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Cumberland whether the Democratic members of the committee did or did not offer a number of compromise plans?

Mr. WADE. They did, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. May I ask the Senator if the number of compromise plans probably reached the number of seven.

Mr. WADE. No, I do not believe so, Mr. President; my recollection is three.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, may I ask the Senator from Cumberland whether or not the members remained here until practically five o'clock this morning discussing plans?

Mr. WADE. That is right, Mr. President, they did.

Mr. MUNDY. Did we suggest at that time that we take Carbon County and Monroe County and add them to the so-called Horse-Shoe district; that we take Lehigh and Berks and join them together; and that we take Northampton and join that with Bucks; is that correct?

Mr. WADE. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. And did we or did we not go over the figures and find out that would be, so far as the districts are concerned, a pretty fair apportionment, considering census figures.

Mr. WADE. With this exception Mr. President, the new district created would have a population of 419,517, or 119,512 more than the state ratio.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, the gentleman from Cumberland is now talking about joining Lehigh and Berks together; that is one portion of that plan, is that correct.

Mr. WADE. That is right.

Mr. MUNDY. But the other section would balance up in reference to the mean figure that we took of 300,000.

Mr. WADE. That is correct.

Mr. MUNDY. And this proposition would affect two Democratic and two Republican Congressman; is that correct.

Mr. WADE. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. And would be pretty fair, as far as that basis is concerned.

Mr. WADE. Yes.

Mr. MUNDY. Now, Mr. President, did or did not the Democrats offer to take Lancaster and Lebanon and Chester, and join them together, and then to take Dauphin and to transfer it to another district.

Mr. WADE. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. And when we roughly apportioned those figures it gave us a pretty fair average on the required 300,000 number.

Mr. WADE. No, Mr. President, I would not say that the entire membership of the committee agreed that would be an equal distribution in population. The now Nineteenth District, which is composed of Lebanon, Dauphin and Cumberland County, has a population of approximately 23,000 over its ratio. This redistribution of the Nineteenth District, dividing it up, makes two of those districts unusually heavy.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, did the Democrats discuss or suggest that we take Erie and the northwest districts and reform them into a new district?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I agree that some of these meetings were held in the wee hours of the morning. I do not recall any such proposition, but I do not mean to say that the Senator is wrong.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I will close by saying that we did discuss that question of the forming of a new district in the northwest.

Mr. President, may I further interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland and ask him did the Democratic Senators move into the middle west and consider Butler, a new district, Butler and Mercer, and were we ably aided in that by the addition of a valient member of the Senate, Senator McQuiddy.

Mr. WADE. That is correct, Mr. President. Mr. Mc-

Quiddy placed himself as a martyr before the committee and offered to give Butler to anyone who wanted it.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, did I not myself, as a Senator, suggest to the Committee that they could divide my home County of Luzerne, take the northern section and the southern section of Luzerne, divide them or annex them to additional territory to give us a new additional congressional district.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, that proposition, as I understand it, was not considered carefully by the Committee, certain members of the Committee being advised that would not be constitutional.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, did or did not the Democrats also suggest the addition of Bucks, annexing Bucks and Montgomery; am I correct in that.

Mr. WADE. I think, Mr. President, we Republicans should take credit for that proposition.

Mr. MUNDY. Then, Mr. President, by the same token, will the Republicans take credit for the constant and ceaseless vigil to insure that Bucks was not annexed to some known Democratic district.

Mr. WADE. I think that would be in order, for the Republicans to take credit for that.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I shall complete my interrogation by saying just simply this; the point I want to bring out is that the Democrats did after all make seven different proposals for a compromise in this matter, and the Democratic side did cooperate, and finally, I say this to you in conclusion, that as far as I am concerned as a member of that Committee, and this is very definite, there is no leadership in the Democratic Party or so-called leaders of the Democratic Party, who did or will in the future affect my judgment or affect my power of reasoning in any way, so that I would not be open to any conviction on that committee which would be for the best interests of the ten million people of Pennsylvania, and I feel that I can say that, too, about my colleagues on the committee of the Senate. I feel, too, that this failure of agreement on congressional reapportionment and the delay incident to that, and a few other things, will put down this session of the Legislature in history as one of the greatest legislative fiascos and debacles of which I know.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Cumberland if, when we presented the resolution suggesting that the Senate and House stay in session until they enacted a congressional apportionment law, if we did not have an agreement with him that the resolution would be properly considered?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I do not believe that is correct. I agreed with the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Coleman, that a committee meeting would be called and I still maintain that is our position, we would call a committee meeting, call it immediately if the Senate would recess, in order to consider that resolution, but I think—and I am positive that was the extent of any agreement on the part of the majority.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, the answer of the gentleman from Cumberland leaves me tremendously confused. I asked him whether or not he would agree to call a meeting for the purpose of considering the resolution presented by myself and Senators Cox, Dent and Barr. He said that is not exactly right and then later indicated in his remarks that it was right. Now, maybe I had better phrase it in different English; refreshing the gentleman's recollection, I desire to ask him if he recalls when they had a meeting of the Committee, to which the sponsors of the resolution were invited, if at that time there was not a promise made that on the following day the committee would meet for the purpose of considering adoption of the resolution.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, all the members of the Committee so far as I know were present, and since this is a direct accusation against the Chairman, I leave it up to any member of the committee on either side to answer that question.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Cumberland if he recollects that I made the suggestion—having in my mind that there was an adjournment resolution in the House—that the resolution be reported out with the understanding that I would not call it up from the table; it would be tabled as soon as presented to the Senate, for the purpose of presenting those of us interested in congressional apportionment from having to go through the formality of asking for another meeting? I ask the gentleman from Cumberland if that is not so.

Mr. WADE. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask the gentleman another question. I desire to ask the gentleman from Cumberland if he did not promise me that before the sine die adjournment resolution, which had already passed the House, was acted upon by the Senate, that he would give me at least five minutes notice.

Mr. WADE. I do not recall that, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to interrogate the Majority Floor Leader.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask the Majority Floor Leader if he has any recollection of the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade, going to him and asking him whether or not he would agree to give us at least five minutes notice before having the Senate act on the adjournment resolution?

Mr. GELTZ. I have no such recollection, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to first of all express my share of the displeasure of my colleagues, particularly Senator Cox, at the action of the Committee. We were interested sincerely in congressional reapportionment and we felt that if the Senate had acted upon the final adjournment resolution that it would nullify the action of those of us who presented the resolution suggesting that the House and Senate remain in session.

Now, Mr. President, we are going through what obviously are the dying hours of an unusual legislative session. I say unusual in many respects, Mr. President, unusual because of its length, the longest in a period of ninety-nine years. I say unusual because of its lack of any outstanding legislative achievement. I say unusual now in that it appears very definitely that the question of congressional reapportionment is out the window and that no bill will be passed unless the people responsible for the action of the House and the Senate relent in their position and finally pass a bill.

I appreciate, Mr. President, that everybody in the House and Senate is weary because of the tremendously long session. I do not know anybody here who is more physically and mentally exhausted than myself, but not to the extent, Mr. President, that it has so dulled my mental processes that I am not still thinking of the people in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and sincerely determined that this Legislature shall not adjourn sine die until such time as it fairly and squarely meets the proposition presented to us. I have tried to be very fair and I think the conferees on the other side of the house will agree that I am not trying to resort to any legislative trick. I want, first of all, it clearly understood I am not speaking for the leadership of the Democratic party; while I might express the sentiment of men on this side, I am speaking for myself as a member of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

I have been very honest in my relations with the chairman of the committee and with the conferees and I want it very definitely understood at the outset that anything I say is not to be construed as a criticism of the gentlemen who were given the responsibility by the House and the Senate of adjusting the differences existing on this all important bill.

Mr. President, I am frank to say that they had a tough problem and I am frank to say that all of those men are high type men who were inbued, I believe, with a determination to settle what is admittedly a tough proposition, so that anything I say is not to be construed as any attempt to find fault with the conferees or this committee.

I honestly feel that it is just a question of these men being sincere in their convictions that they are right and that they have reached a point where any further conferences seem to be a futile effort.

Now, Mr. President, I should like, if I possibly can, to paint a picture of what this means to the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

In 1931 we had the same problem facing the General Assembly on that particular occasion, except that instead of eliminating one it was their responsibility to cut out two congressmen, and reduce congressional representation from thirty-six to thirty-four.

I am frank to confess that I do not think the responsibility lies within the Senate and House chambers. I want it very clearly understood that I have always felt that the legislative authority in the General Assembly was vested in the House of Representatives and the State Senate; I think that the only people who ought to have any power to breathe legislative life into this important proposition are Senators and House members, and I think that much of the opposition comes from the leaders, and I want it very clearly understood that I am designating no party. I think we have reached a stage in the consideration of this bill where the political leaders of the State of Pennsylvania on both sides ought to take a holiday and this thing ought to be considered by the men charged with the responsibility of considering this big issue.

I would like to read at this time, Mr. President, from what I think is a tremendously important document and which ought to very forcibly impress upon the members of the Legislature what will happen in the event this reapportionment bill is killed.

In 1931, as I indicated before, we reduced congressional representation from thirty-six to thirty-four. The members of the General Assembly then faced a tremendously important and a tremendously serious problem. Governor Pinchot in signing the bill, with which he was in some disagreement, said a very significant thing and I want to read an extract from that particular statement to the members of this Senate.

"I refuse to be a party of the practical disfranchisement of the honest voters of Pennsylvania through a political trick. He explained that the passage of this bill compels me to choose between signing it and thereby enacting into law a vicious apportionment, or vetoing it and thereby bringing upon the Commonwealth an unworkable and unfair election, in which the use of voting machines would be impossible. If on the average there were only three candidates for each place on the state wide ticket, a total of 588 names would appear on a state wide ballot. In addition to this bedlam of state wide names on the ballot, candidates for the entire House of Representatives would be voted for, as well as one Senator from the even numbered districts throughout the state. Add to that candidates for the state committee in each senatorial district and members of the county committees in each political unit and I have no language to describe the result."

He indicated in that statement that the purpose behind it was to enforce election of representatives to Congress at large instead of by districts as at present, and he added that such a move would throw the election into the hands of machine controlled party leaders in the great urban centers.

Now, Mr. President, I think the responsibility rests with the members of the Legislature. There have been all sorts of rumors questioning the sincerity of the leadership on both sides, perhaps by some of the members of the House and the Senate who are not members of the conference committee, and some suggestion has been made that Governor James ought to meet the issue when we adjourn and call the Legislature back into session, which to me is the silliest proposition that possibly could be presented. There is nothing that will change the factors involved in congressional apportionment, either now or ten years from now, if they are elected at large in the intervening period of time. Here we have been considering a bill for six months and have not been able to arrive at an agreement and, regardless of who the conferees are, I think that the power behind the throne, even if you appoint new conferees, will stick their hands into the thing and attempt to run the Legislature by remote control. I want to here and now enter my protest against any suggestion that the Governor summon the Legislature into extraordinary session to enact this all important bill.

Mr. President, this state has been a great state and this nation has been a great nation, because we have had representative form of government. This action on the part of the House and the Senate now, in a period of world turmoil, as I have said before and repeat it again, will be the worst blow at democracy and the democratic form of government in the State of Pennsylvania in the history of this great Commonwealth. We ought to meet this issue as men. Back in the formative period of American history the pioneers got together and solved their problems—these problems of the present day suffer by comparison—though they did not look for any leadership on the part of anyone, they banded together and if there was a case of any invasion they repelled it. I think we ought to put this bill back in the hands of the Legislature again, and I am appealing to the pioneer spirit within the hearts of the members of the Senate and the House to get together and let us show the people in the State of Pennsylvania that kind of thing can not happen in this enlightened age.

Everybody knows what will happen in the event this bill is killed in this session of the Legislature. Can you picture, Mr. President, walking into a polling booth next year in the primary election and being handed a paper ballot containing five hundred or a thousand names of congressional candidates, with the notation on the top "Vote for thirty-three." That will open wide the door for the greatest political abuse in the history of the State of Pennsylvania, and while I do not think there is any necessity of doing that, I want the members of the Senate to indicate a sincere desire to stay here until we enact an apportionment bill and I would like to suggest to the gentleman from Cumberland that he call a meeting of the Committee on Congressional Apportionment for consideration of this resolution.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, there is no doubt in my mind that the members on both sides of the General Assembly can settle this question. There is no doubt in my mind that the gentleman from Luzerne, Dr. Mundy, has acted on his own, using his own judgment in the matter. There is also no doubt in my mind that those two fine young fellows from the House do not have anything to do with it, not a blessed thing to do with it, and I say that it would be better for both sides to go over there and do all their talking, because just this morning the Minority Floor Leader of the Senate told me there are five bills in controversy and he mentioned them.

I said, "let us get down to facts, let us take them in their order and see if we can make an adjustment." They gave five different reasons why they could not agree on the bills.

I said, "well suppose (just suppose) that we were to agree; after you have already agreed on these bills, four of them, suppose that we agree to accept your proposition, what about 507? The Minority Floor Leader of this Senate said at once "We never considered that for a moment. That bill is not controversial as far as we are concerned, because you will take this bill as we suggest or you will vote for congressmen at large."

Now, Mr. President, let us get back to our committee. We made seven proposals and so told this Senate. Later came proposals from the other side. I will agree that the Senator from the west last night, not less than twelve or fifteen times said "Take Butler." Well, of course we had too many eggs in the basket as it was. I did not consider that a proposal but there was a second proposal that came from the other side to which we readily agreed—the three Republicans agreed to that within thirty seconds—that proposal was withdrawn so I do not feel they can consider that a proposal in view of the fact that they made it and then withdrew. I can go on down the line and some of them were so ridiculous that they laughed at them themselves; they were just thrown in the hopper so that they could say, "You had seven and we had seven, so therefore we are even." I do not blame them very much.

I still reiterate that if we had three Dr. Mundys, this question would have been settled long ago, but not only the Minority Floor Leader of the Senate but the leaders of the House told us, "No chance, nothing doing on this congressional reapportionment; you will accept our suggestion or our proposal or it is out the window." That was said to us this morning, to five Senators.

We can not go on forever on this, Mr. President; I appreciate that we can not keep dilly-dallying forever. I am not advocating a special session of the Legislature; with the same people being back you will get no further.

Compromise. You can speak of compromise forever. We offered compromises but how can there be compromises if they will not make any concessions. We agreed to make all kinds of concessions to the other side, in this legislation to which they agreed and afterward they said, "Let us go back and get some more." If that is fair dealing, if that is honest dealing, then I am sorry I am in the Senate.

Mr. President, why can we not be fair about this thing? 420,000 population seems fair on the other side. We are asking to split the City of Philadelphia. We think that is fair, but we were told this, Mr. President, and names were mentioned, "We will never agree to this"—the Democratic party leaders said that. I can well remember when the Republicans were just as bad," I can well remember when Philadelphia dominated the House and the Senate and the rural population took what was left.

I will never sell down the rural population, back to the leaders of either side, in the big cities.

I could keep on speaking about what we have done in these conferences. I think an honest effort was made in there but the vote of the gentleman from Luzerne, Dr. Mundy, did not mean anything, because there had to be two votes from the House and there was never a chance to get two votes from the House, and they repeatedly told us so.

I do not think we should be censured for not trying to reach a conclusion. All we asked was a fair break in the game. We are the majority party in Pennsylvania. Since when does minority party say "You will take what we offer or nothing?" I did not know that was in vogue yet. I know when we were the minority party we got nothing. We were willing to give and take a little, but there is nothing left when you are told without any equivocation "You will take it or leave it," and the worst of all was when they said "We never intended to do anything."

Mr. President, if we get congressmen at large in Pennsylvania, it lies at the hands of those leaders.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I am one of the few members of the Democratic party who this afternoon voted for adjournment sine die. I have been and am in sympathy with the resolution offered by my Democratic colleagues Senators Dent, Barr, Coleman and Cox, that this Senate do not adjourn sine die until we pass a congressional reapportionment bill, but, having the highest respect and regard for the three conferees on the part of the Senate, Dr. Mundy, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Wade, who, I know, have told me the truth repeatedly after coming out of committee, and last night after hearing their report read, telling this body that insofar as they were concerned they were unable to come to any decent compromise with the conferees on the part of the House, then I made up my mind that I could not stand by my colleagues in the House who wish to stay here all summer, and therefore I was compelled, Mr. President, to vote to adjourn sine die.

I am in sympathy with the remarks made by the gentlemen from the right when they tell us they have gone as far as is humanly possible to reach some agreement, and I am speaking as a Democrat. I do not believe the Democratic party can in any sense lay any blame upon their doorsteps.

It is only a case of boss rule. If the members on the part of the House were free members, independent of outside influence, they could go into a conference, sit down and speak for themselves, but I am firmly convinced that they are puppets, that they are given their orders, and they will tell you, as has been stated on this floor, "Take our program or nothing."

They care not for ten million people in Pennsylvania, they are not serving their constituency, they are serving their bosses, so I go on record as saying as a Democrat that the Democratic party can in no sense put the blame on the doorstep of the Republican party, when those people go back home they will not be forgotten. Whether you stay here until next Christmas or whether you come back in a special session, until we are able to put men on a conference committee with some ability, some honesty, some integrity, as we have here in the Senate, there is no hope of ever agreeing, so I think that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, acted wisely when he called up the resolution to adjourn sine die.

Certainly, Mr. President, we are entitled to leave here, and speaking for myself I am compelled to go back home; I must earn a livelihood; I have been away from my family for eleven days; I have stayed here day and night to do my little part, and I am certain I am speaking the sentiments of many more of my colleagues on both sides of the House, that since we can not agree it is useless to stay here forever hoping that somebody else might change their mind, so I want the gentlemen on the right to understand that I, speaking as a Democrat, feel they have done the right thing, and now without further ado, Mr. President, you should drop the gavel and send us back home, and the chips will fall in the right place, I am certain.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I could talk probably for hours. Being Senators, talking is our stock in trade. However, talking is not going to help much in this situation. I do not care who is at fault, I do not care who is to blame, but I know that we, the General Assembly, have failed miserably in the duties we should have performed. We have failed to live up to that which is expected of us as duly elected representatives of the people.

I do not care whose fault it is, but I can not go back home and tell my people that I had to come home without reapportionment because somebody in Timbucto did not like the method that we were applying to the problem That does not matter to me. I only know that this General Assembly should not dissolve itself, should not go home until this problem is settled. It is too important a problem, it too vital a problem, it means too much to the future of this Democracy.

With the war in Europe, with this country in the midst of great preparations for defense, as we call it, with every one of us expecting every day some sort of a proclamation on the part of the leaders of this nation, when we may be in a shooting war, we sit around here and wonder and worry about some ten thousand dollar a year special clerk in Washington. If the whole thirty-three were dropped, it would not matter a whole lot to the State of Pennsylvania from all I have seen that they do, and if we keep acting the way we are acting here, it will not matter a whole lot if they drop fifty Senators either.

I have been in a great many of these controversies where they became stalemated. As you look up in the sky, it may look awful black and you may not see any glimmer of sunshine, but having been born into the world in a laborer's family, and having grown up in the labor ranks, I learned a long time ago that just when everything seemed so black that you had no hope, then perhaps something comes through and you saw the sun shining again.

So, Mr. President, I would suggest that before we quit, before we leave these halls, that this Senate accept the resignations of the members of this Conference Committee, and I believe they should be more than willing to resign. They have done a good job. I have talked it over with them individually; I have expressed my opinion in the matter more than once, and I will express it here any time. I think they ought to resign and remove themselves from the position of being in any way to blame for what has happened here. I know they are not to blame. Let this Senate name a committee of six, three Democrats and three Republicans, none of them from the big cities, but from the rural sections. Who, pray, now are going to be the goats in this thing? The people in Lebanon, the people in Westmoreland and all the other so-called rural counties are as much entitled to representation in Congress as any of the people who live in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh or Scranton. I say that, because of what is going to happen.

We all know if we go into a congressional vote with the bars down, the big cities will control the votes and so I say, name a committee of six, the ruralites if you please, men of honesty, men of integrity—and in spite of what has been said I think you will find six in the Senate—to approach the House on the basis of talking over the conditions surrounding this reapportionment bill. If the House refuses to meet us, if the House refuses to act in the manner that they should act, their conference committee too should resign, because they failed in their job. Many a time in a labor dispute, at the eleventh hour, when a strike was voted upon and when the strike was called for the following morning, sometime during the night new faces and new ideas were put into the argument and the strike never came off. If labor, which has not the education that most of the men in the Senate have, if labor acted in the same way we are acting here, throwing up our hands and quitting just because we have bucked up against a problem just a little too tough for most of us, if labor would do that, you would have more strikes than you could count in a year. Labor has learned through the years to have patience, and I am trying to ask you now to do the same thing. We have not done everything. We named a committee in the Senate of three men, and we left this problem in the committee's hands. I am not dissatisfied with the men themselves, but I am dissatisfied with the work that has been done and I have a right to be disssatisfied.

I represent 312,000 people back home and they are very much interested in having a congressman; they are very much interested in seeing that I do my job right, and if it takes a year we will still be doing the job a lot cheaper, mind you, than what it will cost the people of Pennsylvania to go into an election with the names of fifteen hundred or two thousand candidates on the ballot. Why, it would be simple for a man named Dent or Smith or Taylor or Walker, or any other name, to get all his relatives to throw their names in, and if one should get his name first on the ballot, or near the top, the rest would withdraw and you would have a Smith or a Dent or a Taylor or a Walker as your congressman. I do not know —my wife is here—maybe she will run.

Gentlemen, let me tell you that if this Senate is serious about this sine die resolution, then what Dr. Mundy said about this being a fiasco is a mild word to what the people are going to say it is.

I have enjoyed being here seven years, and I can not say that I am ashamed of anything that I have ever done here, but I know if I go home without doing something more than what I have done, . . . maybe I have been lax in my duty, maybe I have not moved as much as I could have moved and gotten around and talked to some of the men to get this problem settled, but let me tell you that all of the things that have been done here will be forgotten by the people six weeks after you leave here, but they will never forget the fact that you did not vote for reapportionment, because just as sure as the dickens, when they have to go into the polling places and vote, and they get that long list of names and they start going down through that list, the first fellow they are going to think of is the fellow that is to blame, and let me tell you, they do not know the Democratic party leaders or the Republican party leaders are to blame and they do not care; they do not run for office. We do.

Let me tell you this, too, if you are going to quit, if you have made up your minds to quit, then you can not quit without naming a legislative commission to study the problem of reapportionment. Eventually you will have to reapportion the state and so, if my other suggestion is not accepted, at least accept this one: pass a concurrent resolution naming a commission of five or seven or nine men, members of the General Assembly, to study the problem of apportionment between now and the next regular or the next special session, and come into this General Assembly with the problem worked out, taking into consideration more than has been taken into consideration this time. Consider the problem from three angles. I have heard a lot of talk about a district in Philadelphia having 260,000 population. However, I do not think congressmen should be elected on the basis of population alone, nor do I consider that congressmen ought to be elected on the basis of area alone. I think there are three dimensions to be taken into consideration. You must first take population, second area, and third the interests involved.

The City of Philadelphia probably has more financial interest in a congressman, in every one of their congressmen, than any other district, except the loop district in the City of Pittsburgh, so that too is worthy of consideration. It is much simpler for a congressman who represents 350,000 ruralites than it is for a congressman who represents 250,000 city dwellers, with the big businesses he has to contend with, and so when you take into consideration all angles, maybe Philadelphia is not so far wrong. I am not upholding the fact that Philadelphia wants to hold on to its congressmen, but you have got to admit that blame or name or game will never excuse this legislature for quitting now, at least without doing something; at least one more effort ought to be made by this General Assembly, the second thing we ought to do is to pass a concurrent resolution naming a commission to study the matter of reapportionment.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate my colleague from Lackawanna.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COLEMAN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, did I understand the Senator from Lackawanna to state he was opposed to a special session to consider congressional reapportionment, because the same power behind the throne would be working then as is working now.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, if the gentleman from Allegheny will not interrupt me until I explain what I said, at length, I did say that, but I added further that the same factors involved in the question will be evident in a special session. In other words, Mr. President, it does not make any diffrence to me, and I make this very clear, whether you reapportion them now or whether you reapportion them two years from now, or whether you reapportion them four years from now, the fact remains that there are thirty-four now and under the new census there will be thirty-three, and there is not one of the thirty-four that is going to come to the bar of the Legislature and say, "Boys, I will make the sacrifice, I will step out." It is our responsibility, not that of the Conference Committee; it is our responsibility to reapportion, to obviate the necessity of a special session.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I now desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Cox.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COX. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, does the Senator from Allegheny agree with Senator Coleman that in a special session for congressional reapportionment, the same power behind the throne would be working as is working now?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I feel that we should do anything within our power that would accomplish congressional reapportionment, whether it takes a special session or ten special sessions.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, may I repeat my question: does my colleague from Allegheny agree with Senator Coleman that the same power behind the throne would be working in a special session as is working now?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I can not answer that question, I do not know, but I do know this, it is evident from the speeches on both the right and the left of this Senate that the members of this Senate are certainly not going to be controlled by any power behind any throne.

Mr. GELTZ. May I interrogate my colleague from Westmoreland, Senator Dent.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, does my colleague from Westmoreland agree with Senator Coleman, that in a special session on congressional reapportionment the same power behind the throne would be working as is working now?

Mr. DENT. Well, Mr. President, if the gentleman from Allegheny means will the same leadership prevail in the House and the Senate, yes, I agree with that.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, may I interrogate my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Barr.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BARR. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, does my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Barr, agree with the statement of the Senator from Lackawanna that the same power behind the throne would be working in a special session as is working now?

Mr. BARR. What power does the gentleman from Allegheny mean, Mr. President.

Mr. GELTZ. The power as stated by Senator Coleman, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. I do not know, Mr. President, I can not read Mr. Coleman's mind, as to what power he is referring to.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, does my colleague, Senator Barr, admit that there is some power behind the throne which has been operating in connection with congressional reapportionment in this session?

Mr. BARR. I do not think in the Senate, Mr. President.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, did my colleague, Senator Barr, hear one of his colleagues, the Minority Floor Leader, make a statement of that kind last night?

Mr. BARR. I certainly did, Mr. President, and I think the gentleman from Allegheny well knows, I asked him for a statement and he well knows one of the gentlemen he mentioned and I talked with him today and he insisted that the gentleman retract that statement, and I refer to Mr. David L. Lawrence.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, to support the statement made by my colleague, Senator Coleman, and also the statement made by my colleague, Senator Barr from Allegheny, I want to read a portion of a newspaper article, of Wednesday, July 16th.

"A Republican charge that U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey favors a State-wide at-large election of Congressmen instead of a new reapportionment law by the Legislature, was confirmed conditionally today by the Senator's State leaders as the Legislature got into another fight and failed to adjourn on schedule.

"The charge was made and agreed to in a three-way conversation between Senator John M. Walker (R-Allegheny), Harry Shapiro, Democratic Senate leader, and Paul C. Lewis, secretary of the Democratic State Committee, with the understanding that anything said was "for publication."

"It followed a late night session of the Senate, in which futile efforts were made to discharge the conference committee on redistricting and Republican members were accused of "freezing" the bill in a move to throw open the election next year on an at-large basis.

"Senator Walker took exception to Shapiro's contention that the Legislature will enact a reapportionment bill when it returns at 10 a. m. and adjourn, stating:

"The bill's dead and you know it. I want to tell you about a telephone conversation I just had with Washington, Harry."

Noticing reporters closing in, Shapiro replied:

"Just a minute; is this for record; can it be published?"

"Every bit of it's for the record and for publication," Walker replied. Shapiro said, "O. K." and Walker went on with his story:

"Congressman Sam Weiss, a Democrat, who represents my district, (quoted Walker) called me tonight and asked how this matter stood. I told him flatly that it was a dead pigeon. (That is a new kind of a bird we have here now.) Then I asked him about the bill he's got in Congress—the one to allow the Federal Director of the Census to do the reapportioning if the Legislature fails.

"He told me that it had been referred to the House Rules Committee; that some old gentleman from the middle west was chairman of the committee and wasn't in favor of the bill. I asked him why he didn't get Senator Guffey to do something about it.

"Then Weiss told me, 'Do what you can, because even if my bill passes the House and goes over to the Senate, Senator Guffey will have it killed. He doesn't want reapportionment.'

"The bill's dead, Harry, because Guffey doesn't want it. Why don't you admit it?"

"That's right," replied Shapiro, "of course he doesn't. (Now, I would like to repeat just those words because of what is coming later: "That's right, replied Shapiro, of course he does not.") He knows and we all know that the Democrats can elect 33 Congressmen on a State-wide basis."

"At this point, Lewis (referred to above as Secretary of the Democratic State Committee) stepped into the conversation, adding:

"And Dave Lawrence, Jack Kelly and all the other Democratic leaders I've talked to would rather have a State-wide election."

Senator Joseph M. Barr (D-Allegheny) walked over and demanded:

"Did I hear someone say that Dave Lawrence was in favor of State-wide election of Congressmen?"

"You did," said Walker. "It was said right here by Paul Lewis."

"Well, he has no right to talk for Dave Lawrence," Barr said. Turning to Lewis, he asked: "Would you mind repeating that statement? I want to know if I should call Lawrence, even at this hour."

"I said that all the Democratic leaders would rather see a State-wide election than accept the Republican reapportionment proposal," Lewis said."

At that point, Mr. President, if I may, I would like to call attention to two facts, first that this was not our President of the Senate, Lewis—but here a new angle is put in, in connection with that statement, because Lewis very quickly, as he cleverly can, changed his statement that they would rather have a state-wide election than accept the Republican proposal on congressional reapportionment. But, Mr. President, all this which went before had nothing in it about accepting any Republican proposal. The whole conversation dealt entirely with the fact that the Democratic state leaders would rather have a state-wide election than have reapportionment.

Mr. BARR. He is a liar.

Mr. GELTZ. I am not lying; I might be mistaken, but I am not lying. That would seem to confirm, Mr. President, the statement which I made before, as coming from the Minority Floor Leader in the Senate, when he said "All we will need to do is to get the Great White Father up here in Pennsylvania and we can elect all thirty-three Pennsylvania Democratic Congressmen."

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I asked to be recognized a little while ago, because I intended to refer to that article. I think it is unfair to stand up here and make accusations about either side, accusations from either side to the other. That article speaks for itself. Tony Smith wrote that in the Evening Bulletin, and when he writes, he writes three cents worth for the people to read, and I say for those men sitting right in front of us, they try conscientiously to put down the truth. What is the use of making speeches in order to try to influence the people on either side?

What should have been done from the first instance was to close these doors to everybody, politicians and everyone else, and have only the newspaper men and the legislators in this hall, and we would have had a reapportionment bill.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, when we first convened in this Senate, you had a program outlined to carry out the principles of the Republican Party, is that correct? You must have had some program.

Mr. GELTZ. I do not know whether I understand the question or not, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. You must have had outlined a program by which the Republican Party hoped to carry out its principles; is that correct?

Mr. GELTZ. If the question was, Mr. President, when we opened this session, that is not correct, because I do not recall that we had any program at the opening of the session.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, in the course of the meetings of the Senate, have you as leader of the majority had occasion at any time to outline a program; that is, have you had any occasion to assert your position as leader of the majority and say to your colleagues, "gentlemen, this is the program of the Republican Party."

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I have not asserted myself as the leader of the Republican Party, in the Senate or elsewhere in connection with a program, but I will say—I do not know whether this is what Dr. Mundy means or not—it was our intention to pass a congressional reapportionment bill.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, eliminating congressional reapportionment until later, I still will repeat: did you have some broad program, or did you in your caucuses outline some broad program of how the members were going to act in reference to their relations to your party?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I do not think I understand the question of my colleague, Dr. Mundy. We, of course, as the session progressed, did develop what might be considered a program, but that so-called program was at no time advanced by me; it was a development of the conclusions of the Republican Senators.

Mr. MUNDY. Then, Mr. President, the Republican Senators did meet in Caucus and develop a program for the Republican Party.

Mr. GELTZ. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Was that program recently, about ten days ago, suddenly altered?

Mr. GELTZ. About ten days ago, did the gentleman from Luzerne say?

Mr. MUNDY. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. GELTZ. Not that I recall, Mr. President. I can not remember any way in which it was altered, for quite some time.

Mr. MUNDY. Were you or were you not called to the Executive Offices of the Governor of Pennsylvania on numerous occasions, accompanied by the Minority Floor Leader at times, and did you or did you not discuss a change in your program with the Governor of Pennsylvania?

Mr. GELTZ. Yes, Mr. President, to the first part of that question, there were numerous conferences, and I do recall a change that was made, it seems to me, possibly some three or four weeks ago, but the last ten days have been so long, it might have been three or four weeks ago; I am not certain.

Mr. MUNDY. Were those changes a radical departure, and were there certain intimations suddenly offered to you to return to your Caucus, say three weeks ago.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, those changes, the ones which I had in mind, were not any radical departure or any radical change, at least in so far as the Republican Senators were concerned, including myself.

Mr. MUNDY Mr. President, did or did not the gentleman from Allegheny read in the paper that John B. Kelly, Democratic Leader of Philadelphia, talked over the telephone to the Governor of Pennsylvania relative to certain legislation that was to be enacted in the Senate of Pennsylvania.

Mr. GELTZ. I do not believe I did read that in the paper, Mr. President, but I did hear it discussed.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, at that meeting which the gentleman from Allegheny attended with the Minority Floor Leader, were certain compromises made on bills with the Democrats, in return for certain compromises which were made to the Republicans?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, if my colleague means was the mental hospital program abandoned and the W.P.A. program instituted; that is correct.

Mr. MUNDY. Was the mental hospital program a fixed program for you and for the Democratic Senators before the visit to the Governor's office?

Mr. GELTZ. I think my colleague means Republican Senators; not Democratic Senators.

Mr. MUNDY. Republican Senators, that is correct.

Mr. GELTZ. No, Mr. President, I can not say it was, because, whether or not my colleague knows it for some five months, or close to five months, the Republican Senators, including myself were opposed to the mental hospital program.

Mr. MUNDY. That is, you opposed the taking over of the mental institutions by the state?

Mr. GELTZ. Were we opposed to what had been planned to be done, the state taking them over? No, we were for the state taking them over. That is, we were for what has been done now.

Mr. MUNDY. Now, Mr. President, may I ask the gentleman from Allegheny, why did not the Republicans so vote?

Mr. GELTZ. I did not understand the gentleman, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Why did not the Republican majority so vote when the question came up?

Mr. GELTZ. We did vote that way, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I am under the impression that the gentleman from Allegheny presented a bill to delay the taking over of these institutions for two years, and that was the Governor's attitude; is that correct?

Mr. GELTZ. That is correct, Mr. President. I sponsored those bills myself, but I think they were introduced in the Senate almost four or five months after the session had been started.

Mr. MUNDY. And, Mr. President, the gentleman from Allegheny evidently introduced those bills in good faith.

Mr. GELTZ. That is correct, Mr. President, because of the fiscal situation, but from what seemed to be distinct change in what we expected in the receipts by the Commonwealth, it appeared then as though I was wrong and my Republican Senator colleagues were wrong, and the Governor was right, that it would be necessary to do that.

Mr. MUNDY. Did the Governor or did not the Governor express the opinion that he too was opposed to taking over these institutions by the state, because he did not have enough money to take them over.

Mr. GELTZ. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. And why did the Governor suddenly change his mind at that conference?

Mr. GELTZ. Well, Mr. President, I can not very well state why the Governor suddenly changed his mind, but I could understand why I would have changed my mind, because of the tie-up in the fiscal program of this administration, the delay in the tax bills in the House, the tax anticipation note bill, the relief appropriation, the general appropriation bill and all of those things, Mr. President, which were vital and necessary for the proper administration and conduct of the Commonwealth.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, did or did not the gentleman from Allegheny agree in the Governor's office at that time, that the Governor should reduce his item in the budget from $130,000,000 to $104,000,000, and that the gentleman from Allegheny and the Minority Floor Leader agreed to give him a cushion of $15,000,000 on the side, to take over these institutions; is that correct?

Mr. GELTZ. Does my colleague mean, Mr. President, when he says reduce to $104,000,000, the relief appropriation?

Mr. MUNDY. Exactly.

Mr. GELTZ. I believe, Mr. President, although I may be mistaken, that the general relief bill was passed with the amount of $130,000,000 and some odd hundreds of thousands in the relief appropriation bill, which amount, of course, we expect to be adjusted by what is left for relief, whatever that amount will be, after the Governor has set the appropriations for the various departments and subsidies in the other appropriation bills.

Mr. MUNDY. I again ask the Senator: was there an agreement over there that the Governor would reduce that, or accept a reduction to $104,000,000, provided you gave him a deficiency appropriation as a cushion, of $15,000,000.

Mr. GELTZ. I do not believe so, Mr. President; I do not believe the amount was definitely fixed at $104,000,000; although I may be mistaken.

Mr. MUNDY. But, Mr. President, there was an agreement as to a reduction and to accept a deficiency budget or cushion of $15,000,000 to take care of these institutions.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I do not believe that is stating it quite the proper way, that there was an agreement to accept a reduction. As a matter of fact, the representatives of the Democratic Party, the Majority Floor Leader of the House and the Minority Floor Leader of the Senate, were very definitely and distinctly told by the Chief Executive that if the Commonwealth took over the mental hospitals, that would necessarily cut into what had been counted on as the amount left for relief in the Commonwealth, and that was the thing, Mr. President, which caused the Chief Executive to make a fight for that idea or principle of his to the extent he did, because he wanted to the best of his ability to be certain that there would be a sufficiently large appropriation to take care of relief without the necessity of calling a special session for that purpose.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, when was the little W.P.A. injected as one of the things that your party was going to support.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, the first time I heard anything about a little W.P.A., I believe, was the first time the Governor addressed a joint session at the beginning of the session, at which time he talked about state relief projects for the purpose of endeavoring to carry this load. Sometime during the session, just when I do not recall, an amendment was introduced to the bill providing for covering the Department of Public Assistance by, I believe, my colleague, Senator Heyburn, at my request.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, was there at that time, to the knowledge of the gentleman from Allegheny, any agreement between Mr. John B. Kelly of Philadelphia, the Democratic leader and the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, that if the Democrats accepted the little W.P.A., he would take over the mental institutions.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I know nothing about one John B. Kelly. I believe I have seen the gentleman once since I have been down here and I believe that was in the lobby of the Penn Harris. I have never talked with him to my knowledge, and I at no time heard him talk to the Governor, nor the Governor talk to him, to the best of my recollection.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, was the gentleman from Allegheny advised officially that there was a conversation over the telephone from Ocean City to the executive mansion, about these affairs.

Mr. GELTZ. I was not, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Did Mr. Shapiro, the Minority Floor Leader, attend those conferences with you?

Mr. GELTZ. Senator Shapiro did attend some of them, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. And Mr. Shapiro always consistently advocated the taking over of the mental institutions by the state?

Mr. GELTZ. That is not correct, Mr. President. I recall distinctly one time Senator Shapiro said something to the effect that "we have agreed to go along with the Governor on the mental hospital proposal," and then coupled something else up with it, and it did not go through, and as a matter of fact, after hearing that statement, Mr. President, I felt so certain that I made a five dollar bet and lost.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, may I ask the Majority Floor Leader, Senator Geltz, whether he was or was not at a conference on Sunday or Monday in the office of the Governor of Pennsylvania, or was he apprised of the fact that the Governor of Pennsylvania had sent for the Minority Floor Leader of the Senate and for the Democratic leader of the House, and suggested to them that if certain compromises were made in legislation that the Democrats could have their apportionment bill.

Mr. GELTZ. Does my colleague, Mr. President, when he says Sunday or Monday, mean Sunday or Monday of this week?

Mr. MUNDY. Yes, I mean the most recent Sunday and Monday.

Mr. GELTZ. I was not present, Mr. President, nor do I know anything about it.

Mr. MUNDY. Was your Caucus informed in any way that there had been a change in attitude upon the part of the Governor in the apportionment plan, or did the gentleman from Allegheny hear any rumor of such.

Mr. GELTZ. The only rumor I heard, Mr. President, was at the last conference which I attended with representatives of the Democratic Party, and at which conference I became so disgusted and enraged that I got up once to leave and was prevailed upon to stay, and finally did leave before the conference was completed, because, Mr. President, at that conference some reference was made to the statement which Dr. Mundy has just made, and we were also told at that time, five Republican Senators, Mr. President, that Senate Bills Nos. 653 and 654, being the two civil service bills which had been agreed upon that morning by the representatives of the conference committee in the House, had been agreed upon because of a misapprehension on their part, and so they were not yet settled.

Mr. MUNDY. Did that agreement or did not that agreement include four items, the civil service bills, unemployment compensation, the so-called big truck bill, and reapportionment.

Mr. GELTZ. What agreement, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. The understanding that was had in the office of the Governor of Pennsylvania.

Mr. GELTZ. Oh, Mr. President, I said nothing about any understanding that was had with the Governor of Pennsylvania, nor in the Governor's office, and I wish that construction would not be placed upon my remarks. I said only this, Mr. President, that I heard a suggestion or rumor—call it whatever you want, because I am sick of calling things with those individuals—that some deal or agreement had been made of which I knew nothing, and it disguested me completely and I left.

Mr. MUNDY. Then, Mr. President, may I ask the gentleman from Allegheny, if he had no knowledge of that, why did he go back to his Caucus and why did he call a special Caucus to discuss these matters with the members on the Republican side, in order to effect a change in the program that they had already outlined.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, that is very easily, simply and truthfully answered. We were already in Caucus when word was sent to us that the Democrats wished to talk with Senator Ealy and myself, and because of our sad experiences, Mr. President, we requested that there go with Senator Ealy and myself three other Republican Senators. We went down from the Caucus as the Caucus was still going on, and it was only natural, Mr. President, when I came back that I went back to the Caucus which I had left.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, in the Republican platform, when the candidates ran for office, they ran on a specific platform, is that correct, and they made specific promises to the people of Pennsylvania; is that correct?

Mr. GELTZ. I am sorry, Dr. Mundy, I was trying to use two ears in two different directions, and it does not work. May I ask the Senator from Luzerne to repeat his question?

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I think the Senator from Allegheny is capable of taking care of himself very well; my association with him, at least, convinces me that he will take care of this question very well himself. Did or did not the Republican Party, when your candidates ran for office, offer to the people of Pennsylvania a certain platform; did they not make specific promises to the people of Pennsylvania?

Mr. GELTZ. That is usually the case, I think, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Was it the case the last time, when your candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania was campaigning, did he or did he not make specific promises to the people of Pennsylvania?

Mr. GELTZ. I think that is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Was one of those promises a uniform civil service system?

Mr. GELTZ. I do not know, Mr. President, if that was in the platform of the Republican Party. I do not believe that was included, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, did the Governor of Pennsylvania in several speeches specifically state that he was going to put all employes under a civil service act.

Mr. GELTZ. I do not recall, Mr. President, whether he did, on one occasion make such a promise or a statement, but I believe in that same message to the joint session to which I before referred, he said something about extending civil service in the administration, although I am not positive.

Mr. MUNDY. I thank the gentleman from Allegheny.

There has been discussion today, Mr. President, of the so-called powers behind the throne, and everybody has vaguely referred to certain powers behind this so-called fiasco or debacle. I now am going to specifically state who, and by name, those powers are.

I say to you, gentlemen on the other side and to my colleagues on this side, that we did have a specific outline of a program, both Democratic and Republican. You men over there honestly got up and took advantage of every possible legislative point and fought for the principles which you espouse, and so did my colleagues on this side. When we come out of civilian life we make some sacrifices to come here, and as Senator Geltz said, all of us in a sense have stayed here and have taken it.

Now, we come to a paradoxical situation which presents itself to the people of Pennsylvania. For months your side of the House did not receive one word of encouragement, one single word of direction on anything from the Governor of Pennsylvania. As a matter of fact, I read repeatedly in his statements that he was going to hold aloof from legislative matters, that it was his principle to keep out of that, and let the Senate and the House decide those things for themselves, and then suddenly one day he mounted the rostrum over there, shed all the dignity the Governor of Pennsylvania should possess and retain, and assailed the Democratic members of the House and the Senate in the same manner as some ward politician at some ward meeting, in the same language, in the same type of address, but the fact remains and the fact still stands out, that from that time on he has been dealing with the Democratic minority to put certain pet bills of his over, at the sacrifice of other legislation which you gentlemen fought so hard for.

On the other hand, we have the Philadelphia leadership, which sacrificed the things near and dear to us, which were party principles that we fought for in Pennsylvania, and when you fix the responsibility, you fix it in this way, that the Governor of Pennsylvania, your titular leader, sold you out and Jack Kelly, the leader in Philadelphia, sold the Democratic Party out, and the Governor of Pennsylvania very frankly told them the other day—and this is for you, Senator Taylor and Senator Wade, I might have told you in committee—he told them that, for certain exchanges, the original Achterman amendments would be written into the apportionment bill. It is no wonder that the Minority Floor Leader would get up on this floor and say to you he is not interested in this thing, because he had the assurance of the Governor of Pennsylvania that for certain exchanges this apportionment bill sponsored by the Democrats would go through.

Now, gentlemen, Mr. Kelly sends from Philadelphia up here—he has visited this place twice, visited Harrisburg, to my knowledge twice—he is trying to handle this thing by remote control over the telephone, talking to the executive office, and he sends up here as an insult to the intelligent members of the Democratic Party to conduct Democratic affairs, a former bag man for S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia, a discredited bag man, and we members here who come with some degree of responsibility, must take orders—yes he will dare to give orders—he does not come into the Senate, he does not dare to do that, but he tries to hand out orders, and if there is any blame for this reapportionment bill not passing, do not ask who is back of it; I will tell you who is back of it, the Governor of Pennsylvania and John B. Kelly have stopped it.

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President I move that the Senate do now take a recess for 30 minutes.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Butler, will proceed.

Mr. CARR:

OH WELL!!

Here I am, covered with rags and dirt,
Without a clean collar without a clean shirt;
I came prepared to stay for the day
And now that I'm here I can't get away;
I left a good home and I left a good wife
To suffer a most unenjoyable life.
If ever get back I never will roam
From that dear loving wife and good happy home.
My Jimmie, the boy that is grandson to me,
I am longing deep down in my heart for to see.
Instead I must listen to Senators rave.
Like chattering monkeys, they can not behave.
Oh give me, Good Lord, the right to inquire
Why previous to death I should go through this fire;
I haven't been bad and I've tried to do well,
So why in the world should I suffer this Hell?

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware may proceed.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President and members of the Senate, the Republican conferees on the part of the Senate and the House of Representatives appointed in connection with Senate Bill No. 80, the Unemployment Compensation Act amendments, wish to make a report of progress.

The original bill contained many points of simplification and liberalization for the benefit of labor, some of which are as follows:

Modify definition of "employer" to include a successor in interest clause. When I say successor in interest clause I mean there are certain unscrupulous employers in Pennsylvania who have evaded this tax for years and some of them have never paid the tax. For instance, we will take a firm calling themselves, we will say, The Peerless Manufacturing Company; when the department finally gets after them and proceeds to collect or attempts to collect, they find then that the Peerless Manufacturing Company has changed its name to the American Manufacturing Corporation and the owner, who may be one and the same man, or a member of one and the same family, perhaps, protests that he owes no money because it is a different corporation. This new amendment makes a successor in business liable.

It also provides in this redefinition that employers of non-resident employes can come under the act by election. I mean by that a business domiciled in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, where they have employes regularly going out from time to time to work over the state line, are not covered. Some employers have desired to elect to come under the act and this provision will give them the right to do so.

It also amends the Pennsylvania act to conform to the federal amendments of 1939, to exclude service in college clubs, fraternities, and sorority houses, which in effect has prevented some students from working their way through college due to the fact that their recompense for waiting on tables has been figured and assessments made upon them for food and room and board and so forth. As a result, all that red tape has encouraged those college organizations to hire people to do the work, instead of allowing young boys and girls to work their way through college. Therefore we made that amendment at the request of many people, including organized labor.

It also provides by amendment that an officer of a local fraternal or labor organization may make as much as $180 per year and yet his salary will not be taxable. This is an amendment which was requested by labor unions and fraternal clubs and so forth.

It also complies with the federal definition of farm exemption.

It also excludes services performed for a foreign government, such as services in embassies and consulates and things of that nature.

There has been included, to conform with the federal act:

Wages paid for services to charitable or religious organizations, when engaged in influencing legislation. In other words, when they lobby for a charitable organization, work around the legislative halls of this Commonwealth, they will be covered by unemployment compensation and their salaries will be taxable.

Services for instrumentalities of the United States not wholly owned by the United States and not exempt from federal income tax laws, such as Federal Housing Corporations and so forth. Those employes have not been covered.

Redefines total unemployment in order that a worker may earn as much as $156 per year without being considered employed. To boil that down it means a worker receiving an unemployment compensation check of fifteen dollars could make three dollars per week doing odd jobs and still not interfere with his weekly benefit check. Under the present act if he makes as little as five cents he is automatically taken off the compensation rolls.

Provides a modification of the definition of wages to exclude, among other things, allowances paid draftees and volunteers. I mean by that, Mr. President, that some employers, patriotic as many of them are, when their employes are drafted or when they enlist, those employers provide that employes shall receive twenty-five per cent, for instance, of their salary while they are in the service. Under the present law that is taxed. That is a penalty on a good deed and the veterans and several other groups have asked that these amendments be made.

We have also provided for an advisory council, composed of employes, employers and the general public, to be appointed by the Governor. The idea in that was that this advisory council could study the act and its application and so forth and recommend to the Legislature at its regular and special sessions just what changes should be made to liberalize the law from time to time and keep it in conformity with the national act.

It also provides for the destruction of obsolete records. There are so many records used in the administration of unemployment compensation that the storage of those records has become a matter of renting a tremendous amount of space, involving a lot of expense to the Commonwealth. We provide in this amended bill that the obsolete records shall be destroyed, or may be destroyed, although a microfilm is taken of them in case there may be some emergency arise when it would be necessary to see them.

We also increase the effectiveness of collections of the tax by giving the department power to compromise delinquent taxes, penalties and interest, in connection with bankrupt employers. In other words, where an employer has become bankrupt and there is only so much money available, the department under this amendment can go in and get as much as possible by compromise. In the case of delinquent employers we permit the department to compromise penalties and interest, with approval in both cases by the Department of Justice. The reason we have done this is that certain industries in the Commonwealth have been so far back with their payments to the fund, that if the department enforces the law as it should be enforced, those delinquent taxpayers would be put out of business. There are a tremendous number of coal companies in the Commonwealth which are so far back in their unemployment compensation contributions that I understand to enforce this act and collect would simply close them up. This amendment provides that the tax itself cannot be compromised but the interest and penalties may be.

It also gives the department the power to assess and establish liens against delinquent employers. Under the present act, as it now stands, if an employer gets in arrears with his tax and the department proceeds to collect, the employer pretends or contends he does not owe a certain amount of tax, we will say, and the department is seriously handicapped in collection. Under this bill they could assess the tax the same as they do now with other state taxes and then it is the duty and the responsibility of the employer to prove he does not owe that much tax.

It reduces the waiting period from three to two weeks, Mr. President, which is a very liberalizing feature. Now when an employe loses his job he must wait three weeks before he can apply for unemployment compensation and under this amendment he would only have to wait two weeks, which in effect takes away thirty-three and one third per cent of the waiting period.

It reduces the maximum eligibility figure from $195 to $100 per year and modifies the ineligibility for unemployment compensation section by denying benefits only to those leaving work without good cause. That was an amendment asked by labor and I think it is a good one; as it is very fair. There are some employers in the Commonwealth who do not provide suitable working conditions for their employes and once those employes left on account of unbearable conditions they were not eligible to receive unemployment compensation. Under this liberalized amendment an employe can leave employment where working conditions are not satisfactory and receive unemployment compensation.

It raises the minimum to eight dollars; the old minimum was $7.50.

It provides a table for benefits so simple that any employe can read it on a moment's notice and tell how much unemployment compensation he is entitled to.

We have agreed to another liberalizing feature in the conference committee, however, and the insertion of that would prevent the use of the table because it is an actuarial problem and can not be worked out by any member of this Senate and can not be worked out unless one has almost a month in which to do it.

It protects the benefit rights of those entering the military service in defense of democracy and their country by providing that their benefit rights shall be maintained and preserved. For instance, an individual who entered the armed forces and later returned, his past earnings would entitle him to practically no benefits if he lost his employment. We have provided in this bill, as originally amended in Senate Bill No. 80, when that individual returns from service his benefits situation will be identically the same as when he left to serve in the armed forces. The bill also abolishes the need for quarterly redeterminations. By the way, I just heard from the Social Security Board that this amendment must be made in order to conform with the Federal Act or this Pennsylvania Act is liable to be unworkable.

I mean by quarterly redetermination, Mr. President, once a man gets unemployment compensation, when his benefit payments run over into another quarter it is necessary to redetermine his benefits, which causes a lot of trouble and red tape to the department and it is almost impossible to do. It makes no difference practically; in some cases the individual would get a few cents more or a few cents less. The federal act has been so amended and I understood from a representative from the board a short time ago this amendment must be made in Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, it also provides for an authorized department to handle mass appeals instead of on an individual basis. We have done that in order to expedite the payment of benefits to workers when a great number of them are applying for benefits. For instance, take a strike in any big plant where the unemployment compensation board rules that they are entitled to benefits on a certain date. This means that they all would be entitled to consideration. For instance, suppose there are five thousand people working there under the present act you would have to decide five thousand cases, which would mean some people might not get their checks for five years.

Mr. President, roughly speaking, those are some of the things that we included in the original Senate Bill No. 80, which was prepared after a study was made, covering two years, by a committee of which I happened to be chairman, at which time it was agreed by all members that we could have a non-controversial bill. At the introduction of the bill, as you will recall, last January or February, I said just that and asked the Legislature please to pass this non-controversial bill, stating that all controversial features could be put in another bill in order that labor should not be denied these benefits upon which there was unanimous agreement.

The bill was amended in the House and all the benefits I have just told you about were stricken out completely, in their entirety, and a new bill substituted for it. The bill then came to a disagreement and a committee of conference was appointed, of which I happened to be a member representing the Republicans in the Senate, and we met several times and discussed the situation.

Then, Mr. President, a few days ago the Minority Floor Leader, Senator Shapiro, came to me and we proceeded to discuss the matter and he apparently was taking over the duties of the Democratic conferees. After a few conferences with Senator Shapiro and with certain labor leaders, I found that there had been a change made in the definition of labor dispute, which was suggested by representatives of the department and the Social Security Board in order to simplify the situation. However, labor —at least certain labor leaders—seemed to disagree with that and the committee had no objection to placing it back in its original form. That was agreed to.

After thinking the situation over carefully and making as much of an investigation as could be done in a few hours, Republican members of the committee felt that an extra week of compensation should be provided, making the number of benefit weeks fourteen instead of thirteen.

After taking this situation up with Senator Shapiro I was told by him that he was willing, and those he represented were willing, to scuttle the whole bill, as I have just outlined, and include only partial benefits. I mean by partial benefits, Mr. Preisdent, benefits for those people who do not work a full week. The reason no reference to this was made in this bill was that the resolution authorizing our appointment provided that a study be made of merit rating and we proceeded first to study merit rating before studying the act in general.

At these hearings, Mr. President, all testimony seemed to point to the fact that experience rating and partial benefits were bound together and could not be separated; if we were to have partial benefits it was testified we must have merit rating. Tremendous opposition developed to merit or experience rating on the part of labor—the coal and steel interests of the Commonwealth —and after numerous public hearings we decided it would be useless to further explore the field of merit rating at this time, because it seemed that no agreement could be reached on the part of the three interests, labor, steel and coal, and so we decided to no longer proceed in this field in view of the two being bound together, we did not proceed further in the field of partial unemployment payments.

Mr. President, Senator Shapiro's ultimatum was that we must take these partial unemployment benefits or nothing, so I, in the limited time available to me, commenced to make some sort of investigation of the matter. He said that two sections of the Commonwealth suffered because of lack of partial payments, namely, the coal areas and the garment industry in the City of Philadelphia. I called numerous people in the coal section of the Commonwealth, and was told by them that the coal industry is in good shape, and they expected the miners to work four days a week, at least, for the next two years, and perhaps a full week, so that the partial unemployment problem they contend did not seem so pressing at this time in the coal sections of the Commonwealth. However, the committee realizes there is a problem there, and suggested to Senator Shapiro that we not sacrifice the other good features of the bill, but introduce a resolution to provide for a study of partial unemployment benefit payments, and report at the next regular or special session of the Legislature, to which Senator Shapiro would not agree.

I then checked on the garment industry mentioned, in the City of Philadelphia, and there I got a shock, Mr. President, that made me shudder. I was told that in this garment industry down in that section of the state, as well as in some others, existed this terrible sweat shop condition which flourished a few years ago and which has been almost banished from the face of Pennsylvania, that symbol in the dark pages of the history of labor's long battle for their just share of the products of their toil. I was alarmed about that situation, Mr. President, and then I commenced to investigate the matter and found out why this experience rating had been connected with partial benefit payments. Certain laborers down in that territory, as well as the better employers, told me that these sweat shops would return to Pennsylvania by the hundreds if they could give a young woman two days work a week and every few weeks have her receive a meager check from the Unemployment Compensation Bureau to keep body and soul together. Mr. President, during the dark days of the depression, I knew in that section of young women working in that industry and making as little as $2.50 per week, and with this partial benefit situation, it seems to me there should be some penalty set up to penalize those employers or somehow regulate them, to prevent them from paying starvation wages and paying these women workers for two days labor and then trying to piece it out by a check from the Unemployment Compensation Fund of the Commonwealth. That condition seemed to be unspeakable and therefore a resolution to make a study of the situation seemed to appeal to the Republican members of the committee more than ever.

It seems, according to the best actuarial figures we can get, that the recommendations for liberalization herein made will probably amount to between seven million and eight million dollars per year.

Mr. President, in connection with the original study, I reminded Senator Shapiro that this committee of which I happen to be chairman, worked under the Joint State Government Commission, and at several times periodically reported progress to that Commission, and when the bill was ready for introduction, the committee chairman again reported to that Commission and the bill was unanimously approved after his second appearance, and on that Commission sat Senator Shapiro, the Minority Floor Leader.

Mr. President, we hear some talk about the growing of the fund, and I know it is, and I am glad it is, because if the dark days of depression strike us again, when Hitler lays down his arms in Europe, in defeat I hope and pray, and I am confident he will, then, Mr. President, you are going to see a very sharp falling off in employment again in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The latest figures show that three million five hundred thousand people are now employed in the Commonwealth. Some believe it will reach maybe four million, but suppose it stays at three million five hundred thousand and a depression comes and one million of those people lose their jobs. If they have been making good money and have a good wage record as far as benefits are concerned, as all labor does at the present time, because thank goodness they are making good money, the drain on the fund would probably be for those one million workers two hundred million dollars in one year. That gives us some cause for alarm when it comes down to liberalizing the fund too much, Mr. President, the fact that in the year of 1938, contributions and interest on the fund already held by the department amounted to $71,581,000, while the benefits amounted to $71,553,000. In other words, the actual contributions were less in 1938 than the benefits. Therefore, Mr. President, we thought that this was as far as we could go in the liberalization of unemployment compensation at this time and be safe, with the understanding that this resolution would be introduced and a full and complete study made of partial benefits with a report at the next session of the Legislature.

Mr. President, I am told by Senator Shapiro that this compromise bill of the Republican members of the conference committee is not satisfactory to himself or the party which he represents and, according to him, certain labor leaders.

Now, Mr. President, I do not know how any person who is supposed to represent the working people of the Commonwealth can afford to scuttle this bill and not give them the benefit of all these liberalizing features I have just outlined to you, and that is what is going to happen if this Conference Committee does not make a report. I thought the matter entirely too important to place in the hands of one man who represents any party or organized labor. I thought the stand of the Republican members should be known to one and all, regardless of party.

Mr. President, I send to the Chair a copy of the agreement reached by the Republican conferees, and signed by them. It is not a conference report, I am sorry to say, because the signatures of the Democratic members could not be obtained. However, for the benefit of those in the Commonwealth interested in unemployment compensation and the welfare of labor as well as the members of this Legislature, I suggest that it be spread upon the record.

The report was read as follows:

REPORT OF REPUBLICAN CONFERENCE,
SENATE BILL No. 80

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering Senate Bill No. 80, entitled: "An act to further amend the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (P. L. 2897-1937) entitled 'An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis; requiring employers to keep records and make reports and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons; providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment and collection of such contributions and and the payment of such compensation; providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies; creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer and prescribing penalties,' changing the provisions thereof and the rights, obligations and procedure thereunder".

respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

WELDON B. HEYBURN
HENRY I. WILSON
(Committee on the Part of the Senate)

HARRY E. TROUT
(Committee on the Part of the House of Representatives)

(c) Has made a claim for compensation in the proper manner prescribed by the department

(d) Is able to work and available for work and

(e) Has been totally unemployed for a waiting period of at least [three] two weeks (except as otherwise hereinafter provided in this clause) prior to any week for which he claims compensation [provided that such] [three] [weeks of total unemployment shall occur after compensation first becomes payable under this act] [Such [three] two weeks shall not include any week in which the employe was ineligible for compensation under section four hundred two of this act or was ineligible for compensation under any provision of this section excepting however paragraphs (a) and (c) of this section] The [three] two weeks of total unemployment need not be consecutive [but may be accumulated over the period of fifty-two consecutive weeks preceding any week for which he claims compensation Provided That this requirement shall not interrupt the payment of compensation for consecutive weeks of unemployment] If the employe's total unemployment is due to a voluntary suspension of work resulting from an industrial dispute then he shall be ineligible for compensation for a further waiting period of three weeks in addition to the waiting period hereinbefore prescribed in this clause

No week shall be counted as a week of total unemployment for the purpose of this subsection (1) unless it occurs within the benefit year which includes the week with respect to which he claims payment of benefits provided that this requirement shall not interrupt the payment of benefit for consecutive weeks of total unemployment and provided further that the week or two weeks immediately preceding a benefit year shall be deemed (for the purposes of this sub-section only) to be within such benefit year or (2) if benefits have been paid with respect thereto or (3) unless the individual was eligible for benefits with respect thereto as provided in Sections 401 and 402 of this act except for the requirements of this sub-section and of subsection (c) of Section 402

Section 402 Ineligibility for Compensation An employe shall be ineligible for compensation for any week

(a) In which his unemployment is due to failure without good cause either to apply for suitable work when so directed by the employment office or to accept suitable work when offered to him by the employment office or by his previous employer In determining whether or not any work is suitable for an individual the department shall consider the degree of risk involved to his health safety and morals his physical fitness and prior training and experience and the distance of the available work from his residence

(b) In which his unemployment is due to voluntarily leaving work without good cause except where as a condition of continuing in employment the employe would be required to join or remain a member of a company union or to resign from or refrain from joining any bona fide labor organization or to accept wages hours or conditions of employment not desired by a majority of the employes in the establishment or the occupation or would be denied the right of collective bargaining under generally prevailing conditions

(c) With respect to which or a part of which he has received or is seeking unemployment benefits under an unemployment compensation law of any other state or of the United States Provided That if the appropriate agency of such other state or of the United States finally determines that he is not entitled to such unemployment benefits the disqualifications shall not apply

(d) In which his unemployment is due to dismissal for dishonesty in connection with his work or for the committing of an offense by him against the property of his employer provided such dishonesty or the commission of such offense is admitted by the employe or such employe is determined guilty thereof in a court of competent jurisdiction and provided further that where by reason of the alleged dishonesty in connection with his work or the commission of an offense against the property of his employer such employe is in legal custody or held to bail the determination of benefits shall be held in abeyance pending the release or conviction of such employe

Section 403 Rate and Payment of Weekly Compensation Compensation shall be payable at the rate of fifty per centum of the employe's full-time weekly wage but the amount shall not be more than fifteen dollars nor less than [seven dollars and fifty cents] eight dollars a week An employe's weekly compensation amount as determined for the first week of his benefit year shall constitute his weekly compensation amount throughout such benefit year Compensation shall be computed to the nearest multiple of five cents Compensation shall be paid through employment offices at such times and in such manner as the department may prescribe All accrued benefits due any deceased employe may in the discretion of the department be paid to the surviving spouse children or parents of the deceased without letters testamentary or of administration

Section 404 Amount of Compensation The maximum total amount of compensation payable to any eligible employe during any benefit year shall not exceed one-eighth of his total wages from employers during the first eight out of the last nine completed calendar quarters immediately preceding each week with respect to which compensation is payable (excluding however any completed calendar quarter which occurs prior to January first one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven) or fourteen times his weekly compensation amount whichever is the lesser

The department may maintain a separate account for each employe and in such event shall credit his account with all wages earned by him from employers subsequent to January first one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven Compensation paid to an eligible employe shall be charged against amounts credited to such account in the chronological order in which the wages of such individual were earned from employers

Section 405 Duties of Employers Each employer shall post in a conspicuous place or places in his establishment or establishments any printed statement or notice required by the rules and regulations of the department

Section 406 Non-liability of Commonwealth Compensation shall be deemed to be due and payable under this act only to the extent provided in this act and to the extent that moneys are available therefor to the credit of the Unemployment Compensation Fund and neither the Commonwealth the department nor the secretary shall be liable for any amount in excess of such moneys

Section 407 Status Preserved During and After Military or Naval Service Notwithstanding any provision of this act to the contrary the compensation rights of any employe who enters the military or naval service of the United States during any period of war or preparation for defense and is honorably discharged from such service shall become fixed as of the time he enters such service and shall remain in status quo for and during the period of such service and upon being honorably discharged from such service such employe shall be entitled to the same benefit rights under the act to which this is an amendment as he was at the time he entered the service In calculating the base year the base period the benefit year or any period of time under said act all time so spent in the military or naval service of the United States shall be excluded from computation therein

The legislature hereby declares the intent of this section to be that the benefit rights of an employe entering the military or naval service herein described and subsequently receiving an honorable discharge therefrom shall during the period of such service be and remain as they were of the time of entry into service and that upon the termination of such service by honorable discharge the benefit rights of such employe shall be and continue as though uninterrupted by the period of such service

Section 5 Sections five hundred and one five hundred and two and five hundred and four five hundred and nine five hundred and twelve and eight hundred and four of said act are hereby amended to read as follows

Section 501 [Initial] Determination [of Compensation] Revised Determinations Notices Appeals The department shall promptly examine any original or [continued] compensable claim filed and on the basis of the facts found by it shall determine (1) if an original claim whether or not [the] such claim [for compensation] is valid and if valid [the week with respect to which compensation shall commence] the first week of [a] the benefit year the weekly compensation payable and the maximum [duration thereof [The] In the case of industrial disputes or other circumstances where the determination of a number of claims depends on the same facts and principles the department may in its discretion make one decision covering an entire group of claimants to be filed in one case above In all cases the claimant and other affected parties shall be promptly notified in writing of the decision and the reasons therefor Unless the claimant or other affected parties files an appeal from such decision with the board within ten calendar days after such notification was delivered to him personally or was mailed to his last known post office address and applies for a hearing such decision of the department shall be final and compensation shall be paid or denied in accordance therewith except that the department may revise or amend such decision upon the basis of after-discovered evidence at any time within one year from the date of such decision but such revised or amended decision shall not operate to affect the right of a claimant acting in good faith to any benefits previously received under a department decision In the event that an appeal is filed with the board [the payment of compensation shall be withheld pending determination of the claim but when a referee or the board affirms a decision of the department allowing compensation such compensation shall be paid notwithstanding] the amount of compensation allowed by the department shall be paid pending the determination of the claim before the board or any further appeal which may thereafter be taken] number of accumulated weeks of compensation to which the claimant [becomes] may become eligible during the benefit year or (2) if a [continued] compensable claim whether and in what amount claimant is entitled to benefits for the week with respect to which the determination is made and in event of denial the reasons therefor The department in accord with its rules and regulations consistent with the provisions of this act may provide that a single determination be made to all [claims for compensation] original or compensable claims arising out of and depending upon the same facts and circumstances and more especially as to those claims involving an industrial dispute Provided nevertheless that the department shall state in such single determination the individual claims to which such single determination shall apply And provided further that the right of any claimant affected thereby shall not be prejudiced as regards his right of appeal therefrom

The department may reconsider a determination whenever it finds that an error in computation or identity has occurred in connection therewith or that wages of a claimant pertinent to such determination but not considered in connection therewith have been newly discovered or that benefits have been allowed or denied or the amount of benefits fixed on the basis of the nondisclosure or misrepresentation of material facts irrespective of whether such nondisclosure or misrepresentation was known or fraudulent and to revise or amend its determination upon the basis of such after-discovered evidence However the department shall have no authority to revise or amend a determination later than one year after the date of the original determination Notice of any such revised determination shall be promptly given to the parties entitled to notice of the original determination in the manner prescribed in this Section with respect to notice of an original determination

The claimant or any party affected thereby may appeal from such revised determination in the manner as herein provided for appeals provided that when an appeal is taken from such a revised determination of the department increasing or decreasing the amount of compensation previously allowed the review thereof by a referee or the board shall be limited solely to matters affecting such increase or decrease

Subject to the same limitations and for the same reasons the department may reconsider the determination in any case in which the final decision has been rendered by the board of review or a court and may apply to such board or court which rendered such final decision to issue a revised decision In the event that an appeal involving an original determination is pending as of the date a revised determination thereof is issued such appeal unless withdrawn shall be treated as an appeal from such revised determination

Written notice of a determination or revised determination as the case may be shall be promptly given to the claimant [or] and to the affected parties by delivery thereof to him personally or by mail such notice to the last known post office address Unless the claimant or other affected parties files an appeal from such determination or revised determination as the case may be with the Board within ten calendar days after such notification was delivered to him personally or was mailed to his last known post office address and applies for a hearing such determination or revised determination as the case may be made by the department shall be final and compensation shall be paid or denied in accordance therewith In the event that an appeal is filed with the board the amount of compensation allowed by the department shall be paid pending the decision of the claim before the board or any further appeal which may thereafter be taken

Section 502 Decision of Referee Further Appeals and Reviews Where an appeal from the [decision] determination or revised determination as the case may be of the department is taken a referee shall after affording the parties reasonable opportunity for a fair hearing affirm modify or reverse such findings of fact and the [decision] determination or revised determination as the case may be of the department as to him shall appear just and proper The parties shall be duly notified of the referee's decision and the reasons therefor which shall be deemed the final decision of the board unless within ten days after the date of such decision the board acts on its own motion or upon application permits any of the parties to institute a further appeal before the board A memorandum of testimony of any hearing before any referee shall be made and be preserved for a period of two years

Section 504 Powers of Board Over Claims The board shall have power on its own motion or on appeal to remove transfer or review any claim pending before or decided by a referee and in any such case and in cases where a further appeal is allowed by the board from the decision of a referee may affirm modify or reverse the [decision] determination or revised determination as the case may be of the department or referee on the basis of the evidence previously submitted in the case or direct the taking of additional evidence. When any claim pending before a referee is removed or transferred to the board the board shall afford the parties reasonable opportunity for a fair hearing The parties shall be duly notified of the board's final decision and the reasons therefor A complete record shall be kept of each case heard before the board All testimony at any hearing before the board whether on appeal or otherwise shall be taken by a reporter but need not be transcribed unless the disputed claim is further appealed

Section 509 Finality of Decision [Any decision] Except insofar as reconsideration and revision of any determination is had under the provisions of Section five hundred and one any determination or revised determination made by the department or any referee or the board shall become final ten days after the date thereof unless appealed from as hereinbefore provided but any decision of the board or of a referee where an appeal has been disallowed by the board shall nevertheless be subject to appeal to the Superior Court after the same has become final

Section 512 Final Order of Board Upon the final determination of any appeal the board shall enter an order in accordance with the decree of the court

Section 804 Liability to Repay Compensation Unlawfully Received Any person who by reason of the nondisclosure or misrepresentation by him or by another of a material fact (irrespective of whether such nondisclosures or misrepresentation was known or fraudulent) has received any sum as compensation under this act while any conditions for the receipt of compensation imposed by this act were not fulfilled in his case or while he was disqualified from receiving compensation shall be liable to repay to the Unemployment Compensation Fund to the credit of the Employers' Contribution Account a sum equal to the amount so received by him and such sum shall be collectible in the manner provided in this act for the collection of past due contributions

Any person who for any reason has received any sum as compensation under this act in excess of that to which he is legally entitled shall be liable to repay to the Unemployment Compensation Fund to the credit of the Employers' Contribution Account a sum equal to the amount of such overpayment which may be set off against any compensation due such person at any time thereafter or may be recovered by action at law

In every case where back wages are awarded to any employe by the National Labor Relations Board or other competent tribunal and such employe shall have been paid compensation under the provisions of this act for the whole or any part of the period covered by such award the department shall be subrogated to the rights of the employe to the extent of the compensation paid and shall first be paid such amount by the employer before any payment is made to the employe The receipt of the department for any such amount shall be a full discharge of the employer for the payment of so much of the award of the National Labor Relations Board or other tribunal

Section 6 Article VIII of the said Act is hereby amended so as to include therein a new Section to be known as Section 805 and to read as follows

Section 805 For the enforcement of this Act or any rule and regulation issued under the authority thereof the Department is hereby empowered and it shall be its duty to conduct such periodic spot checks and investigations as will disclose with reasonable certainty whether or not compensation benefits have been paid to persons not legally entitled thereto or as will disclose violations of this Act and to take such steps and adopt such means as may reasonably be necessary to enforce the provisions of this Act The conduct of such spot checks and investigations and all legal proceedings arising therefrom shall be under the supervision and direction of the Attorney General of the Commonwealth and the expenses thereof and in connection therewith are hereby declared to be administrative expenses to be paid from the Administrative Fund

Section [6] 7 The provisions of this act shall become effective on the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and forty-one except the amendments to clause (j) of section four and sections three hundred and one and three hundred and two which shall be effective for the calendar year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one and thereafter

Provided nevertheless that nothing herein contained shall be taken or construed to relieve any employer from the payment of any contributions penalties and interest imposed by the provisions of the Act or parts of Act to which this Act is an amendment or the rules and regulations issued thereunder in force at the time this Act becomes effective or to affect or terminate any petitions investigations prosecutions legal or otherwise or other proceedings pending under the provisions of any Act or parts of Act in force at the time this Act becomes effective or amended by this Act or to prevent the commencement or further prosecution of any legal proceedings by the proper authorities of the Commonwealth for violations of any Act or parts of Act in force at the time this Act becomes effective or for the collection or recovery of contributions penalties and interest due or owing under the provisions of any Act or part of Acts or rules and regulations issued thereunder in force at the time this Act becomes effective

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I introduce a resolution providing for study of partial unemployment compensation benefits and providing for a report to the next regular or special session of the Legislature, which is a concurrent resolution asking the concurrence of the House of Representatives.

RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE TO STUDY PAYMENT OF UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION FOR PARTIAL UNEMPLOYMENT

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

Whereas, The payment of partial unemployment compensation has been a much debated question at this session of the Legislature and remains unsettled by reason of the lack of definite information on the subject by Members; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concurs), That a Special Joint Legislative Committee be appointed to study the subject and all specifically related subjects concerning payment of unemployment compensation for partial unemployment and report with recommendations to the next regular or special session of the Legislature; that the Committee consist of three members of the House to be appointed by the Speaker of the House and three members of the Senate to be named by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, one of the Senators to be Chairman; and that the records of the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation be made freely accessible to the Committee for its work.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I object to immediate consideration.

MOTION TO LAY RESOLUTION ON THE TABLE

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I move that the resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. COX. I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COLEMAN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, does the Senator from Lackawanna know that this is a concurrent resolution, and if he delays consideration and adoption it will mean that the House will not have time to adopt it, and this great problem, which we all agree will be a pressing one, in the hard coal regions, especially, after the prosperity now existing is over, does the gentleman from Lackawanna realize that delay will probably mean the House can not adopt the resolution and there will be no study.

Mr. COLEMAN. I would say, Mr. President, in answer to the interrogation, that the resolution can be immediately lifted from the table at any time, it would only require a period of ten minutes, and as I understand it, the House is meeting at 12:01 p. m.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, might I also suggest to the Chair since the gentleman from Lackawanna objects, that means automatically that the resolution must be referred to committee. If the gentleman from Lackawanna desires to withdraw his objection, in order that it may be studied, I have no objection, with the understanding, however, that the resolution will not be held up too long.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I have no intention of seeing the Legislature adjourn—I asked that it be laid on the table, because I have seen many things happen in the dying hours of a legislative session, and I am hoping that the conferees and others interested in this particular bill will arrive at a satisfactory agreement before this session adjourns sine die.

The PRESIDENT. There is before the Senate for action a motion by the gentleman from Lackawanna that the resolution introduced by the gentleman from Delaware be laid upon the table.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. KEPHART. Is it not true, Mr. President, that this resolution must be referred to committee under the rules of the Senate, and can not be laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rules that the motion of the gentleman from Lackawanna prevails and the resolution may be laid on the table.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Jefferson may proceed.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, by being recognized at this time, it might appear that I would rise to speak on the question of unemployment compensation, but I wish to call attention to the fact that I have already spoken upon that matter and do not propose at this time to take up the valuable time of the Senators—in the last hours of this session, I hope.

I do wish, however, to take this opportunity to state publicly that I happened to serve on a commission which studied for eighteen months or longer this very grave question, and I also happened to be the chairman of the Unemployment Compensation Committee, to which this bill was referred and reported out with a favorable recommendation, we believing that there was no contest, we believing that there was no political opposition or difference of opinion, and that matter was passed through this Senate in a proper and legal form. All of these other questions that have come up since have come up by reason of the amendments which were placed in this bill in the House, and therefore all I want to do now is to say this, that I want to thank the gentleman, the Senator from Delaware County, for making such a very fair, such a very modest and such an accurate and careful statement of this affair. I feel that the thanks of the Senate and the thanks of the public generally should go out to the Senator for his very careful consideration of this matter and the evident sincerity of his purpose to try to do the thing which is right.

At this point, Mr. President, I wish to put a period to all remarks from myself relating to unemployment compensation, and with that period I shall now offer to the Chair a communication which it is not necessary to read or that any attention be paid to it by the Senate, but which I ask be spread upon the Journal. It does not directly refer to unemployment compensation. I only wished to be recognized for this purpose; it is a communication that is of interest to the general public and I ask it be spread upon the Journal. It is not necessary to read such a communication.

The PRESIDENT. Is there any objection to spreading on the Journal, the communication referred to by the gentleman from Jefferson.

The Chair hears none. It is agreed to.

The report was read as follows:

April 15, 1941.

Honorable Franklin S. Edmonds
Chairman, Senate Insurance Committee
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

My Dear Senator:

As I said to you when you told me of the meeting of the Insurance Committee of the Senate, to be held Tuesday evening, April 15, it is impossible for me, on account of departmental appointments, to be present, but on the assumption that the Compensation Bills introduced by Senator Shapiro, having to do with a monopolistic State Fund, etc., will be discussed, I am taking the liberty of attaching hereto comments made to me by my Compensation Actuary, Mr. Elliott (pages 1 to 16), and by Mr. Gregory C. Kelly, Manager of the Pennsylvania Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau (pages 17 to 20).

I would ask you to read very carefully these comments, because to my mind they answer Senator Shapiro's worries, and justify the activities of the Pennsylvania Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau, and the supervision by myself and my predecessors.

I have heretofore said to your Committee when speaking of Senator Dent's Bill, that compensation rates are made from a study of a five year period and that these rates of necessity do not change radically either up or down, and it is well that it should be that way, so as to stabilize industry and their budget anticipations, but in the end it results in equality between the assured and the carrying company.

It is only a question of whether or not workmen's compensation insurance shall be primarily a business undertaking, or whether or not it shall be on the socialistic plan, and if there should be any attempt or thought to establish a plan whereby administration is assumed by the State and paid from taxation, then in that event it must not be overlooked that a fair estimate of that cost to the State would be at least three million dollars a year.

Respectfully submitted,

MATTHEW H. TAGGART,
Insurance Commissioner.

Subject: Workmen's Compensation Insurance as Discussed by Senator Shapiro

To: Honorable Matthew H. Taggart
Insurance Commissioner

From: George B. Elliott
Compensation Actuary

Senator Shapiro has presented a number of serious charges against the workmen's compensation insurance system in Pennsylvania. It appears that the easiest way in which to answer the charges is to follow the speech made by the Senator and take up the points in the order he has made them.

On page 3 he quotes a statement made by Senator Ealy in the special session of 1938 which statement quotes the loss record of a certain coal operator in western Pennsylvania for the years 1936 and 1937. For this risk in these two years the premiums were greatly in excess of the losses incurred and for that reason Senator Ealy stated at that time, "There is something radically wrong here." Senator Shapiro makes much of this example although he does refer to it as an isolated case.

It so happens that the risk referred to is the Irwin Gas Coal Company, of which Mr. John B. Brunot is President. Mr. Brunot submitted the same figures supplemented by certain additional ones to a subcommittee of the Senate Insurance Committee at its meeting on March 17.

To illustrate the erroneous conclusions which can be drawn from taking a single risk and further in selecting the experience of that risk for merely one or two years, an analysis of the experience of this employer for other years is informative. That is, in 1931 this employer had losses of $5,004 and paid premiums of $6,339. In 1932 he had losses of $17,934 and premiums of $6,486. Thus the total for these two years showed losses of $22,938 as against premiums of $12,825 or a net loss exclusive of any administrative expense of over $10,000. Insurance is based on averages and runs in cycles. There are favorable years and there are unfavorable years and in all insurance a sufficient period and a sufficient volume of experience must be taken in order to produce average results. In the case of this risk, over a ten year period for the years 1930 to 1939, the losses incurred were $89,385 against premiums earned of $132,970, or a ratio of losses to premiums of 67.2%. This is slightly in excess of the basic loss ratio of 66.7% which is necessary to produce adequate coal mine rates.

Much has been made of the limitation of the power of the Insurance Commissioner to the approval or disapproval of compensation rates and rating plans. Senator Shapiro again brings up this point on page 5. He states that the Insurace Company Law of 1921 gives the Commissioner "no right to promulgate a rate of his own," which is true, but he makes a further statement that "if he (the commissioner) does not approve of a rate there is nothing that he can do about it." He continues by saying, "The insurance companies can stand pat unless the Insurance Commissioner is courageous enough to expose the situation and trust to public opinion to correct it." These statements are not substantiated by the facts. The Commissioner does have the power to disapprove rates or rating plans and has done so in a number of instances. Therefore, any disapproved rates or rating plans cannot be used by the insurance companies and it is necessary that the Rating Bureau present rates and rating plans which can receive the Commissioner's approval before they may be used by any insurance carrier. The insurance companies can "stand pat," but until the rates or rating plans are approved they are without the power to write any business. Therefore the control of rate making is by law in the hands of the Insurance Commissioner and not, as Senator Shapiro indicates, in the hands of the Rating Bureau.

Also, on page 5, Senator Shapiro makes the statement that the Pennsylvania Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau was organized by the insurance companies. This also is not a correct statement of the facts. At the Senator's request I advised him in my letter of March 24 concerning the organization of the Bureau, and I refer you to the statements in that letter which plainly indicate that the Bureau was organized at the specific request of the Insurance Commissioner and that the procedure pertaining to organization, reporting of experience, classification of risks, etc. was dictated by Dr. Downey, the Special Deputy Insurance Commissioner brought from Wisconsin by Governor Brumbaugh for that purpose. The Senator has therefore seen fit to make a misstatement even though he had correct information in his possession.

On page 6, by asking a number of rhetorical questions he makes some unjustified implications. His first question asks if it was a coincidence that following the Insurance Company Act of 1921 the Bureau previously organized was approved by the Insurance Commissioner. Since, as has been previously stated, the organization of the Bureau of all its methods of operation had been dictated by the Deputy Insurance Commissioner, it logically follows that this Bureau would have and should have been approved by the Commissioner.

Several other questions imply that regulation of compensation insurance is undesirable. I do not need to dwell on any arguments on this score since it has been proven time and again that regulation is unquestionably in the public interest.

Another of his questions implies that the provision for rate regulation has kept rates extremely excessive and that companies could write this form of insurance "at rates 30% to 40% cheaper and still make a profit."

An examination of the record will easily refute this statement. Table I attached shows for a seventeen year period from 1923 to 1939 inclusive the premiums, losses and expenses of all compensation insurance carriers writing this form of insurance in Pennsylvania, the figures being obtained from Pennsylvania Special Schedule "W". (1923 was the first year for which the Department required the filing of Schedule "W".) If the nonparticipating companies had had premiums of 30% less than they earned during this period, the premiums would have amounted to $83,997,925. The losses incurred were $73,659,041 and expenses incurred were $53,473,480, or total losses and expenses of $127,132,521. Thus this group of companies would have sustained an underwriting loss of $43,134,596 during this period. The use of the 40% figure quoted by Senator Shapiro produces an even greater loss, namely $55,134,300. Obviously the statement is untrue with regard to this group of companies, so much so in fact that if rates had been 30% to 40% less during this period we would unquestionably have had no solvent stock companies in Pennsylvania at the present time.

Applying the same ratios to the premiums of the participating companies, this class of insurance carriers would have sustained an underwriting loss of $14,096,404 if rates had been 30% less and $29,635,830 if rates had been 40% less. It should be borne in mind also that this group of companies pays dividends to policyholders, so that the actual losses if they had attempted to pay dividends would have been far greater. The "profit" referred to in Senator Shapiro's statement would be, when the actual figures are consulted, a tremendous underwriting loss.

On page 7, Senator Shapiro outlines the organization of the Rating Bureau committees correctly, but then makes the startling statement that the Bureau, created by law, and its committees which were established by the Constitution of the Bureau for the purpose of enabling the Bureau to function efficiently, constitute a "colossal conspiracy." Why an impartial organization created by law and subject to supervision and examination at all times by a public officer of the Commonwealth, namely the Insurance Commissioner, should constitute a "colossal conspiracy" is, to say the least, difficult to comprehend.

The Senator also makes mention of the fact that the State Workmen's Insurance Fund is required to observe the same rates and rating plans required of all compensation insurance carriers. Since the Pennsylvania State Fund is a competitive fund, in competition with private insurance, it is desirable that this should be so. However, his statement that the Fund while being required to use the same rates required of other carriers could "safely adopt a very substantially lower rate for the same risks" is again not proven by the facts. That is, taking the twelve year period 1928 to 1939 which comprises periods of both prosperity and depression, the Fund had total earned premiums, including coal mining, of $51,683,292, incurred losses of $39,474,896 and expenses of $9,380,819. (1928 was the first year coal mining figures were tabulated separately in Schedule "W"—hence the selection of this period as the longest for which combined figures are readily available.) During this period the Fund therefore had an underwriting profit of but 5.47%, and it should not be overlooked that over four millions of dollars in dividends, representing some 8% of premiums, were returned to subscribers during this period.

The statement in the second paragraph on page 8 implies that mutual companies are unable to compete with stock companies even though they can operate at a lower cost than the stock companies because "competition between these insurance companies is throttled by the rate making bureau." Throughout his presentation the Senator has disregarded completely the dividends returned to policyholders by the mutual companies and participating stock companies. Since the Senator must have known that these companies have returned many millions of dollars in the way of dividends and since he has completely failed to mention this fact, the only logical inference is that he has intentionally disregarded this feature in order to color the charges contained in his discussion before the Senate.

Actually, mutual companies can and do compete favorably with stock companies. In fact mutual competition is making serious inroads on the stock companies' business as can be observed by referring again to Table I. That is, up until the early 30's, the business was about evenly divided between participating and nonparticipating companies. However, by 1939 the participating companies had 65% of the business as against only 35% for the stock companies.

The statements made at the bottom of page 8 indicate that Senator Shapiro advocates the approval of a different set of rates either for each company or for each class of companies because of variation in administrative expenses. Such a suggestion would throw the compensation insurance business into such chaos that it would be forever impossible to determine proper rates and classifications for Pennsylvania employers. For example, there are some 70 companies writing this type of business in Pennsylvania and there are approximately 200 different classifications in the Pennsylvania Manual. There would therefore be 200 different classification rates in effect each year for each of the 70 companies—14,000 different basic rates on some 150,000 policies.

If the Senator had recognized the fact that the participating companies pay dividends he would not of course have made such statements. That is, the expense loading is predicated on what has been shown by analysis of Pennsylvania experience to be the necessary operating expenses for the stock companies. The participating companies are able to return any savings from difference in administrative expense to their policyholders and do not, as the Senator implies, retain the difference in the form of profits.

Again on page 9 dividends have been completely disregarded. He states that "the stock comyanies with this high rate make a comparatively small profit and the mutuals make a tremendous profit."

The statement that the State Workmen's Insurance Fund is being slowly strangled is not borne out by the facts. He attempts to show this first by comparing profits and surplus in the predepression years with similar figures during the depression. The findings of the Sterling Committee that the surplus of the Fund was seeping away and premium income was lessening were not peculiar to the State Fund. They were typical of all insurance companies during this period. That this is so can be seen by referring to a comparison of earned premiums for all companies writing compensation insurance in Pennsylvania. In 1929 premiums amounted to $17,628,967, while by 1932 premiums had dropped to $10,829,693. The heavy losses incurred during the depression period by all companies and the number of company failures during this period are well known and need no further comment.

The comparison made between premiums earned in 1931 and those in 1938 is unfair. The year 1931 was a depression year when all premiums were at greatly reduced levels because of smaller payrolls in industry; in addition the benefits in effect at that time were those of the compensation law as amended in 1927. On the other hand, by 1938 substantial recovery from the depression had been made, industrial payrolls were greatly increased, and what is most important, the 1937 Compensation Act with its high benefits and resulting high premiums was in effect. In order to determine whether or not the increase shown by the State Fund was typical of all carriers, it is only necessary to examine the record. The total premiums on all business, including coal mining, for all carriers in 1931 was $15,813,676, whereas in 1938 they amounted to $31,986,246, or just about double. The State Fund figures, comparing the same two years show an increase of 87% instead of the 100% for all carriers. In 1931 the State Fund wrote 21.6% of the total business, whereas in 1938 this figure had changed very little, the amount being 20%.

The movement of the Fund's surplus and the fact that in some years underwriting profits were shown and in others underwriting losses developed is, as pointed out previously, typical of all insurance. The decrease in the surplus from 1939 to 1940 was due to the declaration of a dividend on the 1938 business of the Fund, amounting to between $700,000 and $800,00. The amount of this dividend is considerably larger than the decrease in surplus so that the decrease may be regarded as a legitimate return of surplus to policyholders.

Senator Shapiro's criticism of the present administration in not actively soliciting risks for the Fund implies that this is an entirely new policy adopted for the first time in the history of the Fund. This is not the case as it was only during the Earle administration that the State Fund solicited insurance on an organized basis. The State Fund has always remained solvent even though it did not actively solicit risks prior to 1936.

The figures quoted on pages 11, 12, 13 and 14 are substantially correct. However, as mentioned previously, the statements made concerning these figures are misleading since they do not recognize any legitimate expense of administration or the fact that participating companies return savings to their policyholders. These facts cannot be stressed too strongly in reviewing the figures shown on these pages. For example on page 11 when reciting the losses and premiums for the five years 1935 to 1939, the Senator has designated the difference between the premiums earned and losses incurred as "profits." The implication is of course that this amount of money was retained in its entirety by the companies and that none of it was needed for the proper administration of the business. This is certainly not a true statement of the facts or a fair method of presentation.

It should be pointed out also that the figures on these pages are based on the results of a five year period when experience has been favorable. To use this period as a basis for saying that compensation rates are and always have been excessive by 30 to 40 percent, as Senator Shapiro has stated, is to tell only part of the story. For example, contrast the results of the five year period which immediately proceeded the period from 1935 to 1939. The detail of the experience for this earlier period is shown in Table 11. Note that premiums earned (exclusive or coal mining) for all types of carriers, both participating and nonparticipating, amounted to $65,369,860, incurred losses to $43,264,495 and incurred expenses to $21,488,509. Thus a balance of but $616,856 remained after payment of losses and expenses, 0.9% of premiums earned. For the nonparticipating stock companies the experience was particularly bad, this class of companies showing an underwriting loss of 16.4% during the period. It is essential when considering any exhibit of experience not to select a single year or a single cycle, and attempt to prove from the results of this single period that rates may be either excessive or inadequate.

On pages 13 and 14 certain comparisons have been made involving the State Workmen's Insurance Fund and the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company. On page 13 the statement is made that the premiums earned by the State Fund dropped from $6,400,000 in 1938 to $3,400,000 in 1939. These figures, even if correct, make no mention of the difference in rates resulting from two entirely different benefit levels effective in those two years. In any event the premiums earned by the State Fund in 1939 were not $3,400,000; they were $4,900,000. Therefore the net reduction from 1938 to 1939 was $1,500,000 and not $3,000,000.

The comparisons made on page 14 are particularly unfair. That is, the statement is made that the State Fund lost $3,000,000 in premiums from 1938 to 1940; then instead of using the same two years in comparing the premiums earned by the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company, the Senator has compared the premiums of this company in 1937 with those in 1939. Obviously a comparison made for different years in meaningless and misleading. Furthermore the figures are confusing. On page 13 the statement is made that the Fund lost $3,000,000 in premiums from 1938 to 1939. On page 14 it is stated that this same amount was lost from 1938 to 1940. Then at the bottom of page 14, a comparison is made from 1937 to 1939. If the comparison desired is 1938 with 1939, then this shows a decrease for the State Fund from $6,400,000 to $4,900,000 and a decrease of a smaller amount for the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company from $6,427,000 in 1938 to $6,327,000 in 1939.

The figures shown on page 17 have been taken from Table 9 of the Annual Reports made by the Superintendent of Insurance of New York. The figures as shown are correct but again it should be pointed out that while 1938 and 1939 were admittedly favorable years, insurance experience runs in cycles and these good years have been and will be balanced by unfavorable years. That this is so is illustrated by referring to pages 12 and 13 of the New York report showing the results for stock companies and mutual companies by years for the period 1930 to 1939 inclusive. These figures are shown in Table III attached hereto. Note the comparatively small underwriting profits of the last 4 years in the table when contrasted with the tremendous underwriting losses of the first 4 years of the table. In considering the record of the mutual companies the dividend payments should be taken into consideration, these payments averaging about 20% of premiums.

The statement on page 18 that the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company has been instrumental in maintaining a high and unwarranted premium rate is again not substantiated by the facts. Compensation premiums in Pennsylvania are built upon experience compiled from data reported to the Rating Bureau by all insurance carriers writing this type of insurance in Pennsylvania and the rates built on such experience are not placed in effect without first being considered and adopted by the Classification and Rating Committee of the Rating Bureau and finally approved after investigation and study by the Insurance Commissioner.

The comparison on page 19 of the old common law practice of attorneys' retaining 50% of damages awarded to the injured workmen with the system under the compensation law is unfair and misleading. When compensation is awarded in accordance with the definite schedule shown in the compensation law and in accordance with the interpretation of that law by the Workmen's Compensation Board or the courts, the full amount of that award is paid to the claimant. The only exception is when the compensation authorities in unusual cases award a certain small percentage to the claimant's attorney for bona fide legal fees.

The charges made on page 20 do not take into consideration what has been pointed out a number of times previously, namely that insurance is based on the law of averages and is composed of favorable periods as well as unfavorable periods. The desired goal of an efficient insurance system is that companies engaged in writing such insurance be maintained in a solvent condition so that all claims may be paid promptly and fully. In order to maintain companies in a solvent condition, rates must be adequate. A careful study of Table I will indicate the cycles through which the insurance of workmen's compensation has passed in the years 1923 to 1939. It will also indicate that because of the heavy losses during the depression period the rates for the stock companies during the entire seventeen year period have not been adequate. The record of the participating companies, assuming an average 20% dividend, has produced premiums which have been almost exactly sufficient to pay losses and expenses and return the balance to policyholders. Therefore on the basis of past experience it is submitted that compensation rates have been kept under close control and that over this period they have not been excessive.

On pages 20 and 21 the statement is made that after repeal of the 1937 amendments to the Compensation Act the reduction in rates was not equal to the increase effective when the 1937 amendments became effective on January 1, 1938. This statement as it is given, unqualified by any further comment, implies that the 1939 amendments place the benefit level at exactly the same point as in 1937 and further takes into consideration no change in economic conditions, wage rates or experience in the meantime. The facts of the matter are that the Manual rates which became effective January 1, 1938, were approximately 56% above those effective in 1937.

The rates effective July 1, 1939, when the 1939 amendments became effective were 30% below those effective under the high benefit Act. Applying these factors (1.56 x .70=1.09), it can be seen that the 1939 rates were 9% greater than those effective in 1937. As nearly as it is possible to estimate, the 1939 amendments are approximately 10% greater than those in effect prior to January 1, 1938. Therefore the rate reduction followed almost exactly the change in benefits. It may be further pointed out that rates were reduced 10%, on the average, effective July 1, 1940, so that present rates are slightly below those of 1937 even though the benefits of the present law are some 10% greater than those in effect in 1937.

The balance of the speech is confined to mention of the bills introduced providing for an exclusive state fund and the abolition of the privilege of self-insurance. The Ohio State Fund has been selected by Senator Shapiro, presumably as a good example of how a monopolistic state fund operates and the benefits to be derived from that method of operation for employees and employers. A most comprehensive reply can be given to this portion of the address by referring to the reports of various committees which have from time to time investigated the operation of the Ohio Fund. A review of the reports of the various investigating committees should conclusively prove to the satisfaction of all concerned that if Ohio is the outstanding example of the "advantages" of compensation insurance under a monopolistic state fund, then such a system most certainly should not be adopted in Pennsylvania.

Subject: Workmen's Compensation Insurance as Discussed by Senator Shapiro

To: Honorable Matthew H. Taggart
Insurance Commissioner

From: Gregory C. Kelly, General Manager
Pennsylvania Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau

It has been stated that the Pennsylvania Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau was established by insurance carriers and that the Insurance Commissioner, restricted to the approval or disapproval of proposals, was helpless to secure compensation rates and rating plans advantageously.

The fact is that the Pennsylvania Bureau was organized at the demand of the Insurance Department—a demand which met with objection from insurance carriers—for the purpose of securing statistical information on which insurance rates could be made and as a basis for the Commissioner's approval or disapproval. The Insurance Commissioner has at various times in the intervening years since 1915 established the present experience rating procedure, and statistical plan for the reporting of experience, the classifications under which the experience was accumulated and tabulated—in fact, the whole structure of the rate-making procedure, the classification system and the rules. Since this procedure and rating program were reasonable, insurance carriers have cooperated with the Insurance Commissioner in putting them into effect. The Insurance Commissioner, as Chairman and a voting member of all Bureau committees, is in a position to review the experience, partake in the rate-making itself, and can act with knowledge in the public interest.

Reference is made to the legislation of 1937 and that Pennsylvania took second place in the amount of benefits then provided. The fact is that the benefits of both New York and Wisconsin exceeded the benefits of the Pennsylvania 1937 legislation. It is true, too, that while Pennsylvania benefits were approximately 80% of New York benefits in 1938 the Manual rates were but 66% of New York rates and at the same time when Pennsylvania benefits exceeded those of New Jersey by about 30% the New Jersey Manual rates on the other hand exceeded ours by 6%.

Reference is made to a neighboring state in which the State Fund is the only insurance agency. This fund is not, as was stated, a compulsory fund, since self-insurance is permitted in Ohio. This system of insurance is upheld as a means of securing increased benefits for injured workmen. The fact is that there have been few increases in Ohio benefits and these benefits at the present time do not exceed the present Pennsylvania benfits by more than about 10%. Moreover, in excluding employer's of three employees or less the Ohio system excludes a considerable number of employees who are included in the Compensation Act of Pennsylvania. The proponent of this system omitted from his discussion the fact that the expenses of the Ohio State Fund are paid from general taxation and that efficient auditing, inspecting and claims adjustment, all of which are essential to a reasonable rate level, could not be performed for less than 20% of premiums in a state where 100,000 out of the 150,000 policies have a premium of $100 or less. The state would therefore have to find from three to four millions per annum to operate a state fund efficiently and would also suffer the loss of some quarter of a million of compensation insurance premium taxes. As a matter of fact, the premium rates in Ohio—even without the expenses of administering the payment of claims and collection of premiums—are not far from the Pennsylvania rates including all expenses and paying very nearly the same benefits. A comparison is difficult because of the difference in the meaning and use of classifications. I have therefore included, in illustration of this statement, a comparison of the rates of the two states for approximately 30 classifications taken at random and including approximately all the types of industrial activity conducted in the two states, except for coal mining, and as you know the rates for coal mining in Ohio are much more than the Pennsylvania rates for that business.

It is fair to say, as to this matter of classifications, that the very large number of Ohio classifications is discriminatory—a fact which has been recognized for a good many years and to which attention has been called in many examinations of the Ohio Fund. To correct this inequity of classification there is an experience rating procedure which is ridiculous in its application to very small risks and for periods of time as short as six months.

NOMINATIONS BY THE GOVERNOR

NOTARIES PUBLIC

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, nominations for appointment as Notaries Public.

CONSIDERATION OF NOTARIES PUBLIC

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of nominations for appointment as Notaries Public, sent to the Senate, July 15, 1941 by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The nominations were read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, July 15, 1941.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate Miss Frances Elizabeth Broad, Broad Building, New Kensington, Westmoreland County, for appointment as a Notary Public in and for the City of New Kensington, Westmoreland County, for a term of four years, to compute from the date of confirmation.

ARTHUR H. JAMES

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, July 15, 1941.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate the following persons for appointment as Notaries Public, for terms of four years to compute from the date of confirmation:

LANCASTER COUNTY

Mrs. Lorena W. Mease, Lancaster.

WESTMORELAND COUNTY

Miss Stella Jerome, New Kensington.

ARTHUR H. JAMES

EXECUTIVE SESSION

By unanimous consent,

A motion was made by Mr. JAMES and Mr. EALY

That Rule 38 which requires nominations made by the Governor be referred to an appropriate committee be dispensed with, and the Senate do now resolve itself into Executive Session, for the purpose of acting on the foregoing nominations.

Which was agreed to.

Whereupon,

A motion was made by Mr. JAMES and Mr. EALY

That the Senate do advise and consent to said nominations.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—38

NAYS—0

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Governor be informed accordingly.

Mr. JAMES. Mr President, I move that the Executive Session do now rise.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S.

Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

House Bill No. 481, entitled:

An Act to amend section eighteen of the act approved the second day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (P. L. 589), entitled "Milk Sanitation Law" requiring local ordinances in certain cases to conform to this act and the regulations made thereunder.

House Bill No. 690, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections 402, 411, 703, 704, 705 and 903 and to repeal section 706 of the act approved the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine, (P. L. 905) entitled, "Vehicle Code," providing for the registration and fixing registration fees of commercial motor vehicles, truck tractors, trailers and semi-trailers according to gross weight; fixing the maximum gross weight of such vehicles which may be used and operated on the highways; and eliminating existing provisions relating to the chassis of such vehicles.

House Bill No. 803, entitled:

An Act to amend section six hundred and forty-three of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 872), entitled "The Penal Code," prohibiting selling, giving away or permitting or employing minors under eighteen to sing, dance, act or exhibit in dance houses, concert saloons, theatres, places of entertainment, tap rooms, clubs, cafes, restaurants or eating houses, where or connected with which, wines or spirituous or malt liquors are sold or given away.

House Bill No. 957, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1625) entitled "An act providing for the creation maintenance and operation of a county employes' retirement system in counties of the third class and imposing certain charges on counties," by defining "Average Salary" and further defining "County Employe" and "Retirement Allowance"; further regulating retirement funds and allowances and the payment of retirement allowances and refunds in case of withdrawal or death of members; validating certain contributions; providing for further admissions to the system and protecting rights heretofore vested.

House Bill No. 1176, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation out of the Motor License Fund to the Department of Highways for allocation to and expenditure in the second class townships of the Commonwealth for maintenance, construction, reconstruction, resurfacing or improvement of township roads and bridges during the calendar years one thousand nine hundred forty-two and one thousand nine hundred forty-three; permitting the use of the funds for maintenance and repair of township roads and bridges under certain conditions; and providing for the method of payment to townships.

House Bill No. 1727, entitled:

An Act providing that proceedings, acts and bonds issued, by Authorities incorporated under the Municipality Authorities Act, as amended and supplemented, shall not be invalid by reason of certain circumstances.

House Bill No. 1729, entitled:

An Act to add section fourteen and one-tenth to the act, approved the seventh day of August, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (P. L. 106), entitled, as amended "Flood Control Law," authorizing the Secretary of Highways and the various political subdivisions, with the approval of the Water and Power Resources Board, to grant easements and flowage rights to the Federal Government, over certain highways, roads, streets and bridges.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland may proceed.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I did not know there was going to be such a detailed discussion on unemployment compensation by the gentleman from Delaware, and therefore I shall not go into a detailed statement and give figures such as he has prepared. However, I do have a few remarks I intend to make relative to the subject.

In the first place, Mr. President, I want to say I, of course, did not object to the statement being presented to the Chair by the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Henry I. Wilson, nor did I object to it being entered upon the Journal. However, I realize that in not objecting I shall probably, and my colleagues on this side, are probably signing a blank check, inasmuch as we do not know what may have been said about our actions. I trust the gentleman from Jefferson, however, because I have known him for a good many years and I do not believe he would enter anything upon the Journal that would be in any way a criticism of the actions of the Democratic Senators.

Mr. President, in partial answer to the gentleman from Delaware, I want to say it is true we worked a long time—

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I always knew Henry I. Wilson was a gentleman, and I am glad my judgment was not mistaken in this case.

Mr. President, it is true we worked a long time. I was a member of the commission that studied unemployment compensation. It is also true that we agreed to present a bill with certain noncontroversial amendments to the present act, and it is also true that when the bill was introduced I said then, I said also in committee, and again further on the floor, that the bill in itself had about twenty-two amendments, twenty of which were good, and two of which I considered bad, and my colleagues agreed. I said at the time in committee that if we gave consideration to those two main items in any unemployment compensation bill that you may be dealing with first, the question of the time or the length of time that payments were to be received by unemployed persons, and secondly, the amount of money to be received by those persons, that was controversial, and the committee refused in every instance to have anything to do with liberalizing any of the provisions that I proposed. I am speaking now for labor, and labor was willing to accept twenty of the twenty-two amendments in Senate Bill No. 80.

However, they felt that in fairness to the persons whom they represent that they were entitled to more consideration in the matter of benefits. Every person in Pennsylvania knows that we have about $160,000,000 in the unemployment fund at the present time, and by the end of this year experts say it will reach $190,000,000. Another year of defense activity and we will have a quarter of a billion dollars in the unemployment compensation fund belonging to Pennsylvania. The idea behind unemployment compensation is not to accumulate a vast fund that can be tapped for other purposes or that can be tapped by the Federal Government by the simple passage of a law to take that money that has been accumulated in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and feed it into states that have high benefit payments for their employes but do not have the income to sustain the payments. I said to the committee that if they would liberalize those features of the bill, that we would be willing to sit down and work out some sort of a formula that would give us a bottom and a top. In other words, we would work out a formula that would be on a sliding scale basis; in times when we had sufficient money in the fund we would have a ceiling that I had recommended, and in times when the fund was being tapped because of the excess number of unemployed persons in the state, we would be able to reduce the amount of payments, and in certain instances reduce the number of weeks in which they would receive those payments.

In that way we would always keep a staple fund, and we could always pay the employes of Pennsylvania the just sum that they are entitled to. If fifteen dollars a week was justified in 1936 when we passed this bill, any person in Pennsylvania knows that fifteen dollars a week is not justified today. Every person in this Senate knows that fact, and if they have to buy groceries or pay rent for their families or if they have to buy clothes for the family, they know the cost of living has increased. In Pennsylvania today with all the defense activities we still have unemployable persons and the persons who are unemployed have to buy the necessities of life out of the unemployment compensation check they receive from the Unemployment Compensation Fund.

I want to say to all of you if you fail to take cognizance of the facts as they are presented to you, then you eventually wind up in the same position we found ourselves in concerning workmen's compensation. For years and years and years certain individuals and certain interests in the State of Pennsylvania fought against any liberalization of the workmen's compensation fund and then, because labor and because the people of Pennsylvania revolted, then we had in 1937 the passage of an act which many persons thought was too stringent at the time, but why did we get that act? Because we failed to take cognizance of the facts as they were presented to us and because we failed to have the courage to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act in the lush days of 1926 and 1927; because we failed to do what that we were forced to take an act which we could not stand, at least some employers said they could not stand it.

Now, Mr. President, we find ourselves in the same predicament; we find unemployment compensation set at a certain base and from that base they will not move.

Yes, they have liberalized the act—fifty cents a week on the minimum payments—and nothing whatsoever on the maximum, nothing whatsoever in the regular graded schedule.

Of course, you reduce the waiting period and that is perfectly all right. The purpose behind the waiting period is this: if we have less waiting period, with sufficient funds in the unemployment compensation fund to pay, you have less persons who must apply for relief. Remember, those persons in most cases who receive unemployment compensation are those who are border line cases of relief; they do not have steady employment and therefore they are usually the ones who apply not once but twice or three times during a year for unemployment compensation, and it is that group that we are trying to stabilize with unemployment compensation. Men who now have espoused the cause of labor fought the original passage of unemployment compensation in the State of Pennsylvania and I want to say to you that they will fight every decent liberal amendment from now on.

Now, Mr. President, a significant feature of the act is that of partial payments. A great many persons misunderstand partial payments. Pennsylvania has a great many people employed in the coal industry who may work, for long periods of time, two and a half days one week, one day, a day and a half, three days, or three days and a half a week. The reason I opposed the partial payment proposition, if we were to make up the difference between what a person earned, the total, by the amount unemployment compensation would pay, was because that was unfair to those persons who work in the high day rate positions in the coal industry and in the steel industry, and yet if you will total the number of days that a coal miner works in any one period you will find that he is probably employed, at the regular number of days that he should be employed in a month, about seven to seven and a half months out of a year. I believe that the only fair basis for paying partial payments for unemployment compensation would be on the basis of cumulative days. In other words, if a person works two and a half days a week on the basis of a five day work week—which is included in the amendment inserted by the House—then he is entitled to an accumulation of two and one half days.

That is basically fair. There is not any difference in a man who works a total of six days out of a month, if he only works a day and a half a week, than in the case of a person who works six days during a month and works five days in one week and one day in another week and gets credit for two weeks of unemployment. Basically there is no difference, and in justice to those persons who work in many industries of this state, particularly the basic industry of coal, you will find in justice to them the only fair basis of paying partial payments is an accumulative day basis. Therefore labor has taken a stand and the Democratic Party has taken a stand for that because we always strive to be fair in what we do; we do not hand out a half baked loaf of bread; if we are going to give bread we are going to give it so it is fit to eat.

I would like, Mr. President, at this time to read a statement into the record. I have heard so much about how labor agreed on unemployment compensation and how much labor went along with unemployment compensation, how much it was pleased with Senate Bill No. 80. The impression has been getting around that labor is in favor of Senate Bill No. 80 and that the Democratic Party is the only stumbling block. Therefore, Mr. President, I would like to read into the record at this time a statement signed by James L. McDevitt, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, and John A. Phillips, president of the Pennsylvania Industrial Union Council, and I believe that every man in this room will say that they are qualified to speak for labor.

July 12, 1941.

"To Senator John H. Dent

Dear Senator:

"Answering your inquiry for a statement from the State organizations of labor as to the order of importance in the proposed amendments to the Unemployment Compensation Law, to be found in Senate Bill No. 80, as amended, the following is submitted:

"1. Partial Unemployment

"Pennsylvania is one of the few States which does not compensate the worker who takes as little as a day's work a week, rather than be totally unemployed and thereby collect a week's benefits. The remedy is to allow a worker to accumulate his days of unemployment, just as at present the act permits him to accumulate his waiting period during the year." (I might say this present method of computation, through adverse court decisions, may disrupt that entire procedure, and I understand there have been adverse court decisions.)

"This change is provided in definition of "Total Unemployment," Article 1, Section 4.

"2. Waiting Period

"Reduction of the waiting period to one week (five days of unemployment in seven consecutive days) means that the worker will receive compensation out of the Federal Treasury as soon as he qualifies and is unemployed one week, thereby keeping him off the State relief roll for the next week or two, where he goes at present. This improvment would save that much in State expenditure for relief and taxes.

"Reduction of the waiting period to one week was recommended by the Federal Social Security Board as long ago as February 1940.

"The present section on "Qualifications" is loosely worded and has been subjected to an interpretation which would have the worker unemployed for three weeks before each time he is then unemployed, so that working the one day a week after the three weeks of waiting would disqualify him for another period of three weeks. Thus a worker could be unemployed almost continuously, be qualified otherwise and yet get no benefits in the year.

"Under the present wording of Sec. 401-E we request a clarification of the waiting period through the substitution of the word "first" for the word "any," in other words an unemployed person shall be eligible for benefits for the entire year after serving one waiting period provided he or she complied with all other provisions of the Act.

"These changes are provided in Article IV, Section 401 (e).

"3. Duration of Benefits

Extend the benefit period from 13 weeks as at present to 16 weeks. This increase in the duration of payments is of special need where, as in the present defense program, establishment of priorities may close down an entire plant or industry and bring distress to the workers, merchants and the employers in a community. Likewise it would serve in the future, should a period of business slump threaten to set in.

"This change is provided in Article 4, Section 404.

"4. Increased Payments.

"Pennsylvania's Unemployment Compensation Act has not been amended since its adoption in December 1, 1936.

"Increased benefits are justified, both because of increased living costs and because the payments are inadequate for a decent existence.

"The fund can readily bear increased (1) minimum, (2) maximum and (3) per cent of earnings allowed for the rate of benefits.

"The Federal Social Security Board as long ago as February, 1940 advocated such improvements in the State Unemployment Compensation Acts.

"These changes are provided in Article IV. Sections 403 and 404.

"Your attention is respectfully called to the fact that changes proposed in Senate Bill No. 80 have been limited to those which are already in practice generally throughout the country, and that these changes are restricted to the purpose of caring for the meritorious unemployed, tiding business over bad times, yet conserving the funds.

"In this anaylsis labor would assist on the proposals in the order named, leaving "(4) Increased Payments" open to the judgment of the conferees of Senate and House, should they hesitate to accept the suggestions here made and which are amply supported by the fact that the fund idle in the Federal Treasury is already $160,000,000, rapidly piling up and, if allowed to rise too high, may be a temptation for Congress to tap by pooling the various State funds.

Labor feels strongly that this money belongs in Pennsylvania and should be spent here, which can be done only by increasing benefits as provided in the amendments to Senate Bill No. 80.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES L. McDEVITT,
President, Penna. Federation of Labor.
JOHN A. PHILLIPS,
President, Penna. Industrial Union Council."

Mr. President, with regard to the argument of the gentleman from Delaware that if we pass a partial payment plan we must also pass a merit rating plan, of course, he and I have differed on this subject since we started in the early days to discuss merit rating. I am opposed to merit rating, naturally. Merit rating would result in a greater use of labor saving devices and would result in the end in greater unemployment. It also means that persons who happen to own industries or businesses which have stable employment would be paying practically nothing towards the general fund of unemployment compensation, which is existent for the general good of all persons in the state and the general good of the community in which that particular industry may reside, and at the same time the person who happens to take a so called risky job or who might have a seasoned occupation, jobs which carry a greater number of persons through one season and then drop them because of the slackening of that industry, he would pay the maximum amount for the protection of all the community and all the persons in the State of Pennsylvania.

I am unalterably opposed to a merit rating system until the time may come when it can be worked out on a more meritorious plan than any which have been so far advanced.

I want to say with regard to the old argument that fly-by-night sweat shop employers would come flocking back into Pennsylvania, that is an old story that need not be rehashed here now. In 1937, under the guidance of Governor Earle, a Democratic General Assembly placed on the statute books of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania certain safeguards against an influx of that particular type of employer into the State of Pennsylvania again; that will never occur unless certain laws placed on the statute books by the Earle administration are now followed; there will never be those sweatshops with a two and a half dollar week such as the gentleman from Delaware talked about.

I want to say also that if we increase payments we would stand in no danger at the end of this so called defense boom, because the thing that creates greater unemployment is when you cut down on wages and when you remove wage earning jobs, and if we have partial payments and decent living standard payments of compensation for those unemployed, when we hit the so-called slump at the end of this defense boom, certain persons who would probably work two days a week will receive a certain amount of unemployment compensation which would tide them over and which would stop a general slump such as the one we hit in 1929, when there were no safeguards, and when the employes of the State of Pennsylvania and of this nation week after week found their wages cut, from month to month, week to week and from day to day, to as low as twenty-six cents an hours. Naturally you cut down the buying power necessary for the normal prosperity in this state and this nation when wages would be halved or quartered of what they normally were.

So therefore, Mr. President, I can see why the conferees on the part of the House have failed to sign this unemployment compensation report, because you have not given anything, you have only given in substance the things that are now in practice. We only clarify the law in Pennsylvania in order to bring it up to the standards set up by the Federal Government. That is all the twenty amendments do in this bill. There is an amendment which gives fifty cents a week increases and if any person here thinks fifty cents a week is the amount of increase necessary to keep up the standard of living for a person on unemployment compensation, then that person does not know what is happening in this state and this nation

Mr. President, I hope the conferees can get together and I hope some of them can make concessions. We are willing to make concessions. We say to you of the twenty-two amendments you propose we will accept twenty of them, and we will accept twenty of them for a slight increase in the weekly payment and a slight increase in the number of weeks of compensation; we will accept all your amendments if you will give us accumulative days in order that justice may be meted out to the persons who are employed part time.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, this is a very serious subject which should be discussed dispassionately, without appeals to any class or any other thing. This is an insurance fund and we are trustees of this fund. We want to keep it solvent so that when the day comes, when the test comes, it will be there, and it is something which must be discussed in a dispassionate manner. I sincerely hope, Mr. President, some agreement can be reached here and labor not be denied these benefits, which were agreed to by the gentleman from Westmoreland in committee, and if the gentleman will only take the trouble to study the proceedings of that committee I think it will be found that the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, approved all of these amendments and moved their adoption in some cases.

May I make a further statement, Mr. President, and then I will be finished with this matter, as there is no sense in prolonging this thing now as every one is tired. We could argue this question for days but when you get down to figures and talk figures, based on investigations made by this committee and based on testimony taken, that is another thing.

The gentleman from Westmoreland spoke of the great liberal labor administration of Governor Earle and yet I believe, Mr. President, that we are recommending still more liberalizing features to this law, if adopted, than those recommended by Governor Earle.

The gentleman from Westmoreland spoke of some objection to the table and he said, according to my recollection, that he thought the table was the best type in the United States, excepting at the last meeting he did suggest that the rate should be changed somewhat, the duration of the benefits extended. We extended the duration of benefits, which means the table is necessarily out the window and we would have to return to the old formula system.

The gentleman from Westmoreland spoke of the vast accumulation of funds and stated that when you have the money in there you ought to get rid of it. That to my mind is contrary to the theory of unemployment compensation insurance. The theory of this law, if you take the trouble to investigate it, is simply this: that you store up money when times are good and when times get bad and people become unemployed then this fund is a cushion against unemployment; there is a tax levied on payrolls and placed in this fund, which is a trust fund, and when times get bad and people lose their jobs, it is to this fund they apply for money to carry them over what might otherwise be a rather serious situation.

The gentleman from Westmoreland also spoke of a sliding scale of benefit payments. No one has any objection to that but there again, Mr. President, after a conference with a representative of the Social Security Board I was told, as well as other members of the committee, and I assumed the gentleman from Westmoreland knew about it, we were told that a sliding scale of benefits just would not work under the law.

The gentleman from Westmoreland also spoke of unemployment compensation checks not being sufficient in amount to maintain a family, especially a large family. I quite agree with him, Mr. President, but if the gentleman from Westmoreland will investigate the relief laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, he will find that where a check from unemployment compensation is not sufficient it may be and is supplemented by checks from the Department of Public Assistance. I assume the Senator from Westmoreland did not know that.

Mr. President, also I have already told the gentleman from Westmoreland that a man can earn as much as three dollars a week and still receive a check of fifteen dollars from unemployment compensation, without being considered employed, which means if that man goes out and looks for a few odd jobs he probably can receive a total of eighteen dollars a week.

The gentleman from Westmoreland also spoke of a half baked loaf, or something or other, whatever that means. Mr. President, the worst half baked loaf I know of would be so do what some people want us to do, that is, simply leave the strike-outs in the bill as amended by the House and do away with all of those liberalizing features I have mentioned and take nothing but partial benefits. That would not conform to the Federal Act in lots of ways and propably, according to the representative of the Social Security Board with whom I spoke and whose name I have now forgotten, in some instances that would mean that funds would be probably cut off from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by the Federal administration.

Mr. President, the gentleman from Westmoreland also spoke of a one week waiting period. There again I suggest the gentleman from Westmoreland investigate this study which was made by the committee of which he was a member. If he looks through that study he will find there are only two states in the nation that have one week waiting periods, according to this study, which was completed in January of 1940, and those two states are Rhode Island and Texas, I think; it is contained in the report of the committee but I am of the opinion those are the two states which have such a provision, and in those two states labor itself pays one-half of the contribution, and I wonder if the gentleman from Westmoreland would want us to enact legislation whereby labor would be required to make a contribution of one-half, which would have to be taken out of the pay envelopes of labor.

The gentleman from Westmoreland also spoke of more liberalized payments in view of the fact there is a substantial belance in the fund. I want to say, Mr. President, I am heartily in favor of liberalizing payments as far as is possible based on the true situation, as long as it is safe, and I am most happy to say that this fund is very healthy with $161,000,000 in it now, and I would not care if there were $361,000,000 in the fund, because that would mean when the next depression comes, if it is as long as the last one, we could probably get half way through it before the fund became bankrupt.

The gentleman from Westmoreland also spoke of the possibility, Mr. President, of Congress taking this fund away from us. This fund belongs to us, it has been built up by a tax on our payrolls, by the work of our labor working in our factories, and if any Congress would take a fund like that away from any soverign state in the United States then it is about time we get a new Congress in Washington. That would be an absolute violation of the rights of a state and it would be a dishonest and improper act, to take this fund and put it into a pool and parcel it out to some state which has been careless in its administration of the law and careless in the amendments it has placed in its law and which therefore has depleted the fund.

That is what the gentleman from Westmoreland speaks about, that some state which has been careless in its administration and has permitted its fund to become bankrupt due to its careless administration, the gentleman from Westmoreland now says Congress may take this money of ours that has been paid into this fund and place it in a pool to help take care of states which have not been cautious in the manner in which they have administered their own fund.

We members of the Legislature are trustees of this fund for the protection of the workingmen and women of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and that is a very serious matter and it should not be taken lightly. Therefore, Mr. President, I contend the gentleman from Westmoreland has convicted himself and that his argument falls of its own weight when he suggests the Congress of the United States will take our fund away from us to pay into some other fund which has become bankrupt.

Mr. President, a recommendation that an increase in payments should be made on account of that, for political purposes—and some politicians would do that—if any Congress would take this money which belongs to us, I say to you, Mr. President, that would be the biggest crime known to history.

I like to talk about the law and the state when it is necessary, but I do not like to run it down because when you run your state down, you convince labor this is a state they should not live in and I think that is something that should not be done until after the record is looked at.

The gentleman from Westmoreland speaks of those states having these partial unemployment compensation benefits and as I outlined before, after this investigation which I made in a matter of a few hours and which is not complete, for that reason, I have offered this resolution providing for a complete investigation. If the gentleman from Westmoreland will look at this study we have made as of January of this year, he will find that some sort of merit rating or control of this situation is in effect in the following states and territories:

Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

In all of those states there is merit rating provided for or there is some other provision to protect this chiseling or robbing of the fund which I just outlined to you a little while ago. That is one thing we must be very careful about in order to keep this terrible situation out of Pennsylvania that I just outlined to the Senator from Westmoreland.

The gentleman from Westmoreland spoke about the bad effect on the state and the nation. That is what I meant, Mr. President, when I said these things deserve a lot of consideration. I am not going to bore the Senators here with any further discussion. I have been sitting up nights with this thing now for sometime and I am pretty well bored myself but I would like to run through the list of states and show you whether or not Pennsylvania has a liberal unemployment compensation law. I maintain by passing Senate Bill No. 80, even in its original form, we would have one of the best unemployment compensation laws in the United States, and this is why I say that: Alabama has a three week waiting period and pays a maximum per week of $15 and a minimum of $2. Our minimum is $8. Alaska has a two week waiting period, which is what we will have if this proposed amendment is adopted; they have a maximum of $16 per week and a minimum of $5 per week. There again I say our minimum is $8 per week. Arizona has a waiting period of two weeks, 15 maximum and $5 minimum. Arkansas has a $15 maximum and $3 minimum. Our minimum is $8. The gentleman made light of the increase from $7.50 to $8.00; that is only fifty cents, it is true, but when you work it out actuarially that means two million dollars.

California has a two weeks' waiting period, the maximum is $18.—that is more than ours—and the minimum is $10. California has experience rating, and employers of four or less are not covered. We cover every employe down to one. Colorado has a two weeks' waiting period, $15 maximum and $5 minimum. Connecticut has a two week waiting period, $15 maximum, nothing minimum. You can get as low as ten cents in Connecticut. Delaware has a two weeks' waiting period, $15 maximum, nothing minimum. District of Columbia, four weeks waiting period, $15 maximum, nothing minimum. Florida, two weeks waiting period, maximum $15, $3 minimum Again I say our minimum is $8. Georgia has a two weeks' waiting period, $15 maximum, $5 minimum. Hawaii, two weeks' waiting period, $15 maximum, $5 minimum. Idaho, two weeks' waiting period, $18 maximum, nothing minimum. Illinois, is a state of commerce similar to Pennsylvania, excepting it does not have as much mining as we have, and they have a two weeks' waiting period, $16 maximum, $7 minimum. Indiana has a two weeks' waiting period, $15 maximum, nothing minimum. And so it goes on, Mr. President.

I do not want to bore the Senators but it goes on and on, all the way through the states, and you will not find any state with as liberal provisions as we have. So I insist, Mr. President, if you run this thing down, and run down the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, you will have labor unions, labor leaders and employers everywhere believing this is no state to move into, it will prevent progress in the Commonwealth and that should not be done until after a full and complete investigation.

I suggest to everyone here that they get a copy of this report of the Joint Legislative Committee and read it carefully, because this gives the complete story up to January 1, 1941; out of this book I can answer almost any question but the hour is getting late and I know we are all tired. If there are any other questions I would suggest that they be asked after we have finished here and I will try and answer them.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, there is not much that I can say to augment the very able argument presented by the gentleman from Westmoreland, who has studied this problem, together with the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, and others for a period of two years. Mr. President, I have had a tremendous concern about unemployment compensation since its adoption. It so happened that I was one of the four House members that sponsored a bill as a member of the House in 1936, that set up the unemployment compensation fund and the machinery in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I know the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, has asked me to yield some of the time which I would have devoted in answer to the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn, and I am sure the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, wants another opportunity in order to clarify some of the things that have been said, but there is just one thing I want to say in connection with a statement of the gentleman from Delaware which may be misunderstood. Prior to the arrival of the Minority Floor Leader the gentleman from Delaware made an assertion to the effect that Senator Shapiro had moved in and had taken complete charge of the conference committee. As a conferee considering the bill I want it thoroughly understood that Senator Shapiro was simply giving the conferees and others interested in the bill the benefit of his wide legislative experience and his profound knowledge of this particular subject.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will proceed.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, appreciating that the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware will be properly answered by others, I now ask permission to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask the gentleman from Cumberland whether or not he consulted James Torrance, Republican State chairman, in considering congressional reapportionment.

Mr. WADE. I did not, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask the gentleman from Cumberland whether or not he consulted one Joseph R. Grundy, when he considered this particular proposition.

Mr. WADE. I did not, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask the same question with respect to Joe Pew.

Mr. WADE. I did not.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask the gentleman from Cumberland whether or not he conferred with the Governor of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WADE. I did not, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Cumberland whether or not he conferred with any Republican leader in the State of Pennsylvania on this particular proposition.

Mr. WADE. I did, Mr. President. I consulted with Senator M. Harvey Taylor.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TAYLOR. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, for the purpose of conservation of time I desire to ask the gentleman from Dauphin the same questions that I asked the gentleman from Cumberland.

Mr. TAYLOR. With respect to the same people?

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask the gentleman from Dauphin whether or not he conferred with any of the aforementioned gentlemen with respect to congressional apportionment.

Mr. TAYLOR. I did not.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to interrogate the Majority Floor Leader.

The PRESIDENT. Will the majority floor leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. TAYLOR. Is that all the gentleman from Lackawanna is going to ask me, Mr. President?

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask the Majority Floor Leader whether or not he considers congressional apportionment essentially a census proposition rather than a political proposition?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I may be a little thick tonight but that question certainly is not understandable to me.

Mr. COLEMAN. Then, Mr. President, I will phrase my interrogation in different language.

Mr. GELTZ. I wish the gentleman from Lackawanna would.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny whether or not the problem of congressional apportionment now before the House and Senate is not the result of the taking of the census of the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, as I understand the situation, the question of congressional reapportionment is a matter of law.

Mr. COLEMAN. That, Mr. President, is a very technical answer. I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny whether or not he will be agreeable to a recess of the General Assembly for the purpose of consulting with census experts with a view to honestly and sincerely and equitably apportioning the congressional districts of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and have them report back at some later date.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, that sounds like a rather childish and silly suggestion to me. We have now been in session for substantially seven months and the question of congressional reapportionment has not only been a question since we have been in session, but it was a question for some period of time before we came into session. Certainly if my colleague from Lackawanna had had his wits about him he would have known some months before we came to Harrisburg that question would be one of the important questions in this session. After seven months, Mr. President, I certainly would not want to agree to any proposition or suggestion such as the gentleman from Lackawanna has just made.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, there was an assertion made this afternoon that the reason we did not have congressional reapportionment was because of the leaders of the party—and he indicated the Democratic Party, a statement that I propose to answer later—and I now suggest that since he has stated very definitely that the reason we are not having apportionment is because of the influence of political leaders, does he not think this problem ought to be handled by the conferees in a recess, have them sit down with the men who are familiar with the census figures, in a room from which political leaders of both parties will be barred from participation in any discussion.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, if my recollection serves me correctly, sometime ago I suggested to my colleague from Lackawanna County, that if he were really sincere in wanting to solve this congressional reapportionment problem, instead of just wanting to attract attention and make a noise, he would have endeavored to have his colleagues in the House get down to business and reach some conclusion.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I think that is a very impertinent answer. I think that is very impertinent.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I agree that it was an impertinent answer to an impertinent question.

Mr. COLEMAN. I should like to ask one more question, Mr. President, and ask the gentleman if he will bear with me until such time as I give him some biblical and some legal background which may enable him to arrive at an answer to my question.

I call to the attention of the gentleman that at some time or other during the course of this discussion on congressional apportionment the question of tossing a coin or casting lots in handling this problem has been suggested and there arises in the minds of some people the thought that there may be some criticism from the people of the Commonwealth who think that we are injecting an element of gambling into consideration of important legislation.

I should like to call to the attention of the gentleman, as I understand the Bible—I am not a keen student of Holy Writ—that when Christ appointed the apostles, Judas betrayed him later, committed suicide, and the responsibility for picking his successor rested upon the eleven remaining apostles, and I should like to read into the record that portion of the Bible which indicates that the successor was chosen by lot, and I quote from the Bible:

"And they appointed two, Joseph called Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, and Matthias.

"And they prayed, and said, Thou, Lord, which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two Thou hast chosen,

"That he may take part of this ministry and apostleship, from which Judas by transgression fell, that he might go to his own place.

"And they gave forth their lots and the lot fell upon Matthias; and he was numbered with the eleven apostles."

I should like to also read, Mr. President, a provision in the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania, Section 17, regarding the prorating of judges' commissions and I read from Section 17 of the Constitution:

"Should any two or more judges of the Supreme Court, or any two or more judges of the court of Common Pleas for the same district, be elected at the same time, they shall, as soon after the election as convenient, cast lots for priority of commission, and certify the result to the Governor who shall issue their commissions in accordance therewith."

I am attempting to furnish the gentleman with a biblical spiritual and a legal background which may aid him in answering my next question.

Will the gentleman, as the Majority Floor Leader, be agreeably to having the Republicans—and I am speaking for myself; this suggestion has not been made at a conference with any leaders of the party—to having the Democrats submit one proposition, and the Republicans submit another proposition, and then decide by the casting of lots.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, that all depends upon whether the propositions are examined before lots are cast. From past experience during this session, I would not want to make any agreements ahead of time, because making agreements at the time are bad enough.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I am the fellow who is a little thick now—what does the gentleman from Allegheny mean by not knowing the agreement before time or the proposition before time? I am suggesting that the Democrats lay on the table what proposition they will accept—there is not anything to hide—and the Republicans suggest a proposition which they will accept.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, that was not what my colleague from Lackawanna County said first. If he means that he is willing, for instance, to draw lots as to whether or not a Congressman be taken from Allegheny County or Philadelphia County, as far as I am concerned, Mr. President, I would be very happy to have that decided by lot.

Mr. COLEMAN. The gentleman, Mr. President, is very adroitly evading a direct answer to a very plain and definite question.

Mr. GELTZ. I think not, Mr. President. My colleague from Lackawanna knows well that I can but speak for myself, and although he may have had the unfortunate experience in this session of being bound or directed on the other side, I assure him that we do not conduct our affairs on this side in that fashion.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, at the outset I want to answer the subtle intimation of the gentleman that I am bound by some leader or other in the Democratic Party. I want it very clearly understood that the only one in Lackawanna County who has talked to me about congressional apportionment was a Congressman from our district, when the census figures were known late last summer. I had one casual conversation in a local restaurant, and then along about March or April, I received a telegram asking me to support an apportionment bill. I have had no conversation with any Lackawanna County leaders of any character, high or low, in connection with congressional apportionment. I have stated my particular feeling about apportionment and my sincere determination that this Legislature shall not adjourn, as far as I was concerned, until such time as we had met the issue squarely in the face.

Now, there were just one or two things that happened this afternoon and I had hoped I would have had the opportunity, when the subject was hot, to present my side very clearly. The Majority floor leader very adroitly created the impression that I singled out some Democratic leader as being responsible for the position that the General Assembly finds itself in.

Mr. President, at a critical period of American History the Democratic Party was born. It entered the arena when the people of America were still seeking freedom, and building around them the secred fire of liberty which God has lighted in every human heart and which all the power of political leaders can never wholly destroy. I am a member of the Democratic Party because I am thoroughly sold on the philosophy of the party, but for the benefit of the gentleman I am not so rabid a partisan that I think that all the virtues and all the honesty and all the milk of human kindness is focused in the political party of which I am a member. I have been tolerant enough to be able to consider the other fellow's point of view and see in those on the other side of the Senate a lot of honest and thoroughly decent fellows, sincere, whose actions in the Senate have challenged my admiration and won my respect, but the Majority Floor Leader this afternoon created the impression that I had singled out a Democratic leader, and I want to get it very clearly on the record that I singled out no Democratic Leader, that I designated no party, that I said the leaders of both parties, and I have, in all my conferences with Senator Wade and with Senator Taylor and in my discussions with the Majority Floor Leader, been honest and sincere.

I am just as determined as anybody in the Commonwealth; we are faced with a problem and we ought to meet it squarely in the face, and if the leader of both parties are responsible, then we ought to take it right on our own shoulders, because we are the ones who are supposed to settle that problem. I want the gentleman to have it very clearly understood that when I referred to political leaders, I also referred to Republican leaders as well as Democratic leaders, who were looking at the practical aspect of the problem, caring nothing about the people of the Commonwealth, the practical disfranchisement of hundreds of thousands of voters in this particular state.

I still think there is opportunity to arrive at an agreement; I still think these conferees ought to sit down with their feet under a table and discuss this thing in friendly spirit, and apportion the state on the basis of census figures rather than at the direction of any political leader of any particular party.

I hope I have it clearly understood by the members of the Senate that I did not say that the Democratic Party or any individual leader was responsible for this. I said the leaders of both parties and I want the record to so state.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this afternoon I found it necessary to leave the Senate for a short period but, thanks to the airplane, I was able to return here to be able to again participate in the interesting discussions of the Senate. Always believing that until the last bell rings nobody is locked out or knocked out. I offer the following information with respect to unemployment compensation, Senate Bill No. 80, with an explanation, if I may, of my participation.

Mr. President, I do not think it is necessary to go into detail; I think every man in this Senate knows I did not inject myself into the picture; I think my colleagues on both sides know that I was asked to get into the picture and see what could be done. I assume that is one of the functions of a leader on the Senate floor, whether he be the majority or minority floor leader.

I am not intimately acquainted with all of the facts concerning unemployment compensation, but I have had some experience. I think I was co-sponsor of the act which is now the law. I may suggest that the words of the act, while not original, were the words which were formed in the office of the Attorney General, I think by one of the present assistants—my recollection is a little hazy there—but as a result of an examination of the laws of all the states and countries in existence at that time—I think the only law we did not have the benefit of was that of Switzerland and the gentleman from Philadelphia, the good Doctor Woodward, was able to procure a translation but we did not get that in time. I have been watching and keeping in touch with the progress of this verc fine social piece of legislation, and I have been concerned about the waste and expenditure of a considerable sum of money by the Joint State Legislative Commission in holding hearings and making reports on this subject, when all you have to do is go to Washington and you can get information and data concerning every phase of this subject in every state of the United States.

Mr. President, when I got into this picture of unemployment compensation, in the last three or four days, it was for the purpose of arriving, not at what is the actual safest thing to do, but what is the agreement that can be reached with the two sides of the problem.

There are two sides that are interested in this fund, two groups of people, those who created the fund and those who benefit from it. The sole purpose of this fund is to distribute its money amongst the unemployed, those out of work. The fund is created and maintained out of industry. Two things must be kept in mind—the safety of the fund and a fair compensation to industrial employes from that fund.

It does not take a great deal of research by the Joint State Government Committee to get information that is available in Washington.

I have heard suggestions here that there is reluctance to accept propositions which have been advanced, because of the safety of the fund. When the proposition started out at first labor, which is interested in the fund, the sole beneficiary of it, asked for a number of things, and one of them was a reduction of the waiting period from three weeks to one week. I say now and repeat what I said then, that there are two dangerous points in this act. One of them is the number of weeks that comprise the waiting period. The narrower you draw that line the more dangerous it becomes. There is much less danger in increasing the compensation period from thirteen to twenty weeks than there is in decreasing the waiting period from three weeks to one week. There is much more danger in increasing the minimum payment from $7.50 to $8.00, than there is from increasing the maximum from $17.00 to $20.00. It is obvious, if you think about it, that you increase the number of persons coming into the fund when you increase the maximum—I mean, minimum, you increase the fund—when you increase the maximum there are very few people who reach that point, and the danger is not at all great.

Mr. President, with that thought in mind I approached representatives of labor on the theory that they should attack the most serious problem which they found as a result of the operation of this fund, and after much discussion I found the most serious problem was that which has already been discussed here, namely, partial unemployment compensation. That has always been a serious problem which widens into what is known as seasonal unemployment. In that phase very few people have been able to find a solution on what is partial unemployment. Statistics which I hold in my hand show, as has been stated here, that forty-five states in the union have it. The statement has been made that there are a number of states—approximately as I counted them, thirty states, according to the report of the Joint Legislative Commission—that have a merit rating system ,and that the two are tied up together. I deny that. The two are not tied up together. I would say as far as Pennsylvania is concerned, the greatest danger that can ever happen to this fund, because of the character of the state, is to have a merit rating system, and until that matter is studied by an unbiased committee, nobody ought to urge that proposition.

I deny there are as many states which have partial payments that do have merit rating. Here is a report of April, 1941 published and available to anyone on request, by the Secretary of the Federal Social Security Board. Let me read you some of these figures concerning the status of the fund. The unemployment compensation fund topped the two billion dollar mark in April for the first time. Two billion dollars, an increase of almost $98,000,000 over March; with $128,000,000 received in April, collections deposited in the state clearing accounts from January to April, 1941, totaled $353,000,000. This amount was $28,000,000 above collections for the first four months of 1940. Increases over last year were reported by thirty-three of the forty-eight states submitting comparable data for both four month periods. Declines shown by comparison, in the comparable 1940 period, were reported by fifteen states during the first quarter of 1941. Experience rating plans were in operation in thirteen states during the first quarter of 1941. Modified rates which is a form of merit rating, have been assigned to employers in only six of the nine states in which the plans became effective January 1941. That means that thirty-two states in the nation have awarded partial compensation without merit rating.

Mr. President, the partial payment proposition is the important proposition now. This fund, as has been pointed out, will have $198,000,000 in the treasury by the end of this year. The high peak, in 1938, was $71,000,000. In 1940 payments from the fund were $44,000,000, and this year, the first quarter, was $7,800,000 and the second quarter was either $7,400,000 or $7,500,000, which indicates that four times $7,500,000 will be $30,000,000 paid out, as against four times $22,400,000 receivec during the first quarter, and that means close to $90,000,000.

I want to submit to you this question: the indications are the highest rate paid for partial unemployment compensation in any state was 15.28 compared to total payments—California, $4,400,000 paid out for total and $479,000 paid out for partial unemployment compensation. This fund if it takes thirty per cent of its highest item of $71,000,000 means $21,000,000. If you adopt thirty per cent of the thirty million dollars this year, it would be ten million dollars.

Mr. President, if you would like to have some interesting data concerning partial unemployment compensation, here it is available without an investigating committee.

Nearly 2.6 million weeks of unemployment were compensated during the month of April, a decline of nineteen per cent from March and thirty-nine per cent below April of 1940. Approximately ninety-two per cent of all weeks compensated were for total unemployment, practically the same proportion as in the past two months. I want to repeat that, and then you can see with what you are dealing. Approximately ninety-two per cent of all weeks compensated were for total unemployment, practically the same proportion as in the past two months. Therefore we are dealing with eight per cent of this fund and therefore ninety-two per cent of the cases were total and eight per cent were partial.

Now, in conclusion, Mr. President, I make the suggestion, in this interest of arriving at a conclusion, that we eliminate the question of reducing the waiting period from two weeks to one that we accept a number of the provisions in Senate Bill No. 80, for procedures which are necessary and good, and eliminate the question of increasing the maximum or dealing with the minimum any further than it is.

I also want to say now, Mr. President, that the gentleman from Delaware inadvertently stated that when you increase benefits by fifty cents you are dealing in millions; I want to say that when you increase them fifty cents, I think you will find you are dealing with about nine hundred thousand dollars, according to the figures furnished last night. I think the gentleman can verify that.

The total amount that could be involved is from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000. This fund can stand it at this time. As a matter of fact, it would be much less, and in my opinion this is the time to experiment because this is the time when it would cost you the least. In a time of progress like we have now of high rate employment, the danger is lessened and minimized, and therefore I suggest, with appropriate safeguards, instead of putting in these innocuous resolutions year in and year out when these problems come up, and saying we ought to have more time to study them and letting the people wait in the meantime—I suggest putting a law into effect up to a definite period and include as a part of the bill a provision that a committee be appointed to make an investigation; then the law could be modified, increased, lowered, or discontinued, according to the recommendations of that committee. I am quite sure with the tremendous amount of money in this fund that can be done safely.

The other side of the picture is this: for years employers have come to the conclusion—and there is something to be said for their right to make that argument—that there are a number of employers who have an even rate of employment and they feel they ought not to be called upon to bear the burden of those employers who have a high rate of unemployment. They have a just right to complain, but sooner or later we may have to come to the conclusion that in an industrial state like ours, diversified as it is, but with thousands of unemployed, they will have to bear some of the burden in order to make possible unemployment compensation, because it does not take much imagination to know what will happen if unemployment rating in Pennsylvania should be put upon a merit rating basis, with the coal and the steel industry, with its high rate of unemployment as against the other industries, which have a low rate. The coal and steel industries could wreck that fund within a year or two.

It is interesting however to note, and it must be remembered, that the longer the period of depression the less the drain on the fund, because after a period of time there is no basis for compensation because there has been no employment, and the danger arises only in a short period of depression. We had one of those in 1938, where the last portion of 1937 was used in the compensation figures and our payments were $71,000,000, and you can see the inroad made when you find in two years the payments dropped to $44,000,000.

I suggest since the bell has not rung, that these facts ought to be considered in approaching a possible solution to this problem.

Mr. President, so far as congressional reapportionment is concerned, I now make the statement on personal privilege, and I repeat what I have said frequently here during this session, I paid no attention to and participated in no way in connection with the matter of congressional reapportionment. My reason for doing that was that after talking to persons whom I had a right to talk to, people who in the final analysis will have to decide this problem, that is, some leaders of the Democratic Party, I came to the conclusion this was purely a political situation and in a political situation I could not do anything about it, because I know that when you get thirty-four Congressmen one of whom is to be eliminated, you will have thirty-four points of view, and when you have that situation, you will have to have someone who will have to decide the question and that someone can only be a leader.

I have been always brought up on the basis that someone has to decide a question at some time, and there has to be some one man to whom it must be submitted. There are plenty of leaders on both sides, and I say without fear of contradiction, in the final analysis they are the men who will decide the question, because the Senators will not be able to decide it, but so far as I am concerned I am not interested in it and I repeat that. That is the statement I made yesterday. I was correctly quoted on it. I am not interested in it. My political beliefs I have expressed publicly and they have no place on this floor, but I say again I shall not participate in that subject because it is one to which I can not contribute anything. I have been Minority Floor Leader here since the beginning of the session; I may not have satisfied everybody, and I am sure I have not, but I have satisfied myself on one thing, I have tried to do what I could to bring about a solution of state problems through whatever contribution I could make to such a solution.

Mr. President, I have been brought up under two different types of leadership. One has been the Republican and the other the Democratic. I never asked anything more in the Republican Party than the right to express my views, and after my views were expressed I allowed the leaders to determine the problems, because the program for the state must be made by the political leaders of either party. It is their responsibility and it is their duty.

Early in my career as a Republican, Mr. President, when I first held office in 1932 and came here in 1933, I was disappointed in the management and the manner in which the Republican Party conducted its affairs, because I did not get an opportunity to express my opinion. When I became a Democrat, I met a man in Philadelphia for the first time, whose name is Jack Kelly, who has been charged here today with having sold out the Democratic Party.

Well, Mr. President, let me say this to you: there are men on this side of the House who have seen the way in which the Democratic Party is managed in Philadelphia. There have been statements made here that secret caucuses were held in Philadelphia every Saturday and that I among others attended them. That is true, I frequently attend those caucuses, and I attend them because they are very interesting caucuses. There was the first time I ever saw every member of the Senate and House permitted to express his opinion on a subject. I have seen every bill discussed, I have seen lobbyists invited into those meetings and permitted to give their opinions on bills, and permitted to voice their views on a subject, and subjected to as good a cross-examination as any lawyer on this floor could give them, by those men who become trained in their work from week to week. I have seen Mr. Kelly express his opinion and I have seen Mr. Kelly voted down on his opinion on bills more than once, and I have seen him go along with the result of the caucus. I have seen here in the Senate and in the House the voice of Philadelphia translated into the general caucus and I have seen in the general caucus, after being heard, the voice of Philadelphia go along with the result of the general caucus. I know of no other way, no better way, to manage it.

I have seen the same leader slow down, you might call it, the Democratic victory which was in the hands of the Democratic Party in the City of Philadelphia because of decency and statesmanship. Everybody in Philadelphia knows that Philadelphia would have a Democratic mayor today, if Jack Kelly had not been an honest citizen of Philadelphia. The sale of the water works through the R.F.C. in Washington was brought about only by the intervention of Jack Kelly, and the failure of bringing that about would have thrown Philadelphia into bankruptcy. It was over forty million dollars short in cash, it could not continue its financing without imposing an extremely high additional tax both real and personal, on the citizens of Philadelphia. Mr. Kelly was told by certain leaders if he would sit tight and do nothing, he would have the finest argument to elect our mayor, and Mr. Kelly made a statement to those gentlemen that Philadelphia came first and the party next, and he personally went to Washington and reached a conclusion which no one else was able to reach, by inducing the R.F.C. to make a loan, to help finance a loan, in order to save Philadelphia from bankruptcy. As a result of that, there were few issues as important as that to present to the people of Philadelphia. I am satisfied with what he did in Philadelphia and I am satisfied with what he did here in Pennsylvania and I am satisfied, even though his suggestions were in a measure obstructing and interfering with a plan for which I had worked for several years, and I say, whether the Governor happens to be a Democrat or a Republican, when the Governor calls upon a man who has influence in the state to help him solve a problem, he has a perfect right to do so, and I would like to know how, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by anything Jack Kelly did, the party has been sold down the river.

The party obtained its program. The Moul-Woodring Bill was passed, the hospitals were taken over, the road money was given to the townships and I repeat, Mr. President, what bill, what important bill to the Democratic Party has been defeated by anything that Jack Kelly did? Let me add one further word to that; not one step that was taken by the conferees who were trying to reach an agreement with the Governor was taken without consultation with all the leaders, in the office of the Speaker of the House, after discussion on the merits and demerits of every plan that was suggested. It is true that Mr. Kelly made suggestions on how to reach an agreement through the press before discussing the matter with us. That has happened dozens of times, and it is true some of those suggestions at first upset me because I felt they were not in accordance with what we had outlined, but it is also true that somebody had to give and both sides had to give in order to receive, and it strikes me that I recall that even on this side of the House I was severely criticized—and I say that in a most friendly manner—by a number of people from certain sections, who objected to their hospitals being taken over, not because it was not a good program, not because it was not a fine social piece of work, not because it was not the party program, because it was, because I sat in when the party made up its program for this session, along with the rest of the leaders in the Democratic Party, and every plank in that platform was adopted by and with the approval of the leaders. One of those planks, for instance, was the taking over of the mental institutions, and yet a number of men on this side of the House were willing to allow that program to drop, because they were local situations which would adversely affect the party.

Mr. President, you will remember that I made a statement on this floor that I did not care whether it was on this side of the House or on the other side of the House, and I now repeat it, I do not care on which side of the House it falls, if there is any party in this state, any local party, that depends for its existence and its life upon control politically of any institution for the care and treatment of patients in any form, then that party is better dead than alive.

That program today accomplished in the state after two or three years, will be on our statute books because the Democratic Party wanted it, fought for it and got it, and, I may say, because the Governor of this Commonwealth was finally willing to go along on a give and take proposition—and I say this in all kindness—I hope the discussions between two gentlemen from Philadelphia and other places will continue on the basis which it has in the newspapers, because there is still a sense of humor in both of them, but let me say before it is too late, that the values and virtues of the accomplishments in this Senate, this Democratic Party, should not be thrown to the four winds because of discussions between two able, two conscientious and two sincere men, both of whom can sit down tomorrow and reach agreements affecting the state and which will be in the interests of our citizenship. I hope the friendship which exists between them now will continue.

As a student of the politics of Jack Kelly—even though those statements were made in my absence—I want to clear the atmosphere and say I owe it to him to stand here and say that there is nobody in Philadelphia who has contributed more to the success of the Democratic Party in building it up from nothing to be a potent factor in our affairs; there is nobody in Philadelphia or in Philadelphia politics who has the respect of both sides in the political arena more than Jack Kelly; and there is not a citizen in Philadelphia who has done more for the good of that city than Jack Kelly, I say in all kindness to my friend Dr. Mundy, for whom I have high regard and affection, that I am not going to interfere in their fight and their quarrel. I hope they will continue to conduct it on a high plane, but I can not stand by and let the statement go into the record, by innundo, direct, or in any way, that anything that Jack Kelly did should be criticized on the basis that he sold the party. There are people who do not understand his actions but I know them. I have suffered many disappointments in that party in Philadelphia, but so have other people, and the only way I know to build a party is to stifle your own ideas and ambitions, in the interests of what is more important in these times than anything else, the building up of respect for politics, the building up of respect for people in public life, and the building up of respect for politicians, as they are known, so that when the word is used there will be no misunderstanding. The time must not come when we will return to those years when decent citizens were unwilling to allow their names to be placed on the ballot for fear they would go into public activity and have their names smeared without any rhyme or reason. If we can continue to have in politics men with the ideals of Jack Kelly and, yes, Dr. Mundy, and many of the men who are around here, we will be able to get politics on a high plane.

My position here has been to try to bring about a respect for law and order, and try to bring about respect for this Senate. I have paid no attention to personal attacks and remarks made in my absence and in my presence, even though by thinly veiled intolerant remarks of individuals, they were brought to a very low level when they were produced on this floor, because I am as of nothing compared to the big factor which confronts all of us and concerns me greatly, that is, the future of this great country, the last great democracy that there is, and its future can only be continued and maintained as long as the people all around us agree that there must be respect for law and order, and their degree of respect for law and order will be in proportion to our respect for the position which we occupy in public life.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, it is not often but occasionally I must disagree with my colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro. I was shocked to hear him state just a few minutes ago, and I feel that I correctly understood what he stated, that the matter of effecting congressional reapportionment was the duty of the leaders of the two parties of this state, and that in due time those leaders would perform their function. That is incomprehensible to me.

I believe and I feel that every other Senator in this Chamber is in accord with me when I state that it is not the duty of any leader, the law does not direct any leader to perform that duty, but that it is a duty with which this Legislature is charged. The complaint that was made, in which I did not take any part, was that congressional reapportionment has been stifled by reason of the fact that the conferees of the House were helpless to act because of the fact that they willingly were abiding by the dictates of certain leaders.

I never will, I hope, and I have no reason, to speak disrespectfully of the so-called leaders of either of the great parties, but I take it that it is our duty, Mr. President, we are charged with the duty, and I am still optomistic that if we are given an opportunity that we, the members of the Legislature, can effect a proper solution of this vexing problem.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, a lot of water has gone over the dam since I wanted to get up to answer directly the statements made by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, and I seemed to get the impression he was talking directly to me in his statements, because repeatedly he pointed his hand at me and told me he was talking to me. I do not want to go into that, Mr. President, but I want to clear up one or two points. It is true that I served on the commission, it is true I accepted or probably made more motions of acceptance of the great majority of the amendments being made on Senate Bill No. 80, but I believe that he in fairness will say that I always make the reservation that I did not agree with the amounts of unemployment compensation paid. I agreed with the type of the schedule and I still say that we ought to think that it is a great improvement over the method of computation that is being applied today when determining the amounts to be received by those who are unemployed.

We agreed on a great many things in Senate Bill No. 80, and there is no reason in the world why we can not agree on one or two vexing problems which still remain before us. I can remember my father telling me how year after year and year after year he went out and voted for the Republican Party because of the full dinner pail argument, but when the time came and the entire country was hit by the crash of 1929, the full dinner pail did not mean anything because he did not have any work to go to. You can not blame that on the Democratic Party. We have not had control so many long years and any mistakes that were made forty-four years ago certainly would not have had any bearing on the crash of 1929. I want to say for the record I am absolutely convinced that I am sound in my proposition and in my reasoning and in the logic that I stood for on this matter of unemployment compensation. Since we are hearing so many stories about who takes personal pride in sponsorship, I want to state for the record also that the first compensation bill ever introduced in Pennsylvania was introduced in 1935 by myself, for which I received the general condemnation of pretty nearly everybody in the state.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I like to think of bills which are introduced in the Senate as legislative children. From my observations I have found very frequently that those bills die at birth and are not even presented to the Senate. Then at other times these legislative infants are born and sent to committee, and they die in their early infancy. At other times they are born and they get perhaps as far as early adolescence and then they die, and there are other times when they approach the age of maturity, and then they are executed on the floor of the Senate.

One of the legislative children which we have had in the Senate is a legislative child that was born ill. We felt that if we gave it sufficient time that the illness would be cured and eventually it would reach health, old age, and perhaps, with the blessing of this Senate, become law of our great state. Unfortunately the passage of time has not cured that illness, and now we find that the spark of life in that infant is growing very very low. Perhaps it is wishful thinking on my part, but I feel that some place and some time within the next several hours there is going to be proper medication given to that legislative child and perhaps it will become a law of our Commonwealth, and I refer again the reapportioning of the congressional districts.

Regardless of the fact that I feel, and I have no foundation for feeling so, that there is a solution, I do think that if we should adjourn without something being done on the matter of reapportionment we would be remiss in our duty.

Congressman Samuel Weiss, formerly a member of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, an able and capable lawyer, and a man conversant with the very problem which bothers us, has introduced in the Congress of the United States a resolution which would have the effect, if it passes that body, of enabling the Census Director of the United States to reopportion the congressional districts of Pennsylvania.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. COX. It is my intention at this time, and I now offer a resolution, and because of the fact that Rule 39 of the Senate makes it impossible to act on this resolution immediately if anyone objects to it, I offer the resolution and I move that Rule 39 of the Senate be suspended.

Mr. COLEMAN. I second the motion, Mr. President.

RESOLUTION MEMORIALIZING PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS TO ENACT INTO STATUTE HJ RESOLUTION 207

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. COX, DENT, COLEMAN and BARR, offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

Whereas, The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has been unable to agree to a proper plan for reapportioning the various Congressional Districts of the Commonwealth in disregard of a constitutional mandate so to do; and

Whereas, The failure to reapportion the Congressional Districts in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will lead to great expenses and a breakdown in the election machinery of the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, Congressman Samuel Weiss has introduced in the Congress of the United States of America HJ Resolution 207, which, if enacted into a law, will permit the Director of the United States Census to reapportion the Congressional Districts of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania if the General Assembly of Pennsylvania fails to reapportion the Congressional Districts; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, If the House concur, it is the intention and desire of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the President of the United States and the Congress of the United States be memorialized and they are so memorialized to enact into a statute HJ Resolution 207.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion to suspend Rule 39?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. GELTZ. There has been a resolution presented and a motion at the same time.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is only entertaining the motion.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I would like to suggest to my colleague from Allegheny that he should first present the resolution and have it read. Otherwise I will have to ask my colleagues to vote "no" on the motion to suspend Rule 39.

Mr. COX. I might say by way of explanation that it was my desire, after the resolution was read, to move to lay the resolution on the table. I was not going to ask for immediate consideration. During the afternoon we found, by study of the rules, that it would be impossible for me, the resolution having been read, to move to lay it on the table. If my colleague and friend, the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, is willing, the resolution having been read, I will not move that Rule 39 be suspended, if he will consent to have it laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT. A similar situation arose some time ago, at which time the Chair made no immediate ruling but first examined the rules of the Senate. When approached today by the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Cox, the Chair told him the only method of preventing this resolution being automatically referred to committee would be by suspension of Rule 39. There is nothing to prevent the Senator moving to suspend the rule, presenting the resolution, asking for its immediate adoption, or that it be laid on the table, or anything else that he wishes to have done with it.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rise on a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, if a resolution is presented and request is made that it be read, could not thereafter there be a request for immediate consideration or a motion to suspend Rule 39.

The PRESIDENT. If the Chair were in the position of the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Cox, he would not take that chance, because should there be objection the Chair would then automatically be obliged to refer the resolution to a committee. There is similar analogous action taken when the gentleman from Bucks, Senator James, moves that Rule 38 be suspended in order that the Senate may take immediate action on Executive Nominations; otherwise appointments reported by the chairman of the Committee on Executive Nominations with a favorable recommendation would have to lay over for a day.

Mr. GELTZ. Because of my neighborly nature, Mr. President, I dislike to oppose the motion of my colleague from Allegheny, but I am afraid under the circumstances I will have to request my colleagues to vote against the motion. It may be that my colleague will withdraw his resolution temporarily and allow us an opportunity to see it. In such an event it is possible we may have no objection.

The PRESIDENT. If the Chair may be permitted a suggestion, he would suggest you might reach a gentleman's agreement, and then we will not take snap judgment.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I would be very willing to immediately confer with the Majority Floor Leader, with the understanding that after that conference I again will have the privilege of introducing the resolution.

Mr. GELTZ. I promise not to tear it up, Mr. President.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDENT. The motion now is will the Senate agree to suspend Rule 39.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I must ask my colleagues to vote against the motion to suspend Rule 39, and I would like to give the reason for making that request. If we have had so much difficulty here in the Legislature of Pennsylvania, in coming to a conclusion and reaching a proper determination in this matter, what can we expect from Congress, where they are selfishly, or I should say more selfishly interested in the matter.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair also calls attention to the fact that twenty-six votes are required to suspend a rule of the Senate.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, may I ask the Senator—I do not know whether he got the point of the resolution or not, but it is to the effect that Congress would make a plan of apportionment through the director of the census, who is equipped with the proper census figures and unquestionably could do an able job.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, is the question now before the Senate the motion that the resolution be laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion to suspend Rule 39.

Mr. BARR. Can the resolution be laid on the table without a motion?

The PRESIDENT. It cannot.

Mr. BARR. Notwithstanding unanimous consent of the Senate, Mr. President?

The PRESIDENT. Automatically, in the event of objection, the Chair would be compelled to refer the resolution to a committee.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39 WITHDRAWN

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw the motion to suspend Rule 39.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTION LAID ON TABLE

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT. In the absence of unanimous consent, the resolution would be referred to committee.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. GELTZ. I have no objection, Mr. President, providing it lays there for some time.

It was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, this afternoon there were newspaper articles read here and statements made to the effect that some Senator on this floor heard some newspapermen say that they had heard that Congressman Weiss had said that Senator Guffey had said that he was opposed to congressional reapportionment in Pennsylvania.

I received a telegram a few moments ago from Senator Guffey, which reads as follows: "Statements have been made to the effect that I am opposed to apportionment in the State of Pennsylvania. Such rumors are based upon misinformation or are deliberate falsehoods. During my entire political career I have been in favor of apportionment. I am in favor of apportionment now and the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in my judgment should not adjourn without legislating for apportionment in accordance with the census taking of 1940." That, Mr. President, is signed by Joseph F. Guffey.

I talked to Congressman Weiss, Mr. President, and he told me that he had never talked to Senator Guffey about reapportionment, either for or against, in Pennsylvania.

I talked with Senator Guffey on the phone myself and he defied any congressman, Democratic or Republican, to say that he had advocated or not advocated apportionment or reapportionment in the State of Pennsylvania. He also told me this, that if there was one thing that he had done during this session it was to attend to his business in Washington. He said these are not the days of Quay o Penrose, when no move was made without telephoning to Washington. I am very frank to say I do not think Senator Davis has bothered or put his finger on any man on the other side of the House, and I am sure that I can say that every man on this side of the House has not been influenced or no effort has been made by Senator Guffey to influence him or his vote on any subject that we have had before us during this session. I might also say that our national committeeman from Pittsburgh, David L. Lawrence, has never asked me and I am sure that he has never asked a single soul on this side of the House to oppose reapportionment. In fact, he has insisted on the 'phone tonight, when I called him, that we should not adjourn here until we have reapportionment in this state.

Now, Mr. President, we have had a conference committee working day and night, and I have the greatest respect for every one of them, and when they tell us they can not agree I take them at their word because I know they are sincere about it, but that is not satisfying to me.

I as one Senator refuse to sit in this Senate and hide behind any political leader from any section of this state and I say to you, Mr. President, that if this Senate adjourns, hiding behind some leaders somewhere—we have not heard them named very definitely—but if on either side of this House we must listen to some leader outside of this body, it is a pathetic situation.

Therefore, I feel, Mr. President, I am going to direct a question to every member of the conference committee, if they choose to answer it: can they submit to this body a plan or an alternative plan on which we may vote?

I do not think we are true to our districts back home; I do not think we are true to the people of Pennsylvania if because of some conference committee that has labored assiduously, honestly and fairly to settle something, that we must sit back and go back home and face our constituents and say we did not have an opportunity to vote on this proposition.

I feel that if this committee or any member of it will submit something to us—I do not care what it is—whether directly or in the alternative, that we can vote one way or the other, we can at least go back home with our eyes open and face our constituents. Otherwise I feel that we are the creatures of legislative custom, old as it may be, but there is no custom that we can not change.

Therefore, Mr. President, I do not care what the House does, the other side of this chamber, they may not agree with us, but I say to you, Mr. President, that we ought not to go out of this Senate, without expressing individually our vote on any reapportionment proposition from either side of the House.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, when I read this article in the newspaper, when I heard the accusations which were made by the gentleman from the right, I, like my colleague from Allegheny, Senator McGinnis, was very indignant and for that reason I called Senator Guffey and Senator Guffey assured me, as he did Senator McGinnis, that he had always been for congressional reapportionment and he directed a little advice to Senator Walker and myself. He said if we were going to enter into our literary career on the floor of the Senate, in addition to the books we had suggested that we both might read, that we might also read Pilgrims Progress.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I think my speech this afternoon was certainly productive of results. When the Senator from Philadelphia came into this Chamber I was about to ask him if he had passed himself at Paoli, on the way back, but he clarified the situation very well by saying that he arrived by airplane.

My speech has been very effective, I believe, in healing a very serious breach that previously existed within the organization of Philadelphia itself. If, by that speech, I have been able to bring together in amicable relationship two men who hold such diverse points of view on subjects as Senator Shapiro and Jack Kelly, then I indeed have done some great service to the Philadelphia party organization.

I recall, going back again to history, from say the Spring of 1938 to the present time, when perhaps the Senator would not have been in such a frame of mind as to so ably champion the cause of Philadelphia leadership as he has been tonight. I really was surprised and astounded when I saw Senator Shapiro ride into the lists, where we must admit he was an able champion, an able champion of any cause, and I believe myself if I was in dire distress and sorely pressed and wanted to find a very, very plausible explanation and wanted to re-establish myself in the estimation of the community, I would not hesitate, Senator, to hire your services, and while I have criticized Mr. Kelly on some other things, I think he did exercise judgment in having you come back in such a hurry to take up the cudgels in his defense on the floor this evening. But, Senator, you must admit that having explained the differences that have existed recently between you and Mr. Kelly, while you were an able champion, that you did ride into the lists with a horse slightly spavined and with your lance slightly bent, and your shield dented in a few places from your past conflicts with the champion whose cause you now have so ably espoused, and may I say, if I did not know the situation and were not so thoroughly cognizant of all the facts pertaining to it, that you, by your ability to so ably paint word pictures and so deftly to clarify each action, I indeed might be swayed by your oratorical presentation of these facts, and if it be any balm of Gilead to your honor, anything that might soothe you in your concern for the future of the Democratic Party, I assure you that from tonight on, if Mr. Kelly wishes to issue any further statement, that he will simply be competing with Hamlet, in rendering another soliloquy.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I desire permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, this sounds like Democratic night. This afternoon when my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Geltz, was speaking I made a remark from my chair which I think the Senator misunderstood, and if possible I would like to have it taken from the record. I said someone, in a little stronger term, was trifling with the truth, but I did not mean him, I meant the person who inserted or through his influence, had this article inserted in the paper, of which Tony Smith is so able a reporter. I have talked with Mr. Geltz personally and I think he understands that also; I do not think any one in this room, knowing me, would think I would get up on this floor and call any one of my colleagues a liar.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I request permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will proceed.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I think today we have gone rather far afield. I just want to take a minute and a half to make a few brief remarks.

When this session opened in January I introduced a number of bills, enabling bills, to help finance the program pertaining to assistance to the aged of our Commonwealth. There were certain reforms, known to this body as gambling bills, and my colleagues on both sides of the House frowned upon them because they did not believe in gambling in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, so my bills are peacefully sleeping now, and I had forgotten about them until now, when lo, and behold, the gentleman from Lackawanna quotes Scripture and tells us that eleven of the twelve apostles believed in lottery. Then, upon interrogation, I found, much to my amazement and surprise, that our good friend from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, submitting to interrogation, stated that he would be satisfied to enter into a lottery to decide the congressional reapportionment bill. I am amazed and I am dumbfounded, but I am happy, Mr. President, now that in the closing hours of this session we have two outstanding Senators, one a Democrat and the other a Republican, who have told us that both of them believe in gambling, and in the next session I am satisfied they will be of great aid to me.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cumberland will proceed.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I hesitate to take up any time in this very pleasant Democratic fall-out, but I do believe that the invitation from the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, is worthy of consideration. On repeated occasions I have taken the opportunity to express to my colleagues here in the Senate trends of population that have led to some very definite conclusions in this matter of congressional reapportionment.

I again repeat this evening, Mr. President, that the City of Philadelphia during the past decade has been one in particular that has shown this particular trend of a decrease in population. As a matter of fact, it has lost the total number of 15,875 while on the other hand the surrounding counties have shown very definite trends of population increase.

Ten years ago, when this very contentious matter of arranging congressional districts was dealt with, Pennsylvania at that time lost two of their delegation and the matter was solved by consolidating districts throughout central Pennsylvania and disturbing the then existing figures considerably. One of those districts which was broken up was changed from one county to four counties and the population of that district now is approximately 428,000, much over the quota.

Then again I say to you, to substantiate my point, that I have tabulated these districts according to their size, beginning with the smallest, which is in Allegheny County and is short 92,000 of the present state ratio, and continuing through to the twenty-second district, each of those first twenty-two districts are low in population and in these first twenty-two small sized districts, all of which are under the new state ratio, the City of Philadelphia has six of their seven districts. The seventh district has an excess of population, but only five thousand more, while on the other hand the largest district in the State of Pennsylvania, comprising the County of Luzerne, has an excess population of 140,000.

Therefore, Mr. President, and my colleagues, it is my studied opinion, after making considerable research, that the proper solution of this problem is to remove one district from Philadelphia, thus cutting their delegation from seven to six and on the invitation of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, I make the following motion.

SENATE URGES ONE CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT BE REMOVED FROM PHILADELPHIA

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I move you that this body go on record as substantiating the decision that one district should be removed from the City of Philadelphia, and if it is agreeable to the other conferrees I now invite them to second this motion.

Mr. MUNDY. So there may not be any misunderstanding relative to my position in this matter, and because of the developments of the last few days, I told my colleagues from the beginning that the population figures showed that Philadelphia had lost 177,000, whereas numerically, in computing the number in individuals who would make up the various congressional districts—nationally with 435 members, the average is 302,687; whereas the Pennsylvania ratio, figuring thirty-three members, would be an average of 300,005 individuals to each congressional district. Each congressional district in the City of Philadelphia has fallen short of that as shown by the following figures.

One district, 61,000; another district, 46,000; another district 28,000; another district, 26,000; another district 6,000; another district, 5,000; another district, 5,000; making a total deficit in ratio of 177,000.

I second the motion of my colleague from Cumberland, Mr. Wade.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, although the census figures show the facts that have been produced by Senator Mundy and the other conferees, I feel that we are losing sight of the fact that with the national defense program booming, Philadelphia is receiving thousands and thousands of skilled laborers from all over the country. In south Philadelphia we have the navy yard where there are three shifts; we have Cramp's shipyard which pretty soon will be working night and day, three shifts; we have housing projects which have been erected at Thirty-third and Tasker Streets, Twenty-Second and Ridge Avenue and Twelfth and Poplar Streets, and so on and so forth, and I feel that with the roaring furnaces and with the boom in the City of Philadelphia, it is really unfair to look on this matter wholly as one of census, and for the committee on reapportionment to strike at the City of Brotherly Love, the cradle of liberty, where millions of dollars are being spent and being put into Philadelphia in the defense projects that are being worked at the present time, seems to me unfair.

Let us direct our minds to the present and forget the census as shown by the figures produced by the gentleman from Luzerne, Senator Mundy; let us think of the way Hitler has been moving in the past six months and the way Philadelphia is moving to stop him. I feel it is unfair.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator DiSilvestro, is a hard man to follow. I also want to second this motion. As I see it this also proves the fact the Senate is ready to move at all times on this proposition. I think it is a healthy aspect, if we can get a unanimous vote in this Senate on a resolution and send it over to the House, that we take one congressman from Philadelphia.

I still say that ten years ago when the question of reapportionment was last considered, there was not a chance for the rural counties; you split us all up ten years ago, and surely you are willing to deduct one now. You gave it to us and we did not make much fuss about it, except the gentleman from Cambria, Senator Haluska, who had one county and there were three counties added to it, he is away over, I will admit that. I say let us take care of the rural counties once in awhile. Don't sell us down the river all the time.

I second the motion of the gentleman from Cumberland if there can be a second seconder.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TAYLOR. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, before I interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, I want to go on record by saying that I will vote for this motion regardless of what the interrogation may bring forth, but I would like to ask this question: as one of the conferees would the gentleman from Dauphin be willing to go on record that he would include some adjustment in there for my district, if possible? I think the gentleman has agreed that ten years ago we had added to my county three other counties, and now we are overbalanced and overloaded.

I think every member here agrees something ought to be done in the Twenty-Seventh Congressional District. Therefore I ask the gentleman from Dauphin whether he will be willing to make some adjustment in my own district and take one out of Philadelphia.

Mr. TAYLOR. I say that would just complicate the matter, Mr. President. We are now unanimous about this and apparently the gentleman from Cambria will have to suffer for ten more years. At that time I will agree, if I am in the Senate, I will try to do that ten years from now.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, that is a long range program but with the thought in mind that we might reach some agreement at that time I will yield, with the hope that in ten years we will both be here and may be able to come to some agreement.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Assuming, Mr. President, that the Senate and the Senate conferees agree, would that solve the problem?

Mr. WADE. No, Mr. President, but I sincerely believe it would be a step in the right direction.

Mr. SHAPIRO. What is the next step the gentleman from Cumberland thinks would then be necessary?

Mr. WADE. Then, Mr. President, it would be necessary to inform the House we have taken that step.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I mean, Mr. President, should the conferees report the bill, would it solve the problem by removing one district from Philadelphia.

Mr. WADE. Yes, Mr. President, that is correct.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Now, Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Dr. Mundy.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MUNDY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is the gentleman from Luzerne one of the conferees on this bill?

Mr. MUNDY. I am, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Who else is a member, on the Democratic side, I mean.

Mr. MUNDY. From the House, the members are Tate, Shaffer and Bretherick.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Has that plan been proposed and submitted to the three gentlemen representing the Democratic members, conferees.

Mr. MUNDY. On numerous occasions, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Was that agreed to?

Mr. MUNDY. It was not, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, has the gentleman from Luzerne agreed to that?

Mr. MUNDY. I did, sir.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I did not hear the answer, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. I did.

Mr. SHAPIRO. The gentleman from Luzerne has agreed to that?

Mr. MUNDY. Yes, Mr. President.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Wade and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—31

Barr,	Crowe,	Letzler,	Tallman,
Bartlett,	Dent,	Mallery,	Taylor,
Becker,	Ealy,	McGinnis,	Thomas,
Carr	Geltz,	Miller,	Wade,
Chapman,	Haluska,	Mundy,	Walker,
Coleman,	Heyburn,	Ruth,	Watkins,
Cox,	Homsher,	Snowden,	Wilson, H. I.,
Crider,	James,	Stevenson,

NAYS—2

DiSilvestro,	McCreesh,

PRESENT—2

Kephart,	Shapiro,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I want to explain my vote. If I had not said before that I was not going to participate in congressional reapportionment, I would have voted on this matter, but since I did say that, I am going to play no part in it or vote on it. In addition, Mr. President, I have never liked to participate in jokes on the Senate floor when they are put to a vote. I do not mind a joke, but passing an innocuous resolution when we are in session, dealing with an important problem—I prefer not to vote on what I consider a joke and an innocuous resolution. I suggest we ought to continue this further and now take a vote and see how many people will vote that we shall remove one congressman from Pittsburgh, from Allegheny County, and so on down along the line, and you will then still come back to my father's proposition that two men will always agree to the amount a third shall give to charity.

SENATE TO NOTIFY HOUSE OF SENATE ACTION

Mr. WADE. I want to state to you, my colleagues, I was entirely sincere and I fully believe this is a solution of the problem, and I now move you, Mr. President, that the House be officially notified of our action here.

Mr. GELTZ. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to make a statement in answer to what the gentleman from Cumberland has said. I will make it very brief.

The PRESIDENT. Does the Chair hear objection to the motion? He hears none. The motion prevails and the House will be notified accordingly.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I never had any personal quarrel with Jack Kelly; I never had and do not now have any scars on my escutcheon or whatever you want to call it, because Jack Kelly never fights when a man is running away. I hope I make myself clear. Secondly, I want to say I can have political battles with anybody and not have any disruption of friendship. I think there are very few who have had political battles with Jack Kelly and disrupted friendship.

Third, Mr. President, I want to say I have not talked with Jack Kelly today, since I was back or before I was back. I think the Majority Floor Leader of this Senate knows I told him, when I was told by Senator Walker yesterday that there was going to be adjournment by one, or two, certainly not later than three o'clock, at least to his best information and belief, I made an engagement today with some people who come from a place called Allegheny, a state called Allegheny, and I kept those gentlemen waiting until the last moment and I took a train to keep that appointment, and then I came back on a plane and I did not talk with anybody excepting my secretary, who informed me of the matters that were going on here.

Fourth, Mr. President, I want to say I think the gentleman from Luzerne has got his metaphors mixed. I think when a man soliloquizes he talks to himself, at least that is what happened with Hamlet, and the gentleman said if Jack Kelly makes any more statements it will be a soliloquy. The gentleman from Luzerne knows well that if Jack Kelly makes a statement, he will not be talking to himself.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, on the question of the vote just taken, it may seem a joke to the gentleman from Philadelphia, but it is not a joke to me. I am convinced, after giving the matter some attention, and although the gentleman from Philadelphia has not taken much interest in the matter, I think every man in the Senate knows I have taken a very deep and sincere interest. Mr. President, I said tonight I would not vote to adjourn, I did not care if we stayed here all year, unless we did pass some bill pertaining to apportionment and therefore I did vote "no" on the motion for final adjournment. I voted "no" because I knew we had to come to some agreement, and I still feel we ought to come to some agreement, and I voted for this motion because it is the only way that has been presented to us since we got into this deadlock concerning reapportionment where I can express my opinion. I say that I do not care where you take a Congressman from, one Congressman is not sufficient reason for a horseswap and for a delay in adjournment sine die of this session.

Therefore, Mr. President, I voted to take one out of Philadelphia and I will tell you frankly if I had two in my county, I know the Congressmen and the people from my county would be magnanimous enough to give you one of them.

RESOLUTION EXTENDING INVITATION TO MEMBERS OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO ATTEND SESSIONS OF AMERICAN LEGION

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. MALLERY offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

EXTENDING INVITATION TO MEMBERS OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO ATTEND SESSIONS OF AMERICAN LEGION

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

On August thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth the American Legion, Department of Pennsylvania and the Forty and Eight will hold their annual conventions in the City of Altoona.

August fifteenth will be a most appropriate day upon which to celebrate the first monthly anniversary of the adjournment sine die of this session of the Legislature and there is no better place than Altoona.

Altoona is the center of the rural district of Pennsylvania as well as close to its geographical center. It is the home of the world's largest car shops which are now working at peak capacity, bringing to the city a prosperity that will be richly reflected in the entertainment afforded to visiting Legionnaries and their friends.

The Senators and Members of the House from the County of Blair are desirous of having the Senators and Members of the House of Representatives present in Altoona during these conventions and extend to them a most cordial invitation to attend; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concurs), That the Senators and Members of the House of Representatives of this session of the Legislature shall take advantage of the invitation of the Senators and Members from the County of Blair and attend the convention in Altoona on August thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth as a fitting and proper celebration of this adjournment of this session, if by that time they are thoroughly rested.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

HOUSE MESSAGE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the Committee on Conference on House Bill No. 943, entitled:

An Act to reenact and amend section 441 of the act approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "General County Law" by authorizing boards of county commissioners to appropriate county moneys for the support of charitable hospitals.

had submitted a report, which was defeated.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. WALKER. During the lull before the storm Mr. President, I would like to read into the record the following telegram, received from a very distinguished son of Pennsylvania, Hon. James J. Davis. It is as follows:

"Answering today's inquiry, to fail to agree on reapportionment is a step in the wrong direction; it will prevent the people of the local districts from electing their own representatives and will centralize power instead of localizing it. To localize power is to keep the government in the hands of the people. Representation as provided in the Constitution should be on the basis of population. We should not penalize the sections which have increased in population for those sections which have decreased. The Constitution has stood for 150 years and we can't go wrong sticking to it."

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I desire permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cumberland will proceed.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, on June 10, 1941, at the request of the President Pro Tempore, the Chair appointed a conference committee on the part of the Senate on Senate Bill No. 507. Since that time we have had many meetings. As a matter of fact, I am going to ask my colleagues to allow me to refer to Representative Tate, of the Twenty-sixth District, Representative Shaffer of Philadelphia, Representative Bretherick, and Senators Mundy and Taylor as my roommates instead of my colleagues.

In addition to reporting to this Senate orally at various and sundry times, we reported in writing that we were having difficulty and up to that time had arrived at no agreement. Last evening we asked for an expression by vote of this body as to any method that might be adopted for congressional reapportionment, with which this bill deals. So far I am sorry to report we have been unable to arrive at any satisfactory conclusion, or at least a conclusion on which the conferees could agree.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CONGRESSIONAL REAPPORTIONMENT

Mr. WADE. Therefore, Mr. President, I submit to you our report which states that we are not able to agree and which asks for the discharge of the committee.

The report was read as follows:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

BILLS SIGNED

The PRESIDENT. (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 253, entitled:

An Act relating to members of the bureau of fire in cities of the second class; providing, subject to the approval of the electors, for a three-platoon system for such members, with certain exceptions; providing for an election on such question; and regulating hours of service, hours of rest and annual vacations.

Senate Bill No. 653, entitled:

An Act regulating and improving the civil service of certain departments and agencies of the Commonwealth vesting in the State Civil Service Commission and a Personnel Director certain powers and duties providing for classification of positions adoption of compensation schedules and certification of payrolls, imposing duties upon certain officers and employes of the Commonwealth, authorizing service to political subdivisions of the Commonwealth in matters relating to civil service, defining certain crimes and misdemeanors, imposing penalties, making an appropriation and repealing certain acts and parts thereof.

Senate Bill No. 654, entitled:

An Act to amend sections two hundred two and four hundred fifty-two of the act approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P.

L. 177), entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof, and the administrative departments, boards, commissions and officers thereof, including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools or Teachers Colleges, abolishing, creating, reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments, boards, and commissions, defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers and of the several administrative departments, boards, commissions and officers, fixing the salaries of the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and certain other executive and administrative officers, providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments, boards, and commissions and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments, boards and commissions shall be determined," as amended in order to establish the State Civil Service Commission as a departmental administrative commission in the Executive Department.

Senate Bill No. 1016, entitled:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania enter into the interstate compact to conserve oil and gas with other States of the United States of America, which are signatories thereto.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE APPOINTED ON SENATE BILL No. 507

The PRESIDENT. The President Pro Tempore reappoints Messrs. Wade, Taylor and Mundy, to be the committee on the part of the Senate to consider the differences existing between the two houses in relation to Senate Bill No. 507.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I want to say I was very happy to see reappointed, properly reappointed, the same committee on congressional reapportionment but there are several remarks I want to make before they enter upon their duties.

In February of this year I took a trip, you will remember—I was not in the best of health, to Florida—and on my trip I stopped at the Capitol at Washington, D. C., and at that time I talked with several members of Congress, both Democrats and Republicans, and we at that time talked in probably what you might say just a friendly manner about reapportionment of the state, with regard to Congress.

From time to time I was in touch with various Congressmen from home and various Congressmen throughout the state. It has always been my firm opinion, and it still is, that the so-called Achterman plan was a plan of the nineteen Democratic Congressmen and the fifteen Republican Congressmen, with the exception of two. Up until just three days ago I was closely in touch with several Congressmen in Washington, D. C., and I talked with several of them on the phone and I found out they are at a loss to understand the change of heart of my colleagues on the right side of the House. I just want to make this a matter of record. The Achterman plan was not a plan conceived just by the Democratic members of the House but it was a plan conceived by the members of Congress, both on the Republican and Democratic side.

Before I conclude my remarks I would like to interrogate the Majority Floor Leader, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. Does the gentleman from Allegheny think the fact that in the so-called Achterman plan, in which Bucks and Montgomery Counties are put into one, with Mr. Pew the political leader in one county and Mr. Grundy the political leader in the other and that they would have to oppose one another for their respective Congressmen, does the gentleman from Allegheny think that may be holding up the reapportionment plan?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I know very little about the political situation in the eastern part of the state; I have enough difficulty trying to keep my fingers on the political situation in my own Senatorial District.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I do not think the gentleman from Allegheny has answered the question at all. I ask: do you think, Senator Geltz, the fact that Senator Grundy is the Republican political leader in Bucks County, and Mr. Pew is the Republican political leader in Montgomery, and Bucks County is a smaller county that they would have to accommodate, and that at the present time they have a Republican Congressman, that may be one of the reasons why the Republican side of this Senate will not agree that this is a fair proposition.

Mr. GELTZ. I answered that question the first time, Mr. President.

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I have an announcement to make. I have been informed that the manager of the Harrisburger Hotel has made a statement that if we are still in session at Christmas time the dinner will be on the house. Undoubtedly when the Penn Harris, the Bolton and the other hotels hear that they will be at our disposal at Christmas time.

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for ten minutes.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cumberland will proceed.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a committee report but before making this report, Mr. President, which is a report of the second conference committee appointed on Senate Bill No. 507, I would ke to take the time and tax the patience of the members f this Senate for just a moment, and I assure you it will ot be long.

This is the second conference committee which has een appointed in reference to Senate Bill No. 507. The rst conference committee held repeated meetings for a eriod of thirty-seven days. There was a second conference ommittee appointed and the second one lasted about irty-seven minutes.

Now, Mr. President, we have met and I assure every ember of this body that we have made an honest and renuous effort to reach some conclusion. Any remarks at I might make about the members of this conference ommittee are not directed at our colleague, Dr. Mundy, ho has tried hard with us, with Senator Taylor and Mr. runner and Mr. Bretherick, who was on the other com- ittee, to reach some conclusion and to arrive at a sound lution of this very contentuous problem.

I want to tell this body that we have offered proposi- on after proposition and counter proposition after counter roposition, without going into that in detail, as it has been iscussed here on the floor repeatedly, and you are well ware of the reports that we have submitted to this body o that you could decide for yourselves from the infor- ation given what would be a fair and honest solution to e problem.

Mr. President, this body by a vote of thirty-three to wo approved the plan we had so frequently considered, f taking one congressional district from the City of Phila- elphia.

We felt all the time in our conference committee that here were some conferees in there who were not speak- ng for themselves, but were merely messenger boys arrying word back to somebody else, and the charges at a certain gentleman from Philadelphia was making ecisions looked very suspicious to me. I might say at the actions of these conferees looked very much as hough they were pages of some political boss.

I am very happy to say to this body that from the very rst day the conference committee was appointed, the epublican caucus delegated the duty to Senator Taylor nd myself to find a solution, advising us that they would gree with our solution.

Is that right, Senator Taylor?

Mr. TAYLOR. Right.

Mr. WADE. Now, Mr. President, without further ado want to make to this body, and to you, Mr. President, report and ask for the discharge of the second conference ommittee.

It resembles the former one, the report made earlier in his legislative day, with the exception that at the top are yped the words "Second Report," and I submit it to ou, Mr. President, and to the members of this Senate and ove you that it be adopted.

The report was read as follows:

SECOND REPORT

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL No. 507

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

We, the undersigned Committee of Conference on the art of the Senate for the purpose of considering Senate ill No. 507, hereby submit our report to the effect that we have failed to agree and respectfully request the discharge of the Committee.

GEORGE N. WADE,
M. HARVEY TAYLOR,
LEO C. MUNDY,
(Committee on the part of the Senate.)

MOTION TO ADOPT REPORT

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I move that the report be adopted.

Mr. TAYLOR. I second the motion.

Mr. MUNDY. I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. STIEFEL. I am not going to bore this Chamber with a long speech. I simply want to take exception to the remarks made by the gentleman from Cumberland in his attempt to pin responsibility upon a certain leader, who has been repeatedly attacked for the last few days. It is exteremely unfair, it is bringing coal to New Castle.

Mr. President, there were several propositions made, and why, of all the propositions that were made, there should be the selection of Philadelphia as the sufferer I can not see. There is probably responsibility placed on many other shoulders and it is unfair to pin it on one.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I am going to vote "aye" on the motion to discharge this committee. I would like to have this opportunity to say a few words. I may go a little afield, but I will be as brief as possible and give you my version of what is going to happen.

Up until this time, Mr. President, I have never missed a session of this Legislature since the session of 1935. We are coming to a point now, Mr. President, where many a member, including myself, will be compelled to vote, not because his conscience tells him to vote but because his body tells him to vote. I can not stand here much longer. I have been here since nine o'clock this morning. Some members might have known what time they were going to convene and had a chance to go back home and rest up but I have not; I have hung around these halls all day. This is my twelfth day and I can truthfully state I am not in a position to stay much longer. This is an endurance test. I, like many others before this night is over, will be compelled to vote with anybody to get out of it. That vote will be unfair to myself and unfair to my constituents, but if it is an endurance test, I can not stand by much longer. I think we should take this vote and then adjourn sine die or at least be human about it, gentlemen, leave us go back home, rest up mentally and physically and come back here and vote with a clear conscience, because I am very fearful that many a vote will be cast with any majority just to enable that member to go back home, and when he goes back home and comes back to his normal senses he will regret forever the vote he cast, and I am fearful I will be one of those men.

We have spent weeks and weeks here trying to enact legislation for labor, forty-four hours a week, and we put in twenty-four hours a day. I say very humbly—I do not expect to change one mind, but I make my appeal to you gentleman to be sane about this situation. After this vote is taken, if you leaders feel down within your hearts we can not adjourn tonight, why not be fair about it and leave us go back home after this twelfth day and let us come back next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to meet once again, with a clear conscience, when we will be mentally fit to cast our votes.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

MOTION THAT SENATE RECEDE FROM ITS FURTHER INSISTANCE FROM SENATE NON-CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS TO SENATE BILL No. 507

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now recede from its non-concurrence in House amendments to Senate Bill No. 507, entitled:

An Act to apportion the State into congressional districts.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. GELTZ. May I first explain, Mr. President, it is necessary in order to have the proper legislative procedure, that certain motions be made, as the President has stated, before Senate Bill No. 507 can be back where it can be voted upon.

The PRESIDENT. This is a sort of untangling process.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise on a parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will proceed.

Mr. HALUSKA. Is it not a fact, Mr. President, if we vote to recede automatically we adopt the bill as it is, by so receding from our non-concurrence I am under the impression we adopt the bill as it passed the House.

The PRESIDENT. If this motion prevails the question then before the Senate will be will the Senate agree to the bill as amended by the House.

Mr. HALUSKA. Of course the Chair is a better parliamentarian than I am, but it seems to me and I am under the impression once we vote to recede from our position, we have adopted the bill as passed by the House.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair wants to make this plain. It is rather a complicated situation. Senate Bill No. 507 is a Senate bill which was sent to the House and the House amended the bill; it came back to the Senate and the Senate non-concurred in the House amendments; the bill went back to the House and the House insisted on its amendments; the bill came back to the Senate and the Senate insisted on its non-concurrence.

In order that the bill may be before the Senate on final passage, as amended by the House, this motion must be made.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, so that each member may express his views I now ask for a roll call, so that each member will have an opportunity to vote his own opinion and be on record as to whether he agrees to recede or not.

The PRESIDENT. That is the privilege of every member. The roll will be called.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not care how we vote but I just want to call attention to one thing; I do not want the vote contested later. If the decision of the Chair is final in matters of this kind—I am not well enough versed in parliamentary law concerning a bill after it leaves this Chamber—but I have tried to be pretty well versed in parliamentary law as we practice it in this Chamber.

If the decision of the Chair is final, and I want to be informed on that point—is the position of the Chair in this matter final and does the reverse of the Chair's decision affect the vote on this particular motion.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland repeat his interrogation?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, this is a motion that the Senate recede from its position of non-concurrence in House amendments. The Chair has ruled that a vote upon this motion does not affect the final passage of the bill, because we still must accept the House amendments. If that decision is final I will sit down.

The PRESIDENT. It is.

Mr. DENT. And, Mr. President, no one can contest that decision?

The PRESIDENT. Any legislative body may appeal from a decision of the Chair.

Mr. DENT. I did not mean that, Mr. President, do not get me wrong. I mean, after a vote is taken, without an appeal by any member of this body, no other agency can contest the Chair's decision.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. DENT. That is all I wanted to know, Mr. President.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. COLEMAN. I rise on a parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will proceed.

Mr. COLEMAN. May I ask the Chair what the ruling is on the question of whether or not, if we vote for this bill, we are not voting for a proposition which is tantamount to agreement with the Achterman Bill and no further action is necessary on the part of the Senate? There seems to be some doubt.

The PRESIDENT. There is further action on the part of the Senate. The position of the Chair is that if this motion is adopted, the question then before the Senate will be on the bill on final passage as amended by the House.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I submit that this morning, or rather yesterday, which was the legislative day of July 15, we had a similar situation with reference to House Bill No. 931, which was a bill that set a ceiling on the vocational school district tax. Rather than throw the bill into a conference committee the Senate receded from its non-concurrence in House amendments and the House was so notified and the bill was then dispatched to the Governor.

I maintain we are practically in the same position and cordingly, to be consistent I believe that the Chair ight to rule that in the event this motion is adopted it tantamount to agreement with the amendments inrted by the House. I can see no other position, Mr. resident, but that the bill then goes back to the House ith instructions that the Senate has receded from its osition, and I take the position that in that event its ext move would be to be placed on the desk of the overnor.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, so that there will be no isunderstanding, if that is possible, I understand the osition of the Chair to be, in order to place this bill in position to be voted on by this body, as amended by ie House, it is necessary that the steps which were ken heretofore be reversed.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. GELTZ. And following that in its logical sequence, Ir. President, I take it that the first motion which I ade, if carried, must be followed by a second motion, the effect that the Senate recede from the Senate's on-concurrence in the House amendments.

The PRESIDENT. That is the position the Chair takes. owever, the Chair is willing to consider an appeal.

Mr. GELTZ. And, Mr. President, do I understand furer that the next step would be to vote as to whether ie bill would be passed as amended by the House.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. GELTZ. In other words, Mr. President, so that we nderstand it clearly, the vote which will decide whether r not Senate Bill No. 507 is to be passed as amended by ie House will be the third step in this procedure.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to have the eading Clerk read the motion submitted by the Floor eader.

(The motion was read by the Reporter).

(The Senate was at ease.)

The PRESIDENT. The Chair has been in conference vith members of both parties and we are now of the pinion we have arrived at a proper procedure, which vill be clear to everybody and which will be constiutional.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I withdraw the motion I nade, with the permission of the seconders, Mr. Taylor nd Dr. Mundy.

The PRESIDENT. The motion is withdrawn.

MOTION THAT SENATE RECEDE FROM ITS NON-CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS TO SENATE BILL No. 507

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate ecede from its non-concurrence in the House amendnents and concur in the House amendments to Senate Bill No. 507.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, at this time I want to say that I am going to vote "no" on this motion because I am not in favor of the House amendments.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President and members of the Senate, there is no one in the Senate or in the state that wants congressional apportionment more than I do, a fair congressional apportionment. In what I am going to say, I want you to understand certain things, first, that this is not a personal matter with me. I am not a candidate for Congress, never was and hope I will never be, but I am speaking for the Congressional district coextensive with the Senatorial district I represent.

Mr. President, the population of Berks County is 241,000. We had a gain in population within the last decade of almost ten thousand. We are perhaps a peculiar county in that there may not be another county in the state made up exactly the same way, and we feel that we should have our own Congressman, as we have had in the last ten years, to cover all of the business and industrial interests of our county properly.

We have no quarrel with Lehigh County; we are friends and we speak the same language; we sing the same songs and we eat the same kind of food. We like Lehigh County, but we feel that in this instance we want to be a separate district as we have been in the last ten years.

We have heard a great deal of this congressional apportionment being on a population basis. We know that the Constitution says so, but we also know that no apportionment that we have had, either Congressional or Senatorial or House of Representatives, has been on a population basis purely. It is purely a political question and I think, under these amendments and the bill as it originally passed the Senate, I want to analyze the bill from the view point that I honestly believe the average citizen who has not been in the heat of this fray will look upon the two bills.

First of all, Mr. President, we will take the Democratic Bill, the Achterman amendments which we are voting on tonight. In these two bills there are seven counties affected. Berks and Lehigh are merely innocent victims. They are like the bystander at a fight who gets hit on the nose. Then you have the other five counties, Bucks, Montgomery, Philadelphia, Allegheny and Luzerne. When you analyze the political picture you will find in Bucks County you have Mr. Grundy, in Montgomery County you have Mr. Pew, in Philadelphia County you have Mr. Kelly; in Allegheny County you have Mr. Lawrence; and in Luzerne County you have Mr. Mundy. I am sure every one will agree that those five men are the outstanding political leaders of their parties in their particular sections of the state; I do not think that will be questioned.

Now, Mr. President, when we take the Achterman amendments, that is a proposition from the Democratic side to mix up Mr. Grundy and Mr. Pew. Each of them now have and are able from their political power to control—I do not say they control their vote but they have the power to elect the Congressman that wants to serve in that district. The Democratic plan is to mix those two Republican leaders up, to take one of them out of the picture.

Now, when we take the Republican Bill, we find we have three Democratic leaders in the tangle, Mr. Kelly from Philadelphia, Mr. Lawrence from Allegheny, and Senator Mundy from Luzerne. I believe that it was good political strategy on the part of the Republicans to put Allegheny and Luzerne County into the bill, because then they had something to trade in a compromise, and my experience in thirteen sessions of the Legislature has taught me that there is a great deal of trading being done here in every session. We have done it here night and day and we are going to do the same thing in future sessions, and it was a good strategical opportunity on the side of the Republicans to mix the three outstanding Democratic leaders in the state up in this.

I feel, Mr. President, that the only solution to this problem is to dispassionately think it over and perhaps let some of the people back home who do the voting and the tax paying think it over, and let them talk to us and then select a district in Pennsylvania on a fifty-fifty proposition, that is, will the Democrats having just as good a chance to elect a Congressman as the Republicans have. We do not have that in this set-up. In Philadelphia naturally the Democrats have the best chance, in Allegheny they have, in Luzerne they have, and in Montgomery, Bucks and Lehigh districts the Republicans have the best chance. If we select a district where each party has an equal chance and eliminate that district and start from there, then we are playing the game politically but we are playing it fair.

In the name of the citizens of Berks County I shall vote against adoption of these amendments. It is not a personal matter, it is not a partisan matter with me. I do not think it can be questioned that in all of the years I have been here that I have not gone down the line for my party, not only in voting, but I have risked my very life for my party. It cost me forty-five days in the hospital for the work I did for my party and I am proud to be a Democrat, but in this instance I am a Berks Countian, first, and I am speaking for the people that I represent here, the people who sent me here, who voted for me, and whom I expect will in the future perhaps vote again for me, and I am bound by my oath of office to make this plea to you now, not to kick our county around.

We are entitled from every standpoint, of 241,000 population, and the argument that was used on the floor, I think perhaps was not very serious, but if it were it would apply just as well to our county that since the defense program has started we have possibly more than 250,000 residents in our county, we are a growing county and we have a right to have our own Congressman. I am pleading for them and I shall vote "no" on the adoption of these amendments. Each of you will vote as you feel you should vote. I am not trying to change your votes. I know that is not done, especially in the wee hours of the morning after a seven month's session. Most of our minds are made up.

My mind is made up by the voters that I represent here.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I would like to say a few words before the vote is taken and to preface my remarks I would like to read from the Harisburg Telegraph a sort of text for my remarks, and I refer every member of the Senate to an article entitled "Freedom is Made of Simple Stuff." Freedom is made of simple stuff, and one of the items of simple stuff is "it is your hot resentment of intrigue, the tilt of your chin, and the tightening of your lips sometimes."

That is what happened to me with regard to congressional reapportionment. I intend to vote against this motion; similarly to the men who have already spoken, I want congressional reapportionment, but I want a fair, equitable and just bill. I have often said that I am proud to be a Republican because the Republican Party stands by its principles. I have heard Senator Shapiro during the session say that he was once a Republican and that he left the Republican Party because at the time all the plans, all the decisions were made in smoke filled rooms and so he left the Republican Party and became what Senator Mundy calls a Hessian fighting in the Democratic Party. Evidently since he became a Hessian in the Democratic Party the system of smoke filled rooms has changed.

When I came down here as a Representative of my district and met the men of this Senate, I was first impressed with the high type of citizen that occupies the seats in this Senate. I am proud that I have been honored by my people back home by being privileged to sit with the gentlemen on both sides of this Chamber; as this session developed I was proud too to find out that a lot of the speeches that have been made in political campaigns about the Republican Party being controlled by bosses from here or there are certainly not true. I was proud of the fact that every question that came up in this Senate was handled individually by free representatives of the counties of Pennsylvania. The Democrats at times poked fun at us for the number of caucuses we held in this session. Those caucuses represented this party, on this side of the Senate, meeting to solve its problems. There were no smoke filled rooms and no cottages at the sea shore where the decisions of this party were made.

I had heard so many speeches about a man by the name of Pew and a man by the name of Grundy running the Republican Party and, being a new Senator, I thought perhaps hands woud be put on my shoulder and voices might be whispering in my ear. I am proud tonight as a Republican to know that did not happen; the only time it has been my privilege to meet those gentlemen was at a dinner given by our Lieutenant-Governor, the Presiding Officer, when leaders of both parties were present. As we went into the closing days of this session and congressional reapportionment became an important matter, I began to see intrigue starting to creep into the Senate and the House of Representatives in regard to that very important measure.

I want congressional reapportionment. My Congressman in my county and the adjoining county of Northumberland, Dr. Ivor Fenton, is one of my closest personal friends and one of my firmest political supporters. He is anxious, of course, too, to have a reapportionment bill and I was just as anxious for the good of all the people of this Commonwealth, but then we found that the House of Representatives had appointed bell boys to carry messages from the conferees to the man whom Dr. Mundy refered to as "the bag man from Philadelphia," and the orders were coming up from Philadelphia or from the sea shore, orders that only one bill was acceptable to the Democratic Party and that bill was the Achterman Bill, and the man who was giving the orders was a politician from the City of Philadelphia, and that under no circumstances would the fairest bill, the taking of one Congressman from a district where the population has decreased to the greatest extent, be acceptable.

That was not the decision of free men of the Pennsylvania Legislature; that was the decision of one man in Philadelphia, playing the members of this Legislature like marionettes on strings from his long distant retreat down on the Atlantic shore.

Then, Mr. President, I thought of that article that I read in the paper and I made up my mind that if one man was going to throttle good legislation, if one man was going to say his will would sway the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I would never vote for a bill of that kind as long as I had breath in my body.

What is this bill? I am not going into the figures involved; they have already been discussed. It is called the Achterman amendment. Leo Achterman, the man whose articles I have read all during the session entitled the Rural Legislator, the champion of the rural counties of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and he is the one who wrote the amendment into this bill to sell the rural counties of Pennsylvania at the behest of Jack Kelly, the city boss from Philadelphia.

This Senate I am proud of, because by a vote of thirty-one to two the men of this Senate, on both sides, showed that no man could control the members of this Senate, but over in the House tonight we saw the whip cracked and we saw Achterman, the champion of the rural counties, take his orders from Jack Kelly, the boss of the city, and there were lined up city and rural legislators refusing to go along with the only fair bill that we had before us.

There is another thing that irritated me with regard to this bill and that is, in the closing days of the session, there was talk that this bill was tied up with the big truck bill, with unemployment compensation, with civil service. Just imagine. Those messages that were going back and forth from the bell boys to the bag man, suggestions were being made that Jack Kelly would let us have a reapportionment bill if certain deals were made with regard to those other pieces of legislation.

That was the situation. Then I began to think of the ideals that I had and the principles that I fought for, and I began to say to myself, as long as that is the kind of a bill that this Senate is being asked to pass, I will vote against it. Jack Kelly or no other boss, either Republican or Democrat, can put his hands on my shoulder and say "this is the way you are going to vote." I am proud to be a member of the Pennsylvania Senate. I was proud when I heard a guide go through here at one time saying to visitors that this was the Senate, we were like unto the House of Lords in the English system and we, the House of Lords, were the greatest deliberative body in the State of Pennsylvania, yes, perhaps in the United States of America. We are to be told we are to pass a bill at the behest of a city leader? Not as long as I can vote "no" on this bill.

So I am proud to say, Mr. President, in the closing hours of this session, I am proud to say as a Republican there has been no boss around this Chamber; I am proud to say too that when I saw Dr. Mundy get up on his feet and courageously take the stand when he realized what was going on behind the scenes, we have shown the people of Pennsylvania that the Pennsylvania Senate stands on its own feet.

They say to us it is going to cost a lot of money if it is necessary to hold a special session of the Legislature. If my vote makes it important or necessary that a special session be called, I will say to the people of my district, I will say to the people of the Commonwealth, the necessity for that special session, the necessity of the expense to the taxpayers of Pennsylvania, belongs in the laps of Jack Kelly and the Democratic Party in the House of Representatives, and I will say further that if we do not have a special session and if the expense of election of Congressmen at large becomes necesary, and if we have the inconvnience of this large ballot we have been told about, then the responsibility for that election of Congressmen at large lies in the laps of Jack Kelly and the Democratic Party.

In conclusion, Mr. President, I want to say that I am going to cling fast to the ideals, the principles, that I believe are important in life. I believe something is either right or is wrong, and when this bill comes in to us in this Senate in the shape it is in, in the career it passed through, I believe it is wrong and I am going to fight for my principles, I am going to believe just like the poet says, that ideals and principles and dreams will last much longer than the cries perhaps of the thirty-three Congressmen who are wailing about failure to pass a reapportionment bill; they will last much longer than anything that we as human beings do today. Our dreams, our ideals and our principles will live forever and I am going to stand by them and close with the lines of the poet that gave me this thought:

"That only a dream is real
That after wood and steel are gone
And flesh and blood are dust
That dream lives on."

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, there have been very few occasions when I have taken the floor of this Senate and asked my colleagues to listen to me, but I feel in this instance and at this late hour, when we are all tired, that I do want to say just a few things about this bill. Of course, there are very likely some members here who will take the attitude that what I am about to say is said selfishly because the bill affects my district. In a measure that is true. On the other hand, I think I can say truthfully that I have not said anything much about this bill or about this problem during its entire course, nor have I tried to influence anyone on this floor because of that selfish interest.

First of all, I should like to say that I want to offer my sincere thanks to the members of this Senate who served on the Committee of Conference, for I think they tried sincerely and honestly to approach this problem with intelligence. I think one of the most refreshing things that have happened during the entire period that I have been privileged to be in this Senate happened on this floor last night, when the gentlemen on the other side recorded themselves as they did, and I think that the members of this Senate are to be congratulated by the entire Commonwealth for having done that.

We are faced with a very serious thing. I can not find fault, even though it affects my district, with men who tonight vote for this bill, because I know that they believe Pennsylvania ought to have some kind of reapportionment, but, on the other hand, we are faced with a problem which is not being met and which has not been met fairly and decently. I am not going to talk about bag men, I am not going to talk about deals. I think we are past the point in this entire problem of talking about those sort of things, and I do not expect that anything that I say here tonight is going to influence one vote, but I do think there are several things that need to be called to the attention of this Senate, maybe not so much to the attention of this Senate as to the leadership that developed this unusual and ugly situation for the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I am mindful of the fact that during the course of this entire session, for many months, we have jokingly been saying that things which have to do with national defense need to be passed and it has become sort of a by-word, if it is for national defense I am for it. Here we are in a world which is faced with everything that is vital to life, men are dying for democracy, men are dying for principle, and in this Commonwealth today we have the spectacle of certain people, a party, putting itself on record that a certain thing must be taken or nothing, and I think it is a shame, I think it is a disgrace, that that situation should have developed.

I want to say now that I could find no fault with any apportionment, even though it affected my own district, if the approach to the thing had been honest, if the approach to the thing had been decent, if the approach to the thing had been an effort to solve the problem.

I know it is all politics but the thing that is bad about it, the thing that is wrong about it, is that the people in politics—and they are the people who run this government, they are the people who make democracy—that the people in politics could not sit down and say, "I will give," but from the very beginning of this thing one side of the political picture in Pennsylvania has said, "You will take what we give you or you will take nothing." It never receded from that position, and although within the past forty-eight hours notice of every kind has been served on that party that if they did not recede from that position that the likelihood would be that this Legislature would adjourn Sine Die without reapportionment, without giving the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that thing to which they are entitled and that thing which the law says they shall have; in the face of that tonight, at this hour, that party stands adamant and will not recede from that position.

I have no quarrel with politics; I have no quarrel with the kind of politics that plays hard; I have no quarrel with the kind of politics that plays for everything that is in the game, but I do quarrel with what people in political parties do, in the face of the situation with which this entire world is confronted, I have fault to find with the people in politics who say "I will not give." That is the harmful part of this situation, to hear that said by the leadership on the other side, that this thing had to be taken or there would not be anything.

There is no use tonight talking about population figures; there is no sense in telling this Senate that a man who will run in a congressional district, in the Berks—Lehigh district, if that man lives in the lower end of Lehigh County he will have to campaign almost all the way here to Harrisburg; there is no sense, rhyme nor reason in discussing that thing but I want to say this, that the people who are responsble for this situation certainly will never be able decently to face the people of this Commonwealth at a time like this, when democracy is on trial, when fair play, when decency are the things the people are interested in.

I want to remind, if I may, the people who are responsible for this thing that it may be that they in turn will pay the price for not having thought and considered, because the rural people of this Commonwealth, the farmers, the people who live in the rural districts, sometime soon may rise up and show their resentment of the kind of thing that shows that the control of these situations must lie in our big cities in Pennsylvania, and sometime the people of this Commonwealth soon will probably resent the attitude taken by the people in politics who today ought to be thinking of government and making it as good as it can be gotten.

My notion of these things is when you come to these situations there ought to be some giving and taking, but this situation was approached wrongly in its inception; it never had a chance to become decent, despite the fact that there was effort after effort made to bring it about, and I certainly am going to be obliged to vote against this bill.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in the almost, dawn of a new day, I believe every man in this Senate is tired. I do not think speeches will make much difference now. I want to keep the memory of this session close to my heart. Although perhaps the newspapers say that we have not had much success, considering the events as they are transpiring all over the world, with nations fighting each other and innocent people being killed, it is no wonder to me as a young man that perhaps we have not had quite the easy method of fulfilling our duties here as we have had in the past. The whole world is in a turmoil, normal brains are not functioning as they should and we too, perhaps, are a little tired during this last week, this last night, this last dawn of this session but I want to carry back with me happy memories of enjoyable half-hours and fifteen minutes and even two or three minutes, when members on both sides of this Senate foregathered in the back room, which is ours, and talked freely to one another. I can remember I went in not so long ago when in a very jovial spirit the good gentleman from Germantown, whom I have not always agreed with, Dr. Woodward, and Spencer Edmonds, from Montgomery, with their arms around each other's shoulders were singing "He's a jolly good fellow," when Senator Shapiro walked into the room. I remember that because I know that deep down there is no resentment in the hearts of any of the members of this session.

Now, Mr. President, in coming to this last final action, and perhaps for some of the members of the Senate it may be their final legislative action when we come to it let us try to do it in a cold dispassionate manner.

I am not sure that what I am doing is right; however, I am sure that if I do not do it, it is wrong. I voted last night and I would vote tonight to remove a member of Congress from the County of Philadelphia, because I said on the floor and I repeat again that I would rather vote to remove a Congressman from any district in Pennsylvania, rather than have the people of Pennsylvania saddled with the uncertainty of an election at large of the congressmen in this state. It is too important a question to be dealt with on purely a gambling basis. No man in this room is more sincere in seeing to it that Pennsylvania is properly represented in Congress. I do not care whether we lose a Democratic member or whether we lose a Republican member, but I am concerned about losing all thirty-three members, and when I say that I say it because I do not know and you do not know who may be elected to Congress in a congressional election held at large.

Mr. President, I want to stay a few minutes on the floor in order to explain a few things. One is this: I have heard Jack Kelly talked about on this Senate floor. Now, if Jack Kelly is as big a boss as they say he is, I am sure he would recognize the fact that I am a Senator—there are a lot of people in this state, not a lot but a few people, who know I am a Senator, and I am sure Jack Kelly would, and if he knew and recognized the fact that I was a Senator, why would he not talk to me about this bill? He has not said a word to me, Dave Lawrence has not said a word to me and no person in my county outside of my congressman has said a word to me.

So, I am not too disturbed about charges and countercharges, but I will say this, that I hate for one reason and one reason more paramount than others to vote "yes" on this motion. I am going to vote "yes" for many reasons, but I hate to vote for it for one good reason. I hate to hurt a man whom I have known since 1935 when I was a young boy over in the House, a man who was my floor leader and a man whom I followed religiously, because I knew he did whatever he did conscientiously and honestly and I would almost suffer anything rather than cast a vote in this Senate that would reflect upon Reverend Ruth, whom I consider a very personal as well as a political friend. I do not like to do this but I also do not like to have my party, of which I am a member, castigated and bandied about because it took the position, as I take it, that it is about right.

Leo Achterman, the majority leader of the House, did not introduce his bill or these amendments solely because he thought they were right. He did so because the men most affected, as I understand it, the congressmen of Pennsylvania, came in a delegation and agreed upon a certain plan, which after all is somewhat of a common sense proposition. There are the men directly affected and as I understand it, all but two members of Congress agreed that this would be a good plan. I do not say here that I agree with that but inasmuch as Leo Achterman introduced his bill and these amendments, let us be fair to him and say that he did so, not at his own behest or his own desire, but he did so at the request and the desire of those most affected.

I want to say also to the members on the Republican side that I am not so sure that you are altogether right, I am not so sure that my party is altogether right, but I am sure of this, that whatever bill for reapportionment comes before this Senate which has a chance to be passed ought to be passed; I say that although I may have to swallow a bitter pill later, and I say that too like the gentleman from Schuylkill, without regard to what the future might bring.

I do not care whether my vote here defeats me in the future for whatever office I may be seeking, if in doing so I think I am doing right, and I believe that I am just as sincere in voting "aye" as the gentleman from Schuylkill is in voting "no." He has his own convictions and I have mine. I am willing to set myself and my own desires aside, if in so doing I may be serving the best interests of the millions of people of the State of Pennsylvania, and I do not want to leave this session with any members of this Senate holding any grudge against another member of this Senate. We have tried in our own way to do an honest job. I also, in passing, want to say that members of this Senate who have been the keepers of our morals, if you please, for seven months, who have told us just what we ought to do and what we ought not to do, are absent tonight from the floor of this Senate, who ought to be in their seats, just like the rest of us. I do not enjoy being here at this hour, I would like to be home with my family, like every other member, but no business of mine, no activity of mine at home is strong enough to take me away from the duty that I must perform as an honest representative of my people, as a Senator in the State of Pennsylvania, and those members who have absented themselves from tonight's session must realize that they are not true, they are not true to the oath of office they took, they are not fair to the people who sent them here, they ought to be here like you and I, to stand up and be counted, one way or another.

Let us who are here tonight now do the best we can with a difficult proposition. It is a difficult problem because there is not a Senator in his seat here tonight, or the members who are absent, who would not be affected by any reapportionment bill, if it is passed. Tonight it happens to be the county of my good friend, Reverend Ruth, the County of my good friend, Jake Tallman, it also happens to be the County of Spencer Edmonds that is affected and I want to say to you, to all of you—I also understand it is the county of Senator James—whether it is their county or my county or any other member's county, you can not take one congressman away from Pennsylvania without affecting some of us.

I do not like this reapportionment bill, because it adds a great burden to the man who is going to represent this district, whether he be Republican or whether he be Democratic; in other words there will be over four hundred thousand souls that he will have to represent.

I do not like the plan but I submit that I voted for what I thought was the better plan, which was turned down by the House, honestly, it was turned down because the House thought in their best judgment, and I do not question the honesty of their judgment, it was turned down by them because they thought it was a wrong plan and now it is our turn; the Senate of Pennsylvania has in its hands the fate of reapportionment. We must decide tonight whether the people of Pennsylvania are going to be subjected to the election of congressmen at large which no man on this Senate floor can predict the outcome of, or whether or not we are going to put aside our own personal desires and our own personal feelings in the matter and vote to give the people of Pennsylvania an opportunity to elect at least thirty-three congressmen of their own choosing. I say that advisedly because although if elected at large they will probably, in a true sense, be the selection of the people of Pennsylvania, they will never under any set of circumstances be the selection of the individuals who live in the prescribed congressional districts and so, Mr. President, I vote "aye" with a heavy heart, but also with a clear conscience in doing what I think to be right for Pennsylvania. I am neither, as the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, said, thinking of Philadelphia first, nor am I as the other gentlemen have said, thinking of their own counties first. I respect their thoughts for their counties and for the districts they represent but I tonight stand before you thinking of Pennsylvania first.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, you will find in my record in the Pennsylvana Senate that I have never risen on the floor to make a personal attack on any Senator, either on my side or the other side of the room, but tonight the reapportionment bill right at this moment is quite important. The paramount issue at this moment is the reputation of my leader, John B. Kelly, and let me tell you right now in a very short statement and let me assure my colleague from Schuylkill, that I have the highest respect for him and do not intend to enter into any debate with him, but I just wish to state and I do not care whether he likes or he does not like it, that if Jack Kelly would tell me to jump into the river I would tell him he was crazy, but anything else that he told me to do I would do, because I respect him as a man and as a public official in the City of Philadelphia and the State of Pennsylvania. Jack Kelly for me represents a man who grew up the hard way, who worked as a bricklayer and then became a great executive and afterwards came into the arena of politics with a richness of integrity and honesty that to me can not be compared. When I came into this game I did so because I was inspired by leadership of Jack Kelly, and if he goes out of the picture I assure you maybe I will go out with him, because in politics you must be inspired by the leadership before you can take a position, and you fellows know on the other side of this Chamber that I vote as I please, but it just happens that this legislation is for the good of the masses, and whether or not I vote for liberal legislation, it is a part of the program.

I have not seen Jack Kelly in months; I have had no reason to see him; he never told me how to vote, but it seems our minds are working together because he is for the little man and I am for the little man. Let me assure you that as I leave this room this morning I have the greatest affection and friendship for the men on this side and that side of the Senate, but for me Jack Kelly means integrity and honesty that can not be touched by anyone.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I should like to sing my swan song, because this is probably the last speech I will ever deliver on the floor of the Senate Chamber.

I would like to combine that with my thoughts on the subject before the members of the Senate. When I was elected to the House of Representatives in 1935, and served in the 1935-1937 session, I developed the ambition to sit in the upper branch of the General Assembly, and I am delighted to come back and report to the members of the Senate that no period of my life's history form a more delightful chapter than my service as a member of this great body. Lackawanna County might have sent down to the Senate of Pennsylvania somebody mentally more fitted and politically better equipped, but they could not have sent down anyone who appreciated more the distinction and the honor of serving in this body, as a member of the Senate, with the finest group of men that I have ever been associated with in any part of the State of Pennsylvania.

Some years ago, Mr. President, when I was a little bit of a tot, somebody took me to listen to Elbert Hubbard, the great philosopher, deliver a lecture in the Y.M.C.A. in the City of Scranton. Hubbard in beginning his speech used a bit of philosophy that I have always tried to use in my association with the members of the Senate, as well as my association with people on the outside. Hubbard walked out onto the massive platform, before a great audience in this meeting on this particular occasion and started out with this thought:

"Would you have friends, be one—would you have friends, be one." And that has always been the impelling force behind my association with the members of the Senate of Pennsylvania. With me, having friends is one of the highest delights in life, and being a good friend one of the noblest undertakings, and I would rather have it truly said of me tonight as I wind up my Senatorial career that I have brought just a little bit of sunshine and joy into several homes where calamity and some despair abound, than to be called the ablest member of the Senate, to have all the money in the world, knowing down deep in my heart I failed to keep faith with my fellowman.

Mr. President, my associations with these men have been most pleasant; my association with these political leaders of the Democratic Party has been all that could be desired, but something developed yesterday on the floor of the Senate that put me in a rather unusual position, and if I do not do anything else in my talk here tonight, this morning, rather, I want to definitely clear the atmosphere of any belief that I might have had something to do with what developed on the floor, and the allegations made by the gentleman from Luzerne, the very militant leader of democracy in that great county, my good friend, Senator Mundy.

Mr. President, when I spoke yesterday about congressional reapportionment, I used the expression "The power behind the throne," but I was very careful to point out that I did not mean any particular party; I want it very definitely understood that I meant both parties, I did not mention any names and I want it clearly understood now that Jack Kelly of Philadelphia is not the gentleman I had in mind. What Mr. Kelly's and Dr. Mundy's quarrel is about, is of course the business of the two gentlemen involved. I have always been a great admirer of Senator Mundy, if for no other reason than his tremendous courage, the fact that he speaks his mind, and the fact that he never asks anybody to join him in a fight; he is very, very well able to take care of his own fights, and therefore what was said here yesterday by Senator Mundy immediately following my reference to the phrase "The power behind the throne" sort of put me in the picture of having agreed with what Senator Mundy said.

Mr. President, 1935 was the first year I ran across Jack Kelly. I was given the assignment of inviting somebody to talk at a testimonial dinner in the City of Scranton, and through the friendship of some Philadelphia members of the House, we secured Jack Kelly, and when I walked into a hotel room in the City of Scranton, that was my first look at this great athlete of the City of Philadelphia. I had wondered how anybody in those days of turmoil and unrest could have captured the hearts and the minds and the imaginations of so many who are Democrats in the City of Brotherly Love, and my first meeting with Jack Kelly gave me that answer. Like thousand of other gentlemen who have met this fellow.

I was immediately caught within the radius of the power of his indescribable personal magnetism, and with a quick trust that impressed me, and then and there developed a friendship between myself and Jack Kelly, and in our work during that association there ripened a deep personal and deep political friendship, and I want to stand up here this morning and say a word in defense of the leader, the Galahad of Democracy, as he has been so aptly termed by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Stiefel.

I do not think anybody on the opposite side has ever questioned my sincerity about my interest in congressional apportionment. It has been brought to my attention that an attempt was going to be made to curb my zeal in this particular proposition by putting me on the spot so to speak. This Legislature has not adjourned sine die, and I am faced with that particular proposition, and the question of congressional reapportionment I think is definitely the most important presented in this session of the Legislature, and I can not stand idly by, as one who was cradled in the Democratic party, and see the opposition come here and place all the responsibility on Jack Kelly of the City of Philadelphia. It may or may not be a coincidence that the bill, the Achterman bill, puts into one district a county in which resides one Joseph Pew, and another county in which resides Joseph R. Grundy, but I have talked to some Republican leaders, and they have advised me that the worst thing that could possibly be done in attempting to reapportion any congressional district was to tamper with Bucks County, that Gibraltar of Republicanism in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I do not think we ought to sit idly by and let them make these charges and let those charges hurled against the gentleman from Philadelphia go by unchallenged. In all of my five or six years acquaintance with Jack Kelly, he has never asked me to vote one way or another on any particular bill. I had one conversation with Mr. Kelly in connection with congressional apportionment and that was some three weeks ago, in which I indicated and said very definitely that so far as I was concerned, I was going to do everything in my power to see that we have a congressional reapportionment bill passed, fairly and honestly reapportioning the congressional districts in the State of Pennsylvania.

Yesterday, Mr. President, in the course of the interrogation of the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, and the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Taylor, when I asked them whether or not they had conferred with any political leaders, their answer was in the negative. It is a little hard for those of us who are practical to believe that this problem was not taken up with the party leaders, and I am frank to say that there is not anything wrong with that, I am frank to say that consultation with leaders of a party is a necessary corollary in the legislative game, and it is hard for me to believe that these gentlemen on the other side did not take into consideration the political aspects and the effect of this bill on the Republican party. I said it then and I repeat now that we would have been far better off if we had met the issue squarely, if we had told the party leaders that we had a responsibility in the State of Pennsylvania, that the power to breathe legislative life into that bill resides within the House and Senate, and that while we sat and conferred with them and accepted their suggestions the impelling force behind our vote ought to be the desire to intelligently and honestly and courageously represent the people in our particular districts. I am glad to stand up here, Mr. President, and in by feeble way take up the cudgels in the defense of Mr. Kelly. I have no idea what instructions, if any, Jack Kelly gave to any of the Philadelphia members of the House and Senate, but I do honestly and conscientiously feel that the Republican leaders in the State of Pennsylvania, and I would be very much surprised if they had not, considered the problem with a view to enhancing the chances of a Republican being elected. I think we ought to be honest in the consideration of this problem. I have confidence in some of the Republicans on the other side of the House who have been very honest in telling me that they felt that their leaders as well as ours had combined, and so I want to definitely make the charge that in the event that this bill dies, I want it clearly understood that my single conviction is that it is a bi-partisan execution and the leaders of both parties undoubtedly have a hand in it.

Mr. President, I share the anxiety, I share the concern of my good friend, Senator Dent, about the rather embarrassing position Reverend Ruth finds himself in, in the consideration of this problem. I served as a member of the House and can attest to his contribution to the Democratic leadership and to the good legislation passed in the 1935 session. Reverend Ruth has always felt that a member of the General Assembly has within him the power to wield the Legislature into an instrument attuned, not to a legislative funeral march but rather to enhance legislative achievement attuned to their needs in response to their will, and to that high ideal he dedicated himself as our majority floor leader in the House of Representatives in 1935.

I honestly think, Mr. President, that we have within our power here now the possibility of settling this particular question. A vote, as I understand it, Mr. President, on this particular motion in the affirmative, if it carries, ends the controversy that has raged in the Senate for six months, and particularly the last four weeks, and puts the bill on the desk of the Governor, and assures ten million people in the Commonwealth that their election machinery will not be broken down, and assures hundreds of thousands of honest voters that they will not be disfranchised by any political or any legislative tricks. The power to breathe legislative life into this bill resides within the members of the Senate, and I for one am going to cast my vote in the affirmative.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, it seems to me rather useless for each of us as we rise to say that we are extremely interested in congressional reapportionment, for the reason that I think it goes without saying that every man in this body who is present tonight is extremely interested in congressional reapportionment.

This government which we have in this great land of ours, Mr. President, is one which is a representative democracy. It is not a true democracy, it is a representative democracy, and it has succeeded and will continue to succeed just so long as it remains a representative democrary. For that reason, Mr. President, coupled with the fact that the world was never in a more chaotic condition than exists today, it is extremely important that we have proper representative government. In order to have proper representative government, Mr. President, there are several things necessary. It is necessary that the ordinary citizens of this land have a voice in choosing their representatives, but that is not all that is necessary. If that were all, Mr. President, we could pass any congressional reapportionment bill so long as the people were permitted to vote. There is a principle in connection with representative government which in my judgment is just as important, if not more important, than a party, and that principle, Mr. President, is to have decent honest and upright representation and that principle, Mr. President, means that those representatives shall represent their people and their constituents and not bow to the lash of any political dictator.

Mr. President, I want to say that this question has gone far beyond any other question which has come before the body of this Senate. This question, Mr. President, takes in a greater territory it takes in a greater principle, it takes in the principle of whether or not the men in this body here tonight are going to represent their people, or are going to kneel to the will of one individual. I want to say, Mr. President, I know the importance of the vote which is to be cast here tonight, and I think everyone of my colleague knows it full well. We have heard in the newspapers of this Commonwealth for months now, the importance of having congressional reapportionment. The newspapers of my city, in Pittsburgh, Mr. President, have carried editorials that they will not forget the individuals down here who do not vote for congressional reapportionment. In other words, Mr. President, we back in Allegheny County have been informed that we had better vote for congressional reapportionment or else. Mr. President, there is not any position that is sufficiently worthwhile that it is worth one's losing his principles; principles stand for things and principles should be the guiding factor in this body tonight.

It was just about twenty-four hours ago that this body went on record, having before it and having had in mind the very matter which is before us tonight, went on record as against this matter and in favor of having a congressional apportionment which took one representative from the City of Philadelphia, with only two dissenting votes.

Mr. President, I know that there has been a great deal of pressure from many sources upon all of my colleagues, if not upon all, upon many of my colleagues. I know in all probability there has been pressure from county chairmen, there has been pressure from the newspapers, there has been pressure, of course, from our present congressmen, and we can not blame any of them to any extent, but pressure does not mean much, pressure is not the important thing; principle is the important thing and I ask all of my colleagues in this body, whether on the left of the Senate or on the right of the Senate, to view carefully all of the circumstances surrounding what is before us at this time, and to view carefully those things which have gone on in this session for the past six months and the manner in which those things were carried out, and I ask that before you vote on this question, that you think carefully, and that you think well, and that you remember that there are things more important than just getting any congressional reapportionment bill, and that one of the things which is much more important is that you retain your principles so that you can always look the other fellow in the eye and walk along with your head in the air, because you have done your duty in an honest, decent and upright manner.

Mr. LETZLER. Mr. President, and members of the Senate, I want very briefly to state my position on this important issue. As I see it, it is evident that a vote on this issue will result in one of three propositions. In the first place, it will result in forcing us to elect thirty-three congressmen at large; it in the second place can result in the calling of a special session for the purpose of giving consideration to congressional reapportionment; in the third place it can result in now giving to the people of Pennsylvania a bill that will permit congressional reapportionment at this time.

With respect to the first proposition I want to say this, that coming from a rural county and representing two rural counties, I can not vote for anything that in any way might make it possible to elect congressmen at large We want to select and elect men from our own county, men whom we know, men whose qualities we are acquainted with, and men we feel are willing to represent us in the Congress of the United States. In addition to that, Mr. President, we are well aware of the fact that if we permit this to take place the election machinery in many places will be much upset.

That is the first reason that I offer for voting "aye" on this bill tonight.

The second reason is that we may then be faced with the call for a special session. I feel that the people of Pennsylvania at this time have a right to expect us to settle this question. We are now well through the seventh month of our stay here. This is one of the problems that has been facing us for many weeks and I can not make myself think that the people of Pennsylvania want us to leave here without settling this matter, and for that reason I am going to vote for this bill. As to who shall bear the blame for the kind of bill we have before us, for the measure that now is before us and the kind of representation, as to who shall bear this blame, I contend that I am willing to rest the case with the people of Pennsylvania. They are well able and will judge if this final settlement of the matter is a fair one, and I believe that they will judge it fairly. I am, however, in any event compelled to say that in doing that we have performed a duty that I feel we have been called upon to perform. I am going to vote "aye" on the amendment.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I feel I would be remiss in my duty if I failed to say a few words with regard to this important bill. Sometimes I feel probably I should not vote at all, because neither party gave any consideration to my district, which is one of the greatest and largest in Pennsylvania. I come from an urban county. I was elected a Democrat and my friends back in my county, both Democratic and Republican, made one request of me, that I would fight for some reapportionment bill that would take from Cambria County, or rather, the Twenty-seventh District, one of the four counties which we now have.

I am in sympathy with my colleague from Berks County, Reverend Ruth, because now you are placing him in the same position you placed my county ten years ago, when you came to central Pennsylvania, Cambria County, and you added to that district Indiana, Jefferson and Armstrong Counties. I had hoped at this session that you would give us some relief and I am disappointed very much that neither party paid any attention to my district, and so I have got to go back home and explain to my people my position, whether I voted "aye," "no" or "present."

I am here now for the twentieth hour of this day, waiting to get this opportunity to put myself on record as to how I feel. Last night I had an opportunity to vote with the Republican Party, when they introduced a resolution voicing their opinion as to how they felt. I voted with the majority because I felt that they were right. They passed that opinion over to the House and they did not agree with our thoughts over here.

I am very much interested, naturally, as has been said by my good friend from Clearfield, Mr. Letzler, that something should be done. I am going to vote and I want to put this statement on the record in the event this bill should fall, that I do not think the Democratic Party will have any right at any time to go out through this Commonwealth and blame it on the Republican Party. The Republican Party in this Senate has acted fairly. Why do I say that? Because I have the utmost faith in the conferees, Mr. Wade, Mr. Taylor and Dr. Mundy. I have been guided by their opinions, by their decisions and they have striven hard to bring about some solution.

I am happy the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, made a motion to recede from the position taken prior to this time, and I am going to vote for this bill only with the thought that it will save the breaking down of our election boards next year, and I am voting for it because, whether Mr. Geltz votes for it or not, that makes no difference, but he has been fair in making that motion to give each and every member the right and the privilege to cast his own vote. I say that if this bill fails the Governor of Pennsylvania can not be criticized for calling a special session; it will be his duty to call us in session and keep us here until we agree, because tonight we are voting, as I said before, not as we want to in this matter, but because no longer can we stay here.

I am voting now because my body tells me to vote, not my mind, and I am probably not responsible for my vote, but I can not stay here any longer. I have been in these halls over twenty hours today and I think that is enough for any man wishing to bring about a solution. I am voting "aye" and I say to you, the gentlemen on the right side of this House, if this bill falls, you can go home and hold up your heads and say you have done the best you could with the tools you had.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, before this discussion on this bill closes I think that a short statement, and I assure you it will be short, is in order, concerning the decision of the joint committee on Congressional Reapportionment.

We have heard this evening from the genial gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator Coleman, and in his interrogation last night he asked Senators Taylor, Mundy and myself whether or not we consulted wiht party leaders and I answered in the negative to certain ones he mentioned, who have been openly accused here on the floor this evening, but I answered in the affirmative that I had consulted a well known political leader a Senator in this body, Senator Taylor, and I might add to that this, even in this morning hour, that I have also consulted various and sundry political leaders who sit in this body as Senators from the different districts of the State of Pennsylvania.

As a matter of fact, Mr. President, I think that I have consulted, and I believe this is an honest statement, with every member of the Senate regarding congressional reapportionment and I feel very strongly as we close this debate and get ready for a vote on this bill that someone has been far amiss in their duties to the people of Pennsylvania or very adamant in their decisions that they will not permit the members of both the House and the Senate to have before them a bill ready for passage that is honest and a just and fair solution to the problem.

However, Mr. President, I offer this volume of gathered information, and I would like to have it read into the record, but I am not going to be so unfair as to ask that it be done, because it would cause an endless amount of printing. First is a statement showing the present ratio in the entire United States and the new Pennsylvania ratio and along the left hand column are the different Congressional districts of the State of Pennsylvania, the present incumbents and the population of their districts, and the districts are arranged in the order of their population, starting with the smallest and proceeding through the thirty-four to the largest, giving also the territory comprising each district.

Second, I offer you a similar statement which has been prepared by my office, giving in addition the political subdivision of the present incumbent, the county or the town in which he resides, the amount his district is under the ratio or the amount his district is over the ratio.

Third, I offer here some seven different plans with the figures, combining certain districts throughout the State of Pennsylvania.

Fourth, I offer several plans such as this one, where you can see the districts have been cut in every possible manner.

Fifth, a general map of the State of Pennsylvania. I am indebted to the Post Gazette of Pittsburgh for some 125 maps.

Sixth, a statement from the Department of Commerce, the Bureau of Census at Washington, giving the population of every city over ten thousand, and of every city and town under ten thousand and, in addition, the population of each Congressional District, each voting district.

Seventh. A statement showing redistricting of the County of Allegheny, giving numerous and sundry figures in connection with the election district.

Eighth. A redistricting of the City of Philadelphia in four different ways.

Ninth. Pennsylvania voting statistics for the years 1932, 1934, 1936, 1938 and 1940 from each and every one of the thirty-four Congressional districts.

Tenth, a tabulation of the Philadelphia wards, up to and including the fifty-first, together with the registered vote.

Also various and sundry other papers, as you will notice. I am not asking that they be written into the record, but I am proving to you that we took these things, we duly examined all that information, and the conclusion that was made was that one district should be taken out of the City of Philadelphia, which proposition was placed before this body and carried by an overwhelming majority as a fair one, and a just one, a proper solution to the problem.

This bill, which originated in the Senate, was amended in the House.

As the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, has said, he will vote for it but he does not believe that it is a proper solution. He pointed out that he thinks it would cause a cumbersome condition as far as the election machinery is concerned, and I maintain, my fellow members of the Senate, that it is not the physical properties of the election machinery that is at stake here tonight, it is the principle, as explained by the gentleman from Schuylkill, with which we must assert ourselves one way or another.

I ask you therefore, my colleagues of the Senate, to hold to that principle, to hold to a fair distribution of these districts throughout the State of Pennsylvania, do not be stampeded into voting for this bill as amended, as butchered, by the House but hold fast to your principles as we close this legislative session.

I say further, Mr. President, that the Republican Party is quite similar to the father and the Democratic Party occupies the position of the mother, as they went upstairs to the bed room of the little child, and there they sat admiring and looking at the sleeping child, as it was peacefully sleeping and slumbering, and the mother was entertaining fond hopes for the future of that little child, and she turned to her husband and said:

"Well now, which college will he attend?

Will he occupy a place in public life of his state or nation?

What will become of him; what will he be?

A prominent physician or a lawyer or what not?"

And she looked up to her husband and said, "John, what do you think?" and John answered—and I say John occupies the position of the Democratic Party—John, looking down into the child's face said, "I wonder how in the world Sears, Roebuck sells cribs like this for $3.75."

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDENT. The question is shall the Senate recede from its non-concurrence in House amendments; those voting "aye" vote for concurrence in the House amendments, those voting "no" vote against concurrence in the House amendments.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—20

Barr,	DiSilvestro,	Jaspan,	Mundy,
Chapman,	Ealy,	Letzler,	Snowden,

Less than a constitutional majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the negative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE TO STUDY AND REPORT RECOMMENDATIONS FOR CONGRESSIONAL REAPPORTIONMENT OF PENNSYLVANIA DISTRICTS

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. DENT offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

Whereas, The General Assembly having failed to date to pass a Congressional Reapportionment Bill, and,

Whereas, it is imperative that some study be made in order that the same stalemate shall not reoccur, be it therefore,

Resolved (if the House concur), That a Committee of ten Members be named, five by the President Pro Tempore and five by the Speaker of the House, to study this problem and report to the next regular or special session of the legislature with recommendations for a reapportionment of the Congressional districts of the State of Pennsylvania.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the Resolution?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I do not believe there is any need for further action by either side of the House. I think we have tried our very best to come to some reasonable, at least some final conclusion in the matter. Therefore I believe that any further delay in adjournment sine die would be a further waste of time, energy and common sense, but in order that we may prepare for an equitable solution of the problem at some later date, I have offered to the Chair a Resolution and ask that the members of the Senate give it their serious consideration in order that we may consider the resolution at this time.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the Resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the House of Representatives be notified accordingly.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I am just wondering whether that resolution will benefit us when and if we come back for a special session, and if we do not come back for a special session, naturally the election machinery of this state will be thrown into chaos, no question about that.

Like I think everyone in this body, I have important duties at home but I am content to pass them by and stay here, and I am asking if there are not two men in this Senate that voted "aye" on the House concurrent resolution that we adjourn sine die at 11:45 this Tuesday evening, if they will change their vote to reconsider the vote by which that resolution passed.

Mr. COX. I second that, Mr. President.

RESOLUTION CALLED FROM TABLE

Mr. COX. Mr. President, anticipating this action in the Senate this evening, I yesterday presented a resolution which by consent of all the members of the Senate was laid on the table. That resolution memorialized the President of the United States and Congress to pass what is known as the Weiss Resolution in Congress, which would have the effect of leaving up to the Census Director of the United States the question of reapportionment in Pennsylvania.

RESOLUTION "MEMORIALIZING PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS TO ENACT INTO STATUTE HJ RESOLUTION 207" CALLED UP FROM TABLE

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I now call from the table Resolution, Serial No. 139, which was introduced by Messrs. Dent, Coleman, Barr and myself, and laid on the table.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The Resolution was read as follows:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

Whereas, The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has been unable to agree to a proper plan for reapportioning the various Congressional Districts of the Commonwealth in disregard of a constitutional mandate so to do; and

Whereas, The failure to reapportion the Congressional Districts in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will lead to great expense and a breakdown in the election machinery of the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, Congressman Samuel Weiss has introduced in the Congress of the United States of America HJ Resolution 207, which, if enacted into a law, will permit the Director of the United States Census to reapportion the Congressional Districts of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania if the General Assembly of Pennsylvania fails to reapportion the Congressional Districts; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), It is the intention and desire of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the President of the United States and the Congress of the United States be memorialized, and they are so memorialized to enact into a statute HJ Resolution 207.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

Mr. COLEMAN. I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—13

Barr,	DiSilvestro,	McCreesh,	Mundy,
Coleman,	Haluska,	McGinnis,	Ruth,
Cox,	Jaspan,	McQuiddy,	Stiefel,
Dent.

Bartlett,	Ealy,	Miller,	Thomas,
Becker,	Farrell,	Scarlett,	Wade,
Carr,	Geltz,	Snowden,	Walker,
Chapman,	Heyburn,	Stevenson,	Watkins,
Crider,	Homsher,	Tallman,	Wilson, H. I.,
Crowe,	Letzler,	Taylor,	Woodward,
Deitrick,	Mallery,

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, it was with great reluctance that I introduced this resolution, solely because of the fact I thought the necessity of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the redistricting of congressional districts was so great that no matter what we would do that secured that desired end would be worth doing. I feel, and I know all the members of the Senate feel, it is not the duty of Congress of the United States or the Census Director to redistrict the Congressional districts of Pennsylvania, it is our duty, I certainly hope that your vote in defeating this resolution is an indication that prior to the next Congressional election the Assembly of Pennsylvania is going to do its duty and we are going to arrive at some reasonable, proper and fair redistricting of the Congressional districts of Pennsylvania.

HOUSE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION EXTENDING INVITATION TO MEMBERS OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO ATTEND SESSIONS OF AMERICAN LEGION

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced informed the Senate that the House has concurred in Resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

On August thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth the American Legion, Department of Pennsylvania and the Forty and Eight will hold their annual convention in the City of Altoona.

August fifteenth will be a most appropriate day upon which to celebrate the first monthly anniversary of the adjournment sine die of this session of the Legislature and there is no better place than Altoona.

Altoona is the center of the rural district of Pennsylvania as well as close to its geographical center. It is the home of the world's largest car shops which are now working at peak capacity, bringing to the City a prosperity that will be richly reflected in the entertainment afforded to visiting Legionnaires and their friends.

The Senators and Members of the House from the County of Blair are desirous of having the Senators and Members of the House of Representatives present in Altoona during these conventions and extend to them a most cordial invitation to attend; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concurs), That the Senators and Members of the House of Representatives of this session of the Legislature shall take advantage of the invitation of the Senators and Members from the County of Blair and attend the convention in Altoona on August thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth as a fitting and proper celebration of this adjournment of this session, if by that time they are thoroughly rested.

REPORT OF JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE ADMINISTRATION OF CIVIL SERVICE IN THE DIVISION OF UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I would like to present a report of the Joint Legislative Committee on the Administration of Civil Service in the Division of Unemployment Compensation and Employment Service, and in connection with that I should like to express my very sincere thanks to the members of that committee, who spent much time and very serious and sincere effort in trying to ferret out the truth of a situation which has been both complexing and one which has created much discussion in the Commonwealth, and a situation that has caused great difficulty in the relationship of certain officials of the Commonwealth with the Federal Government. I should like to make just a brief statement at this time in connection with that work.

As chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee created to investigate the administration of Civil Service in the Division of Unemployment Compensation and Employment Service, I desire to present a brief resume of the work performed by the committee.

It was decided at the outset, to investigate every phase of the Civil Service program, this necessitated the examination of every step in the procedure from the receipt of the applications by the Board of Review until appointments were made by the Secretary of Labor and Industry.

Because of the large number of applications filed, approximately 73,000, it was impossible to investigate each one; however, the policy was adopted of spot-checking applications in every class of position. In certain classes of positions where the number of appointees was small, a check was made of the records of all those appointed as well as those on the eligible lists. In these cases the applications were scrutinized, comparisons were made with the evaluation charts, verifications of the educational and work records of the applicants were confirmed and personnel action sheets were checked to verify the appointments.

Taking into consideration the magnitude of the job required of the first Board of Review in setting up and giving the Civil Service examinations, the Committee found no grave fault with this phase of the program, it was the procedure adopted in the intervening steps between the giving of the tests and the final appointments by the Secretary of Labor and Industry that disclosed a definite need of improvement.

These findings show the need of legislative action to correct possible abuses either upon the part of an applicant for position or by those entrusted with the administration of the law.

In its report the Committee made definite recommendations both of a legislative and administrative nature.

The Committee believes the enactment of its legislative recommendations together with the adoption of its administrative recommendations will go far to improve the civil service system in the Division of Unemployment Compensation and Employment Service.

The Committee also expressed the opinion, however, that the real improvement of the system depends to a great extent upon the adoption and pursuit of sound policies and methods of those administering it.

There is one further thing I would like to point out. I believe a great many of the difficulties pointed out in that report will be corrected by the enactment and passage of Senate Bills Nos. 653 and 654. It is to be hoped when the commission under Senate Bill 654 is established and civil service begins to function, that all of those evils may be entirely eliminated.

Copies of the report will be available on the desks of the Senators within a few moments.

The PRESIDENT. Receipt of the report will be noted in the Journal.

RESOLUTION COMMENDING CHARLES H. EALY, PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. MALLERY, offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, July 12, 1941.

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate be tendered to the Honorable Charles H. Ealy, President pro tempore of the Senate, for the fair and efficient manner in which he has performed the duties of his office during the session of this body about to close.

BILLS SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

House Bill No. 448, entitled:

An Act to amend the first paragraph of section nine of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2051), entitled "Public Assistance Law," by redefining eligibility for assistance.

House Bill No. 1768, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (P. L. of 1937, p. 2897) entitled "Unemployment Compensation Law," by providing therein as to the replacement of certain moneys received pursuant to the provisions of Section three hundred two of the Federal Social Security Act as amended.

House Bill No. 1952, entitled:

An Act fixing the salary of the Parliamentarian of the House of Representatives.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

RESOLUTION COMMENDING LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR SAMUEL S. LEWIS

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Charles H. Ealy). Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WADE, offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, July 12, 1941.

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate be hereby tendered to Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis, President of the Senate, for the able and impartial manner in which he has performed the duties of his office during the session of the body now about to close.

The PRESIDENT. I know the Senators, like the Chair, are tired and want to go home. However, I do want to say further as I stated when I assumed the duties of this office, I have tried to make rulings and arrive at decisions impartially and without fear or favor. I have done that. I have taken the position that the Lieutenant-Governor, unlike the Speaker of the House, is not the choice of any party, either Republican or Democrat, and I have endeavored to be fair and impartial. If I have succeeded I am satisfied; if I have erred, and I know at time I have, I apologize. Thank you.

DIRECTING PRINTING OF JOURNALS OF SENATE AND HOUSE

Mr. HOMSHER offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Chief Clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives be directed to have the copy of the Journals of the two Houses of this session prepared and placed in the hands of the Director of the Bureau of Publications within thirty days after the close of the session, and the Director of the Bureau of Publications is hereby directed to have said Journals printed, bound and delivered to the Chief Clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives within ninety days after the receipt of the copy therefor.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, JULY 15, 1941

The House met at 10:45 a.m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Rev. Marshall L. Shepard, a member of the House offered the following prayer:

Oh, Lord, our God, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth. As we come to the closing hours of this session, we pray to Thee that Thou wouldst bless the Speaker and Members of this House and the officers of the government. We pray unto Thee, Father, that we may find rest and refreshment from waiting on Thee, realizing that Thou hast promised in Thy word that they who rely on the Lord shall renew their strength, they shall mount up on wings like the eagle, they shall run and not grow weary, they shall walk and not fail.

Lord, God of Hosts, be with us yet. Keep us with Thy power of divine grace. Bless our families at home, our relatives and friends, and all our interests.

Through Jesus Christ, our Lord, and for His sake, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Saturday, July 12, 1941.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Saturday, July 12, 1941, when, on motion of Mr. DAVID P. REESE, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair is about to declare a recess for one hour. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The SPEAKER. The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. WEISS offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 15, 1941.

Whereas, Justine Cohen by her gracious and efficient work for the House of Representatives during the legislative Session of 1941 has merited the appreciation of the members, therefore be it

Resolved, That the thanks of the membership of the House of Representatives is hereby tendered to Justine Cohen; and that in token thereof a certified copy hereof be prepared and delivered to her in person by the Chief Clerk of the House.

REPORT AND DISCHARGE OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 957

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I wish to report that the Committee of Conference appointed on House Bill No. 957, has failed to agree and ask that they be discharged.

The SPEAKER. The Committee having failed to agree is discharged from further consideration of House Bill No. 957.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House recede from its non-concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the Senate and concur in the Senate amendments made to House Bill No. 957, Printer's No. 1146.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SHEPARD asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to make a very brief statement. In these recent days, we have heard so much criticism, especially on the part of certain newspapers because of what the Assembly has not done. It is very refreshing to read the editorial that appeared in today's Evening Public Ledger of Philadelphia.

"Thanks to the Assembly

"For those things which the present Legislature has done to benefit this city, Philadelphians are truly grateful. Republicans and Democrats have forgotten their political differences where the good of the principal municipality of the Commonwealth has been concerned. Out of a total of 2459 bills introduced in the record-breaking session of six and one-half months, less than 300 were enacted, and a good share of that number were of help to Philadelphia.

"There was generous financial treatment. Provision was made to allocate $50,000,000 to Philadelphia in the next five years to eliminate bottleneck approaches and improve the highways around the airport and to make suitable entrances and exits at the Delaware River Bridge. Another $1,500,000 becomes available to maintain streets, highways and bridges this year.

Then about $2,000,000 a year will be saved city taxpayers by the State assuming the maintenance of Byberry. Millions will be saved by the permission granted to refund outstanding bonds, by new arrangements for payment of delinquent taxes and the guarantee of a balanced school budget by continuing the present tax rate of 11¾ mills. There was also the doubling of the appropriation for the Port of Philadelphia, which will get $300,000 in the current biennium.

"Other matters besides financial which will redound to the city's advantage include the amending of the Permanent Personal Registration Act to make it workable and to brush about 140,000 fraudulent names off the voting lists. The Philadelphia Housing Authority has been authorized to act as an agent of the Federal Government for the construction, operation, maintenance and leasing of defense housing projects. The Board of Public Education can spend funds to buy milk for undernourished children. A commission has been named to study the parks and playgrounds with a view to enlarging them.

"Altogether it has been a constructive program put into force by the State for Philadelphia's advancement. The city having set its own financial house in order under Mayor Lamberton and the present Council, the State Legislature has been quick to come forward to help it hold its proud place among the cities of the Nation."

Mr. Speaker, it is indeed encouraging to find a note of appreciation appearing in some of our newspapers on behalf of the work we have tried to do here in the Assembly, and I am sure we all thank the Public Ledger for taking time to point out the advantages that have accrued to the city of Philadelphia at this session.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, we join with Representative Shepard in congratulating the Commonwealth of Philadelphia.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. BAUGHER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, on May 8th of this somewhat long drawn out Session House Bill No. 812, which I sponsored, unanimously passed the House by a vote of 177 to 0.

This Bill provides that at all elections, the American Flag should be displayed at the polling places, and imposes duties on the county board of elections to see that it is carried out.

On May the 12th, the Bill was referred to the Senate committee on Elections where it languished until June 25th. At which time it was reported as committed and passed first reading. On June the 30th, it was recommitted, and with the present dead-lock in session, it is doomed to certain oblivion.

My purpose in sponsoring this Legislation was to again impress on all our citizens at the time they exercise their right of franchise, that this is one of the very few remaining countries in the world where every individual citizen was given an opportunity to vote for a candidate of his own choice, to vote in accordance with the dictates of his conscience, to give a free and untrammeled expression by ballot to his own political convictions without a soldier standing behind him, bayonet fixed, so that robot-like he automatically voted "Ja", or else did not survive to see his vote tallied.

I wanted the flag in these polling places, as a reaffirmation of the American way of life, as a reminder of a priceless heritage, and a source of inspiration to all those who came to ballot, that this way of life was worth living for, and dying for, if necessary. The Democratic House of Representatives thought such Legislation necessary. On the other hand, the Republican Senate thought it wasn't.

These were the gentlemen in the Senate who were very busy chasing "pinks" and "reds" and all other shades of that primary color up and down and through the Commonwealth, who were devoting themselves to this elusive pursuit, with all the unrestrained enthusiasm of a puppy chasing his tail, and accomplishing almost as much as the aforesaid puppy, and had no time to pass legislation which would reaffirm in every elector's mind in this Commonwealth our determination to maintain our American traditions. They were so busy looking for what un-Americanism might be, that they had no opportunity to express their faith in Americanism as it is today.

There is, unfortunately, no opportunity for this bill to be passed at this session, but I urge on the membership to remember that an opportunity will again arise for its passage at future sessions of the Legislature, and, while I congratulate the House in its unanimous passage of this worth while legislation, I feel that the Republican Senate has been derelict in its duties and responsibilities, and this utter disinterestedness by that body in this reaffirmation of the high principles on which our commonwealth and country are based, must be directly placed on their shoulders. These gentlemen in the Senate seem to have been very adept in wrapping themselves in the American Flag, but they proved very poor in allowing every elector in this Commonwealth to pay tribute to it at the time of exercising that greatest of all American rights, the right of franchise.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HEWITT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, it is unfortunate for Mr. Baugher that the bill failed in the Senate to become a law, at least to be placed on the Governor's desk. I want to tell Mr. Baugher that we have seventy-seven voting precincts in the County of Indiana, and I will see personally that the American flag is displayed in each voting precinct on the next election.

BILLS SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bills numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 957.

An Act to amend the act approved the fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1625) entitled "An act providing for the creation maintenance and operation of a county employes' retirement system in counties of the third class and imposing certain charges on counties" extending and further regulating such retirement systems.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. NAGEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the House and Senate calendars show that 3259 Bills have been introduced during this Session. Deducting approximately the number of House bills that appear on the Senate History would leave about 3000 introduced. It is a question whether the Members of this House have a knowledge of the provisions of more than ten per cent of these bills. The combined army of Lobbyists probably have a greater knowledge and understanding of the bills introduced than the Legislators themselves.

The general public whom we pretend to serve has little facility for knowing what the bills introduced into this House and Senate would do, what changes these bills would make in our laws. Only a small percentage of this vast number of bills introduced will or can become law, obviously then, most of these bills have no merit that would justify their introduction.

Heretofore there was a date set as the dead-line for the introduction of bills in the House. This was good so far as it went for it had a tendency to reduce the number of bills introduced. This custom was abandoned at the beginning of this Session. The room on the next lower floor is filled to capacity with bills, calendars and histories, tons of paper used that will and must eventually be destroyed. Each week accumulated histories of the House and Senate are published, and during the last half of all Sessions these histories are large and often serve a purpose for but a brief period of two days. Here is affected a great loss of material, to say nothing of the loss in cost of printing.

It is my opinion that there is not a Member of this General Assembly who will not readily admit there is something radically wrong with our Legislative procedure, but nothing has been done to correct this costly evil. In fact, nothing can be done under our present arrangement to stop this tremendous waste of State funds.

So long as there is an open season for the introduction of bills no Representative or Senator can be limited in the number of bills he may desire to introduce, and I can not think that anyone desires to limit or curb activities along this line in a dictatorial manner, but a democratic course of action should be established that would automatically reduce this extensive waste and at the same time prove efficient and satisfactory not only to the Members of the General Assembly, but to all the people of our great Commonwealth.

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, at this, the closing session of the 1941 Session, I feel it my duty to again call the attention of this House to House Bill No. 1485 introduced on May 6 by the Honorable Herbert G. Gates and myself. I do this to refresh your memories and to impress upon your minds the manifest need of some change. This Bill failed to become a law. Like most other good things of the past that carried with them sweeping changes, time was needed to effect these changes. Our American people have always been slow and hesitate to step out of a beaten path, but the time has come in Legislative procedure when it would seem that some drastic change must be made and this matter must be brought to the general public if we expect the public mind to run in constructive channels of progress.

Let us briefly examine this bill. Since its introduction both I and Mr. Gates have received much favorable comment from some of the best thinkers of our State.

House Bill No. 1485 advocates an amendment to our Constitution. It provides, as I stated some weeks ago, that the procedure during the fore part of our legislative work would be the same as heretofore; we would meet on the first Tuesday of January and use a week to elect our Speaker and appoint such committees as would direct the affairs of our body and the Senate appoint standing committees and attend to other preliminary matters. We would then adjourn for a week and this committee could work out its plans. Then, under this amendment we would come here and devote five weeks of our time to the introduction of bills, during which five weeks no bills would be released from Committee, no bills acted upon on the floor of the House or the Senate except matters that might be of an emergency nature, which would be done by concurrent resolution.

During the time of the introduction of these bills, we advocate that there be published weekly a history of these House and Senate bills and that there not only be printed in this history the titles of these bills, which you see in our histories now, but there would be also printed about these bills, each one of them, a description of what the bill would do, if it were a new act, or how it would affect or change one of the laws on our statute books.

These histories would be made available to the Senators and Representatives of the General Assembly for distribution over their districts. They could be left at libraries, and different organizations so that the people of the State might know what laws or what propositions were being made before this body to become laws in the future.

It would give the people an opportunity and a chance to analyze these things so that they might instruct the men who represent them intelligently and knowingly. After the four weeks recess, the introductory period, we would come back here and no bills might be introduced except new bills or bills for raising revenue. This would give us an opportunity in the meantime as Representatives to study these bills, and it would give our constitutents at home an opportunity to have knowledge of what was before us here for consideration.

I contend, Mr. Speaker, not because I was one of two who introduced this bill.—I contend it is a constructive piece of legislation and I contend it will do many good things for our state. I contend it will, if enacted, tend to make better laws; it will give the people of our state advance knowledge of what may be enacted into law. It will reduce the cost of our legislation. It will not be necessary to waste tons of paper here and pay out enormous bills for printing. It will reduce to a minimum bills that are introduced. It will shorten our session, it will provide the members of the General Assembly with a brief statement of what each bill will do.

When we see a bill come up on third reading it will not be necessary for some one to rise and call upon the sponsors to explain it, unless some details of the bill are not clear. The matter will be clear before us. I believe it will result in the enactment of just laws in Pennsylvania, and, Mr. Speaker, it will help make the corrupt lobbyist a prehistoric animal who will only be found in our museums.

I give this short talk before this House; it is nonpartisan, it is patriotic, it is for the best interests of our state and nation, it is according to Democratic ideals.

I bring this again to your attention on this, perhaps the closing day of the session, that you may take home the thoughts I have left with you and discuss them with your constituents, and I am sure you will find after proper consideration that there is outlined here a program for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that will make it outstanding among the states of the nation and will result in keeping our state democratic. If this is enacted into law, I believe it will not be necessary perhaps after this war hysteria is over, to have as many of these Red laws enacted, because people will study our laws and the laws will be just; there will be no occasion for anyone to dislike his state and his national government.

I thank you, members of the House, for the attention you have given me at this time.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. STAMBAUGH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I listened with interest to the speeches made by the preceding gentleman, and I thought perhaps I might add something that would in some way help him out of the dilemma about which he speaks and which we all think at various times clutters up the records.

Mr. Speaker, I rise at this time to recall to this House the fact that during this long, tiresome and practically unproductive session, we have talked about, considered and passed, or failed to pass, bills covering the interests of practically every minority group that has an organization of any sort whatsoever. The enumeration of the legislation presented and considered in the interest of the various minority groups would in itself require pages of manuscript for the purpose of the record. I only wish to say that the only large group that has not been directly covered and given their fair share of consideration is the Farmer Group.

The farmers of Pennsylvania have been promised much during each and every political campaign, but when the political battle of each election is past, he is relegated in the files of the average politician, and set aside as the "Forgotten man."

On January 13, 1941, the gentleman from Bedford, Mr. Foor, and I introduced House Bill No. 9.

House Bill No. 9 was a bill which returned to the farmer and the domestic user that portion of the gasoline tax which was rightly due him because of the fact that gasoline used on a farm for domestic purposes should not be taxed by the Commonwealth for highway purposes.

In looking over the record of the different states I found that Pennsylvania was the only large state in the union that does not refund to the farmers the tax on gasoline used for domestic and farm purposes. It therefore follows that the Pennsylvania farmer is working at a disadvantage due to the fact that he has an unusual and extraordinary expense to keep his machinery running when he has to pay an extraordinary tax which is not paid by the farmers of other states.

This bill, with a number of other similar bills was immediately placed in what is known as strong brine, or more commonly the pickling vat. There it was destined to take its place, with many other worthy pieces of legislation.

In speaking of pickling, we recall that there are seasons of pickling, seasons for sport, pastime, or recreation. Fall presents football and hunting; the winter season recalls basketball, ice skating and hockey. Baseball and tennis are quite in order in the spring and summer. Mountain sports, bathing, seashore recreations are in order in summer and it is during the summer period that this great pastime of pickling takes place. We pickle tripe, we pickle sour krout, we pickle eggs, we pickle cucumbers, we pickle the pickle, and we go on pickling bills.

Let us consider this bill pickling process. Last winter we met, shook hands and made up a rather congenial mass of substance in this House known as fellowship and friendship, but at the same time we prepared the necessary ingredients to make up the brine of the pickle. And while we believe this homogeneous mass of fellowship and friendship will be lasting and preserved, we are fearful, however, that the bills that were turned into the other pickling vat will be lost forever, unless someone keeps the subjects alive during the period of time between this session and the succeeding sessions.

Yes, Mr. Speaker, the pickling process has been carried on by the majority side of this House until they themselves have gotten so deeply into the pickle that they are having difficulty in getting out. They will probably continue to wallow in the brine which they themselves prepared and into which they have fallen until the electorate of the state decides that they have had enough and they too decide to take a hand in what is going on and pickle once and for all those who have failed to carry out their promises and the desires of their constituents.

Just now, Mr. Speaker, I have been informed that the conditions have become unbearable even to those who made up the pickle and that they are about willing and ready to roll out the barrel, kick in the head and get ready for a new supply of brine to be prepared by the present minority of this house, the new mixture to be of such qualities so to be able to dissolve subversive elements, but will preserve for all times the principles of democracy as founded and established by our Revolutionary Fathers. When that is done the farmers of Pennsylvania will get their fair share of consideration—as well as all other groups.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, July 12, 1941.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That Senate Bill No. 1090, House Bill No. 1871, Printer's No. 436, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the first day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1132), entitled, "An act to provide for the permanent personal registration of electors in cities of the second class A as a condition of their right to vote at elections and primaries, and their enrollment as members of political parties as a further condition of their right to vote at primaries; prescribing certain procedure for the conduct of elections and primaries and the challenge and proof of qualifications of electors; and prescribing the powers and duties of citizens, parties, political bodies, registration commissions, commissioners, registrars, inspectors of registration and other appointees of registration commissions, county election boards, election officers, municipal officers, departments and bureaus, police officers, courts, judges, prothonotaries, sheriffs, county commissioners, peace officers, county treasurers, county controllers, registrars of vital statistics, certain public utility corporations, real estate brokers, rental agents, and boards of school directors; and imposing penalties," as amended, by requiring and providing for the registration of persons in military service to entitle them to vote at any election.

now in the hands of the Governor, be recalled from the Governor for further consideration.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1727

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to submit the report of the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 1727.

The SPEAKER. The report will lie over for printing under the rules.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair is about to declare a recess for fifteen minutes. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The SPEAKER. The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy), in the Chair.

RESOLUTION

RECALLING HOUSE BILL No. 1952 FROM THE SENATE

Mr. READINGER offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 15, 1941

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 1952, Printer's No. 1199, entitled "An act to amend section four of the act approved the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, (P. L. 717), entitled 'An act fixing the number, compensation, mileage and duties of the officers and employes of the General Assembly, and providing for their election or appointment, term of office, and manner of filling vacancies,' by providing for the appointment, compensation and duties of clerks and pages to the majority and minority floor leaders respectively of the Senate and of the House of Representatives, and making an appropriation," which passed Third Reading and Final Passage in the Senate on July 12th, be recalled from the Senate.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. CORDIER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, today in the hall of the House the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard, arose and read an editorial from the Philadelphia Evening Ledger in respect to the many great benefits that the people of Philadelphia have received at the hands of the General Assembly. In that same newspaper is another editorial which is labeled "Time to Go Home":

"It is time for the Legislature to get out of Harrisburg. It is time for the Assemblymen who have prolonged the present session beyond all precedent to adjourn sine die and go home.

"They are doing the State, the Assembly and themselves no good. For more than six months they have delayed, lingered, waited, maneuvered and intrigued. They have passed some good legislation, but it could have been passed in half the time they have been in Harrisburg.

"They have given comfort to those enemies of democratic government who say it is weak, inefficient and fumbling."

Mr. Speaker, one of the things that both the Evening Ledger and Reverend Shepard failed to mention as one of the benefits the people of Philadelphia have gotten out of this particular session is the fact that the Reverend Shepard has a new suit. I would say, Mr. Speaker, from my observation that he is the acme of sartorial splendor, and, Mr. Speaker, I suggest that the Reverend Shepard be voted the best dressed man in the House tonight.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SHEPARD asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the tribute, if it is a tribute, that was paid me by the gentleman from Lackwanna. I would urge him and the Members of the House to hurry through with the deliberations tonight, so that I may get my check and be in a position to pay for some of these clothes I am wearing.

BILLS SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bills numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 481.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Messrs. O'NEILL, SARRAF and KEENAN offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 15, 1941.

Whereas, The House of Representatives notes with profound sorrow the passing of the wife of Melvin R. Clark, associated with the Pennsylvania Railroad, who died suddenly this morning; and

Whereas, Mrs. Clark was beloved by all who knew her, because of her devotion to the betterment of the community in which she lived; and

Whereas, Those of us who knew her will miss her cheering presence and the inspiration of her personality; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives mourns the passing of Mrs. Clark, and directs the Chief Clerk of the House to mail a copy of this resolution to Melvin R. Clark as a symbol of the House of Representative's profound sympathy for him in his great bereavement.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, an ancient once said that a prophet is not without honor except in his own country. About a week ago, we here in this House, expressed by proper resolutions felicitations upon the birthday of one who during this session we have grown to respect, admire, and love as our leader. At that time, no one anticipated that on this, his natal day, we might be here and be able to give him some warmer and more personal expression of our feelings.

I feel, Mr. Speaker, that it is quite fitting that we should pay this second tribute to the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, upon this his birthday, because it was several months ago that this prophet of the House of Representatives stated that we would adjourn at least by July 15th, his birthday.

I think before we give this expression of our good feeling toward him, that for the benefit of the Members of the House he might answer an interrogation, and I now ask permission, Mr. Speaker, to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether he would admit something,—I am not speaking about the conference with the Governor—this is something else. I was about to say, Mr. Speaker, we would not endeavor to tie him in with or infringe upon the gentleman from Allegheny, Dr. Sarraf.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. With that broad latitude, Mr. Speaker, I think I can say "yes".

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman how many years he would admit.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. At least twenty-one, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I find myself unable to question the constitutionality of that statement, because it seems to me that most people have the right to admit that they are twenty-one years of age and get away with it. I would like to ask, Mr. Speaker, whether in the number of years he has admitted he has made any division between the summers and the winters.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Unfortunately, yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I am through with my interrogation. I think at this time it would be fitting and proper, without any written resolution, for this House to resolve that upon this natal day of the majority leader, Mr. Achterman, it express itself in some manner to be indicated by the Chair, of its warmest and deepest feelings of congratulation and felicitation.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would inform the gentleman from Philadelphia that at his request a gentleman was requested to sing, "Happy Birthday" to the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, but the gentleman from Mifflin, "Buttermilk" French, is not present in the Hall of the House.

REPORT AND DISCHARGE OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 690

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH from the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 690, submitted the following report:

Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, July, 15, 1941.

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

The conferees on the part of the Senate and the House of Representatives appointed to compose the differences between the said Senate and House of Representatives on House Bill No. 690, Senate Bill No. 472, Printer's No. 824, entitled:

"An act to further amend sections 402, 411, 703, 704, 705, 707, and 903 and to repeal section 706 of the act approved the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine x x x," respectfully report that the conferees have been unable to agree upon said differences and to arrive at a mutually satisfactory report, and are therefore constrained to respectfully request that they may be discharged from further consideration of said bill.

Respectfully submitted,

James E. Lovett
Elwood B. Welsh
(Committee on the part of the House)

J. G. Snowden
Thomas B. Wilson
Israel Stiefel
(Committe on the part of the Senate)

The SPEAKER. The Committee of Conference is discharged with the thanks of the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House recede from its non-concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the Senate and concur in the Senate amendments.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1727

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up the report of the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 1727, Printer's No. 1209.

The report was read by the Clerk as follows:

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering House Bill No. 1727, entitled:

"An Act providing that bonds, notes and other evidences of indebtedness issued by Authorities incorporated under the Municipality Authorities Act as amended and supplemented shall not be invalid by reason of certain circumstances."

Respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

Frank W. Ruth
Clarence D. Becker
Charles R. Mallery
(Committee on the Part of the Senate.)

L. Kenneth Harkins
Joseph A. Longo
Chas. H. Brunner, Jr.
(Committee on the Part of the House of Representatives.)

An Act providing that bonds notes and other evidences of indebtedness issued by Authorities incorporated under the Municipality Authorities Act as amended and supplemented shall not be invalid by reason of certain circumstances

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 No bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness heretofore issued by Authorities incorporated under the Municipality Authorities Act approved June 28 1935 (P. L. 463) as amended and supplemented shall be invalid by reason of the fact that any member of the Board or any officer of said Authority was at the time of the issuance of such bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness a member or officer of the governing body of the incorporating municipality or municipalities or an officer thereof provided that such bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness or otherwise valid

Section 2 Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to validate any bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness in connection with the issuance of which any fraud or conspiracy has been committed

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to call the attention of the Chair to a Printer's error, and I assume it is a printer's error, in line eleven, the third word from the end of the line, the word, "or." I presume it should be the word, "are". I presume it will be properly corrected as provided for under the law.

The SPEAKER. The Chair presumes the correction can be made under existing law. If the gentleman is satisfied the report can be acted upon without having the Correction made now.

However it might be advisable to check with the Secretary of the Commonwealth and determine whether the assumption of the Chair is correct. The Chair would like to have the advice of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, the remarks of the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, relative to the word, "or" in line eleven, page three, of House Bill No. 1727, being a Printer's error are correct. The word, "are," appears in the prior Printer's No. of this bill. Representatives of the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth were consulted and I was informed that such Printer's errors may be corrected.

I would request that this House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference. I might inform the House that the Senators who were conferees have been informed of the proposed action of the House and they intend to make a similar statement for the record.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the report of the Committee of Conference was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. MUIR. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Warren will state his question of information.

Mr. MUIR. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know what the original vote was on House Bill 690.

The SPEAKER. The bill has gone to the Senate.

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bill numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 690.

An Act to further amend sections 402, 411, 703, 704, 705, 707 and 903 and to repeal section 706 of the act approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 905), entitled "An act for the protection of the public safety, regulating the use of highways and the operation of vehicles, tractors, street cars, trackless trolley omnibuses, bicycles, pedestrians and the riding of animals upon the highways of this Commonwealth, providing for the titling including liens encumbrances and legal claims registration of certain vehicles and licensing the operators thereof, upon payment of prescribed fees, prescribing and limiting the powers of local authorities to deal with the subject matter of this act, conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue the Department of Highways, peace officers, mayors, burgesses, magistrates, aldermen, justices of the peace, the courts and the clerks thereof; owners of vehicles and garage keepers, providing that records are admissible as evidence, imposing upon owners counties, cities, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships within the Commonwealth liability for damages caused by the negligent operation of their motor vehicles, imposing penalties imposing certain costs upon counties, providing for the disposition of fines, forfeitures, fees and miscellaneous receipts making an appropriation and providing for refunds," providing for the registration and fixing registration fees of commercial motor vehicles, truck tractors trailers and semi-trailers according to gross weight and certain motor buses and omnibuses with pneumatic tires according to equipment, fixing the maximum gross weight of such vehicles which may be used and operated on the highways and eliminating existing provisions relating to the chassis of such vehicles.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair is about to declare a recess for fifteen minutes. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether the chair can inform me how I am recorded as voting on the final passage of House Bills 1727 and 1728.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not recorded as voting.

Mr. TURNER. That is correct, sir.

EXTENDED REMARKS

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to address the House, but I do not want to take the time of the House to do so now. However, I have a statement which under ordinary circumstances I would ask unanimous consent of the House to read. I assure you there is nothing scurilous or vituperative in the address and I ask unanimous consent of the House to offer it for the Journal as though it had been delivered on the floor of the House.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to extend the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, on the Legislative Journal? Is there objection? The Chair hears none and consent is granted.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in these, the closing hours of the General Assembly, the legislative fluctuations, our accomplishments, our failures, are brought into sharp focus as we realize that the records of the 1941 legislature are about to become an irrevocable part of Commonwealth history.

These have been action-packed months with grave political implications and behind the necessity for clear, constructive legislation has been the graphic urge to strengthen the processes of State government so that this Commonwealth would be equipped to assume its share of the vital requirements of National Defense.

We have been confronted with a record breaking tide of bills and resolutions and whatever our political incentives there have emerged from the legislative hopper a number of important measures which intuitively demanded the unanimous endorsement of every member of this body.

We have debated the merits of state fiscal policies, farm programs, state hospitals, anti-Red bills, veterans' legislation, milk law amendments and relief and whatever the relation of these issues to the stabilized operation of state government, we must, in all final calculations, consider the position of labor and what has been done to advance the interests and economic status of the working man in Pennsylvania.

There can be no question but that there has been deliberate procrastination by Democratic leadership in acting upon the many bills designed to broaden the standard of living for thousands of workers and give them the same protective assurances enjoyed by labor in other states.

The Democratic high command, prodded by the urgencies of political expediency, inaugurated this session by fomenting unwarranted attacks upon the James labor laws which were set up by the 1939 legislature to correct glaring abuses and malpractices possible under the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Act as written and enacted by the Democratic regime.

The Republican legislature of 1939 amended the state labor laws to conform with the actual needs of honest, conscientious working men who clearly foresaw the advantages of collective bargaining over violence and coercion as a means of settling labor disputes.

The Democratic leaders have been guilty of political demagoguery in their efforts to rip out the liberal provisions of the amended act notwithstanding the fact that the Republican changes imposed a rigid ban against sit down strikes and gave labor a more assuring economic outlook by eliminating the riots, bloodshed and property damage which threw a menacing cloud over Pennsylvania's far-flung industrial empire.

It is inconceivable, in view of the history of this session, that the Democratic party has been sincere in its attempt to parade as the big brother of the working man. We have witnessed the boisterous philanthropy of New Deal leaders in what might pass as a program to impress labor but we have yet to see actual evidence of any improvement in the status of the working man beyond the political satisfaction accruing to the Democratic party through such carefully camouflaged maneuvering.

Until July 7th, only ten bills which might be regarded as labor measures passed the House in six months. We are all familiar with the haggling and stalling that characterized passage of those bills. It is also noteworthy that the delay in acting upon these bills was carefully timed to affect the normal period of adjournment and throw the responsibility onto the Republican-controlled Senate.

In other words, the Democratic House reserved for its own purpose a period of five or six months to thoroughly study and dissect the merits of these bills and then with three or four weeks to go before adjournment, suddenly dumped them into Republican laps and assumed the righteous attitude: "We have done our part for labor . . . now hurry up and do yours."

The mockery of this type of political hedge jumping is that the Democratic party doesn't care any more about labor than it does about the farmers of this state, or those on relief. Theirs has been the old shell game adapted to political intrigue. Their shameful attitude toward the anti-Red bills, with the whole state clamoring for action, has been a tacit admission that they have been motivated by politics and not the basic urge of good government.

Contrastingly, on April 10th the Senate sent to the House a bi-partisan bill liberalizing the Pennsylvania Unemployment Compensation law and embracing 22 recommendations unanimously approved by the Republican and Democratic personnel of the Joint Legislative Committee to Study Unemployment Compensation. This gave the New Deal brain trusters several months in which to act on the measure and what happened?

Reluctant to give the Republican party any credit whatsoever for the broadening provisions of this bill, the Democratic directorate deliberately scuttled it and stripped it of 20 of the original 22 recommendations. New Dealers inserted a trick clause designed to freeze persons engaged for administrative purposes and paid by the Unemployment Compensation Administration Fund so that the set-up could be maneuvered to provide patronage plums for Democratic appointees. Also written into the mangled version of the bill were other impossible provisions which certainly accomplished nothing toward elevating the economic security of labor.

As a sop to the state labor vote, Democrats boosted the minimum payment ratio beyond all limit of financial sanity and interjected other provisions which inevitably would have bankrupted the unemployment compensation fund.

As a further example of the warped humanitarian impulses of the Democratic leadership we have only to examine the manner in which House Bills 863 and 864, covering occupational disease, were juggled to carry out Democratic strategy aimed at embarrassing the Republican Senate.

It was back in 1937 that the Democrats enacted an occupational disease act that proved so faulty and invalid that claims amounting to more than a million dollars have gone unpaid! In the face of pressure exerted by the Republican bloc of the House, House Bills 863 and 864 were introduced and just as quickly smothered by the Democratic committee. That was the dubious status of these measures until March 31st, when the Senate, aroused by the iron-fisted tactics of the House leadership, introduced two similar bills which were passed April 22nd, and forced the House to pass them.

It was then, and only then, that the New Deal high command suddenly remembered its obligations to labor. And so, after six months, the Democratic-controlled House has passed bills amending the Workmen's Compensation and Occupational Disease Acts ostensibly to provide increased benefits to disabled or afflicted workers. Close scrutiny of these bills discloses the fact that the stipulated increases follow the usual Democratic pattern of giving something on paper when they are well aware that their generosity does not conform with what is financially possible for the state to do.

The increases listed under those bills not only are out of proportion and inconsistent with the balanced operation of state government but are a throwback to the same Democratic policies adopted in 1937 when the provisions of the acts were declared invalid and unconstitutional. These bills which are so impractical in stature that they defeat the basic purpose of workmen's compensation, have been rammed through the House, and if enacted would be so impossible that it would be an infringement on public confidence to expect other than a complete collapse of the compensation system now in effect.

This, of course, is not a new theoretical device for the Democratic brain trusters. With all the arrogance that has been typical of their political sharpshooting, they openly attempted to handcuff the courts of this state by restricting them from issuing injunctions in case of sit-down strikes.

Through the Williams-Lovett bill, they sought to condone the right of labor to seize or damage plants, destroy equipment and other property and indulge in terrorism to force employers to meet demands.

They turned blindly from the fact that the Republican party had sought to perpetuate higher economic standards for the working man by scrupulously observing his rights so that labor and industry together might open new channels of productive prosperity.

Republicans believe now as we did then, that collective bargaining and diplomatic adjustment of labor controversies are the real answer to industrial progress.

Democratic attempts to strangle the courts of this state, just as they have attempted to crush labor's rights by riding roughshod over liberalizing bills, is an un-American attitude that distorts the very purpose of legislative unity and exposes just how the forces of destruction work under the guise of political strategy!

Four labor bills have been introduced by Republican members of the House to make further improvements in the Labor Relations Law by giving labor more time in which to petition for elections and other beneficial changes. What has happened to these bills? Like many another Republican measure, they have languished in committee for no other reason but that they bore the Republican label.

Certainly the Republican party is not interested in credit for authorship of any bill beyond what it might accomplish in public interest and proof of this has been in Republican willingness to go along on many Democratic measures.

I think the most incongruous development of this session has been the bigoted attitude of the Democratic party in regard to Republican bills and aside from violating all the constitutional privileges intended under our free course of government it has shown conclusively that the New Dealers have no qualms about using public interests as a springboard to political autocracy.

That this could happen in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and in the face of the solemn obligations hinging upon every member of this body is a glaring indictment of Democratic perfidy and unfitness to participate in the legislative affairs of this state!

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF RESOLUTIONS RETURNING BILLS TO GOVERNOR

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, Tuesday, July 15, 1941.

Resolved (if the Senate concur) that this Regular Session of the General Assembly adjourn sine die Tuesday, July 15, 1941 at 11:45 p.m.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. McMILLEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I will be very glad to read this little poem which was written by the Honorable Jacob W. Carr, of the Senate, and with a few changes I think it would fit here very well. I think that some of the boys would not be hurt by a reading of this poem.

Mr. GERARD. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman to say this was a poem written by somebody in the Senate.

Mr. McMILLEN. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GERARD. Mr. Speaker, it appears that at last we are hearing from the Senate. I heard a resolution concurred in, and now we are ready to hear further from the Senate. I have no objection to having some statement from the Senate, and it is very lovely and nice of them to send a poem over here.

Mr. McMILLEN. I thank the gentleman from Allegheny very much.

Mr. Speaker. This poem written by Senator Carr reads as follows:

OH WELL

"Here I am, covered with rags and dirt,
Without a clean collar, without a clean shirt;
I came prepared to stay for the day
And now that I'm here I can't get away;
I left a good home and I left a good wife
To suffer a most unenjoyable life.

If I ever get back, I never will roam
From that dear loving wife and good happy home.
My Jimmie, the boy that is grandson to me,
I am longing deep down in my heart for to see.
Instead I must listen to Assemblymen rave,
Like chattering monkeys, they cannot behave.

O give me, Good Lord, the right to inquire
Why previous to death I should go through this fire;
I haven't been bad and I've tried to do well,
So why in the world should I suffer this Hell?"

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Westmoreland arise?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to amend the poem to read from the "Bible Club" instead of from Jimmie and Jacob.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of information.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know if there are any more poems in the Senate?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I suggest we have some music for our ears, because poetry has no place here.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TAYLOR asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to answer the gentleman who just spoke. He has asked whether we were going to get any more poems from the Senate. I would like to tell the gentleman that we are very shortly going to have a poem from the Senate that will be very well understood by everyone. It will only take a few minutes to recite that poem—"We're Going Home".

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HARKINS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the other afternoon a few of us Members went into a movie theater and we were met by the manager. When he found out that we were Members of the assembly he asked us if we would extend his cordial greetings to Dr. Sarraf, Dr. Reese and Representative Nagel, the gentleman from Beaver, and ask them to present themselves at the box office where upon identifying themselves, they would be given free tickets of admission to the local theater called the "Senate". I think that all the Members of the House will understand why the management requests their attendance when you know the title, which is "The People vs. Dr. Kildare".

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. NAGEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, when I think of what I might have saved I am indeed very sorry that my friend from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, has been so derelict in his duty. I did not know this until just now. I was down this afternoon and saw that show and paid my way in. I regret that very much. The next time he gets a message like that I hope he will deliver it promptly, but I thank the gentleman for delivering it now.

INTERROGATION

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Nagel.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Beaver permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. NAGEL, I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if after the conclusion of the picture he did not arise in his chair, and make a speech condemning the medical profession.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, the medical profession was sufficiently condemned.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HEATHERINGTON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, for the benefit of quite a few of the members, if they go down to the "Colonial", I think it is, they will see a picture called, "Caught in the Draft," and they will get another look at a Willkie button.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I might say that the Wilkie button was found in a poor fish.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, it has been suggested by several of the Members here, after almost two weeks of kidding around and getting out of more or less regular habits, that before the Members of this House retire from the session they stop at the Rio Theatre out on the Hill and get lessons from a picture entitled "School for Husbands".

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I am just wondering whether or not we are ready to adjourn. It seems to me the speeches made on the floor of this House this evening would indicate that certain Members of our House are in collusion with the movie operators, and might be receiving pay from them. I think that we had better stay a few days longer and introduce a resolution to investigate.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair is about to declare a recess for fifteen minutes. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

REPORT AND DISCHARGE OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 690

Mr. TATE from the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 507, submitted the following report:

In the House of Representatives, July 15, 1941.

To the Members of the House of Representatives:

The Conferees on the part of the House of Representatives appointed to confer with a similar committee on the part of the Senate to compose the difference between the House of Representatives and the Senate on Senate Bill No. 507, Printer's No. 292, entitled "An act to apportion the State into Congressional districts," respectfully report that the conferees have been unable to agree on a report, and further respectfully request the conferees on the part of the House be discharged from further consideration of the Bill.

JAMES H. J. TATE
WILLIAM L. SHAFFER
(Committee on the Part of the House of Representatives).

The SPEAKER. The Committee is discharged with the thanks of the House.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

REPORT AND DISCHARGE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 448

Mr. CORDIER from the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 448, submitted the following report:

In the House of Representatives, July 15, 1941.

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering House Bill No. 448, Printer's No. 1167, entitled:

An Act to further amend clause (e) of section seven and to amend the first paragraph of section nine of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2051) entitled "An act relating to public assistance providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children aged persons blind persons and other persons requiring relief providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose * * *" by redefining eligibility for assistance providing for appeals from certain decisions of the Department of Public Assistance to common pleas courts and imposing powers and duties on common pleas court respectfully report that we have been unable to agree on a report and request to be discharged.

Robert M. Miller
C. A. R. Bartlett

.....

(Committee on Part of the Senate)

R. J. Cordier
Francis X. McClanaghan
Wm. S. Brown

(Committee on Part of the House of Representatives)

The SPEAKER. The Committee on the part of the House is discharged with the thanks of the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House further insists on its non-concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the Senate to House Bill No. 448, Printer's No. 1167.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. CORDIER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, this is the last of the so called anti-Red or subversive bills. To wind this thing up in the proper spirit I will be glad at this time to join around the microphone with the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McClanaghan, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy and the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner in singing "God Bless America."

MR. WOODSIDE IN THE CHAIR

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE RECEDES FROM NON-CONCURRENCE IN AMENDMENT TO SENATE BILL No. 253

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate recedes from its non-concurrence and concurs in the amendments made and insisted upon by the House of Representatives to Senate bill numbered and entitled:

SENATE BILL No. 253.

An Act relating to members of the bureau of fire in cities of the second class; providing, subject to the approval of the electors, for a three-platoon system for such members, with certain exceptions; providing for an election on such question; and regulating hours of service, hours of rest and annual vacations.

THE SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, for presiding.

RECESS

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now recess for five minutes and, Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to second that motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Woodside and Mr. Achterman and were as follows:

REASON FOR VOTE

Mr. SAMUEL ROSE offered the following reason for his vote:

Since a five minute recess is asked for in this motion and since this is still Tuesday, and on the basis upon which we have been deliberating here, the five minutes that will elapse may take us up to what is actually Friday, and since my wife insists that I be back in Philadelphia this week-end, I must vote "no."

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the Pasters and Folders Choral Society have requested me as their spokesman to have the gentleman read the reason for the information of the House.

The SPEAKER. The reason will be noted in the Legislative Journal.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair is about to declare a recess for fifteen minutes. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

SENATE MESSAGE

CONGRESSIONAL REAPPORTIONMENT

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

Moved by Senator Wade, seconded by Senators Mundy and Taylor

That it is the sense and opinion of the Senate Body that the proper solution of Congressional reapportionment is to reduce the number of districts in the County of Philadelphia from seven to six and that the House of Representatives be officially notified.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1768

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to submit the report of the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 1768.

The SPEAKER. The report will lie over for printing under the rules.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1752, (Senate Bill No. 1016), entitled:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania enter into the interstate compact to conserve oil and gas with other States of the United States of America, which are signatories thereto.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, several days ago in reading a newspaper my attention was brought to an item appearing in the paper relative to the program that is on foot at the present time for the conservation of oil and gas. In this quotation I noticed that several motorists were arrested for smoke coming out of their exhaust, which in the natural course of the operation of an automobile would sufficiently show that the rings were worn on the pistons of the car and therefore the car used too much oil. In my mind I am practically convinced that this bill will give to the Governor the same powers under which those motorists were arrested. In the same instance may I say that I would not think that the State of Pennsylvania was so high in the category of oil producing states that we had to enter into a compact with such oil producing states as Texas, Oklahoma and so forth.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, it is my humble opinion that the piece of legislation before us is unnecessary, and at the same time will be a direct imposition upon the people of this Commonwealth. I would therefore, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, ask you to vote against Senate Bill No. 1016 which is before us today.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, this bill is not a party issue. If the information which we obtained from the national administration in Washington is correct this bill is truly vital to the national defense. I don't know of the circumstances which surround the bill but I do know that oil and gasoline are extremely vital to our national defense program. I further know that proper control of oil and gasoline is essential to our national defense and that it is necessary for the national government to assume the task of regulating oil and gasoline. I also know that the President of the United States has directed the Secretary of the Interior to look after this problem. I further know that the Secretary of the Interior has advised this legislature that this bill is vital in order that he may carry out the provisions, which are necessary in connection with the regulation of oil and gasoline.

If the gentlemen on the other side or any of them wish to take the responsibility for defeating this bill under those circumstances they may take that responsibility but I believe that the majority on that side will go along with the request that was made by the Secretary of the Interior to this Legislature and to the Commonwealth to pass this bill as being something absolutely necessary and vital in connection with the defense program. It is not something that we have thought up here. It is something which the national administration, that is charged with the problem and the responsibility, has said to us "It is important to us for you to pass this legislation."

I say, Mr. Speaker, that the Members in this House who are interested in national defense, and I am sure all must be, will not let anything interfere with this request. I have been told that if the Secretary of the Interior feels he must immediately step up the production of oil in the coming weeks this would be the machinery by which he could do it. If he does not have this machinery they say it will take weeks or months and possibly years to set up the machinery which will do it as satisfactorily as this oil compact bill will do it. I do not know all the angles, but the gentleman who is charged with the responsibility, the man who was appointed by the President of the United States, the Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, charged with the responsibility of dealing with this vital oil problem, says to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvanit, "You should pass this bill to make my task possible." Are we going to do it or are we not?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, there have not been many occasions during this session that I have been able to agree with the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside. I very frankly admit that I don't know the details of this bill. I don't know what plan it embraces but I am certain of one thing, of which I satisfied myself. I do know that the national administration is vitally interested in this matter. I know that the national administration wants this bill. I understand that we in this state are the last of several states to pass enabling legislation permitting our signature to this oil compact.

For that reason, Mr. Speaker, I am urging the Philadelphia Members to vote "aye" on this bill.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to concur in the statement made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cohen, in relation to the remarks made by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside. This is a measure which is intended to advance national defense. It is not only a measure intended for that purpose but it has been sponsored by the national administration in Washington. They are desirous of having this particular legislation. It represents our contribution toward national defense, toward the conservation of oil. I am asking the Democratic Members of this House to pass this legislation. I realize that there has been some small opposition and I have endeavored to ascertain the reason for that opposition, but I am unable to do so. I am at a loss to understand, Mr. Speaker, why one or two individuals who feel that they perhaps may be affected in some measure, should say, "No, the interests of the United States and of Pennsylvania should be submerged to our small, petty, personal interests." Because that opposition is small, because it is petty, because it involves a personal interest in conflict with the national interest, I am certain that every Democrat in this House will vote for this measure.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I certainly do not want to disagree with my floor-leader in any instance but finding myself in that position at the present time I am still insisting upon my stand against this measure. Doubt creeps into my mind relative to the great need for such legislation. May I point out if this measure were so badly needed by the national administration, why then, I ask, must we have this bill reported out of committee for final action by this body at this late date, even after a date that was almost definitely decided upon for adjournment?

I again say to you, Mr. Speaker, that no conservation is needed for the oil and gas of this state due to the fact that we do not produce sufficient, and it is my contention that Joe Pew will get a few extra votes on the Allocation Committee.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I merely want to state that many of the oil producing companies feel that this bill will not be of any particular advantage to them and in certain instances might even be harmful to them, but they recognize the value of this bill to the nation as a whole and the industry as a whole. For that reason they have all come down here to ask this Legislature to pass this bill, because they understand the problem and recognize the vital necessity of having it for national defense.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—121

Achterman,	Gillette,	McClester,	Shepard,

MR. ACHTERMAN IN THE CHAIR

CONFERENCE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 654

Mr. READINGER presented the report of the Committee of Conference on the part of the House on Senate Bill No. 654.

The report was read by the Clerk.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This being a Senate bill the report will be printed by the Senate, and placed in the files of the Members of the House.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Messrs. KOLANKIEWICZ and DAVID P. REESE offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 15, 1941.

The present prolonged session of the General Assembly has at least one pleasant aspect, in that its apparently endless extensions have operated to include the birthdays of a number of members of the House of Representatives in honor of whom the House could not otherwise have joined in congratulations and good wishes.

July 18th, which will apparently be encompassed in the present session as an actual day, if not a Legislative day, marks the birthday of the Honorable Ray E. Taylor, able member of the House from Dauphin County and well known civic and fraternal leader in the City of Harrisburg. Ray E. Taylor was born in Philadelphia, July 18, 1895, and was educated in the Philadelphia public schools, Drexel Institute and the American Institute of Banking. He served in the United States Navy during the World War, and is now engaged in the investment insurance business in the City of Harrisburg. He has long taken an active part in public life; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House extends hearty congratulations and best wishes to their fellow member from Dauphin County and wishes him continued success throughout life; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be prepared by the Chief Clerk and transmitted to the Honorable Ray E. Taylor.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair congratulates the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Taylor, on his birthday.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Dauphin.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, of course, today is not July 18th. There has always been some question in my mind whether I was born on July 17th or July 18th. It was somewhere around midnight between July 17th and July 18th. However, Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the sentiment expressed in the resolution, and I wish to thank the Members of the House for their vote on the resolution. I thank you very much, all of you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair wishes to comment that, of course, today is not the gentleman's birthday, as the gentleman has indicated. It will be three days hence.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of information.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to inquire whose birthday is today.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is too modest to say.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, in congratulating Mr. Taylor on his birthday, which is on the eighteenth, this being the fifteenth which I understand is Mr. Achterman's birthday, if Mr. Achterman was born on the fifteenth and Mr. Taylor was born on the eighteenth, which birthday are we celebrating today?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair hopes it will be both.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 943

Mr. PAUL A. BRUNNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up the report of the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 943, Printer's No. 1206.

The report was read by the Clerk as follows:

To the members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Commitee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering House Bill No. 943 entitled:

"An Act to re-enact and amend section 441 of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278 entitled An act relating to counties of the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto' by authorizing boards of county commissioners to appropriate county moneys for the support of charitable hospitals"

Respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

George A. Deitrick
Clarence D. Becker
John J. Haluska
(Committee on the Part of Senate)

Paul A. Brunner
Kenneth G. Haines
(Committee on the Part of the House of Representatives)

An Act to reenact and amend section 441 of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" by authorizing boards of county commissioners to appropriate county moneys for the support of charitable hospitals.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows:

Section 1 That section 441 of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" as amended by the act approved the ninth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-one (P. L. 401) is hereby reenacted and further amended to read as follows:

Section 441 Appropriations to Hospital The board of commisisoners may appropriate county moneys for the support of any hospital located within or without the limits of such county which is engaged in charitable work and extends treatment and medical attention to the residents of such county and may also appropriate moneys for the support of any home or place of detention for dependent delinquent and neglected children located within the county such appropriations may be made notwithstanding the fact that there may be no liability on the county or the institution district coextensive with or wholly within the limits of the county for the support care and maintenance of the residents of the county receiving medical attention in such hospitals or for the support of such dependent delinquent or neglected children cared for or maintained in such homes or places.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. Mihm, Tarr and McDermott asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the report of the Committee of Conference was not adopted.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made and insisted upon by the Senate.

Mr. GERARD. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House further insist upon its non-concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the Senate.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

THE SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, for presiding.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair is about to declare a recess for fifteen minutes. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

THE SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 653

Mr. READINGER presented the report of the Committee of Conference on the part of the House on Senate Bill No. 653.

The report was read by the Clerk.

The SPEAKER. This being a Senate bill the report will be printed by the Senate and placed in the files of the Members of the House.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL No. 253

Mr. SARRAF from the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 253, submitted the following:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL No. 253

In the House of Representatives, July 15, 1941.

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering Senate Bill No. 253, entitled:

"An Act relating to members of the bureau of fire in cities of the second class, providing, subject to the approval of the electors, for a three-platoon system for such members with certain exceptions, providing for an election on such question and regulating hours of service, hours of rest and annual vacations."

respectfully submit that we are unable to reach an agreement relative to the aforesaid bill.

John M. Walker
M. Harvey Taylor
(Committee on the part of Senate)

George J. Sarraf
John J. Baker
Robert D. Fleming
(Committee on the part of the House of Representatives)

The SPEAKER. The Committee is discharged with the thanks of the House.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of information.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, will the Chair state for the information of the Members the No. of the Senate bill which he just stated would be spread upon the Journal?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield? For the information of the gentleman and the Members of the House, the conferees were unable to agree on Senate Bill No. 253 and have been discharged with the thanks of the House.

Mr. HARKINS. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I understood the Chair to say Senate Bill No. 653 and thought that the Chair was in error.

The SPEAKER. For the further information of the Members of the House, the Senate has receded from its non-concurrence in the amendments made by the House to Senate Bill No. 253.

Senate Bill 653, the Civil Service Bill, the report of the conferrees has been presented by the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger. The report on Senate Bill 653 has been ordered noted in the Journals of the House. The printing of that report will be done by the Senate, and will be acted upon at a later hour. Does that answer the gentleman's question?

Mr. HARKINS. It does, Mr. Speaker. I thought I understood the Chair to say Senate Bill 653 when I thought he really meant Senate Bill 253. I wanted it to be correct for the purpose of the Journal.

The SPEAKER. The Chair understands the gentleman's apprehension. The two numbers sound alike.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1768

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up the report of the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 1768, Printer's No. 1210.

The report was read by the Clerk as follows:

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering House Bill No. 1768, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (P. L. 1937, page 2897), entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis * * * by providing therein as to the replacement or expenditure of certain moneys received or donated pursuant to the provisions of Section three hundred two of the Federal Social Security Act as amended or the Wagner-Peyser Act and making the moneys in the Administration Fund available to the Treasury Department to pay the costs incurred by said department in making disbursements from said fund and the Unemployment Compensation Fund."

Respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

WELDON B. HEYBURN
HENRY I. WILSON
(Committee on the Part of the Senate)

REUBEN E. COHEN
L. KENNETH HARKINS
ROBERT E. WOODSIDE, JR.
(Committee on the Part of the House of Representatives)

An Act to further amend the act approved the fifth day of December one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (P. L. of 1937 page 2897), entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis requiring employers to keep records and make reports and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons providing procedure and administrative details for the determination payment and and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer and prescribing penalties" by providing therein as to the replacement or expenditure of certain moneys received or donated pursuant to the provisions of Section three hundred two of the Federal Social Security Act as amended or the Wagner-Peyser Act and making the moneys in the Administration Fund available to the Treasury Department to pay the costs incurred by said department in making disbursement from said fund and the Unemployment Compensation Fund

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 [Article six] Section 602 of the act approved the fifth day of December one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (P. L. of 1937 page 2897) entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis requiring employers to keep records and make reports and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons providing procedure and administrative details for the determination payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer and prescribing penalties" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 602 Administration Fund There is hereby created a special fund to be known as the Administration Fund which shall consist of all moneys or other property received by the department from the United States of America or any agency thereof including the Social Security Board or from any other source whatsoever to be used for the administration of this act The department shall pay all costs required for the administration and operation of this act out of the Administration Fund

In addition any law to the contrary notwithstanding this fund shall be subject from time to time to charges by the Treasury Department for the costs incurred by said department in making disbursements arising from payments out of the Unemployment Compensation Fund and the fund created in this section and the moneys in the Administration Fund are hereby appropriated for the payment of such charges

Section 2 Article six of the said act as amended by the act approved the twentieth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 458) is hereby further amended by adding after section six hundred two two new sections to be known as section six hundred two and one-tenth and section six hundred two and two-tenths and to read as follows

Section 602.1 Reimbursement of Funds The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby recognizes its obligation to replace and hereby pledges the faith of the Commonwealth that funds will be provided in the future and applied to the replacement of any moneys received after July one one thousand nine hundred forty-one from the Social Security Board under Title III of the Social Security Act any unencumbered balances in the Administration Fund as of that date any moneys thereafter granted to the Commonwealth pursuant to the provisions of the Wagner-Peyser Act and any moneys made available by the Commonwealth or its political subdivisions and matched by such moneys granted to the Commonwealth pursuant to the provisions of the Wagner-Peyser Act which the Social Security Board finds have because of any action or contingency been lost or have been expended for purposes other than or in amounts in excess of those found necessary by the Social Security Board for the proper administration of this act Such moneys shall be promptly replaced by moneys appropriated for such purpose from the general funds of the Commonwealth to the Administration Fund for expenditure as provided in Section six hundred two of this act The secretary shall promptly report to the Governor and the Governor to the Legislature the amount required for such replacement This section shall not be construed to relieve the Commonwealth of its obligation with respect to funds received prior to July one one thousand nine hundred forty-one pursuant to the provisions of Title III of the Social Security Act

Section 602.2 All moneys received from the Social Security Board under Title Three of the Social Security Act or the provisions of the Wagner-Peyser Act and all moneys made available by the Commonwealth or its political subdivisions and matched by moneys granted to the Commonwealth pursuant to the provisions of the Wagner-Peyser Act shall be expended solely for the purposes and in the amounts found necessary by the Social Security Board for the proper and efficient administration of this Act

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment and shall be retroactive to and including the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and forty-one

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to ask you at this late hour, to indulge me for just a few minutes to make some remarks in connection with the conference report on House Bill 1768, which I urge you to unanimously adopt. If my remarks extend over and refer to Senate Bill 80, I will ask you to excuse me because the two subjects are similar and one cannot make remarks concerning one without some reference to the other.

House Bill 1768 in itself is not what the Democratic party feels this administration owes to the people of Pennsylvania. However, the mechanics of the bill do accomplish one thing; it makes certain that in the future the Secretary of the Department of Labor and Industry shall not make any inprovident—to be charitable—expenditures of moneys entrusted to that Department by the Government of the United States..

Mr. Speaker, we have had the situation where funds have been spent improperly and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania must admit by the passage of this bill that such payments were made improperly, because in this bill we are compelled to pledge in the future the faith and the credit of the Commonwealth to the Federal Government that, if in the future any such funds are improperly spent, the moneys will be repaid to the Federal Government. What remains after that is that the Commonwealth itself must then proceed against any person charged with improper expenditure of money to recover the money improperly spent.

In passing may I say that it is well known that in the last few months such a sorry incident occurred, and it might be suggested now that the Attorney General should proceed to determine whether or not such funds could be recovered for the Commonwealth. We know that in the future, the Commonwealth will have to pay that money back, and if in the future we have to pay the money, may I suggest that action by the Attorney General may be warranted or possibly required.

Senate Bill No. 80, which is tied in with this bill, because they both amend the same act, was amended in this House to conform with the expression of this House on House Bill No. 868, which was introduced by the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. O'Neill and myself and passed by this House some time ago. In that bill and in the amendments to Senate Bill No. 80, we expressed this administration's pledge to the people of Pennsylvania and to this House and to the Senate in joint assembly in this very hall, on January 7th of this year. We expressed our ideas on the liberalization of the Unemployment Compensation Act. We asked that the minimum payment be increased, I think, from seven dollars and fifty cents to ten dollars and that the maximum payments be increased from fifteen dollars to twenty dollars. We asked that the intermediate payments be extended from fifty to sixty-six and two-thirds per cent. We asked that the waiting period be reduced from three weeks to one week. We asked that partial unemployment be compensated. We did so with full knowledge and understanding that on the basis of past experience and the experiences we are now going through, the moneys for which we are trustees, the fund over which we have control by action of this House and the Senate would not be impaired, but would be solvent, and that the moneys which we are carrying and accumulating in this state would be used for the benefit of the unemployed of Pennsylvania.

May I say at the same time it will help solve our relief problem in that we may not have to impose greater taxes. Of course, the Governor would rather reduce taxes upon industry and upon employers in Pennsylvania. The Senate countered with a very, very liberal proposition. The Senate insisted upon the seven dollars and fifty cents minimum being increased to eight dollars and fifty cents, and insisted that the fifteen dollars maximum remain at fifteen dollars. The Senate did agree that the intermediate payments might be sixty-six and two-thirds per cent rather than fifty per cent of the weekly wage. They decided in the alternative, if they should decide to raise the maximum one dollar up to sixteen dollars, we could have that or we could get one additional week's payment, increasing it from thirteen to fourteen. We have been insisting upon sixteen payments in the year. The partial payment plan was an obnoxious idea to the Senate, they wouldn't go for it, and the only excuse that was offered by the Senate was that the Joint State Government Commission had not studied the subject, and since they had not studied it they could not go along with the idea, despite the figures produced by the House Conferees to prove their point.

The last answer which has been received on the subject was on last Sunday after a week of conferences with one of the conferees in the Senate. In his first statement the other conferee countered with a remark that I was too social minded. My answer to that was that the Joint State Government Commission did a valuable and a worthwhile piece of work, but I did not see—and I am speaking of the present members of that commission—I did not see how they could have the effrontery to come to this legislature and say that because we did not get a report from the Joint State Government Commission we cannot pass this law. I would not have the gall to come to this session of the Legislature and as a member of the Joint State Government Commission ask this House and Senate to accept as law what I found to be the law, but I would ask them to study what we had accumulated and to use their best judgment.

That was the last expression on the part of the Senate, knowing full well what labor and what both Houses in Pennsylvania have asked for, nevertheless the Senate defied labor's request and insisted that no partial payments be made, insisted upon meager and picayune benefit increases and remained adamant in insisting that the bill which they wrote should be enacted or there would be no bill. Yesterday the eulogy over the bill was pronounced in the Senate and I regretfully state that I must join in that eulogy, and I regretfully state that labor knows the bill is dead. I might as well announce it now so that there will be no doubt about it. Mr. Speaker, labor feels, I believe, that the time has come when it must go after what labor in Pennsylvania should have.

If by this time you have assumed from what I have said that I have attempted to put words into the mouth of the present Republican administration that they stood for a liberalized Unemployment Compensation Act, may I read to you a statement by the Governor of Pennsylvania made on the rostrum on which our Speaker now stands on January 7, 1941. It is in the fourth item which he recommended to Assembly and reads as follows:

> "Fourth Study should be given to the Unemployment Compensation Act with the thought of reducing the waiting period, increasing the number of payments and otherwise liberalizing its terms."

If half a dollar's worth of liberalization is all that this Assembly, or all that the Republican members of the Assembly, can derive from such a statement, then the terms "liberal" and "liberalization" are as dead as the proverbial dodo.

The Democratic party is going to pass House Bill 1768; the Democratic party mourns the fact that Senate Bill 80 with its liberal advance in benefit payments cannot be passed; the Democratic party was the father of Unemployment Compensation in Pennsylvania in December 1936, despite the fact that we were warned it could not work. We are proud of the fact that we have pledged ourselves to continue the fight to properly liberalize that act. My observation has shown me that there is a movement on foot nationally to try to get rid of such a surplus as now exists in Washington. Labor feels that the best way to get rid of such a surplus is to go out and let the people spend money, and their business can be increased with more money. In other words, you should not be frozen with a fifteen dollar maximum in the face of rising food costs. The Democratic party is insisting upon a flexible and a liberal interpretation of a social piece of legislation. We do not want anything that is stiff; we want something that can be molded to fit the economic world and meet the needs of the people of Pennsylvania. We feel, Mr. Speaker, that we have not gotten anything in this situation, but the Democratic party is not going to refuse to pass House Bill 1768 because our refusal to pass it may mean we may have difficulty with the administration in Washington in getting funds for this Commonwealth to go through with the Act and administer the Act in August. We shall not be deterent to the proper administration of the fund, but if by our criticism, if by our fighting here now and our continuance of fighting in the future, we can bring to the Assembly, if we should come back into special session, or if we can bring to future Assemblies the fact that the Unemployment Compensation Act must be built up into a flexible Act to meet the present needs or the needs of the future as they come, then I think we shall have accomplished our purpose, and we shall have been consistent in our attitude as to what is good for the people of Pennsylvania, and which can be made better for the people of Pennsylvania. If the people of Pennsylvania will follow us in that precept, I feel certain that two years hence we will have the tools, not only in the House but in the Senate, and in that little room back of this Hall, which goes much farther back than the stairway, we will be able to do with this act what every reasonable person knows should be done with it.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, House Bill No. 1768, in spite of what the gentleman said contains only those provisions that the Federal Social Security Board and the Social Security Law in Washington say are necessary to be enacted into law in Pennsylvania, in order that we can get the money to carry on the administration of our Unemployment Compensation Law.

After the adjournment of the 1939 session Congress enacted additional provisions which they said would have to be written into the laws of the various states if the moneys for administration were to be given after July 1, 1941. We are now passing a law which Congress and which the Social Security Board request, in the very wording of which it is provided that it shall be effective immediately and be retroactive to the first day of July, 1941. It has nothing to do with anything that transpired between the Secretary of Labor and Industry and the Social Security Board. It is a provision that all the states must enact into their laws. It is a provision which was written into a book which was sent out to all the states telling them what they must enact into their law.

It does however, contain one other provision and I do not think it would be amiss to make reference to it. That is that certain employes who are over in the Treasury Department, which, if the gentleman on the other side would be really interested in civil service, would have been brought under civil service, are given a certain provision in the law in order that the Treasury Department may keep them out of civil service. I merely state that as part of the provision which the gentlemen on the other side insists be written into this bill. They could have been and possibly should have been under civil service if the gentlemen on the other side would have been inclined to support it. All the rest of the people having to do with unemployment compensation, or practically all of them, are under civil service provisions and there is no reason why they should not be under them. The gentlemen on the other side did not prefer it that way and so at their request there was written into House Bill 1768 a provision that permits these employes to be outside of civil service.

There was some talk about Senate Bill 80. Senate Bill No. 80 has nothing to do with it except that it amends the same law and except for the fact that the provision to which we last referred was a part of Senate Bill 80 as it finally passed the House. The situation as to Senate Bill 80 is very briefly this: it was suggested to us that the committee communicate with the Joint State Government Commission, and the committee appointed by the Joint State Government Commission to study the subject did study it diligently and well. They had before them all the union labor leaders of the state of Pennsylvania; they had before them the Chambers of Commerce and together they had practically agreed upon twenty-two points, including very liberal features of the Unemployment Compensation Law. The Senate passed that bill in accordance with the recommendations contained in the study. There were twenty-two recommendations. Some of them were merely procedural and they did not have very much effect upon the liberalization of the act except that the waiting period was reduced from three weeks to two weeks. The gentleman spoke about fifty cents a week but he passed over the question of the waiting period from three weeks to two. That is something that would benefit the working man in Pennsylvania who should happen to become unemployed for over two weeks. There are other provisions concerning liberalization but the gentlemen on the other side said, "No we don't think the laboring man of Pennsylvania wants this additional eight to nine million dollars a year that this bill would give them." Why they say that is difficult to understand. They talk about liberalization and it is recognized that this Senate bill which the Republican conferees have all signed and are prepared to pass at the present time would give the unemployed of Pennsylvania between eight and nine million dollars a year during the next two years, but the gentleman on the other side, said, "No." Now, that is all there is to it, gentlemen. The reason must be that they want to go out and make a political campaign trying to make the working man of Pennsylvania believe that the Republican administration and the Republican Senate were not willing to liberalize the Unemployment Compensation Law, but the record stands and the fact cannot in any way be disputed that in the next year the unemployed in Pennsylvania would, if the Democrats would go along with the report that is signed by the Republican members, receive benefits of between eight and nine million dollars, and until this Assembly meets in regular session again that will mean between sixteen and eighteen million dollars to the unemployed people of Pennsylvania. You say "No, we won't agree with that. We won't agree with it because you will not accept a system which the actuaries say they don't know enough about to know what would happen under it." That is the whole story, Mr. Speaker, and the fault of keeping that approximately seventeen million dollars from the unemployed laboring men of Pennsylvania during the next two years can rest upon no one except the Democrats of this House.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, if I were to file exceptions to the statement of the gentleman, I should have to say at least that the court erred in its charge to the jury. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman spoke about a reduction of the waiting period from three to two weeks. I do not think that is liberal enough, because we can make it more liberal, by which I mean we can get it to one week; that is what we asked for. May I inform the gentleman that the present practice generally in Unemployment Compensation indicates that under the three weeks waiting period it takes at least five weeks before a person receives his first check, and there has been any number—I should say hundreds or maybe thousands of instances where persons while waiting for their checks from the Unemployment Compensation Bureau had to go on relief. If we had a one week waiting period, it is true that the machinery for getting the money paid would have to be stepped up, but so many of these people would not have to go on relief and the relief fund might be saved in that respect a considerable amount of money.

As to the total amount of money that the gentleman states this bill will give, I think he is in error, but I do not want to bore him or you with figures. If any gentleman of the House wants to refer to the record in the Senate, the figures are adequately shown and conclusively proven. Let me say to the members of the House, we were not only interested in getting these increased benefits; we had other things in mind, and one of the things that we asked for, which was flatly refused by the other side, was a provision to compel an employer to come under the fund, so as to reduce the eligibility required of the person who employed others. That worked out this way in a specific instance that occurred in this Commonwealth within the past several months. It would first bring many more employers under the fund, and therefore that many more partners in this enterprise. When they do become unemployed, there would be greater certainty, and it would do away with the shameful thing that happened at Indiantown Gap, where there were three employers who received the majority of the contracts and who got together and had one joint payroll. I have a copy of one of their pay envelopes in my hand. They began work in the year 1940, within the twenty week period from the end of the year. The result was that in the year 1940, they were not covered by the act, so they made no contribution to the Unemployment Compensation Fund. Then they finished their job before twenty weeks elapsed in 1941, so that again they were not compelled to pay any money into this fund for the benefit of the people of Pennsylvania.

We have situations where there was a payroll of many millions of dollars spreading over a period of five weeks to six months, where men were employed and discharged from employment because the job was done, and were unable to turn to the Unemployment Fund for benefits. We are quite certain now that the law as it stands today is somewhat faulty. We sought to amend that situation, and the only answer we got on that score was, "Rube, you are too social minded."

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, the minority floor leader in talking on House Bill 1768 said a few times, "That's all there is to it." I only want to say to him and to the Republican party in the dying days of this session, that the record of Unemployment Compensation on the part of Governor James is only another link in the unbroken chain of broken promises.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

COMMUNICATION

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication which was read by the Clerk as follows:

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA
2 Park Avenue
New York, N. Y.

July 16, 1941.

Mr. Thomas J. Callahan, Chief Clerk
House of Representatives
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Callahan:

On behalf of the Boy Scouts of America, I express to you the sincere appreciation of our entire membership for the resolution adopted by the House of Representatives of the State of Pennsylvania in the death of our beloved National Scout Commissioner, Mr. Daniel Carter Beard. This evidence of respect and affection is most gratifying and it will afford us great pleasure to transmit copy of the duly authenticated resolution to the members of the Beard family.

Photo-offset copies will also be sent to each one of our Councils in the State of Pennsylvania.

Sincerely and cordially yours,

Boy Scouts of America

FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the House this evening a former member of the House, the gentleman from Fayette, Harry J. Brownfield.

SENATE ADOPTS CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 654

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has adopted the report of the Committee of Conference on the subject of the difference existing between the two Houses on Senate Bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 654.

An Act to amend sections two hundred one and four hundred fifty two of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, in commenting on Senate Bill 654, I ask the consent of the House to comment also on Senate Bill No. 653, which is a companion bill and deals with the same subject.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the gentleman will be privileged to discuss Senate Bill 654 and Senate Bill 653. The Chair hears none. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, as one of the conferees on these two Senate Bills, I rise to ask the members of the House to vote for both of these bills. Senate Bill 654 sets up a State Civil Service Commission of three members and Senate Bill 653 defines the powers and duties of that Civil Service Commission.

I think there is no doubt that these two bills are a step forward in better government for Pennsylvania, but in my brief remarks tonight, I want to point out what in my opinion and in the opinion of many Members on this side of the House, constitute serious deficiencies in these two bills.

The members of this conference committee approached their task in the spirit of compromise. Senate Bill 653 is a compromise between the Republican and Democratic parties and their members. When the bill first came over from the Senate it provided for no court appeal after a hearing before the Commission. It also provided that notwithstanding any other provisions of the act the Governor, upon recommendation of the appointing authority, or the director of the Commission, could fire any person for the good of the service.

To these two items the Members on this side of the House took exception, and we tried in our conference committee to persuade the conferees on the other side to adopt our viewpoint in the matter and to allow to a dismissed or demoted or suspended employe the right of a court appeal. We also tried to persuade them to take out of the bill the right of the Governor of Pennsylvania to fire for no reason whatever except he deems it to be for the good ofthe service. There were other items in dispute, and in some of these the Republican conferees gave to us and on these two items that I am now speaking of we gave to them.

When I stated it to be my opinion that this bill would give Pennsylvania a much better civil service law if it included the right of the court appeal, I believe I expressed the feelings and thoughts of most of the Members on this side of the House. It is true that it will cost more money, and it would be somewhat more cumbersome.

It is true that the administration of the law would be somewhat more cumbersome if this right of appeal were given the employes, but I think that the value, not only to the employe whose status happens to be in question, but to the people of Pennsylvania, because of better service rendered by the employes, thinking and knowing that they could not be fired, suspended or demoted unfairly, offsets that cost.

As far as the right of the Governor is concerned to dismiss for no reason except that in his opinion it is for the good of the service,—as far as that right is concerned, we didn't want to concede that, but the Republican conferees insisted upon it and we finally did concede it rather than have the bill fail.

I am not going to make any threats tonight as to what will happen if the Governor does not administer that portion of the act properly. We conferees cited those two things on the assumption that an impartial and a fair civil service commission will be set up and that it will function properly. We assume it to be true and we hope it will be true. We also hope that the Governor of Pennsylvania will be big enough not to use this power for political reasons, and while I say we make no threats as to what will happen if it is not carried out in a fair manner, I am serving notice now on the Governor and this civil service commission that is going to be appointed, that if they do not function properly the people will put the blame where it belongs and will act accordingly.

We sometimes forget that the main thing we are trying to get in civil service is to get better service for the people of Pennsylvania. There are some people who feel that this bill should never be enacted without that court appeal section in it, but that is not exactly so. The main thing you want to accomplish is better service for the people of Pennsylvania, and to see that the employe who performs his job properly shall have a life time job or as long as he wants to have it. So one factor greatly outweighs the other. We believe this civil service set-up is workable, and we want it to work properly, but I wanted to make these remarks in order that the record may be clear as to our intention over here, and I ask the Members to vote in support of these bills.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

NAYS—2

Petrosky,	Rush,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative the question was determined in the affirmative, and the report of the Committee of Conference was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. PETROSKY filed the following reasons for his vote:

The provision in this act that is found on page 44, beginning with lines 24 to 28, inclusive, relegate unwarranted powers to the Governor, and this in my opinion nullifies any effective Civil Service Law.

The other provisions in this act are good, but they become unworkable due to this clause in this Act; therefore, I must vote in the negative in the interest of the people of the Commonwealth.

Mr. RUSH filed the following reasons for his vote:

I am voting "No" on Senate Bill 653 because of the provisions contained in Section 807, paragraph (c) of this Bill and I quote, "Notwithstanding the provisions of this Act the Governor may upon recommendation of the appointing authority suspend or remove the Director and any employe if he deems such action to the best interests of the public service," unquote. This provision destroys the intent of Civil Service because it gives one person, the Governor, and I don't care whether he be Democrat or Republican the right to dismiss a Director or any employe on a flimsy excuse "that it is to the best interest of the public service" this provision make the Civil Service employes nothing more than a political football and therefore I am voting "no" on Senate Bill 653. It is not a real Civil Service Bill.

SENATE MESSAGES

L. 2051) entitled "An act relating to public assistance providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children aged persons blind persons and other persons requiring relief providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose authorizing the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with and to accept and disburse moneys received from the United States Government for assistance to such persons providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency Relief Board Boards of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance

Fund and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind and repealing laws relating to mothers' assistance pensions for the blind old age assistance and the State Emergency Relief Board" by redefining eligibility for assistance providing for appeals from certain decisions of the Department of Public Assistance to common pleas courts and imposing powers and duties on common pleas court

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

On August thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth the American Legion, Department of Pennsylvania and the Forty and Eight will hold their annual conventions in the City of Altoona.

August fifteenth will be a most appropriate day upon which to celebrate the first monthly anniversary of the adjournment sine die of this session of the Legislature and there is no better place than Altoona.

Altoona is the center of the rural district of Pennsylvania as well as close to its geographical center. It is the home of the world's largest car shops which are now working at peak capacity, bringing to the City a prosperity that will be richly reflected in the entertainment afforded to visiting Legionnaires and their friends.

The Senators and Members of the House from the County of Blair are desirous of having the Senators and Members of the House of Representatives present in Altoona during these conventions and extend to them a most cordial invitation to attend; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concurs), That the Senators and Members of the House of Representatives of this session of the Legislature shall take advantage of the invitation of the Senators and Members from the County of Blair and attend the convention in Altoona on August thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth as a fitting and proper celebration of this adjournment of this session, if by that time they are thoroughly rested.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bill numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 1768.

An Act to further amend the act approved the fifth day of December one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (P. L. 1937, page 2897) entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis requiring employers to keep records and make reports and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons providing procedure and administrative details for the determination payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer and prescribing penalties" by providing therein as to the replacement or expenditure of certain moneys received or donated pursuant to the provisions of section three hundred two of the Federal Social Security Act as amended or the Wagner-Peyser Act and making the moneys in the Administration Fund available to the Treasury Department to pay the costs incurred by said department in making disbursements from said fund and the Unemployment Compensation Fund

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair is about to declare a recess for fifteen minutes. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 15, 1941.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 1952, Printer's No. 1199, entitled:

"An Act to amend section four of the act approved the first day July one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (P. L. 717) entitled 'An act fixing the number compensation mileage and duties of the officers and employes of the General Assembly and providing for their election or appointment term of office and manner of filling vacancies' by providing for the appointment compensation and duties of clerks and pages to the majority and minority floor leaders respectively of the Senate and of the House of Representatives and making an appropriation," which passed third reading and final passage in the Senate on July 12th, be recalled from the Senate.

Accordingly, the original bill is herewith returned.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House recede from its non-concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the Senate and concur therein to House Bill No. 1952, Printer's No. 1199.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, being a floor leader, and as the provisions of the bill relate to floor leaders, I ask that I be not recorded on this bill.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask to be excused from voting on this bill for the reason that I have an interest in the outcome of it.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, and the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, will be excused from voting on this bill. The Chair hears none.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the majority floor leader, the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of the gentleman from Monroe for the purpose of information for the Members whether or not this is the bill which provides for certain clerks to assist the floor leaders.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HARKINS. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

SENATE MESSAGE

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON SENATE BILL No. 507

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate further insists on its nonconcurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the House of Representatives to Senate Bill No. 507, entitled:

An Act to apportion the State into congressional districts

And has appointed Messrs. Taylor, Wade and Mundy a committee of conference to confer with a similar committee of the House of Representatives (if the House of

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS
URBANA

Representatives shall appoint such committee) on the subject of the differences existing between the two Houses in relation to said bill.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House appoint a Conference Committee on the part of the House to confer with a similar committee on the part of the Senate on the subject of the differences existing between the two Houses in relation to Senate Bill No. 507.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, if this motion is carried, will it be in order to immediately make a motion to instruct the conference committee?

The SPEAKER. The motion to instruct should be submitted at this time.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, would that take the form of an amendment to the motion that has already been made, or should it be made as an independent motion? Did I understand the Speaker to say the Chair would entertain that motion now?

The SPEAKER. The Chair will entertain that motion now.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the conferees be instructed to agree with the Senate conferees on a congressional apportionment bill in which all of the congressional districts outside of the County of Philadelphia be left as they now are under existing law and that the county of Philadelphia be reapportioned as provided for in this bill (S. B. No. 507) as it passed the Senate.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Monroe will state his question of information.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that we first vote on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside?

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, it is not an amendment; it is a separate motion. That stands by itself as offered by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that we first vote on the separate motion offered by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise for the purpose of asking the membership of this House to defeat the motion offered by the gentleman from Dauphin. I realize that it is very fine and courteous, and also considerate of the gentleman really to do the work of the conferees. Of course, my thought of conferees leaving this House for the purpose of meeting with a similar committee on the part of the Senate is that their job is one involving the entire state of Pennsylvania. Instead, this motion would restrict the activities of the committee to the City of Philadelphia alone. I am certain that when this House considered the Wade bill, when it considered the bill introduced by myself, when it considered the O'Connor bill, and I believe other bills, they approached the problem on a broad basis and arrived at a conclusion, and that conclusion, Mr. Speaker, now appears in the bill.

What the gentleman from Dauphin proposes doing is to restrict the committee of this House, so that when it approaches the Senate committee, it has only limited authority to act. When the gentleman does that I do not see why he does not go all the way; I do not see why he does not take the trouble and the time to redistrict the City of Philadelphia and save a considerable amount of labor, and I am sure help the conferees. As a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker, I do not understand why the gentleman from Dauphin does not say, "Now, let me go ahead and I'll tell you how we'll redistrict the City of Philadelphia. There apparently is no problem anywhere else in the state. I have a rather thorough knowledge of the City of Philadelphia, and I will take care of that problem." Does this House wish to limit the power of its committee so that when it returns it will not be able to return with the story of the State of Pennsylvania but only that of the City of Philadelphia? It is indeed a rare occasion, Mr. Speaker, when such little confidence is placed in a committee as would be placed in the committee now about to be appointed if it were limited as the gentleman from Dauphin desires.

I have always in the past had full confidence in the personnel of this House that was named on committees, and I do not believe, Mr. Speaker, that you will appoint a committee now to confer with a Senate committee in which we do not have full confidence.

May I say in regard to the City of Philadelphia being the place needing redistricting, that I am surprised the Republican membership of this House has not long since taken the trouble to introduce a bill covering the subject. Such an extraordinary motion, such an exceptional idea of limiting and restricting conferees of this House is unprecedented in my time here, and I am saying that this motion should be defeated, if for no other reason than to state to the world that this House has absolute confidence in its membership and confidence in the Speaker, who designates from its membership, its conferees. I am asking the membership to defeat the motion.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, this is not a matter of confidence in conferees that is before us. This is a matter of trying to get a Congressional reapportionment bill and to give the House an opportunity to express its own opinion on what a Congressional reapportionment bill should be at this time. We all know that for months there has been a hopeless deadlock between the House and the Senate on the question of a Congressional reapportionment bill. We are drawing to the close of the session, we are at the eleventh hour and I think the fifty-ninth minute, and it is in the interest of getting through a reapportionment bill and permitting the Members of this House to express their opinion on it that this extraordinary motion, as the gentleman has called it, was made. It was my understanding that in the Senate last night there was passed a motion which expressed the opinion of the Senate on the question of taking one Congressman out of the City of Philadelphia, and that motion was passed with only two dissenting votes. I think a record of that was sent over to this House and referred to some committee, but under any circumstances I think this House should have an opportunity, and the individual members of this House should have an opportunity, to say whether or not they want a Congressional reapportionment bill passed at this time, and whether or not they want to take a Congressman from the City of Philadelphia. I might state further that I have gone as far as the gentleman has suggested I might go in the motion, and suggested that the reapportionment of Philadelphia be made in a particular way.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Dauphin seems to indicate that apparently the membership of this House has never had an opportunity to express its desires in the matter of reapportionment. However, may I say to the gentleman that this House did have the opportunity to express itself on both sides of the question. As a matter of fact when the Wade bill, that is, Senate Bill No. 507, came to this House we voted to amend it by a vote of 115 to 59. There was never any doubt in the mind of anyone as to the desire of the membership of this House.

I might say to the gentleman in answer to the question he has raised that the membership of this House has expressed itself in accordance with the bill as it is now amended, and I am asking the membership to vote down the motion offered by the gentleman from Dauphin and to sustain its position as stated on May 28th.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker. I don't know of any matter that has come before this General Assembly which cries out more loudly for a satisfactory adjustment than Congressional reapportionment. The people and the Press of the state of Pennsylvania have been clamoring for a satisfactory reapportionment bill. I was a member of the conference committee on the part of the House and numerous conferences were held with the Members of the Senate in an effort to reach a satisfactory solution. Notwithstanding the efforts, I would say, of all the members of that committee no satisfactory solution apparently could be arrived at. Personally I think the Senate last night reached a solution for this House. I think they reached a solution which is the most satisfactory solution that has been suggested up to this time; a solution which would especially appeal to the rural Members of this Legislature

As you gentlemen know, under the new census there is to be one Congressman for each three hundred thousand and five persons in a Congressional district. In the city of Philadelphia today there are seven congressmen. The suggestion made by the gentleman from Dauphin, if carried out by the conference committee, would reduce the number of congressmen in Philadelphia from seven to six. I wonder if you gentlemen happen to know just what the figures are for Philadelphia. The congressman from the second district, Mr. McGranery, is short some sixty-one thousand, in other words he has sixty-one thousand less than the three hundred thousand and five required by the last census.

Mr. Sachs in the first district is forty-six thousand short.

Mr. Bradley in the third district is twenty-eight thousand short.

Mr. Sheridan in the fourth district is twenty-six thousand short.

Mr. Smith in the fifth district is five thousand short.

Mr. Meyers in the sixth district is six thousand short.

Only in one district, and that is the seventh district, which incidently is represented by a Republican congressman, is the number over and above the three hundred thousand and five. It is in excess of that number by some five thousand.

Gentleman, let us stop sparring about this thing. We are gong to be here indefinitely unless we pass a Congressional reapportionment bill. We owe it to the people of the state of Pennsylvania to pass a reapportionment bill before we leave the hall of the House. I do not think that we as representatives in this General Assembly have a right to adjourn without solving this very important problem. We have had a lot of discussion concerning this Congressional reapportionment bill and you have had presented to you a very simple and satisfactory solution. I have read to you that six of the seven congressmen of the city of Philadelphia are not up to the congressional quota of three hundred thousand and five.

I appeal to the members of the House to make it possible for us to go away from here, let us pass a Congressional reapportionment bill that will be fair, and you will be passing a fair reapportionment bill if you will take one district from the city of Philadelphia, because if you take one from Philadelphia you will have six congressional districts and you will then have representation on the basis of three hundred twenty-two thousand five hundred sixteen which is considerably less than many of the Congressional districts which now exist in the rural sections of the state of Pennsylvania. Gentlemen, there is nothing unfair about it and I urge you as Members of the Legislature to go along with the suggestion and vote to instruct the conference committee to take one district from the city of Philadelphia. As you probably know the Achterman amendments provide for merging Lehigh and Berks counties. In Lehigh they have one hundred seventy-seven thousand three hundred ninety-five; in Berks county they have two hundred forty-one thousand eight hundred sixty, so that if you adopt the Achterman amendments you would have a Congressional district of something like four hundred nineteen thousand two hundred and fifty-five. A rural section of Pennsylvania is going to be represented by one congressman for four hundred nineteen thousand citizens. I tell you, gentlemen, that is not fair.

Let us look at the other suggestion made by the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman. He suggests merging Bucks and Montgomery counties. Bucks county has one hundred seven thousand six hundred and fifty-eight and Montgomery county has two hundred eighty-eight thousand eight hundred and fifty-six. That will make a congressional district of three hundred ninety-six thousand and five hundred and fourteen, which is an excess of ninety-six thousand over the requisite number for Congressional representation. If it is fair to have an excess of one hundred and nineteen thousand two hundred and fifty-five in one district and ninety-six thousand five hundred and fourteen in another district, then certainly it is not unfair to reduce Philadelphia's representation to six districts so that they will only have one for each three hundred twenty-two thousand. I think you can see the fairness and the logic of the request made by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, and to you Members from the rural sections certainly, I think if you want adequate representation in the rural sections of Pennsylvania you ought to go along with this proposition and reduce Philadelphia's representation from seven to six. I am going to ask you to vote accordingly.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Woodside and Mr. Norman Wood.

Messrs. Woodside, Snyder and Norman Wood requested a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion to appoint a Committee of Conference?

It was agreed to.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON SENATE BILL No. 507 APPOINTED

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a committee of conference on the part of the House Messrs. ACHTERMAN, McCLANAGHAN, and BRETHERICK.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, I ask to be excused from serving on the committee and I ask the Speaker to appoint someone else instead.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair withdraws its previous appointment and appoints Messrs. TATE, SHAFFER and CHARLES H. BRUNNER.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. KEENAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. KEENAN. Mr. Speaker, having come in late, when the vote on the motion of Mr. Woodside was being veried, I would like to state if I had been here I would have voted "no." I would like to have the record so show.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman on his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal of the House.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair is about to declare a recess for fifteen minutes. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy in the Chair).

BILLS SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bill numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 448.

An Act to further amend clause (e) of section seven and to amend the first paragraph of section nine of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 717) entitled "An act fixing the number compensation mileage and duties of the officers and employes of the General Assembly and providing for their election or appointment term of office and manner of filling vacancies" by providing for the appointment compensation and duties of clerks and pages to the majority and minority floor leaders respectively of the Senate and of the House of Representatives and making an appropriation.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

SENATE MESSAGE

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE DISCHARGED

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the new Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate is discharged from further consideration of Senate Bill numbered and entitled:

SENATE BILL No. 507.

An Act to apportion the State into congressional districts.

REPORT OF JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE ON ADMINISTRATION OF CIVIL SERVICE IN DIVISION OF UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House the Report to the General Assembly of the Joint Legislative Committee on the Administration of Civil Service in the Division of Unemployment Compensation and Employment Service, in compliance with the Act of June 27, 1939, P. L. 1120.

(For report see Appendix to the Legislative Journal.)

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, July 15, 1941.

Whereas, The General Assembly having failed to date to pass a Congressional Re-apportionment Bill, and,

Whereas, it is imperative that some study be made in order that the same stalemate shall not re-occur, be it therefore,

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur) that a Committee of ten members be named, five by the President Pro Tempore and five by the Speaker of the House, to study this problem and report to the next regular or special session of the legislature with recommendations for a re-apportionment of the Congressional districts of the State of Pennsylvania.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

COMMITTEE TO WAIT UPON SENATE

Mr. READINGER offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 15, 1941.

Resolved, That a committee of three members of the House be appointed by the Speaker to wait upon the Senate and inform that body that the House has completed the business of the Session and is now ready to adjourn, sine die, this 15th day of July, 1941 at 11:45 o'clock.

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a Committee to wait upon the Senate Messrs. READINGER, BAKER and HALL.

COMMITTEE TO WAIT UPON GOVERNOR

Mr. ACHTERMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 15, 1941.

Resolved, That a committee of three members of the House be appointed by the Speaker to wait upon his Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, and inform him that the House of Representatives has completed the business of this session and is now ready to adjourn sine die, and to inquire whether there are any further communications he may wish to make to the House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a committee, to wait upon the Governor Messrs. ACHTERMAN, LOVETT and HABBYSHAW.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, just a short while ago, the Pennsylvania State Senate defeated the Congressional Reapportionment Bill. It is not my intention, Mr. Speaker, to throw this House into debate at this hour, but there were certain remarks made in the Senate in relation to the House amendments and referred to as the amendments offered by myself, which of course, was the truth, and I am not in any manner feeling ashamed of the amendments I offered. However, I have no particular pride of authorship in the amendments. The amendments that I offered and the bill as it left the House represented the thought of the greater portion of the Congressmen of Pennsylvania and was not my personal thought in the matter.

May I also say, Mr. Speaker, that after our first conference committee was discharged, I met with the various Senate leaders in conference to see whether we could arrive at some conclusion other than offered in the measure. Certain propositions were advanced which were acceptable to me, and may I add in connection therewith that I so advised the Senate, and inquired whether they would be able to pass them, only to be subsequently advised that they would not be able to accept their own proposition.

Under those circumstances this House should be advised that the plan that we offered was not the only plan we were willing to accept but unfortunately we found the Senate in the position that they would accept but one plan. It is for that purpose, Mr. Speaker, that I rise, not for the purpose of inciting debate, but to clarify the statements that were made on the floor of the Senate, which I feel should be clarified.

NOTIFICATION THAT SENATE IS READY TO ADJOURN SINE DIE

The Committee on the part of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate is ready to adjourn sine die at 11:45 p. m. this day.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the Committee of the Senate.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, at this time I want to pay my personal respects to a man who has guided this House through possibly the most memorable session of the General Assembly. Our road has been difficult and our problems many. The fact that we have a divided House made the problem far more difficult. I know that the Speaker, at various times, both before this House and in private, has expressed his high appreciation of the man. I myself wish to express the same appreciation for his aid and his assistance to me in my problems.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. ACHTERMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 15, 1941.

No greater tribute can be bestowed upon any person than the confidence of his associates and their appreciation of his merit.

The leaders on both sides, and every member of the House, know and respect the integrity and the good judgment of "Eddie" Moore, whose only "boss" is parliamentary law which he serves faithfully and well, without fear or favoritism. With him the conduct of the business of the legislature in an orderly and expeditious manner is an obsession, and the planning and directing of proceedings to accomplish a desired result is his greatest joy; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of 1941-42, hereby express its profound appreciation of the privilege of being served by so able, experienced and well read a parliamentarian, so faithful, diligent and trustworthy an official, and so congenial, helpful and friendly a gentleman, as S. Edward Moore, Parliamentarian Extraordinary of the House of Representatives; and be it further,

Resolved, That this resolution be spread upon the Legislative Journal, and that a copy thereof be certified by the Chief Clerk and presented to our Parliamentarian.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE TO WAIT ON SENATE

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, your committee appointed to inform the Senate that the House is ready to adjourn sine die at 11:45 p. m. this day has performed that duty.

The SPEAKER. The Committee is discharged with the thanks of the House.

PRESENTATION TO SPEAKER

The CHIEF CLERK (Thomas J. Callahan). Mr. Speaker, in accordance with an old custom, I have the privilege and the great pleasure of presenting this beautiful gavel to you. May it always be to you a symbol of the genuine friendship of the Members and officers of the House and of their appreciation of your capable, fair and honest administration during the session of 1941. Your strong hand has been put to the severest test. I hope there will be enough of the gavel left to open the session of the Senate in 1943 in your capacity as Lieutenant Governor.

The SPEAKER. Thanks, Tom. At the start of the session, I told some of my close associates that I hoped to leave Harrisburg with a perfect gavel. Tom, you have made that possible and I appreciate it. Eddie Moore has counted the number of gavels I have broken. That is his secret and mine.

As for your sincere thought as to my elevation to the office of Lieutenant Governor, I also thank you, and I assure you and the Members of this House that if that time should arrive, I will convene the Senate with this gavel, and incidently return it to you as a souvenir with my deepest appreciation. Thank you, Tom.

THANKS EXTENDED

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to extend the thanks of the members to the gentleman who has been watching the clock so patiently and also the officer who has been with him.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE TO WAIT ON GOVERNOR

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, your committee appointed to inform His Excellency the Governor that the House of Representatives is ready to adjourn sine die at 11:45 p. m. this day has performed that duty and has been advised that the Governor has no further communications.

The SPEAKER. The Committee is discharged with the thanks of the House.

ADJOURNMENT SINE DIE

The SPEAKER. This being the day and hour fixed by concurrent resolution adopted by the Senate and House of Representatives as the time when the General Assembly shall adjourn sine die, I now declare this 134th Regular Session of the House of Representatives adjourned without day.
